The Union provost-marshal, hearing complaints from his men of this man's actions and words, decided to make an example of him. He sent a squad to arrest the offender and presently, under guard, the old gentleman was brought before him.

"Look here," said the provost, "I'm getting tired of your behavior. Every few days I hear that you've been going about again spreading reports that our forces have been defeated and bragging about the courage of the other side. Now then, I've decided to reform you. Either you take the oath of allegiance to the Union right now or off you go to a military prison. Which shall it be?"

The prisoner decided to take the oath. After it had been administered the northern officer felt that a further admonition might be in order. "Now, then," he said, "I hope you understan what this thing means? If ever again you utter a word of disparagement for the Union cause or a word of approval for the Confederates, and I hear of it, you'll suffer severely, because now you're a loyal Unionist. And if you make a single disloyal remark you're guilty of treason."

"Major," he said, "they ain't no law against thinkin', is they?"

"That depends," said the major. "What's in your mind now?"

"Well," said the Kentuckian, "I was just thinkin' that them Johnnies certainly did give us fellers h—l day before yistiddy down below the state line."

Not This One: The Other One

There formerly were two Coveleskie brothers playing in the big leagues. One day Harry Coveleskie was pitching a game for Detroit against the Yankees at the Polo grounds in New York. As Damon Runyon sat in the press stand an attendant handed him a note which had been sent by one of a group of spectators in a grandstand box.

The note ran as follows:

"To settle a bet, please state which one of the Coveleskie boys this fellow is?"

Runyon turned the note over and made his answer on the reverse side of it.

"This," he wrote, "is the other one!"

Mill Men Learn To Save Timber

Making the fullest use of the timber cut will go a long way toward saving our forests. The lumber manufacturers have realized this very clearly and lately have succeeded in convrting the public to the use of material which but a short time ago was burned as trash.

Among such products is short and odd length flooring. In lumbering operations the aim is to cut the logs so that they will saw into boards of even lengths. However, a certain excess length is necessary to each log to allow for unavoidable rough handling and for trimming. This, together with the cutting out of defects, results in a considerable amount of short remnants often comprising very good material.

How to utilize these old pieces was a problem. End-matched flooring became one of the solutions. The public was accustomed to the ordinary style of flooring with a groove planed into one edge which a ridge or tongue on the adjoining piece closely fitted. Thus each piece of flooring had a groove on one side and a tongue on the other. By using even lengths the ends of the pieces could be made to meet over regularly spaced floor supports. Odd lengths, of course, would meet between the supports and the construction therefore could not be as strong. The lumberman, however, devised a system of tongues and grooves at the ends of the pieces as well as on the sides, or what is known as end-matching. This permitted strong tight fitting regardless of where the joints might fall, and thus allowed the use of odd length pieces.

End-matched flooring is a triumph of modern manufacturing. Floors of this material have been laid in many large buildings using no piece over 18 inches long, even where no subfloor was laid. Foresters, in particular, have viewed this development with the greatest of interest since it means that by closer utilization of material the drain upon the forests will be materially lightened.

Devaughn's Singing School Is Good

Prof. W. M. Devaughn's singing school opened its second week last Monday with an enrollment of 99. The school is doing fine work under the able supervision of this master of music. Prof. Devaughn is teaching music in such a way that pupils can hardly help from learning how to sing and to do it intelligently. He teaches the fundamentals of music, as well as drills his pupils in experimental singing and directing.

There were quite a few visitors out last Saturday afternoon to listen to the class sing, and everyone seemed to be much pleased at the good singing which the class did. Visitors are invited to come out every Saturday afternoon during the school, as that period will be devoted entirely to singing.

Off The Beaten Path

The real charm of touring lies in leaving the main-travelled highways and exploring the thousands of alluring side-paths. These dirt roads and trails lead to spots of rare beauty unvisited by the throng—where better camp-sites may be found—finer fishing and lovelier scenery.

In a Ford car, you can enjoy the thrill of exploration and discovery. It is the one satisfactory means of travel for these narrow roads—light—yet so powerful that it will bring you through—easy to handle—sturdy and economical.

It will carry the whole family and the saving in cost often pays for the entire vacation.

LITTLE VERA OPHELIA

On last Friday morning, July 17, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Billingsley and took from them their little darling babe. The little one bore her suffering very patiently and quietly, waiting for God to call her where there is no suffering. God only knows how it breaks the loved ones hearts to part from little Vera Ophelia, but she was only a little angel living here on this earth, and God knew she was too precious to stay in this world of sorrow, grief and pain. We all know the little darling is supremely happy, for she is in the arms of Jesus.

Ofttimes in their searching they will find a little sock and shoe, a little cap and dress, tied with ribbons blue, and with gentle care they will place and fold away the treasures of their darling and only sigh and say, "'Tis better our little darling is where she is today, if she had been left upon this earth it might have gone astray." And I hope someday they hold again upon their breast their little darling who has entered into rest.—A Friend.

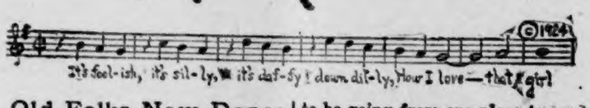
Broadway Night Life Gains Many Recruits



Old Folks Now Dance Harder Than Young Says Musician

New York City.—Night life here has taken on fresh vigor, unknown since prohibition days. The reason, according to Arthur Lange, who conducts an orchestra at the Fay Follies, smartest of the new night clubs, is that so many of the older men and women, substantial figures in Manhattan society, have begun entertaining themselves and their friends after midnight.

"I don't know whether a lot of them have taken the Steinach treatment or what, but there surely is a change in the attitude of older people today," Mr. Lange declares.

Not Old Folks

"Of course a night club can always depend upon the young and enthusiastic element, but after all, they are changeable and like to be going from one place to another all night long. The older folks stick to a favorite orchestra until the very small hours and my, how they can dance!

"Some of them are grandparents as I very well know, but I couldn't tell it by looking at them. I have been trying to figure out what has youthified everybody in the so-called older generation this last year.

Late Dancers

"I hear that many of the important folk really are trying the gland and electric treatments that mean more youth. I believe it for I don't know how else to account for the way they can dance all night without showing any signs of fatigue. We generally close with 'How I Love That Girl,' a great favorite, and I don't mind telling you that the dowagers and elderly beaux who applauded it when it was played for the first time in the evening are right there to bid it good night."

DUPRIEST

On June 8, 1925, our home was saddened when the death angel visited and claimed our loving wife and mother, Francis Adeline Philyaw. She was born in Alabama on March 4, 1875, and reared in Mississippi. She was married to S. J. Dupriest in May, 1899, at Norketer, Miss. To this union nine children were born, all of whom are living except one, Mary Alma, who passed to the great beyond on October 16, 1911.

We can not thank our friends and neighbors enough for their kindness during the illness of our dear wife and mother.

Funeral services were conducted by Revs. Davis, Chandler and Lowery. Her remains were laid to rest in Collins Chapel cemetery.

She leaves a husband, eight children, five step-children, two sisters, two brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

She obeyed the Gospel early in life and devoted the remainder of her life to Him who died for her. During the last few months of her life her body was frail and she suffered much with a disease beyond the control of earthly phsicians. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but all in vain. But we understand that she is not dead in reality, but has just passed over to that sweet land to await our coming, where there will be no parting nor sad farewells.

Her departing words show that she was faithful to the end. She said: "I am willing and prepared to go, and I am going to a better place. Don't shed any tears for me."

Oh, how sad it is for us to have to give her up, but if it was the Lord's will we are willing for her to go, and we say farewell for a while. May the Lord help us to so live that we can finally meet and be with her forevermore in Heaven.

There is one sweet face vanished, one sweet voice we will hear no more, for the hand of death has banished, the family chain again is broken. The golden link now waits above, hard, so hard, to leave a tender token of a Father's keeping love. Let us all through faith in Jesus, and the life through Him that's given, join the blessed links up yonder, and make that chain complete in Heaven.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth, yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."—Rev. 14:13.

May the Lord help us to so live that we can be with her where troubles never enter and partings are no more. —Husband and Children.

Just a few hours after Mr. L. D. Mims of Fairview community had brought in the first open cotton boll of the season, Herman Easterling, the 10-year old son of Mrs. Tabitha Easterling, brought in two well matured bolls. These are better developed than Mr. Mims' specimen, but were a short while behind the Mims entry. Latest Triumph in Railroading

THE completion of the new Chicago Union Station marks a noteworthy accomplishment in the history of important engineering undertakings, from which travelers from all parts of the United States will derive pleasure and benefit.

The station is without doubt one of the finest and most efficiently designed railroad terminals in the world. It forms a vital link in the realization of the "Chicago City Beautiful Plan." Simplicity, accessibility and convenience for the traveling public are the essential virtues of the new terminal. Rest and recreation rooms, ticket offices, barber shop, dining rooms, stores of various kinds, and almost every convenience known to travelers, are to be found on the one level, no steps to climb.

The main station is a low monumental type of building with a row of massive columns of classic design along the entire east front. Once inside, the traveler finds himself in a gigantic waiting room more than 100 feet high and brilliantly lighted through skylights in the great arch ceiling. Colonnades inclose the room, the walls of which are patterned after the architecture of ancient Rome. Bordering this room are the ultra-complete passenger terminal facilities. An innovation in railway terminal design is a conference room accommodating 125 people, which is available, without charge, to patrons of the Union Station lines for conferences and other meetings.

To give some idea of the immensity of the new station, it may be stated that the main building covers an area of about three acres with a concourse covering 60,000 square feet. The entire terminal facilities cover more than 35 acres and will expedite the prompt and satisfactory handling of 50,000 passengers, 400 tons of baggage and 300 trains daily with room for future expansion. Fifteen acres of glass were used in the various coverings over the train sheds, which extend more than 1,200 feet beyond the main structure. A total of 17,000 tons of structural steel, 175,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone and 10,000 cubic feet of granite were used in the station building and concourse. The foundation consists of 449 cylindrical concrete piers from four to ten feet in diameter, reaching to a depth of more than 60 feet below the level of the Chicago river.

Those who have had the privilege of inspecting the new station pronounce it a marvel in terminal construction and are urging their friends to see it on their next visit to Chicago.

The station is used jointly by the Pennsylvania Railroad; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., and the Chicago & Alton R. R.

DEATH TAXES AS BUSINESS KILLERS

Assistant Treasury Secretary Tells Fable of Fate of Two Successful Men.

Men cannot be expected to continue to work, day after day, increasing the productiveness of this country and benefiting others, if they know that on death the major portion of their earnings will be dissipated in Federal estate and state inheritance taxes, declares Charles S. Dewey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"I am going to relate a fable in terms of modern business conditions. John Henry and Walter Brown were aggressive, hard-working men, and each had started business for himself.

"At the time this history opens, John Henry had just died, leaving his entire estate to his son, John Henry, Jr., and had appointed his old friend, Walter Brown, as executor. Prior to his death John Henry had moved to California, leaving his business in the hands of his son under whom it had continued to make excellent headway. The father had been doing a little speculating in oil. This venture had not proved successful and he was indebted in the sum of $500,000.

Capital stock of Henry & Co., Inc., a Michigan Corpn.	$5,000,000
Personal debts due banks	500,000

"Walter Brown soon made the unpleasant discovery that in addition to the personal indebtedness of $500,000, and administration expenses of $250,000, the following death duties must be paid:

Federal estate tax	$497,500
California inheritance tax	585,700
Michigan inheritance tax	122,000
Total	$1,205,200

"Added to the personal debt and administration expenses, this made a grand total liability of $1,955,200. The year was 1920. Money was tight. Other manufacturing companies in the same line which might have been interested in a purchase had no money for extensions nor were the banks in a position to handle a loan of this type. Here was a most successful business, built up from small beginnings by one man and carried on to further successes by his son, about to be placed under the hammer.

"Is there any justice in taxation that may force a man and his family to lose the fruits of his entire life's labor, and permit others to benefit? As a last resort, Henry, Jr., was forced into a bond issue. A loan, to settle the debts, administration expenses and death duties, of $2,250,000 was negotiated, upon the following basis:

"The capital stock of the company was left at $5,000,000 represented by 50,000 shares. First mortgage 8 per cent bonds were offered the public with a bonus of two shares of stock with each $1,000 bond. The banker, to protect his bond customers, kept 30,000 shares to assure control of management, and John Henry, Jr., received the balance of 15,500 shares. John now has a good job as general manager of his father's old company, but they do not pay him very much.

"Now we must return to Walter Brown, executor of John Henry, Sr. Walter had always kept close to his own manufacturing business. The more he considered his own situation, the more closely it seemed to him to resemble that of his old friend.

"He therefore called a lawyer and made a complete schedule of his assets, requesting that an estimate of administration expenses and death duties be made. The schedule of assets was as follows:

Capital stock, Walter Brown Co., Mich. Corp.	$4,000,000
California real estate	1,000,000
Tax-exempt bonds, Minn., Mont. and Colo.	500,000
Total	$5,500,000

"Within a few days Mr. Brown's lawyer made the following report:

Debts and admin. expenses		$500,000
Fed. estate tax	$710,625
Cal. inheritance tax	443,194
Mich. inheritance tax	260,409
Minn. inheritance tax	4,289
Mont. inheritance tax	4,486
Colo. inheritance tax	2,700
Total death duties		1,425,703
Total expenses		$1,925,703

"On this basis the estate suffered a reduction from $5,500,000 to approximately $3,574,000, thus wiping out all assets except the corporate stock and placing a heavy loan on that. Mr. Brown had one son and, as he thought of John Henry, Jr., toiling away with little hope of opportunity he determined that he would not subject his own son to the same tribulations.

"Boom times having come, there was no difficulty obtaining a purchaser for Walter Brown & Co., and the California real estate was sold at a good price. The whole was invested in tax-exempt bonds which yielded a very safe return of about 4½ per cent. Walter Brown then moved his legal residence to the more friendly climate of Florida, where state inheritance and income taxes are forbidden.

"The country suffers by the loss of effort which Walter Brown might have continued to expend under a more intelligent system of taxation. We must reform the tax system in such a way that business and industry shall not be hampered. We must make sure that American citizens shall not be deprived of the incentive to work and accumulate and that this country shall not cease to be a land of opportunity. A tax system which discourages initiative cannot be the right system for America."

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON THE SOUND OF WORDS

"Aunt Emmy," said Helen, handing her a letter, "I want you to tell me what you think of this as an investment for that money I have in the bank." Aunt Emmy adjusted her spectacles and read the letter carefully.

"I see," she remarked, "that you are offered debenture bonds in the Blank Manufacturing Corporation——"

"Yes!" cried Helen, interrupting her. "That's what makes me think so well of it. A debenture bond must be so safe!"

"Why do you say that?" inquired Aunt Emmy. "What, exactly, is a debenture bond?"

Helen hesitated while Aunt Emmy looked at her with a twinkle in her eyes. Then she stammered something about security.

"Now, child," admonished Aunt Emmy, "don't get flustered. It's very simple. When you buy a bond, whatever it is called, you loan your money to the company putting out the bonds. The word debenture comes from the Latin word 'debeo,' which means, as you should know if you remember your schooling, 'I owe.' Now, then, if you lend someone money, you would expect security unless the character of the borrower was so high that you would feel safe merely in holding his I. O. U. In the case of a debenture bond you are loaning money on a company's I. O. U. The company offering you debenture bonds does not pledge or mortgage any property to secure the bonds.

"If the company is in good standing, has a high credit rating and is making money, a debenture bond is a good investment. If the company is weak a debenture bond is a risky thing to buy. It all depends on the soundness of the company and not on the sound of the word 'debenture.' As for the company described in this letter, I don't know anything about it, do you?"

"No," admitted Helen reluctantly, "I do not know a thing. After what you have told me I wish I did. How do you suppose I can find out who and what they are?"

"There is nothing easier than that," rejoined her aunt. "All you have to do is to go down to the bank and ask them to give you a report on the Blank Manufacturing Corporation. They will be glad to look into this for you and will give you some really good advice if you want to invest your money in something safe. Never hesitate about talking to your banker about your financial affairs. He is willing to help you at any time."

BANKERS HELP

Pierce County Bankers Association, Wisconsin, have sent a boy and a girl to the week's Short Course at the University of Wisconsin, all the banks sharing in the expense. The Association is active in boys' and girls' club work.

Eaton County, Michigan, bankers sponsored an enthusiastic dairy-alfalfa meeting at Charlotte. As a direct result of the last campaign, 2,000 acres of alfalfa have been added. A county-wide bovine tuberculosis eradication campaign is being conducted with every assurance that the county will be on the accredited list this fall. Three cow testing associations have been organized.

Richland County Bankers Association, North Dakota, is one of the county associations which has organized to carry out the work of the boys' and girls' clubs and the "alfalfa on every farm" project. This program was adopted at a State banker-farmer meeting at Fargo in February.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Grover Bice, postmaster at Thorsby, has shown us a copy of a new order from the U. S. Post Office Department at Washington, which, it seems to us, should receive all the publicity possible, for the benefit of the public:

"Each domestic parcel post packag presented for insurance or collect-on-delivery, on and after August 1, 1925, will be accepted with the understanding that the sender in each case guarantees any return or forwarding postage that may be necessary when such parcels become undeliverable."

This understood guaranty is a primary condition upon which any domestic parcel may be accepted for insurance or to be sent C. O. D., and if not stated on the parcel it is to be implied in every instance, so that, regardless of whether any insured or C. O. D. parcel mailed on or after August 1, 1925, bears the postage pledge or guaranty, it is to be treated as though the pledge or guaranty were actually on the parcel.

Another interesting item in regard to U. S. Mail service is found in a bulletin issued by the Department on July 15, which solicits bids for 8 air mail service routes, one of them being from Chicago, by Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville, to Birmingham and return.

It may be noted that a corporation has recently been organzied in Birmingham, and equipped under direction of air mail exeprts who have had much to do with promotnig air mail service for this section, and are prepared to enter the list of bidders on these proposed routes.

There is little doubt in the minds of the people who are observing the trend of the times, but that not only air mail service, but express and air freight routes will rapidly follow the pioneers in this field of commercial enterprise.

We want to commend the efforts of our Town Council and some or our citizens to clean up the streets, which is manifest at this writing, and we hope arrangements will be made to continue the good work.

On Friday afternoon of last week Thorsby Institute Executive Committee held an important meeting, in which they approved the work done on the foundation for the new school building now practically completed, for the unit under construction. They also adopted, for construction of the outer walls, concrete blocks with an exterior finish of stucco pebble-dashed with bits of colored marble, in conformity with their newly finished dining hall building.

The building committee was authorized to make contract for all material needed to finish the building of the unit now under construction. Rough lumber for sills, joists, etc., is now being assembled on the site and other material has been bought, so that the work may proceed without delay. It is too soon yet to predict just when the buiilding will be ready to occupy, but from present indications it will be as soon as anyone has expected.

It is rumored that Thorsby public school will open August 15, in order to make up for a month lost by early closing last spring. It is understood that the state requires at least eight months for a school year in any school to be accredited a Junior High, to which Thorsby public school aspires.

Rev. Joseph E. Each and family left Thorsby early Monday for their summer vacation of four weeks. They will visit friends in Alabama and Florida. In the meantime, Congregationalists are planning to worship with other churches in town the second and fourth Sundays, while their pastor is absent. On first and third Sundays it is expected to hold services morninig and eveniing at the Congregational church. If there is change in these plans due notice will be given. Sunday school, Christian Endeavor and prayer meetings will be held at the regular time and place each week.

On Sunday, July 26, Rev. R. L. Bonner is expected to preach at the Baptist church at the usual hour, morning and evening. At the Lutheran church Rev. Bakke will preach at 10:30 a. m., in Scandinavian, and at 7:30 p. m., in English.

Before Mrs. Gerald and her daughters left Thorsby for their vacation trip to the Pacific coast, she promised the writer to send in some account of her travels, that we might give it to readers of The Union-Banner, because she knows that many of them are always interested in travel stories, especially when someone they know is doing the traveling. A letter came this last week, from which we quote:

Portland, Oregon, July 4.

We have certainly had a wonderful trip thus far, but are very thankful we are out of the quaking country of California. Our first stop was at Cheyenne, Wyoming. Fort D. A. Russel is located here, one of the largest forts in the country. We drove all around it, and saw a mail air plane start up from it one evening. While there we visited Estes Park, one of the most beautiful National parks of the Rocky Mountains On our way to it we went through the canyon of the Big Thompson river which winds 'round and 'round for miles. Longs Peak, the highest peak in the park, snow covered the year through, is over 14,000 feet high. We drove up the winding road within seven miles of the top, where we found Longs Peak Inn, built of dead timbers killed by the great forest fires of 1871. This inn was built by Enos A. Mills, the great nature lover and author. Everything in the inn was made of the dead timber and was very rustic and beautiful.

Another trip we made out from Cheyenne was to the great Laramie Mountains, near Laramie, where the University of Wyoming is located. The Laramie Mountains are a mass of huge stones laid in every conceivable manner. One could only wonder how anything could grow there, yet every now and then we would see a tree growing out between two or three rocks, where there was just room for the trunk to get through. We started for these mountains with a picnic dinner and two cars, and thought we would enjoy an outdoor picnic, but just as we got our lunch spread it began to hail and we were glad to hop into the cars and eat our lunch there and drink hot coffee to keep warm.

Our next stop was at Los Angeles, where we visited the Erdahls and had a very nice time. While there the Erdahls took us on a trip to Catelina Island, out in the Pacific Ocean. We left about 8:00 in the morning and returned about 7 p. m. It was a beautiful trip—we saw and rode on the great Pacific Ocean, and not one of us was seasick. While at the island we went out in a glass bottom boat and saw the fish, sea growth and shells on the bottom of the ocean.

We also had the pleasure of taking lunch and enjoying two nice drives with Mrs. Hunter, formerly of Thorsby. One of our drives was to the beach, about fifteen miles from Los Angeles, and another to Pasadena, where we drove down an avenue called Christmas Tree Avenue. The evergreen trees droop their branches toward the driveway, and on Christmas Eve these branches are brilliantly illuminated with electric bulbs, making a beautiful sight.

(To be continued next week)

Miss Edith Robinson is spending a few days in Montgomery visiting Miss Anna Hughes.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social as a lawn festival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary from 7:30 to 10 p. m., on Thursday, July 23. Arrangements have been made to sell ice cream and cake on the grounds. Ladies are expected to bring their men folks along.

Whipping Post Not Yet Passe In Delaware

WIFE-BEATERS and petty thieves caught within the toils of the law in Delaware are still subjected to the sting of the lash at the old-fashioned whipping post. That ancient method of meting out punishment holds favor with all the Delaware authorities. A recent attempt to abolish the custom was successfully blocked by the legislature.

The claim is made that those certain classes of criminals that come within the penalty provisions, fear the whip more than they do mere imprisonment. With the result that their number nowadays is mighty small.

The above picture shows a culprit fastened to the whipping post with the sheriff applying the lash.

Mrs. G. L. Crosby, who has been the guest of Mrs. T. W. Robinson the past week left Monday for her home in Waycross, Ga.

Miss Jennye Robinson will leave Thursday for Montgomery and other points in south Alabama, making the trip through the country by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss went to Birmingham Monday, taking with them their baby boy. Mr. Foss returned in the evening of that day; Mrs. Foss will remain for a week or ten days while the little fellow is recovering from a minor operation.

The Parent-Teachers Association will hold a meeting Thursday afternoon, July 30, at the home of Rev. Bakke.

Earl Diefenderfer was in Birmingham this week and reports that he saw a bass weighing 28 pounds which was caught at Mitchell Dam. The big fish was on display at a sporting goods house, and was frozen in the middle of a 300-pound block of ice.

A Bank Account Is An Incentive to Thrift and Economy

Like the man who received a $200 legacy and spent a day and a night writing orders to mail-order houses, next day he went to a friends to borrow a nickel to buy a loaf of bread. This may be an extreme example, but it actually happened, and in a way may happen to anyone who has not the banking habit.

MRS. R. F. WYATT DIED LAST SATURDAY P. M.

Burial At Walnut Creek Last Sunday Attended By Great Host of Sorrowing Friends.

Every day we are reminded of the uncertainty of life.

Respected as a citizen, beloved as a friend, her death came as a shock to the entire community, although not unexpected, as the end came after a long and lingering illness.

In the character of Mrs. Wyatt there were blended many of the noblest elements of womanhood. Her piety and staunch integrity were recognized on all sides. She was a faithful wife, a good housekeeper. To know her was to love her, and to associate with her closely you could fully appreciate her many fine qualities.

She loved her friends, was devoted to her church and most charitable to all. We shall miss her. Her husband, brothers and sisters will miss her, but we find consolation in this thought: Heaven has been made brighter by the transplanting of this beautiful flower.

She was endeared to her many friends by the tenderest cords of love and sympathy, and we deeply feel the shadow which falls upon us when one so great, so beloved is called to the great beyond.

We tender our sympathy to the members of the family from whose ciricle a golden link has been broken, and we point them for solace and comfort to the Father, whom she served and who has promised His own: "Lo I am with you always even unto the end."

Let us think of her as just having taken the journey ahead of us. Let us try, somehow, to rejoice as she rejoices, where beyond these voices there is peace.

There is a brighter side. It is just through the thin veil where Christ is, and where she is too. Now she knows and sees what we can only apprehend by faith in the unbroken word of a loving Savior.

The funeral services were held Sunday morning, Rev. Limbrick, her former pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Walnut Creek cemetery with Mr. Martin in charge.

Her grave was banked with exquisite flowers, tenderly placed by loving hands. It was all we could do, and yet it seemed so little to testify in loving remembrance to the place she held in our hearts.

She peacefully sleeps now in the silent city of the dead, awaiting the resurrection morning when all friends and loved ones shall again be united to part no more.—Martha J. Mims.

Selma's First Bale Sells For 51 Cents Per Pound

Selma, Ala., July 28.—The first bale of cotton brought to Selma this season was sold at auction at noon Tuesday and bought by M. Hohenberg and company for 51 cents per pound. It was grown by J. C. Bruner, five miles from Selma on South Side on the Julien Smith place. It was graded middling and was consigned to I. Yaretsky and company. It weighed 550 pounds. Last year the first bale brought to Selma was also bought by M. Hohenberg and company, bringing 46 cents.

The second bale was also sold at auction at noon Tuesday and brought 40 1-4 cents and weighed 550 pounds. It was also bought by M. Hohenberg and company. It was grown by L. G. Sims of Eleanor, and was consigned to R. H. & W. C. Agee.

M. Hohenberg and company has bought the first bale for the last 15 years. It was thought among cotton men that 51 cents was a good price for middling grade.

First Bale Sells For 32½ Cents A Pound

The first bale of Alabama cotton which was reported in The Montgomery Advertiser Thursday, was brought to Montgomery and sold Tuesday for 32 1-2 cents. It was sold at auction at the Montgomery Cotton Exchange. It was bought by F. H. Elmore and shipped to the E. B. Norman Co., New Orleans. The cotton was shipped to Montgomery by Danzey and Johnson, Abbeville.

The second bale of the season was sold on the same day at the same place for 33 cents. It was shipped to Montgomery by J. M. Kirkland of Graceville, Fla., and was bought in by F. G. Hammond for C. M. Owen and stored at the Mutual Warehouse Co.

Three Good Games Here This Week

Lovers of the "National Pastime" have a treat in store for them Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Elrod, said to be the best amateur team in the State, will be in Clanton on the above named days, to do battle with the local diamond warriors, and a stiff set of games is expected. Elrod walked over the Clanton boys like doormats last week, but we expect a reversal of form in this series. Come if you want to see good baseball.

Coach Heard wants the fans to know that the Clanton team will be strengthened for the coming battles.

E. A. O'Neal To Speak Here August 5th

Hon. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau, will come to Clanton to speak on the morning of Wednesday, August 5th.

The Farm Bureau is doing more for the farmers now than any organization of its kind ever known. Mr. O'Nela will tell the farmers of Chilton County about it in this speech, and we hope a great crowd will be on hand to hear him.

Don't forget the date, Wednesday morning, August 5, at the court house in Clanton. All farmers are especially invited to hear him.

Mission Institute Held At Stanton

The July Young Peoples Council and W. M. U. of Unity Association held a Mission Study Institute instead of having the regular quarterly program, at Stanton, Wednesday, July 22.

The meeting was opened with the W. M. U. song "Revive Us Again," followed by repeating the watchword.

Mrs. J. E. Gowan of Clanton conducted a beautiful devotional, making everyone present to feel his or her duty in stewardship. She chose for the scripture lesson: Psalms 37:3; Prov. 11:24,25; Isa. 58:10,11; Luke 6:38; Acts 20:35; II Cor. 9:7,8.

Song, "When Baptists Learn To Tithe." Prayer by J. L. Johnson.

Mrs. W. C. Dyer, in a most gracious manner, welcomed the visiting societies. Miss Erin Danforth of the Clanton Y. W. A., responded.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted.

Mrs. J. C. Hughes presented the Alabaster box, asking that every one take part in making a love gift to missions.

There were five Mission Study classes taught. Mrs. S. J. Ezell taught the W. M. U. manual; Miss Hannah Reynolds, State Young Peoples Leader, taught the Y. W. A. book, "Serving the Neighbor;" Mrs. Hattie E. Dickinson the G. A.'s, "Along the Highway of Service;" the R. A.'s manual, by Prof. J. L. Johnson and Rev. T. B. McPheeters; the Sunbeams by Miss Margie Murphy. Both Mrs. Dickinson and Miss Murphy had prepared themselves for the classes at Mentone.

Mrs. S. J. Ezell delivered a most interesting address, "Witnessing for Christ in all the World."

The afternoon session was opened with singing "Revive Us Again."

The devotional was led by Mrs. Alexander of Jones W. M. S., choosing Psalms 51:10-13.

Reports were given by all societies present—Billingsley, Concord, Clanton, Ebenezer, Jones, Maplesville, Marbury, Mt. Creek, Samaria, and Verbena.

The associational banners were awarded as follows: W. M. S. Attendance, Concord; Mileage, Concord; A-1, Billingsley; Young Peoples Attendance, Maplesville; Sunbeam, Billingsley; G. A., Marbury; R. A., Y. W. A., Clanton; A-1, Clanton Y. W. A.

Song, "'Tis So Sweet To Trust In Jesus."

Mesdames Ezell and John T. Ellis were asked to break the Alabaster box, and reported that it contained $5.05.

The annual meeting is to be held Wednesday after the third Sunday, at Verbena.

Closing prayer, Rev. W. J. Ruddick.

Autos Have Hard Luck Past Week

Detours, rains, ditches and perhaps in some cases other "elements" have combined into corcumstances that seem to make hard luck for drivers of motor vehicles in and around Clanton during the past week. There have been a great many who got stuck in a ditch and had to holler for help. Some have happened to minor accidents, but none serious.

Monday night a driver left a Ford truck loaded with lumber parked on the side of the old highway just above town. Some time during the night a big Buick came along and ran into the truck, doing considerable damage to both machines.

Some time Monday Dr. Gragg driving in front of the court house, and ard Thorsby, met a Dodge in a close place. The two cars scraped each other, but no damage was done other than a slight disarrangement of the fenders.

Sunday night one of the big Coral Gables busses got in a soft place where the paving crew had been working ni front of the court house, and had to be pulled out by a tractor.

We have heard it reported that a car occupied by a party of travelers ran into a ditch near Coopers and narrowly escaped serious consequences.

But with all the inconveniences motorists generally accept it in good grace. They know that it will not be long when the work will be completed, the highway and streets in Clanton will be paved, and everything will be lovely. The detours will be forgotten and the rains and mud will not interfere with passage through this section.

W. M. U. AT MULBERRY

The W. M. U. Quarterly meeting of Chilton County met at Mulberry Baptist church Julp 23rd. A very interesting meting was had and the training course was a success. each teacher had a good cass. All societies rporeted except two. Rev. Falkner gave the 11 o'clock ddress. At 12 o'clock a most bountifu dinner was served by the Mulberry ladies and was enjoyed by all.

Rev. J. O. Williams and Rev. Ben Dykes mad very interesting talks. Also Miss Hattie Jones of Washington, D. C.

Our next quarterly meeting will be at Colins Chapel. Let every society be present if possible.

HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Delbert Brand near the Hugh Mullins place, was destroyed by fire last Saturday morning. The family was away at the home of a neighbor when the fire happened and all the household effects were lost.

Revival Meeting At Samaria Closed

The revival meeting at Samaria Baptist church came to a close Friday night, July 24, after a six-day session of successive services, the preaching being done mostly by Dr. Jerome O. Williams of Bessemer, Ala.

We consider the meeting a great success from most every point of view and a great victory for God. There were twenty-three additions to the membership of the church, for which we are glad and thankful, besides a great spiritual awakening of the ones who were already members. We feel that it will take eternity to tell the whole story of the great good accomplished by the meeting.

We are very thankful to God for the assistance of Dr. Williams in the meeting. We feel that it was a God-send to the church and community to get Bro. Williams to come and be with us in the meeting.

It may seem to some like unnecessarily boasting of our own boy to speak commendably of Bro. Williams but we are truly glad of him and his life, and we think justly so, and we do not see anything amiss in letting him know it while he is living. In his discourses he presented the word and the plan of salvation in such a plain, simple and forceful manner until it seems that no one who heard him need err in the way.

We especially thank the visiting brethren and sisters for their presence, prayers and assistance in every way, and we pray God's choicest blessings upon all of you and invite you to come again to Samaria and help us. We have our regular preaching services on the third Sunday in each month, morning and night.

We must here express our sincere thanks to the visitors as well as to our own folks for the order and attention given at each service. It is true that we think and feel that it is everyone's duty to keep in order and to give attention to the message of God, but to our sorrow we are compelled to admit that in this fast age in which we are living we sometimes forget. The usual disturbance caused by automobiles coming and going around the place of worship was, we may say, absolutely lacking. We do not recall a single instance when this present-day evil disturbed the services the least bit, and may this one fact is very commendable, and the same could in most instances be avoided if we would only remember the duty we owe to God and our fellow man. It seemed that everybody made it a point to get there before services began, or if a little late, rolled up as quietly as possible, and remained until services closed, and for all of this we are so thankful and cordially invite you to come back and worship with us at Samaria.

CLANTON LOSES PAIR TO ELROD

The Clanton baseball team went over to Elrod last week for a two-game series with that team, and lost both games. The score of the first game was 12-2; the second, 10-1.

Jack Hayes featured with the willow. "Pat" Moulton fared badly in this series, and suffered his first defeat since coming to the Clanton club.

It was impossible for us to get anything like an extended report of the games.

W. J. BRYAN DIED AT DAYTON TENN.

Dayton Tenn., July 27.—William Jennings Bryan, who many years ago as "the boy orator of the Platte," with his "cross of gold" won a democratic presidential nomination and a lasting place before the American public, is dead.

The end came Sunday afternoon while the commoner was sleeping in the house of Richard Rogers, which had been assigned him during his stay here, when he came for the Scopes trial. Dr. W. F. Thomason and Dr. A. C. Broyles, who examined the body, stated death was caused by a hemorrhage of the brain, resulting in apoplexy. He was 65 years old.

James McCartney, family chauffeur was sent by Mrs. Bryan at 4:30 p. m., to wake her husband. McCartney shook Mr. Bryan twice in an attempt to arouse him and then noticed that he was not breathing.

Rushing to the home of A. B. Andrews, a neighbor, the chauffeur called for physicians, who reached the home within a few minutes. After an examination, the doctors said Mr. Bryan probably had been dead thirty or forty-five minutes before they arrived.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed early today but Mrs. Bryan indicated the body would be interred in Arlington cemetery, as Mr. Bryan, who was a colonel in the Spanish-American war, several times had expressed a desire to be buried there.

The commoner had been living under a streneous program since he came here three weeks ago to assist in the prosecution of John T. Scopes, found guilty of violating Tennessee's anti-evolution law. He appeared in excellent health, however, and was planning to launch a great campaign this week in behalf of fundamentalism.

Mrs. Bryan, who has been an invalid for a number of years, bravely stood the shock of her husband's unexpected death. She immediately took charge of funeral arrangements and received a few of the hundreds of persons who called at the residence to express sympathy.

"I am happy that my husband died without suffering and in peace," she said.

His last words to her as he entered the room for his nap, were:

"I am so sleepy."

Before he went to sleep, Mr. Bryan autographed two books for Judge John T. Raulston, who presided at the Scopes trial. The books were "The Seven Questions in Dispute," and "In His Image."

He wrote: "To Judge and Mrs. John T. Raulston, Winchester, Tenn., with the good wishes of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan, July 26, 1925."

One of the books was open when physicians reached the room and ink was not dry.

After traveling over two hundred miles Saturday and delivering speeches at Winchester and Jasper, Tenn., Mr. Bryan returned to Dayton early

A New Piano and Music Store to Open in Clanton

Now You May Know the Meaning of "A Name Well Known Since 1875," and "Quality First and First Quality."

We are pleased to announce, and in this way answer the many questions asked recently why we advertised "A Name Well Known Since 1875" and "Quality First and First Quality," together with the slogan "Thousands in Use and the Demand Increasing Daily," that this means Clanton will have a branch of the well known Jesse French & Sons Piano Co., on Seventh Street at First Avenue, just opposite the Post Office, and next door to Dr. Hayes' office, in the Hayes Building.

This is the firm that has caused a great deal of wonder by their catchy method of advertising. As far back as 1875, or 50 years, the name of Jesse French on a musical instrument has been a guarantee of quality within. Hence, "Quality First and First Quality" has been used cautiously by this time-honored and illustrious house. They realize that the very best of materials as well as workmanship must enter into each instrument turned out from their mammoth factories at Newcastle, Indiana.

Mr. Glenn W. Miore, who has been working under the Montgomery headquarters which controls the Southern states section, will be actively in charge of the Clanton store, and Mr. Moore reports some very interesting things he learned from a recent trip and visit to Newcastle. Mr. Moore and wife, and Mr. O. S. Printz and family motored from Montgomery to Newcastle for a visit and trip through the Jesse French factories. Mr. Printz does tuning and general piano repairing for the Montgomery branch and he, as well as Mr. Moore, is well known in this section already. This trip was a bit over 2,000 miles, and outside of two punctures and a bit of rough road in Kentucky it was perfect. While at Springfield, Ohio, the party visited the mammoth piano plate plant of O. S. Kelly Co., which firm casts many of the piano plates used by leading firms and manufacturers.

Other piano factories were visited for comparison with the Jesse French products, and nowhere did they find a higher regard for the ideals of honesty and reliability than at the Jesse French & Sons plans. Mr. Moore reports a very pleasant visit with Mr. Jess French, Sr., who is still active in the management of the firm which bears his name. H. Edgar and Jesse French, Jr., his two sons, have been schooled in their father's ideals, and things that go toward making the name of "Jesse French" a household word and one that is respected wherever music is known and loved.

A solid carload of Jesse French piano products were unloaded here today, and these sweet-toned instruments will be on display at the formal opening of the Jesse French & Sons Piano Co,s. store in the building of Dr. Hayes on next Saturday.

We understand that a complete line of the genuine Victor Victrolas and Records as well as the new Columbia phonographs and records, together with player piano rolls will be handled also.

We respectfully call your attention to the full page advertisement in this issue of The Union-Banner announcing the opening of this house in Clanton. We are glad to welcome this old reliable and progressive music house to our city.

SOCIETY and Club

(Mrs. Grady Broadhead, Editor)

Mrs. McSwain Entertains.

Mrs. T. C. McSwain delightfully entertained the members of the Friday Sewing Club and others on last Friday afteroon. A variety of cut flowers and potted plants were effectively used in decorating the house.

The afternoon was spent in plying the needle. The hostess served a delicious salad plate with iced tea to Mesdames John Armstrong, M. L. White, Bama Cox, Elna Roberts, John VanDerveer, V. J. Gragg, R. C. McDavid.

Mrs. Martin Honors Little Daughter at Birthday Party.

Mrs. Walter Martin entertained a number of children Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, at a birthday party in honor of her little daughter, Gladys, who celebrated her 7th birthday anniversary. The house was attractively decorated with summer flowers and potted plants. Games were enjoyed, after which the children were ushered into the dining room, where a color scheme of pink and green was beautifully carried out. Ribbons were brought from the four corners of the room to the chandelier, making a soft glow over the table, where a white birthday cake with seven pink and green candles, made the centerpiece. Ice cream and cake were served to Guy Alred, Billie Retherford, Theda Wyatt, Cecil and Dorothy Carter, Grady, Jr., and Morgan Reynolds, Sidney Reynolds, Nell Neighbors, Mary Wallace, Elizabeth Gragg, Mildred and Billy Maddox, Ethel Corley, Celia Gerald. Louise Marcus, Ruth Gowan, Hal Broadhead, Kathleen Powell, John Ezell, and Eloise Rasberry.

Mrs. Martin was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Lillian Pate of Thorsby.

Mrs. Simpson Hostess.

Last Wednesday morning Mrs. H. M. Simpson was a charming hostess when she entertained the members of the Wednesday Bridge Club, and a number of other friends.

A color motif of yellow and green was used in decorating the house. Vases and bowls of yellow dahlias and sunflowers were effectively placed throughout the apartment.

Bridge was played at five tables. After the games, Miss Kathleen Mullins held high score of the club members and was presented an angel food cake. Mrs. Hughes Kennedy of Birmingham was given the guest prize, a jar of strawberry preserves. Mrs. W. H. Lanier received the consolation prize.

Miss Mildred Danforth Hostess.

On Friday evening at the home of her parents, Miss Mildred Danforth delightfully entertained a number of friends at a lawn party. The occasion was the fifteenth birthday anniversary of the hostess.

The lawn was lighted with electric lights. Pine trees were used to make a temporary summer house where a table was placed for the punch bowl. Pink crepe paper and crepe myrtles decorated the table. Miss Lurleen Minor served punch.

Numerous games were played and a tray containing a variety of articles was passed around, and also cards with tiny pencils attached. The guests were asked to name as many articles as possible that were on the tray. Miss Pauline Lawrence won the girls' prize, a box of correspondence cards, while Mr. Hugh Moses Simpson was presented the boys' prize, a baseball.

The cutting of the birthday cake afforded much pleasure. The usual symbols were cut for. Gladys Williams received the button and Julian Evans the dime.

The hostess, assisted by her mother and Misses Erin and Janice Danforth, served an ice course to the following: Misses Lurleen Minor, Pauline Lawrence, Mary McSwain, Mary Lee Pyron, Gladys Williams, Ruth Sessions, Myra Johnson, Miriam Sanders, Wilhelmina Kittrell, Clara Ellen Callaway, Nell Rockett; Messrs. Metal "Fins" Aid Swimmers

YOU'VE heard motorists say, "Well, I'm getting a lot more miles out of my car since I use (—) gas." Pretty soon you'll hear swimmers boast, "I can swim twice as far as I ever did since I've been using (—)'s Fins."

For, over in Germany some ingenious person has invented metal "fins" that, when adjusted to the feet, are reported to enable one to propel himself through the water with much greater ease and for proportionately longer periods of time. Just how the contrivances work is not reported.

A Mother's Duty

A mother that fails to use her time and thought for the very best interest of her children is not worthy of being a mother.

Ask your husband, the man you have selected for the father of your children, what provision he has made for their welfare in event of his unexpected death.

You owe to yourself and to your children, ESPECIALLY TO YOUR CHILDREN, the duty of exerting every precaution against being left without sufficient living and educational funds.

There are a few husbands and fathers who are too selfish to make this provision. See if you have selected one of this type for the father of your children.

THERE IS NO WONDER ABOUT IT

The Birmingham News, in an editorial last Sunday, makes its regular periodic reference to the manner in which the national Republican administration (to them) seems to ignore the South in questions of economic policies.

The News professes to wonder why the national Republican administration is desirous of feeling the pulse of the West on the eve of the coming Congressional campaign and shows no interest in knowing what the South wants.

There is no wonder to it. The Republican administration knows that the South is going to vote against them, no matter what they do or do not do. Therefore, it is natural that they do not care to bother about political things down here. They know that the West may vote Republican or Democratic, according to which party they believe is serving and will serve them best. Therefore, it is natural that they take some care about the interests of the West.

Political parties want to be rewarded by the support and confidence of the people they help, just as people want to be rewarded by the political parties which they support and help.

Therefore, it is no wonder that the Republican party wants to help where they will be rewarded for their service.

The Democratic party is the same way. The last national Democratic administration was always busy trying to take care of the western wheat farmer, at the same time when the southern cotton farmer was sending S. O. S. calls to Washington over turbulent seas of bankruptcy.

Everybody knows what the South needs to do to get recognition at Washington. The Democratic hosts of Dixie must quit voting "a dead tradition and a living fear," and manifest that degree of independence which would befit them as citizens of this Republic if they would ever reach the time when any administration at Washington, Republican or Democratic, will take the trouble to return to them service and consideration for their votes.

WHAT IS A NEW INVENTION WORTH

The United Stats patent office recently announced a housecleaning, to get rid of more than 150,000 models of inventions. This did not, of course include models of successful inventions, but chiefly the thousands of impractical and even ridiculous devices into which people have put faith and money.

Last year approximately 90,000 applications for patents were made in the United States. A little more than half that number were granted. Every year much money goes into new inventions. Many prove profitable. More prove profitless. Yet someone must put up money to test out new inventions or progress decays.

How to distinguish between the practical and the worthless? Great business corporations spend thousands of dollars annually trying to make such selections. Often their high-salaried engineers and scientists pick losers. Of course, they also discover practical inventions, too. It is said that the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, probably the largest public utility business in the world and certainly one of the most capably managed, owns approximately 7,000 patents. Another great corporation places a book value of $1 on the patents it owns. Certainly those patents cost much money and are really worth millions of dollars, but exactly how much no one can say. New inventions next year may make the inventions of previous years largely or wholly worthless. Business conditions and changes in consumers' demands may kill off a profitable invention quickly. A patent bootjack has little value to a shoe-wearing people.

The person who has time and ability to look into inventions and who can afford to lose can justify himself in taking the chance of buying stock in a new invention. The person who cannot investigate and can not afford to lose almost always will make money by staying out. Don't be stampeded by tales of fortunes made by successful inventions. They are no indication that the new invention asking your money can succeed.

BUT -- Look Where There's Real Gold !

FORESTRY LETTER

Wooden buildings withstood the recent earthquake shocks in the west with practically no damage, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Many structures of more rigid materials, however, suffered severely, some being entirely demolished.

Wood is one of the basic economic materials. However, for every substitute that is discovered there arise several new needs for wood. Of late years the trend of research in construction materials has not been so much toward finding substitutes as toward increasing the availability of the wood itself. The latter result is being sought both by increasing the amount of timber grown and by making it go farther in the industries through preserving and fireproffing processes and through close utilization.

While certain structures such as large industrial plants, skyscrapers and suspension bridges require special materials, yet for residences, ordinary business buildings and 75% of the bridges no material excels wood. Engineers have lately determined that even in the case of fairly large bridges creosoted timbers and pilings give more service per dollar of investment than any other material.

To restore and perpetuate the forests so that there will always be an adequate supply of wood is one of the great problems of the present generation. It is being attacked on all sides, however, with reasonably good prospects of success. The first thing, of course, is the protection against fire. This fact is becoming quite generally realized, with the result that fewer fires are started and thousands of citizens turn out during bad fire seasons to help extinguish those that occur through accident or carelessness. With the fire protection problem solved, the remaining features of a general forestry program can be put into effect, and millions of acres of land now lying idle will be producing a valuable material which present and past experience has proved that mankind cannot do without.

CHARLIE DERAMUS SUICIDE

Charlie Deramus, age 21, committed suicide Sunday afternoon about six o'clock at the home of his father, John Deramus, near Clanton Ford, in the western part of the county.

The story of the incident as reported to us is that young Deramus went into his father's house and wrote two letters, one to his father and one to a man whom he had been working for in North Alabama. After he had written the letters it is supposed that he killed himself with a shot gun. The theory of his act is that he cocked the double barrel gun, placed the barrel to his breast and pushed down the trigger with a forked stick. When his people found him he was dead, with the gun and stick on his body.

The dead man had been working in North Alabama, and was down here on a visit to his father and mother.

The office of Sheriff Tom Littlejohn was notified of the affair immediately after it was discovered by the young man's family. The sheriff went to the Deramus home and found that the circumstances verified the story of the tragic act.

Upon inquiry into the case Sheriff Littlejohn found out that Charlie Deramus had been married and that his wife was in Selma. It is supposed that brooding over his family troubles must have led him to take his own life. It is said that he had, before his death, received information that his wife intended suing for divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnie Thompson of Birmingham were in Clanton Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charlotte Wyatt, who was an aunt of Mr. Thompson.

TWO PIG CLUB BOYS NET $264.00 IN ONE YEAR'S TIME

Auburn, July 25—A net profit of $264 in one year from two purebred Duroc-Jersey gilts is the record made by Joe and Paul Moates, farm boys living five miles from Enterprise, in Coffee County, Alabama.

A story of the success of these two boys is told by R. G. Arnold, county agent, who caused them to become pig club members, and whose instructions they follow. They started in June, 1924, with two purebred Duroc-Jersey gilts for which they paid $15 each. They had to buy the feed and it cost them $85 the first year. The treatment for cholera cost $10 and registration fees amounted to $21, they having several pigs registered. Their total expenses the first year was $146.

Their record shows that they sold in one year 14 pigs for $15 each, totaling $210. They had at the time the report was made 6 pigs valued at $50, and the sows with which they started, for which they have been offered $75 each, or $150 for the two. Therefore, their total receipts are $410, or $264 greater than their expenses.

Their pig club work is done on the cooperative plan—Joe does the feeding while Paul keeps the records. The pigs which they have sold were all bought by club boys, many of whom became interested in it because of the success of these two brothers. They have a bank account and are more than pig club boys in that they are becoming business farmers.

Mr. Arnold says that their success is due to starting with good purebred hogs, good feeding, and proper management.

Whistling a merry tune—
We hustled from the cabin.
In our hand a nimble rod.
In our kit, a fine assortment
Of flies and lures. We headed
Straight for that nearby
Stream that came a-tumbling
Through the dense woods.
The birds were fluttering
About and chirping and having
A regular holiday.
The leaves added their rustling
Refrain to the song of the birds
And the sun played merrily on
The scene. Really, it was too
Good to be true.
Our heart was gay. The world
Seemed ours as we stepped forward
Into the cool waters of that Stream. Our tackle adjusted, we Whipped our rod for the first Cast. A light splash where our Fly hit the waters.
Bang! Swish! Wow! There he is!
Look at 'im go with that line!
What sweet notes came from the Whirl of that reel. We played
The big critter. And—Oh! What Fun! Five miniutes. Ten minutes.
Fifteen minutes. Look! He's Getting tired. We started to reel
Him in. And just as we were Slipping our landing net under
That gorgeous, beauteous-colored
Body and—and—our heart was Hitting on all six with joy—
THE BOSS
Hollered "Wake up! Your vacation
Is over. Here—get this work done!"
Gosh, ain't the first

WHITEWASH STILL HOLDS SUPREMACY

Though whitewash is one of the oldest paints used in American agriculture for the interiors of barns and other buildings, no new material has ever threatened to supersede it.

This is largely because whitewash is cheap, easy to prepare, and has undergone a process of improvement, say agricultural engineers at Auburn. Whitewash cleans and disinfects in addition to giving buildings a wholesome, pleasing appearance.

Quick-lime is still the basic substance used in making whitewash, but years of experience have resulted in a formula that includes a few cheap substances which greatly improve the disinfecting qualities and durability of the mixture. What is commonly known as the government formula is excellent:

½ bushel (31 lbs.) of quick-lime or lump lime slaked in 7 gallons of hot water; 1 peck (15 lbs.) of salt dissolved in 4 gallons of hot water; 3 pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste; 1 pound of clear glue dissolved in 1 gallon of warm water; ½ pound Spanish whiting dissolved with the glue.

The lime is slaked in a barrel or tub. The salt water is then added, followed by the glue and whiting mixture, and, finally, the rice paste. The entire batch requires thorough stirring. Twelve ounces of alum added to this mixture acts as a hardener and makes it stick better. To increase the gloss 2 or 3 bars of laundry soap may be added. There is an advantage in applying whitewash while it is hot. Care should be taken not to apply it too thick, as it will then crack and scale.

Railroad Securities

play an important part in University Endowments

Nearly one hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of steam railroad stocks and bonds are held by American Universities; sixty-five of our leading colleges and technical schools having been endowed with these securities. Statistics also show that these investments represent practically thirty percent of the productive holdings of these colleges. Thus it will be seen that the education of the youth of this country, in a very large part, depends upon the continued success of railroad operations.

Louisville & Nashville Railroad Securities are held by many thousands of owners—in all walks of life and in all parts of the territory it serves.

The railroads must operate at a profit in order to meet these bonds and pay dividends on this stock. Think of this when you can say a good word for the railroads of the United States—when you can give them your patronage. Judged from the standpoints of efficiency of operation and moderation of charges—there is no transportation system in all the world to equal the modern American railroad.

AGRICULTURE SAFE JARDINE DECLARES

Washington, July 22.—Agriculture is "safely convalescent," Secretary Jardine declared today in a review of the situation as seen from his eight weeks' western tour.

Farmers are getting out of the "shadow of bankruptcy," he asserted, "and there is a return of confidence. In short, he added, agriculture appears to be "gradually getting its house in order again," after the post-war disruption.

Declaring the farmers themselves were competent to work out their own problems, he said that if he got the right impression there will not be any great demand for farm legislation. Many of the farmers told him "to let it alone as things were going along pretty well."

"Cattle and hog men are better off than they have been since 1920, and I didn't see any sheepmen down at the mouth," he declared.

"Conditions in the corn belt are reversed from what they were a year ago when hogs were still cheap and corn a poor and expensive crop. Indications are for a large cotton crop and a favorable income in the belt as a whole.

"There are certain dark spots, however, in the general agricultural picture, it is true. The southwest is struggling under prolonged and serious drouth. The east does not show marked improvement. This region was hit last year by low prices for potatoes, hay and other important crops, and the dairy industry has had economic difficulties."

Regarding the proposed changes in the operation of the Chicago Board of Trade to prevent wide price fluctuations, Secretary Jardine declared that he had reason to believe that the board itself would effect the necessary readjustments in trading methods.

"But," he emphasized, "they are not going to repeat what they did during the first three months this year. If they don't do something then something will be done. I know there is a lot of gambling there, but it is difficult to get facts on gamblers."

The aim of the department, he said, is to put the board in the hands of the "good men" constituting it. He called attention to a demand, from the six hundred members outside of Chicago, for "Chicago to put its house in order," and advocated a clearing house for the exchange similar to bank clearing houses.

Secretary Jardine reiterated that he favored some marketing machinery for the farmers and that it might be necessary for some legislation along this line, although he believed the farmers themselves would either work out some methods of disposing of their surplus products or avoid creation of surpluses.

An illustration of what farmers can do to prevent over production, he said, is the fact that this year wheat farmers reduced their acreage by 20,000,000, which was put in other crops.

"Some things will be necessary in the way of legislation as we can't set down any machinery that will put us on easy street at one fell swoop," the secretary concluded.

Quality at Low Cost

In Memory of Mrs. Charlotte Wyatt

On the afternoon of July 25, about 3:30 o'clock, the death angels winged their flight to earth and quietly took away one whom we all loved, Mrs. R. F. Wyatt, casting a mantle of sorrow over her many relatives and friends.

After many months of patient suffering, which she bore without a murmer, she bravely faced death and surrendered her life back to her maker who had preserved it for fifty-three years.

She did not fear death, as these words she spoke to several different ones, "I am ready and willing to die, just waiting till God shall call me home."

She had been a member of the church since early girlhood, living a devoted Christian life, and at the time of her death was a consistent member of the Walnut Creek Methodist Church.

She was in the Central Alabama Hospital for two months. Everything was done for her that earthly physicians and friends could do, but all was in vain. We loved her, but God loved her more, and called her to a world more beautiful than this, where there is no more pain, no more parting, but where all is joy and peace.

Oh, how it breaks our hearts to give her up, but we know she is now sweetly resting in the arms of Jesus. She can not return to us, but we have one great consolation—we can meet her if we only live the life she did here on earth. She was loved by everyone and endeared herself in the hearts and lives of all who knew her. Her passing has left a vacancy that can never be filled.

She leaves a lonely husband, five sisters, five brothers, besides a large circle of other relatives to miss her smiles and presence through life.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Limbrick, with Mr. Martin in charge, and she was laid to rest in Walnut Creek cemetery to await the coming of that great and glorious day.

The many beautiful floral offerings attested the great love and esteem in which she was held by her many friends and neighbors.

Her Niece,
Mrs. Z. A. Tippett.

Some mishap occurred on the part of the railroad company in getting the material here from Montgomery for the line, but Mr. Williams kept working after it till he got things straightened out.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ELLA RICH

On July 20, 1925, at 7:45 in the evening, when everything was quiet and still, the death angel visited and took away our dear Aunt Ella.

She was taken with influenza while in Birmingham last winter, from which bronchitis set up, and it was thought best to bring her home. She was so glad to get back to her dear old home and to Clanton, where her relatives and friends could minister to her, and she could be with them again, that she thought she would soon be well again. She was seemingly better for a while, but her body being frail and her heart weak, she soon began to grow worse. Everything was done that loving hands could do to help restore her to health but God saw fit, in His infinite wisdom, to take her from this world of pain and sorrow to a better home in Heaven. Although she hated to leave her dear husband and son behind, she was willing to submit to God's will and go with Him. She said the day she died that she knew if "this earthly body should be dissolved, that she had a building far better in the house of God, not made with hands."

She was always so cheerful and contented in her home. She knew how to make the most of life, no matter how dark the path grew before her. She could see the bright side of everything. She was a good Christian woman, trusting in her God always and serving Him and her fellowmen wherever and whenever she could. She gave herself to God early in life and served Him until she died.

There was always an open door in her home that seemed to say "come in," and she made everybody welcome. She was loved by everyone who knew her, for to know her was to love her, and how we miss her sweet smile, but we know if we live for God as she did we shall see her in the sweet bye and bye, where there will be no more partings and no more sorrow and suffering.

We have lost our darling auntie,
She has bidden us all adeiu;
She has gone to live in Heaven,
And her form is lost to view.

Oh, that dear one, how we miss her,
Oh, how hard to give her up;
But an angel came down for her,
And removed her from our flock.

The home is robbed of the one we love
And her place can never be filled;
But we submit to Him above,
To all His ways and will.

Oh, her sweet life was an example
To be emulated by everyone,
It will stand as a living monument,
Now that her work is done.

She suffered here so much,
As on her bed she lay;
'Till Jesus said "It is enough,"
And took her soul away.

Her earthly cares are past,
Her sufferings here are o'er;
She crossed death's chilly stream,
To a happy, golden shore.

In the silent shades of her home,
In the narrow casket bed;
They have placed our darling auntie,
With the calm and peaceful dead.

"Farewell, Aunt Ella," we must say,
We must say our last farewell,
Until we meet beyond the river,
Happy there to dwell.

—TWO NIECES.

OAK HILL

The United Singing Society met in regular session here Sunday afternoon and did some real good singing. Both Vaughan and Showalter books were used. We were entertained by the Oak Grove class, who visited us in a body and did their part in making the occasion the great success that it was. Other visitors came from as far as Lawley, and we invite them to come again, for visitors are always welcome and appreciated by the United Singing Society, not only at this place but at all the other places of meeting.

We had the pleasure of listening to such directors as Prof. A. H. Glasscock, Akins Collins, Enoch Foshee, L. R. Cobb, Will J. Northcutt, Dick Martin, and Lige Glasscock, with A. H. Glasscock directing the second time. Those who accompanied the directors at the organ were Misses Emma Campbell, Flossie Cobb and Mrs. Belle Dorminey.

We noticed some improvement has already been made by the singers of this place, as well as Oak Grove, owing to practice they have had the past week in the music schools which are in progress at both places, taught by Professors A. H. Glasscock and O. B. Robinson, and it is our purpose to have a good music school taught at every church within the bounds of the United Singing Society some time in the near future, if there is any possible chance.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day here and we have arranged to run the meeting throughout the week, with Rev. Robert E. Massey, pastor of the Tarrant City M. E. church, to do the preaching. Rev. Massey has been to China and India as a missionary, and is a good preacher, and an interesting one, and we feel that we are very fortunate to again have such a great man with us, and invite all denominations to come and take part in these services, praying that much good may be done, not only in this community, but in the surrounding communities at large, which are in need of a sure-enough old-time revival of religion in the hearts, so that they wil help each other instead of trying to hinder and defeat the efforts of the faithful few.

Come and help us by praying for and with us.—E. L. Glasscock.

S. R. BARNES HERE TUESDAY

Our good old friend, S. R. Barnes of Stanton, was a pleasant visitor Tuesday. Mr. Barnes had an accident at a gin last fall which came very near "putting his light out" but he was able to get over it and is now alright.

The Banner is greatly encouraged over the nice things Mr. Barnes said about the paper. It makes us feel that our labors are not in vain to have such expressions from friends of the paper who have been constant readers for many years.

SENATOR HEFLIN'S STATEMENT ON THE DEATH OF MR. BRYAN

"Bryan is dead!" That sad message will produce profound sorrow wherever the Christian religion has a sincere advocate and clean politics an earnest adherent.

Wherever good morals and enobling political ideals have been involved he has always been found in the thickest of the fight. No man in the political life of our country has done so much as he to break down the dangerous idols that selfishness and greed have erected on the plains of American politics. He has been a thorn in the flesh of predatory interests and a terror to all political corruptionists. How fitting that he should fight his last battle and achieve his last victory against the forces of atheism and infidelity who would substitute their philosophical theories for God's revealed word regarding the creation of man.

W. J. BRYAN DIED AT DAYTON, TENNESSEE

yesterday from Chattanooga, where he spent the night.

Before he left Chattanooga, Mr. Bryan joined A. W. Lesley, owner of the hotel at which he stopped, and several others, for breakfast. Mr. Lesley accompanied him to Dayton, and during the trip the commoner expressed his determination "to see the case through." Mr. Bryan showed no evidence of bad health, Mr. Lesley said, but remarked that he was suffering with diabetes.

While in Chattanooga, Mr. Bryan completed arrangements for publication of the speech he was to have delivered during the closing hours of the Scopes case. He was having it printed for distribution throughout the country and its delivery was to mark the opening of the nation-wide battle against modernism planned by him.

Although Mr. Bryan appeared to be in good health, he realized it was necessary for him to conserve his strength. During last week he visited Dr. Raymond Wallace in Chattanooga who informed him that he had a slight dilation of the heart, with arrythmia (missed beats).

Previously on July 17, Mr. Bryan was advised to refrain from further streneous activities. Dr. Wallace particularly advised against an address Mr. Bryan had planned for Pikeville on the following Sunday.

Mr. Bryan delivered the speech, but limited it to ten minutes.

Yesterday he declined an automobile ride from the Chattanooga hotel to the railroad station, saying he preferred to walk. On arriving here he went immediately to his home and from there to the Southern Methodist Episcopal church. He sat on the front seat, and before the sermon, he was called upon for prayer.

Citizens of Dayton are still discussing the prayer, describing it as one of the most beautiful they have ever heard. Opening with "Dear Father," and free from any trace of bitterness or denunciation, the prayer was the plea of a servant that God shall direct all his ways and protect his home and country from sin.

At one point in the trial he asserted:

"The Bible is good enough to live by and to die by."

While answering questions by the defense, he said, "The reason I am answering is not for the benefit of the court. It is to keep these gentlemen from saying I was afraid to meet them and let them question me. I want the Christian world to know that any atheist, agnostic, unbeliever can question me at any time as to my belief in God, and I will answer him."

Despite the fact that Mr. Darrow and Mr. Bryan figured in numerous bitter verbal exchanges during the trial, they also engaged in a like number of friendly conversations.

Mr. Darrow was one of the fisrt to come forward with a tribute to Mr. Bryan when the news of the latter's death was received.

Peaceful and serene as though in a happy slumber, Mr. Bryan never looked more lifelike than he did today. His lips were set in the accustomed determined lines, with a slight suggestion of a coming smile. The gently closed lids over the eyes which burned piercingly when the great man was in action added to the effect of perfect contentment.

STOP WASTING--OR FACE PAUPERISM

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President, American Bankers Association

The American standard of living the highest in the world, came easily in the past from the abundance of our natural wealth but it can be maintained in the future only by drastic national economy in the use of that wealth. We have grown up to our resources. We can not afford to waste them any longer. Industrially we have got to stop wasting, but even more so have we got to stop the wastefulness of our personal habits.

William E. Knox

The paramount challenge to education in America today calls for the effective teaching of personal economics—for education in the management of personal incomes so that they will give every individual a good living during his productive years and provide certain security for the non-productive years of his old age.

Forty-four million people, two-fifths of our population, are gainfully employed in the United States, earning more than $60,000,000,000 annually. The management of the expenditure of this $60,000,000,000 annual pay check is the biggest and most important business in America. It has been estimated that upwards of $10,000,000,000 of this personal income is wasted annually. More than a billion, it is estimated, disappears in foolish speculation in fake schemes.

The spirit of waste in America is a heritage of the past, but today the country has more than one hundred and fourteen million people to support and no nation's resources can withstand extravagance indefinitely. An increase in population will mean a reduced average of personal wealth unless intelligent management maintains a progressively more economic utilization of the national income.

To teach our people this is the task of education and it can not begin to meet the task a moment too soon. The advance of civilization makes man's existence a more and more serious business. Human responsibilities and duties increase each year. If progress has made life more abundant it has also made it more expensive. It is impossible for most men to increase their real wages. Therefore they must meet their added responsibilities out of more economic employment of what they get.

The schools must teach our young people so to manage their own personal affairs as to insure that they will lead lives that have an economic worth to society and to themselves. Business must provide plans for its workers to enable them not only to earn but also to save so that the teaching of the schools will not prove an illusion in practice. Do these things and we will have no pauperism in America. Neglect to do them and we will ultimately develop pauperism,—a nation's worst social crime.

BANKERS HELP

Mason County, Mich., bankers are backing the county move to replace scrub stock with purebred cattle. The plan as outlined by the county agent is to purchase young purebred sires and place them wherever a farmer is found who is willing to undertake the proposition. The bankers will advance the purchase price and take a note for one year without interest. The idea is to make it as easy as possible for the farmers to procure thoroughbreds.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON A NARROW ESCAPE

"Oh, Aunty, I just have to talk to you," said Maud, bursting in on Aunt Emmy. "Those bonds Tom's father gave us for a wedding present have matured and Tom has the money. A man is trying to get Tom to invest in a radio company. I want your opinion on it."

"Don't hurry; tell me everything you can remember," said Aunt Emmy.

"Well, Tom didn't seem enthusiastic. Then Mr. Brown, the salesman, said that if he bought stock in his company, and wanted his money at any time, the company would buy back his stock."

"Are you sure he said that?" interrupted Aunt Emmy. "That is a claim that is not made by people connected with dependable investment houses. Unless you have an agreement with the company clearly stating that it will repurchase its stock, signed by one of its officers, you would have great difficulty in getting the company to buy back your stock. A company cannot be compelled to repurchase its own stock. Do you know who Mr. Brown is?"

"No," replied Maud. "Neither does Tom, but he seems awfully nice and Tom liked him right from the start. He is good looking, well dressed, and has beautiful manners."

Aunt Emmy sniffed. "Did he offer to sell you preferred stock on which dividends are guaranteed?"

"Why, how did you know, Aunty?" exclaimed Maud. "That is exactly what he did."

"I thought so," said Aunt Emmy. "Reliable stock salesmen don't promise that a company will repurchase its stock, nor do they promise guaranteed dividends. Unless a company operates profitably, it cannot pay honest dividends of any sort, guaranteed or otherwise. You can see how foolish it is to believe that you can get dividends just because some one says they are guaranteed. The only guarantee in the world for dividends is the successful operation of a company. Guaranteed dividends is a glib phrase used by unscrupulous persons to get money from unthinking ones. A while back the country was flooded with fake oil stock. Now dishonest promoters are trying radio stock."

"What shall I do?" cried Maud. "Tom is with Mr. Brown now at the store to buy the stock with the bond money."

"You just go to the phone and call Tom," said Aunt Emmy. "Ask him and Mr. Brown to meet you at the bank at ten o'clock. Tell him not to buy the stock until you talk with him again. Half the money is yours. Then call the bank and make an appointment with the vice president to discuss an investment."

About noon Aunt Emmy's telephone rang. It was Maud. "The queerest thing happened, Aunty," she said. "Mr. Brown agreed to meet us at the bank at ten o'clock. Tom and I waited until eleven and he never showed up. Then Tom told the vice president about it and he said we had a lucky escape. Only last week the bank locked up the company Mr. Brown represented and it is absolutely no good!"—A. B. Aymes.

IN MEMORY

On July 13th the death angel visited the home of Mr. and rs. Robert Burk and took away from them their little son, Elmar. We know that they did all in their power to keep him with them, but all that they, physicians and friends could do was in vain, for God had a more lovely and beautiful home prepared for him in heaven, and in His power and wisdom He called Elmar to live with Him above.

Little Elmar bore his suffering very patiently and quietly, waiting for God to call him where there is no suffering.

God Himself only knows how it breaks our hearts to part from little Elmar, but he was only a little angel living here on this earth, and God knew it was too precious to stay in this world of sorrow, grief and pain. We know the liittle darling is now supremely happy, for he is in the arms of Jesus.

The little angel can nevor return to us, but one great consolation we have is that we can live to meet him in his beautiful heavenly home which God has prepared for all of us who love Him.

Elmar leaves his mother, father, little sister, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn him. He was laid to rest at New Harmony, near Lomax. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Joe Kelley.—Myrtle Jackson.

THORSBY SECTION

Mrs. Gerald's Letter Continued From Last Week

From Los Angeles we went north to Fresno, Cal. The great event of this visit was our trip to Yosemite Valley, located in the Yosemite National Park of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The first stop we entered was the great or big trees of the Valley, some of them being large enough to drive an automobile thru and leave room on either side for another car. After leaving the big trees we traveled many miles up the mountain until we came to what is caled "Inspiration Point," where one may look down upon the wonderful mountains and falls of Yosemite National Park. As they are dynamiting and repairing roads there is only one hour a day that one can go down into the park, and only one time in the day when they can drive out.

We went down at about 5 p.m., and as there were 100 or more autos that went in at the same time, and is there were somewhere around 1,000 campers in the park, and as we had made no previous reservations there was no possibility of getting any until a late hour we got blankets and mattresses and camped alongside our auto, like good scouts. We spent two nights and one day in the park drinking in the beauty that God has prepared for the enjoyment of man, and one could but say with the psalmist of old, "Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which Thou hast done."

Among the beauties of the park were several falls, including Bridal Veil, Vernal, Nevada, and Yosemite, the latter 2,000 feet high. After leaving Fresno our next stop was at Roseberg, Oregon, where we spent two days, then went on to Portland, Oregon, where we arrived Saturday, June 27, a week later than we had expected. Portland being our ultimate destination, we will probably remain here until some time in August.

Friends of Mr. G. L. Foshee will be glad to know that he is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Henning motored to Birmingham Saturday afternoon on business.

The Baptists have two experienced teachers this week taking all the work from Sunbeams to W. M. U. Miss Jewel McDowell took the course in Mentone in June will teach Sunbeams at 10 a.m., and G. A.'s at 3:30 in the afternoon. Miss Jeffers, State worker, will tach R. A.'s at 10 a.m., ad W. M.'s at 3:30 p.m. Every Baptist lady is cordially invited to take this course.

The parent-teachers association will hold a social at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Bakke, Mrs. Gerald's house, Thursday afternoon, July 30th.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Hansen, entertained Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Dan Henderson of Washington, D. C. Among the guests were Mesdames Henderson, M. J. Soberg, C. R. Foss, A. E. Reagan, C. S. Howard, C. R. Peterson, S. E. Norton, C. W. Karlson, J. M. Bosworth, W. L. Leary, E. G. Hanson, Misses L. S. Goodwin, Agnes Leary, and Agnes Lenore Goodwin.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen gives a very interesting report of the Thomson Scove family reunion at Solon, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland. The host was a brother of Mrs. Villadsen, who hired the town hall to accomodate his guests who numbered 150, of whom Mrs. Villadson, her son, Arthur, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Thomsen of Thorsby were members. Mrs. Villadsen brought a souvenir of the occasion, a panoramic photograph of the whole group. The picture is nearly a yard long, and almost every person is seen clear and distinct; a truly remarkable picture.

Friday, July 24, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Henderson of Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan of Birmingham arrived in Thorsby. The two ladies are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg, whom most Thorsby people know as Clara and Olga Soberg. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan returned home Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson expect to start for their home Thursday afternoon of this week.

Thorsby Town Council has put a lot of men to work to finish up at least four rooms of the new public school building, in the hope of having them ready for use when school opens August 17. An inspection of the building last Tuesday morning would indicate that their chances are good to accomplish what they are trying to do.

In the meantime, work is driving ahead on the new building for Thorsby Institute. Several new men were put on the job last Monday morning. The foundation is completed, sills and joists for floor are in place, and the sub-floor is being rapidly laid at this writing. Material is coming in nicely and there will probably be no let-up until the work is completed, and we prophesy that the work will be done in record time. Will not Thorsby be proud to have two modern school buildings completed within a few weeks of each other?

Mrs. Shell and daughter, Julia, from Birmingham spent the week end with Mrs. Pete Franklin.

Rev. Bakke announces there will be no preaching services at the Lutheran church Sunday, August 2. On the following Sunday, August 9, there will be Scandinavian preaching at the morning service hour. Mr. Bakke goes to Silver Hill, Ala., Friday morning, to attend a missionary conference. He will preach there Friday evening, take part in discussions Saturday at St. Elmo, and preach in forenoon Sunday at Silver Hill. Rev. E. Oscar Johnson, well known in Thorsby, has charge of the Silver Hill Lutheran church.

As the Baptist church in Thorsby has no regular preaching on the first Sunday of each month, the Congregational church, whose pastor, Rev. J. E. Each, is away on vacation, will hold service at 11 a. m., Sunday, August 2. Rev. E. W. Butler will occupy the pulpit and speak of the character and life of Wm. J. Bryan, who died last Sunday, and whom Mr. Butler has known as boy and man for nearly 50 years. Christian Endeavor meeting will be held at 7 p. m., and immediately followed by the usual monthly praise (song) service. Everybody invited.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will be held Thursday afternoon, August 6, at the home of Mrs. Martin Petersen.

Mr. L. A. Norman, superintendent of paving on the new highway, announces that pouring cement on the part under contract by Miller Bros., Calera to Lomax, 17 1-2 miles, will be completed within a week, and by September 1st their section will be opened for traffic over its entire length.

Mr. Fred Howard and family are having a delightful visit with friends in Wisconsin, where they went by motor, stopping two nights and a day with Charley Swanson and family in Chicago.

If you enjoy reading of the movements of Thorsby people and their friends, is it not likely others would be glad to read about you and yours? Items of interest will be gladly received for The Union-Banner if brought or sent to the home of the Thorsby manager before 3 o'clock on Tuesday of each week—earlier would be better. Everyone can help some to make our paper of interest to the whole community. Try it and see.

ANOTHER TEACHER ADDED TO CONCORD SINGING SCHOOL

The Concord Singing School, taught by Prof. W. M. Devaughn of Coopers, opened its third week last Monday morning with an enrollment of 108. The attendance has grown so large that Prof. Devaughn could not handle all the work, so the services of Prof. A. A. Beaird were procured to help out in the teaching. Prof. Beaird teaches only in the afternoon, as he has to work in town every morning, but his services are a great relief to Prof. Devaughn and renders the school much more profitable to all those in attendance.

There will be no singing school next Saturday in order to give the pupils a chance to prepare for the all-day singing at that place Sunday.

Shooting Scrape At Whatley Town

The report of a shooting scrape at Whatley Town in the western part of Chilton County reached us to late for publication last week. Therefore we are printing the details this week. Last Wednesday Sheriff Littlejohn was telephoned to come to Whatley Town, a community not far from Maplesville. The information was given him that young men, Albert Cox and Arthur Whatley were in the community on a drunken spree, and were raising sand generally. It was said that they had come down from Acton where they live, bringing with them a cut down car, plenty of liquor and some guns.

The Sheriff set out on the journey to see if he could overtake Whatley and Cox in their wild spree. Soon after passing Maplesville he met a car in which he found Cox. This added more information as Cox was suffering from a bullet wound in his stomach, and the Sheriff was told that Cox and Whatley had had a personal difficulty in which the wound was inflicted by a 38 caliber pistol in the hands of Whatley. Cox was carried on to Maplesville and sent to a hospital in Selma.

The Sheriff went on to Whatley Town and found Arthur Whatley desperatley drunk and in possession of some whiskey and a gun, supposedly the one with which he shot Cox.

Whatley was arrested and brought to jail on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Clanton Had Bad Baseball Week

The Clanton baseball team struck hard sledding last week. After being defeated twice by the Elrod team, the locals were able to snatch only one game out of three from this team the past week.

Clanton took the first game of the three game series on the local field, 8-7. Moulton was in fine form and did not allow a score until the sixth frame. Here everything seemed to happen at once. When they began the ninth inning the count was 8-3 in favor of Clanton. A few bad plays, a hit or two, including "Red" Barnes' home run with one man on base, and the score was 8-7, with nobody out. Things looked worse when Hubert got a nice single, but Moulton began to see red, the team backed him to the limit, and "Pooley" Hubert never reached second.

The second game was just a good ball game, with several good plays by both teams. Starling pitched a good game, but the Clanton hitters could not touch Pierson when hits meant runs. Clanton lost this game 4-2.

The third game was a stormy one. The game was tied 3-3 almost from the first to the ninth. In the ninth inning Clanton took the notion that a ball game should be kicked instead of played, proceeded to pull two corking gifts to Elrod. The first was when a bunt was let through to be fielded by the left fielder, none of the infield making an attempt to field the ball, although the play was expected. Two men scored. The next was when Tom Sewell cut loose with a wild throw to third which Parrish couldn't or didn't handle, and two more Elrod scores crossed the pan.

In Clanton's half they got the bases loaded with two down, but Hayes was an easy out, and the old game was lost, 7-3.

Clanton played the West Point Route team Sunday at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery. This was the best game we have ever seen, and said to be the best ever played on Cramton Bowl.

Clanton had several chances when a single would have won the game, but couldn't come through. The fray went for 10 innings without a score being made by either team. After Clanton had failed to score in the eleventh inning, West Point Route scored on two singles and a sacrifice. Williams got a single, McEachern sacrificed him to second. Maury, Clanton catcher, caught Williams off second, forcing him to run out of line to get back on second, but the umpire refused to call him out for this infringement of the rules, and received the hisses and howls and catcalls of the fans, the most of whom were from Montgomery. J. Kaminsky got a single scoring Williams, and winning the 11-inning, 1-0 game.

OLD-TIMER MAKES VISIT TO CLANTON

Uncle Hez Hankins Writes an Interesting Letter to The Union-Banner—Good Farmer Likes Progressive City and Its Live Merchants and Praises It As a Good Cotton, Garden, Truck and Produce Market.

Be gosh, I didn't kno Clanton wuz sich a bizzy little town, but I can tell you she' alright and a plum good un.

Me an Liza and the kids had been aworking hard all spring and summer and got together a bunch of country produce and sum cotton what we had for to sell. So Liza sez to me one nite sez she, we might as well sell the things right now and get em of'en our minds.

We had been readin' all along 'bout the markets, and from what we could gether by word of mouth and thru the local paper we decided that Clanton wuz about the best market in reach, and Liza decided—she allus does the decidin' for the family caze she's decidedly the better half—as how I'd better hitch up old Beck and Jude to our horseless kerridge and drive a few lodes ov produce and cotton to Clanton.

Wall we ha to pass thru another town or 2 an all of them thar store merchants run out and tried to stop Beck and Jude right thar so we'd stop in that air town, but we jest axed the price of cotton and produce an come on.

An so we driv on agin till we driv up to Clanton.

I got $375 an sum odd sense for my cotton and produce an stuff an as I knoed Liza would want to know whare all that thare money went to—I make all my feenancial reports to my old womern—I thought I had better put them thare greenbacks in the First National Bank an draw chacks as I'd trade with the store merchants. Liza sez as how a check that's drawed on a bank is as good as a reseat an the First National Bank was strong nough to hold my three hundred an several more hundred besides. So I went round an turned it over to one of the clever cashiers in thare an he shoved it down into the big sock what they keep change in durin the day time.

Sim spied sum ice cream cons in Uuchurch's Drug Store and jest had to stop and git one. There's a big sody water contrapshun in the front thar where a feller can git all kinds uv soft drinks. Sides that Upchurch's Drug Store carrys lots uv good smellin articles for the women folks' toilet to say nothin of combs and brushes an face whitenin an candy an jewelry an fountain pens an ink an pencils. Everybody in thar is perlite as a basket uv chips an they allus sells everything a leetle less. Thar's plenty of fiziks in that store to fill any kind uv doctors prescriptions an them boys knowns how caus they's a regular registered pharmacist.

This kinder got me broke into byin and so I struck out for a good place to shed my old rusty suit, cause Liza had done told me she wouldn't go to meetin with me nary nother Sunday, 'thout I bought me a new suit of store clothes. Parrish's wuz the very place an I couln't have been better pleased ef I'd asent to Montgomery or Birmingham or Chicago for em. They are knoed as the Curlee Clothes an other standard an popular priced brans guaranteed all sheep wool an to ware to the entire satisfaction of the customer. They fit a feller natchel an easy and make em look like a city drummer right out of a band box. Parrish's also carry's ever thing in gents furnishings, sich es hats, necktize, collars, sox an sich like.

Liza had been dead sot on a ortermobile fer sum time an she'd heerd a lots bout the Ford Cars, what fine cars fer country roads an sich, and in compliance with her orders I went round to Clanton Motor Car Co., ther otherized dealers fer Fords, Fordson Tractors, an Lincoln cars, an me an the boy looked em over. Theys tooring cars and seddans an coopays an and gadabouts, swell lookers an run like shure nuff ortermobiles an the prices pears like air orful low fer sich good cars. Mr. McDavid wuz mitey nice in showin us aroun an me an him finally got ret together on a tooring outfit, which I bought pervidin Liza likes it when she sees it. I know we'll git reel ortermobile service too if we buy frum Clanton Motor Car Co.

As I'd jist had my whiskers took off I natchelly wanted to have my "shadow snatched," so me an Sim had a dozen uv them thar cabinet size photografts made at Sam'l Scott's Studio, fer to send round to kin folks. Cost me only a few "bones," and the gals at home has decided to go down thar an have sum uv them swell big fotos made to send to their jewlarkies and when we have our fambly reunion next month we're gonna go down an hev Mr. Scott take our picture an frame em up in sum uv them purty style 12x20 frames he's got. Found he also develops codack fillums in good shape and his charges air very moderate, too.

Me and Slim kinder begun to feel a little empty in the craw bout twelve o'clock en so we went round to the Main Street Cafe fer ter git us a snak. They shore feed you good thar; but they orter for they keep sum uv the finest meats I ever stuck my grinders into anywhere, and Mrs. Vickers, the boss thar, knows jist how to have em cooked and served to a hungry man. That thar beef

O'Neal Spoke To Farmers Wednesday

A representative group of Chilton County farmers were at the courthouse Wednesday morning to hear the address of Hon. E. A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Mr. O'Neal, in his very able way, told of the splendid work that the Bureau is doing for the farmers in this State, and we feel sure that his speech will impress more of our farmers to take advantage of Farm Bureau membership.

In the course of his remarks Mr. O'Neal referred to the work of county farm demonstration agents, and expressed the hope that Chilton County would soon employ such a man to work with our farmers in bringing about more profitable agricultural methods.

The farmers of this county are losing a great wealth of advantages every year by not having a farm demonstration agent. Let us hope that something can be done to bring us an agent such as other progressive counties in Alabama are enjoying. Chilton County is as good as the best county in Alabama. Our farmers are as good as the best farmers in Alabama, and they should have nothing less than the best advantages possible for farmers to have.

Polk Bros. Install New Equipment

Geo. C. Polk, of the firm of Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc., local Chevrolet dealers, states that they have found it necessary to install new and modern shop equipment to take care of their increase in business.

A part of this equipment is a high pressure grease gun for greasing Alemite and Zero equipped cars. This gun has pressure of 2,500 pounds per square inch.

They are now installing a 200-ampere Hobart battery charging machine. This machine has a capacity of 25 batteries, and will charge them in eight hours.

Mr. Polk states that June and July were two banner months with them. They sold more new Chevrolet cars during these two months than they have in any two months before. This shows what the public thinks of the new Chevrolet.

Mr. Polk prophecies a good cotton crop with good prices for everyone.

Another Prize Stalk Of Corn

Nelus Miner is bidding for the prize on corn, and submits a stalk of Hastings Prolific containing nine ears and two shoots that went blank. The stalk is about 14 feet high. It would take close comparison to tell which is the best, the stalk of Mr. Miner, or the one brought in by Mr. Adams last week. Both are certainly good ones.

Cruel.—Mrs. Brown—"Yer ain't lookin' too happy to-day, Mrs. Jones. What's up?"

Mrs. Jones—"What's up? Jones has been promising all the week to take me and Billy to see Charlie Chaplin, and this morning, half an hour ago, just as we was getting ready, his strike was called off, and he had to go back to work. That's what's up!"—Highway Engineer and Contractor.

Farmers Attend Auburn School

Mr. John M. Parrish of Concord was among the farmers from Chilton County to attend the Farmers Summer School at Auburn last week. Those who accompanied Mr. Parrish on this trip were his son, Russell Parrish, Dr. W. L. Parrish and wife, and Mr. Jasper Dennis and wife. The party arrived in Auburn Thursday morning in time to get all of the program for that day.

This is the first Farmers Summer School Mr. Parrish has ever attended, and he is very favorably impressed with what he saw and learned on the trip and during the course at the experiment station. Mr. Parrish was especially impressed with the speeches made on the essentials of feeding and raising beef and dairy cattle, and the care and grading of milk, etc. He etaoi shrdl cmfwy cmf wy shrdl shrr says that the things said and done in these speeches and demonstrations are well worth anyone's trip to Auburn. On Thursday night a stereopticon lecture was given by Mr. F. E. Boyd, dealing with cattle, their diseases and their care.

Friday's program consisted of lectures and demonstrations on soil building by the use of different leguminous plants. The growing of vetch was explained and "Kudzu for Hay and Pasture" was ably discussed by Mr. M. J. Funchess. Such other subjects as "Feeding Farm Mules," "Tractor work on Alabama Farms," "Boll Weevil Preventives," "Judging Horses and Mules," etc., were discussed by men of broad experience on these subjects. A melon cutting was held Friday afternoon, and another stereopticon lecture Friday night.

The Chilton County party left Friday evening, and arrived back in Clanton Friday night.

Mr. Parrish says that he enjoyed the course to the fullest extent, and urges that more farmers from our county avail themselves of the opportunity of attending these summer schools in the future.

Concert At High School Saturday Night

Prof. W. M. Devaughn's singing school at Concord, which has been going on for the past month, comes to a close next Saturday, and the concert will be held Saturday night. On account of insufficient room at the Concord Schoolhouse to take care of the people who will attend this concert, the high school auditorium in Clanton has been procured for this purpose, and the program will be rendered there.

This concert will consist of choir singing, chorus singing, male, female and mixed quartets, octets, duets and solos. Besides singing, there will be some comical monologs, and a little play. The program promises to be a very interesting one, and the public has a cordial invitation to attend. A small admission fee will be charged, proceeds to go to Concord schoolhouse. Program will begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

The patrons and students of the Concord Singing School are deeply indebted to Prof. Stevens for the use of the high school building for the presentation of this concert.

With this valedictory, pretty Jessie Reed, who is reputed to have "made" more song hits than any other star in vaudeville, leaves the footlights for the hearthstone.

In the early spring Miss Reed will marry and give up the stage for good.

"Yes, I am going to give up my career," she admitted, as she ran off the stage of a New York vaudeville house, after taking bow after bow for her singing of "Heart Broken," the latest song hit she has chosen to popularize.

Old-fashioned Wife

"I am doing it because I believe a wife should devote her time to home and husband. But I shall never forget the stage nor cease to maintain that it offers the cleanest, most interesting, most profitable career to young girls that there can be.

"That's why, if I have any daughters, I shall train them to follow their mother's profession. In this modern world, every girl, rich or poor, should be able to make her own way.

"There's a lot of nonsense talked about theatrical women. People say they 'go wrong' oftener than their sisters in less spectacular fields.

Less Incentive

"I contend that they haven't nearly so much incentive for stumbling off the straight and narrow path as other women. Take the stenographer. She wants a fur coat, but how can she buy it on twenty dollars a week? Then the scheming villain steps in.

"The theatrical woman, on the other hand, earns enough to buy the luxuries she wants and that particular kind of temptation can never come to her.

"Anyway, my daughters, if any, are going to be brought up for the stage."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager)

Mrs. Charles S. Howard, with her son, Lloyd and daughter, Ella, left Thorsby by auto early Tuesday morning to visit Mrs. Howard's parents at St. Elmo, Ala. She expects to remain with them for a week or ten days and then bring home with her her mother and sister. Later her father and brother expect to motor to Thorsby and after a visit here the four guests will return to their home in south Alabama.

Mr. A. B. Henning has a new toy in the form of a Rolls-Royce touring car. Few people in our country towns consider our highways sufficiently developed to indulge in the luxury of these expensive cars, but since Mr. Henning's chief occupation is in making good roads it may be entirely fitting that he should become a pioneer in the use of a car which is most adapted to the best type of thoroughfares.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson spent Wednesday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Massey in the Liberty Hill neighborhood.

At the meeting of Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association, held on last Thursday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Bakke, a committee consisting of Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. James Bosworth was appointed with power to act for the association, in co-operation with the town council for expenditure of the funds of the association now in hand, for the purchase of equipment for the public school building now nearing completion, at least to a degree that will make it available for use when school opens August 17th. Announcement was made at the meeting that a donation of $100 would be made to the association by a Birmingham man as an addition to the public school equipment fund. It is also reported that provision has been made for seating equipment for the auditorium when it is needed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Williams with their daughters, Bernice and Martha, returned to Thorsby last Saturday and are stopping for a few days at the home of Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Burdett, after touring Florida east coast for the past two months.

A Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, who have been touring in an automobile which has been their only home for several months, arrived in Thorsby about two weeks ago and camped on Thorsby Institute campus. Mr. Hunt procured employment as a carpenter on Thorsby Institute new building and Mrs. Hunt with the aid of an oil stove proceeded to devote her time and attention to putting up a stock of canned fruits, jellies and preserves. They evidently are either tired of a nomadic life or else think they have found a Eutopia in Thorsby. Last Friday they signed a lease for the place recently sold by C. A. Peterson to Birmingham parties who never moved here and have done little with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt seem to be a good sort of people, both are well educated, Mr. Hunt having specialized as a chemist, and his wife as a graduate nurse and an accomplished musician. Now that they have settled down as a part of Thorsby citizenship, we bespeak for them a share of the cordiality which Thorsby people know so well how to extend to strangers.

Mr. Clyde Mead was agreeably surprised by a number of Thorsby ladies who assembled at her home Tuesday afternoon in honor of the second anniversary of her marriage. We have no details of the party, but we happen to know that this young matron, a Chilton county girl, is held in such esteem by all who know her that she is liable to receive popular manifestations of it whenever opportunity offers.

A great tree has fallen! The big pine which for years has been a landmark on Thorsby Institute campus, owing to the fact that it was hollow was considered an unsafe neighbor to the new building, and has been cut down leaving a vacancy in the sky line very noticeable from far or near.

On another street we find the new home of our honorable Mayor, set in the edge of what used to be Fred Howard's peach orchard, bought last fall by Mr. Davis Cleckler who told the writer that he had sold enough fruit, or would have done so by the end of the season, to return the purchase price of the place.

The soil, the climate, and in this day the available information as to HOW of the thing makes is possible for almost any intelligent and industrious person to do profitable farming or fruit growing in and around Thorsby. Our fruit growers association and the growing local demand from autoists, make marketing easier and more profitable than it was before the advent of these aids to the farmer. We received in one day last week figs from J. D. Cleckler, grapes from R. A. Turner, and abasket of peaches from each Martin Petersen and Charley Anderson, and such peaches! Martin Petersen's Hale variety, of uniformly large size, one a trifle larger than the rest, weighed 12 ounces. Anderson's Elbertas, though different shape, were about equal in bulk and the exquisite coloring of each particular peach produced in group formation a picture to delight an epicure, and all home grown in Thorsby.

The Christian Endeavor Society took advantage of the beautiful moonlight evening last Sunday night and moved their base from the Congregational church to the door yard of the Primm family, going by autos and returning in time for the praise service at the church. We note with pleasure that in spite of vacation days when so many of our people are away there are still enough who enjoy singing to make these popular monthly meetings an attractive feature of the services of this church.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will meet this week, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Petersen.

A letter from Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland, who has been spending the summer vacation at her home in Downer's Grove and other points of interest in the North, will return to Thorsby the latter part of this week. We do not know at this writing just what her plans are, but she will probably have work to do in connection with preparations for the opening of Thorsby Institute as early as possible this fall.

Anything Once.—Mary—"I wonder why Joshua never repeated his experiment of making the sun stand still."

Cary—"Politics, I suppose; the farmers are so down on daylight saving."—Judge.

Sidestepping Mrs. Grundy.—"Why do you go on the balcony when I sing? Don't you like to hear me?"

"It isn't that. I want the neighbors to see that I'm not beating my wife."—Passing Show.

It is time to plant turnips and rutabagas.

"H'm! What have you been doing?"—Kansas City Star.

S. P. C. A. Take Notice.—Maudie—"What's wrong with the car? It is squeaking dreadfully."

Jimmie—"Can't be helped: there's pig iron in the axles."—Columbia Jester.

WHO AM I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets and have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone over $3,000,000,000 each year.

I spare no one and find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old; the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. Many are warned against me but heed me not.

I am relentless, I am everywhere; in the home, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing but take all.

I am your worst enemy. Beware of me. I am, CARELESSNESS.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS NOW A LAWYER

Hon. Lamar Jeffers representative in Congress from this district, is now a lawyer, having been recently admitted to a place on the Alabama bar.

Unlike many of our statesmen, Mr. Jeffers did not begin his political career as a noted lawyer. He started out in politics practically unknown beyond the borders of Calhoun county, when he was elected Clerk of the circuit court. He was just a plain citizen who was elected by his fellows to serve them in a county office.

He resigned the clerkship and went into the army and fought in France during the World war. He won distinction by his service and came out of the army with the commission of Major.

The ability which he showed in the army, and his former experience and tact in politics brought him forward with a rush, and he captured the seat of Fred Blackmon in the national house of representatives.

Somewhere along his busy way Mr. Jeffers has found time to study law, and now he is admitted to the bar in his own home state, a fact which will place him on a par with many of his colleagues who possess the qualities which are sometimes called necessary to acquire renown—lawyer, politician and statesman.

We don't suppose he will have any time nor inclination to practice his profession as long as he stays in the Congress; but maybe he wants the law business to fall back on when the Republicans of the Fourth District shall divest him of his place in Congress, in which instance he doubtless figures he would never have any use for the commission of a lawyer.

It's something she ought not to know.
But you bet she will find it out somehow,

For she's sure to find out somehow,

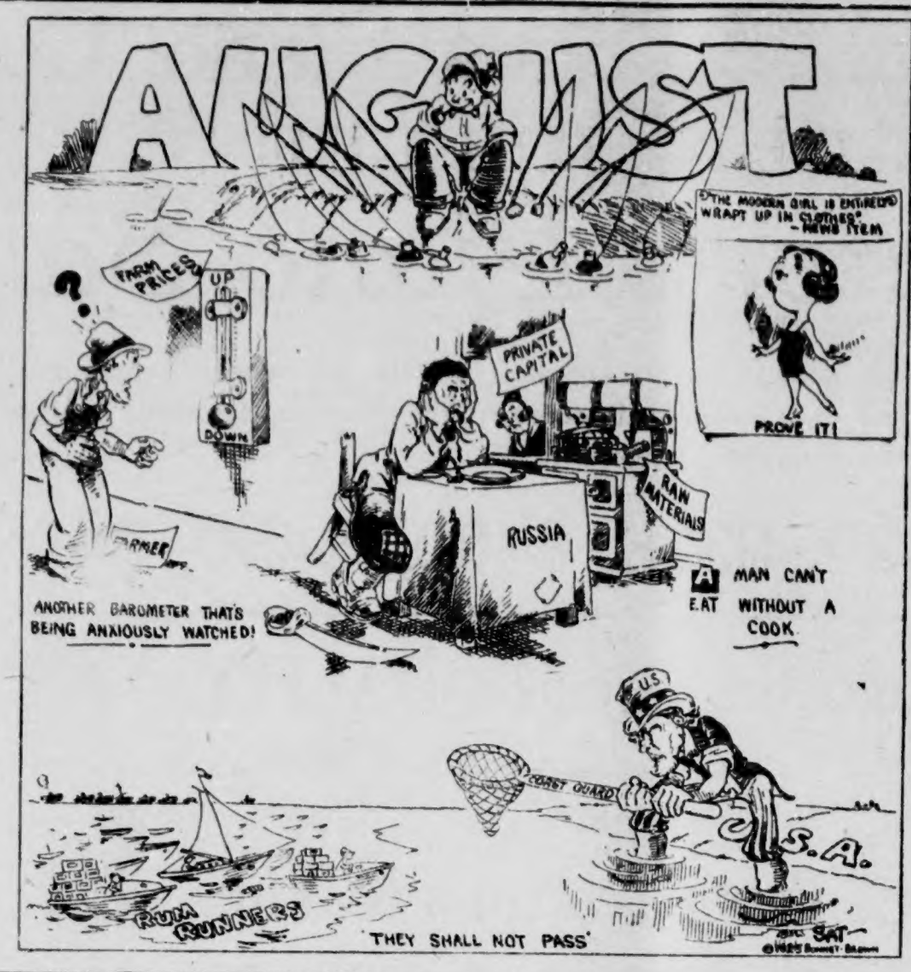
DELBERT BRAND EXTENDS THANKS

Mr. Delbert Brand extends his thanks to the kind friends who contributed to the relief of his family in the loss of his home by fire recently.

Dr. W. L. Parrish, wife and little girl, Prof. Jno. M. Parrish and son, J. N. Dnnis, wife and baby attended the Farmers Summer school at Auburn.

LITTL PEN-O-GRAMS



NET INCOME IS LOW FOR AGRICULTURE

Auburn, Aug. 3.—On the capital invested in agriculture the return for the year which ended June 30, 1925, was at the rate of 4.6 percent compared with 3.3 percent the previous year, Prof. L. N. Duncan told farmers at the recent State Farm Bureau meeting in Montgomery.

The return represented interest on the investment and payment for the managerial services of farmers. It was the net income that remained after providing for operating expenses and property taxes, and making an allowance for the unpaid labor of the farmer and his family at hired labor rates.

Although the year just closed showed a marked improvement over the period 1920-24, Prof. Duncan said that the net income is still inadequate to develop a sound agriculture. He pointtd out that the net income is still much lower than the interest rate paid by farmers on borrowed money.

"This low income," he said, "is due to several causes but in my opinion one of the main causes has been the failure of farmers in sufficient numbers to take charge of their business. I mean by this that enough farmers are not yet buying their fertilizers, seeds, and insecticides on a cooperative plan and selling their principal products in the same way. If the majority of the farmers would affiliate themselves with a business organization properly managed the whole agricultural structure of this country would be changed within a few years."

Prof. Duncan made an earnest appeal to the farmers to cooperate not merely from a social and patriotic standpoint but for the good of themselves and for agriculture.

FORESTRY LETTER

The United States Government is prepared to spend $33,000 on forestry work in Alabama, according to notice received by the Commission of Forestry. This expenditure, however, is conditioned upon the State's contributing an equal amount.

Alabama is one of the few states entitled to the maximum allotment of Federal funds. The Commission of Forestry is planning to match the Federal allotment, subject to the practicable development of its work which was organized but little over a year ago. The Commission, however, will not expend State money merely for the purpose of securing additional Federal funds. The policy is to develop public forestry only as rapidly as circumstances may permit. Thus far the progress made has been satisfactory, but it will require several years before the entire forest area of the state can be covered.

Inquiry is sometimes made as to the reason for Federal co-operation in the development of forestry within the various states. It will be recalled, points out the Commission, that many of the states produce practically no forest growth, but nevertheless are large consumers of forest products. The only way in which these states can contribute to the restoration and perpetuation of the forest resources of the country is through the Federal Government. The prairie states thus bear their pro rata share of the expenses of forestry development, although the timber growing states reap the benefit not only of proximity to the timber supply, but also through the sawmill payrolls and other business activities associated with the production of lumber and naval stores.

MANY CONCERNS BUY CHEVROLET FLEETS

Many large organizations whose investigations have established the economy of providing their salesmen and traveling representatives with motor cars have been placing fleet orders with the Chevrolet Motor Co., and hundreds of fleets have been delivered by the Company within the past year. Low operating costs, the availability of Chevrolet service have been two important reasons for the choice of Chevrolet cars by many of these organizations.

The United States Tobacco Co., which has recently purchased a fleet of 54 Chevrolet coaches for use by salesmen, is typical of the type of Company which has been making fleet purchases. The Consolidated Gas Co., since January 1, has bought 34 Chevrolet coupes, roadsters, and trucks principally for the use of inspectors, trouble men, and foremen in New York city.

A fleet of 24 coupes has been purchased by the Universal Portland Cement Co., for its salesmen throughout the country. Hundreds of other companies in various lines of business have bought fleets ranging in number from 6 to 20 cars. Chevrolet's popularity in the farming districts has been an important factor in the decision of many companies to use Chevrolet cars. Easy handling gives the car an advantage in city use.

The companies which have adopted fleets for use by field men have reported very satisfactory results. The sales cost records show the ultimate economy of automotive transportation for salesmen. Records show that less of the salesman's time is wasted, more calls are made, and more time spent with customers.

This was the first visit of Mr. Poston to our town and he expressed himself very freely and favorably upon the outlook of Clanton for the future. The fact that the Jesse French people have established a store in Clanton is in itself a testimonial to the favorable impression which they have received of Clanton.

The oldest cross word puzzle, said to date back to the eighth centuery, is reported to have been found in Arizona. At last, we're convinced that some insanity is inherited.

Bicycling Keeps Her In "Diving Trim"

MAINTAINING physical perfecfection, as all athletes know, means training, training, training all the time. Just in what form that training is done makes a difference, too.

Miss Betty Baker, Olympic woman diving champion and member of the Ambassador Girls' Swimming Club of Atlantic City, believes her method is the best. She enjoys the invigorating ocean breezes and keeps in trim by pedaling a bicycle over the hard sand stretches of New Jersey beaches. Not only does it aid her physically, but she claims it gives her an excellent appetite.

Those in the company were Mr. and Mrs. Onley Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hodgens, Mrs. Jones and daughter, H. T. Hodgens and family, and Mrs. Clements. They report a glorious time—great crowd, enthusiastic singing, fine dinner and cordial welcome; some fine directors present; the noted little Palmer girl director was there. Bibb, Chilton, Hale and Tuscaloosa Counties were all represented.

The Chilton County Christian Harmony singers met at the courthouse on last Sunday to mingle their voices in singing the good old songs of Zion, that will go down in history as the greatest songs in the world.

You Have An Interest In This Big Task

THE telephone organization in Alabama is performing a big task in which the public has more than a casual interest. This is to be a year of construction and expansion to care for the present demand for service and provide for the needs of the immediate future.

During the five-year period, including 1925, our plans require an expenditure of $10,423,000 in Alabama. Practically all of this is new money, which must be secured from investors.

There is no difference in interest between the telephone subscriber and the telephone stockholder. If we serve the owners of the property wisely and efficiently, we shall render the largest benefit to the public.

We must have rates low enough to enable every person who ought to have a telephone to have one, but sufficient to pay the cost of producing the service and earn enough to attract capital to take care of this growth.

That is what your telephone organization is trying to do.

POOR OR

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE is a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering — the hoping — the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. Because S.S.S. is made from fresh herbs and barks, it may be taken with perfect safety. Try it yourself. You will not only look better, but you will feel better, too.

So Weak Couldn't Stand

"My wife's health broke down and for years she was just a physical wreck," says Mr. Thomas Glynn, of Gibson, La. "We did everything we knew, yet she seemed to get worse and worse. She was so weak till she couldn't stand, and had to be carried like a baby. It looked like nothing would save her that had been done.

CARDUI

"I began looking around. I knew that Cardui was for women. I decided to try it for her as all else had failed. She couldn't eat, she couldn't sleep, and I was desperate.

"After taking a few doses of Cardui, we were so glad to note that she wanted something to eat, and with each bit of nourishment, and each day's doses of Cardui, she grew stronger and got up out of bed. She is now able to cook, and stronger than in a long time."

Cardui has been in successful use for nearly 50 years in the treatment of many common female troubles.

COTTON DAMAGED BY RED RUST

Much complaint is being registered by the farmers of red rust in cotton. Many large areas are said to be suffering seriously.

Uncle Jim Mims of Collins Chapel has found out that the trouble is being caused by a little insect which covers the plant by the millions. He says it may be what is sometimes caller the red spider.

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Wyatt died last eve,
Why should loved ones weep?
'Twas the promise sweet fulfilled:
"He giveth His beloved sleep."

And like the flush of dawn
Or the lovely twilight's quiet,
Her soul winged its flight,
The soul of dear Mrs. Wyatt.

Gently as she lived
Her tryst she went to keep
With the loving Lord Himself,
Who gave to his beloved sleep.

Like the lingering touch of sweetness
Of candles flickering low,
In the hands of Acolytes,
With their kidly, gentle glow.

She lived and made life gladder;
Her worthiness we reap;

stakes and pork chops of their'n simply melts in yore mouth. I jest couldn't help but wish Liza wuz erlong ter help me and the kid to help us put erway all them good things that wuz put down thar for our dinner, an you know all that good home cooked dinner never cost me but very little, neither.

A big fat geezer in our naborhood come over ter set awhile a few Sundays ago an he absotively paralized our best rockin' cheer. Natcherly, we went round to Chilton Hardware Co. and bless Pete, twas hard fer me ter pick out what I wanted from all them purty things, caze this store always shows a swell line uv everything fer the house frum settin room ter kitchen, ter say nuthin uv IXL Kitchen Cabinets an Allen Princess Stoves an them things what you kin kivver the floors with, an their prices an terms caint be beet. We loded on a burow an sofy an bedstid an dresser an tew fine rokin cheers—fer both the the gals jewlarkies.

Skeered I reckin I wuz! The old barn caught on fire aleetle while back and we come mity nigh gettin burnt out "lock stock and barrel" and me in debt an'thout any fire insurance. Ain't never gonna be caught that way no more tho, caze I went round and hed VanDerveer Real Estate & Insurance Co.—they inshure against everything but the hereafter, and don't do nothin else but write it—git me a polisy for $3,000 on our house an firniture soes we won't be worried so in case we was to git burnt out. They rites all kinds uv inshurance—life, fire, tornado, hail, automobiles, acident, and libility an they represent sum of the oldest an biggest compainys in the world.

I come mitey nigh fergittin bout buyin sum of them good Lowe Bros. Paints what we needed orful bad, but it come to me mitey suddent like when I started apast Jones's Hardware Store. On the inside I found so many things in hardware that I needed that I didn't hardly know when to stop buying. They wuz trace chains an plow points and clivices an harness an collars, everything in mule jewelry that a feller mite need an I jest blowed myself for old Beck and them cheap prices didn't near break me nuther. Mr. Jones is a accomodatin sort of feller an carries a complete line of chineyware an luminumware and bilders' supplies an granitewear an glassware, as well as harware an farm implements at pore folk's prices.

I'm gittin pow'ful pertickler about the kine of seeds I plant in the field an garden, too, an so I most gen'ally buy most of my seeds from Upchurch's Drug Store, cause I can bet on them thar seeds of theirn being rail good. I drapped in that thar store again on my rounds an got sum turnip seeds which we wanted to plant next time we got a shower of rain. The Upchurch Drug Store is the only place in town that makes a speshal of garden seeds in bulk, byin in big lots and sellin whole lot cheaper than in packages, an jest now they've got a big fresh lot of fishing tackle.

After finishin up my helter skelter byin I found I had about $175 still in my jeens, so I went roun to the First National an had all uv this—cept $10 I kept back in case of accidents—I had it put in that thar time deposit. I knowed it'd be safe thar, an I could draw 4 pursent interest, too. Agin won't nobody cud rob me uv it thar, an it might do sum of my nabors good what might want to borry. No ways bout it, the best place to keep money is in a bank an not hid out round the house sommers. Liza's stockin has got a whole in it nohow and we caint risk that no longer. Ain't I rite, Liza?

Had ter stay all nite in town so me an Sim went roun ter ther Wadesonian Theatre for a hour or so. Them movin pictures shore looks like rail life an durn my skin of I didn't come mity nigh playin whaley. You know whar the vilun grabs the purty gal—her akickin an ayellin all the time? Wall, sir, 'Is a settin on the front seat an atryin ter git loose from Sim an bust that ginney in the jaw when her jewlarky come up an give im a wallup in the snout an sent him inter a pile uv stickers what kep him bizzy fur a week pullin em out. Good thing Sim wuz along caze a leetle more an I'd a split a good fillum fer Mr. Wade. Hear he's showin "The Lightnin Rider" next Sat'day an me an the old womern's goin.

Well, I left town in a hurry to git home an show the ole lady an the kids what I had fer em an so fergot to come by The Union Banner an pay up my perscription to the paper. I'm sending a check on the First National Bank for $1.50 in this letter caze I jest couldn't git along without the "Dear Old Banner." I reckon everbody in town eround takes it don't they? Ef they don't they orter caze they git all the city an county an lots of state news in it an sees whurs the best place to trade when they git ter town. I allus trade with The Union-Banner advertisers caze I know they ain't ashamed of their goods ner the prices nuther, besides thur clerks air more couterous peers lack.

Hereafter when I want to sell cotton or country produce sich as eggs an chickens an the like or bye any kind of store bought goods you can jest put it down I'll go to Clanton caze I know I'll git all my crops worth an them thar store merchants treats you so nice you want to go back an trade with them.

The Poor Aim of Mr. Zeno

When the circus reached the small Vermont town the proprietor feared for awhile that his afternoon performance might lack its chief feature. The star of the aggregation was Zeno, the Mexican knife thrower, answering in private life to the name of Hennessy. Twice a day Zeno, dressed in gaudy trappings, would enter the arena accompanied by his wife, a young, plump and pretty woman in pink tights, and followed by a roustabout bearing a basketfull of long bowie-knives and shining battleaxes. While the band played an appropriate selection of shivery music the young woman would flatten herself against a background of blue planking which had been erected in the middle of the ring. There she would pose motionless, her arms outstretched and her feet close together. Then Zeno, stationing himself 40 feet from her, would fling his knives and axes at her, missing her each time by the narrowest of margins. Presently her form would be completely outlined by the deadly steel, but such was Zeno's marvelous skill that she took no hurt from the sharp blades which pinned her fast.

But on this day Mrs. Zeno had fallen ill and, although the circus owner offered a reward for some one who would take her place, he could find no volunteers among the members of his staff. In this emergency the invalid's mother—who by the same token was Zeno's mother-in-law—and who traveled with the show in the capacity of wardrobe mistress, stepped forward and agreed to serve as an understudy in order that the performance might not be marred.

The hour came. Forth came Zeno, wearing his professional scowl, slightly enhanced. His mother-in-law, skinny and homely, with her hair knotted in a knob on her head and her daughter's fleshings hanging in loose folds upon her bony figure, followed him closely. She plastered herself flat against the wooden background. Zeno gave her a look seemingly fraught with undying hate. He took up his longest, sharpest bowie-knife. He tested its needle-like point upon his thumb. He poised it, aimed it, flung it.

Like a javelin it hurtled on its hissing flight through the air. Striking tip first a scant quarter of an inch from the lobe of the mother-in-law's left ear, it buried itself deep in the tough oaken planking and stood there, the hilt quivering.

The pause which ensued was broken by the astonished voice of a lank native sitting on the lowermost tier of blue seats industriously milking his whiskers:

"Wall, by Heck—he missed her!"

In Permanent Storage

Once upon a time, in the middle part of the state of Georgia, there lived a banker who was known far and wide as the Human Safety Clutch. In his day he was accused of many things, but nobody ever charged him with being a spendthrift. His home was on a plantation a mile from town. One Sunday he remembered that he had left some important papers on his desk, and he gave an aged negro servitor on the place his keys and sent him for the documents.

It was a hot day and the road was dusty, but in an hour the old darky had returned with the papers intact. The owner felt in all his pockets, one after the other.

"That's too bad, Uncle Jim," he said finally. "I thought I had a nickel here that I was going to give you."

"Cap'n Henry," said Uncle Jim, "you took again. Ef ever you had a nickel you got it yit."

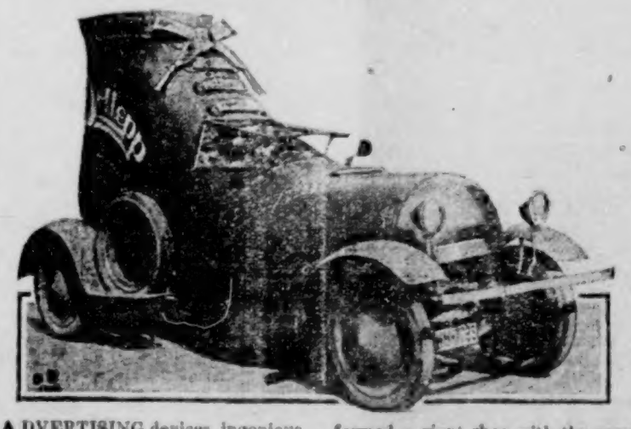
Giant Shoe On Wheels Gets German's Attention



ADVERTISING devices, ingenious and unique, are plentiful the world over but it remained for an enterprising German shoe manufacturer to startle Berlin with the unique truck pictured above. The body, well constructed of metal, formed a giant shoe with the manufacturer's name on the sides. The larger part of it is divided in compartments for storing shoes to be delivered. And the engine is confined within the toe space of the shoe.

SINGING SCHOOL CONCERT IS GRATIFYING SUCCESS

The singing school which had been taught by Prof. W. M. Devaughn at Concord Schoolhouse for the past month came to a close last Saturday night when a musical concert was presented by the pupils at the county high school building in Clanton. The program, which consisted of choruses, octets, quartets and short plays, lasted about two and a half hours, and all during the presentation the large gathering gave splendid attention, showing that they were enjoying the program.

After the program was about half over Prof. Devaughn called on Hon. J. O. Middleton who was in the audience and asked that he make a short talk. Mr. Middleton kindly came forward and spoke very interestingly for about five minutes. Mr. Middleton commended Prof. Devaughn and his class very highly for their good singing, and strikingly emphasized the prominent part which music and singing play in the religious, moral and civic side of human life. In his discourse Mr. Middleton said that Chilton County ranked high among her sister counties of the State in freedom from crime, and he attributed this fact largely to the proneness of our people toward Gospel music and singing.

Prof. Devaughn is certainly to be commended for the splendid work which he did in this singing school. Also the efforts of Prof. A. A. Beaird should not be overlooked either, because he helped wonderfully in making the school the gratifying success which it was.

The school wishes to publicly express its thanks to Prof. Stevens of the county high school for the use of the building for the concert, also to Mr. Renfro Jones of the Farmers Hardware Company for the use of his chairs for the seating of the class.

The proceeds of the concert amounted to about $64, half of which will go to Walnut Creek church and the other half to Concord schoolhouse.

COUNTY ONE-MILL TAX ELECTION CALLED

The Union-Banner is carrying this week a call for an election to determine whether or not the qualified voters of the county want to levy a tax of one mill on all taxable property of the county for public school purposes.

This election is not to levy an extra tax, but it is merely to renew the old one-mill tax which was voted by the people of the county some six or seven years ago, and which expired some time last year.

At this same time an election will be held in Districts 7 and 27 for the purpose of determining whether or not a tax of three mills will be levied on the taxable property of these Beats.

Both the above elections will be held simultaneously on the 15th day of September, 1925.

County Board Of Education Meeting

Notice is hereby given that the next meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education will be held on Friday, August 21. All parties wishing to bid for truck routes, or attend to any other business with said Board will be present on the above date.—County Superintendent of Education.

Deep Cuts to be Made In Army & Navy Fund

Coolidge Gives Approval To Budget Figures. Saving of Twenty Million Would Be Result.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug 10.—President Coolidge Monday gave his approval to a tentative federal budget for the coming year involving a saving of approximately $20,000,000.

The new budget was outlined to the executive by Gen. Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, who stopped off in Swampscott enroute to Maine, to lay before Mr. Coolidge his latest appropriation estimates.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 10.—Deep cuts in the army and navy appropriations for the coming year together with other substantial economies constitute the objective of Gen. Lord, director of the budget, who has just laid his program before President Coolidge.

This does not mean that the reductions in size or expenditure on the military and naval establishments are assured because the war and navy departments themselves still have an opportunity to debate the matter and urge a status quo, but it does mean that with presidential approval the burden of proof will be on the secretaries of war and navy.

Heretofore the heads of departments made up their estimates and submitted them in October to the chief executive for transmission to Congress. It was the congressional custom to pare down these estimates so department heads developed a habit of asking for more than they thought congress would grant, a habit which has not altogether been discarded now that the departments must first convince the budget bureau of the value of specific requests for appropriations.

Start Work Early.

Instead of waiting till October when all the departmental estimates have to be treated as one and there is so much work to be done that necessarily the figures can not be given the detailed consideration they deserve, the present plan is for the budget bureau to study future needs all the time. Thus Gen. Lord already is consulting President Coolidge on some of the most important items in the budget and upon the formal submission of estimates by the cabinet there will be much less work to do.

Gen Lord has a two-fold job. Not only must he pare down the estimates of the departments, but when once they become part of his budget he must defend them against congressional cheese-paring policies.

The director of the budget has become, therefore, more powerful than a cabinet officer and as for contact with the president, he is more frequently in conference or in communication with him by letter than is any other official in the whole governmental establishment. Gen. Lord is a man after President Coolidge's own heart.

There have been rumors lately that Gen. Lord had been made an attractive offer from the outside to take an important executive position. There is no question that men of Gen. Lord's ability are rare in governmental business, because they so quickly are gobbled up by big corporations and concerns who are constantly on the lookout for men of administrative capacity and penetrating judgment, especially on economies.

Dawes Held Job.

Yet the government can not afford to pay a director of the budget one-fifth as much as a private business can. Indeed, it is no exaggeration to say that some firms would pay Gen. Lord an annual salary as big as that of President Coolidge, namely $75,000 a year, believing that his ideas of economy would save his salary many times over in the affairs of a corporation dealing with millions of dollars a year.

Charles G. Dawes, the first director of the budget, took the position at a big sacrifice in time that might have been devoted to his private business. He picked Gen. Lord as his assistant and turned the job over with absolute confidence in the ability of his successor to swing it. Curiously enough the entire theme of the Coolidge administration has been economy and Gen. Lord has an extraordinary opportunity to drive through his recommendations. It probably marks a turning point in the history of government finance for the whole budget idea has depended on the moral support given it by the chief executive. For a time it was supposed that the budget bureau would be dwarfed by the secretary of the treasury and that cabinet officers having the ear of the president would override the budget director's recommendations but it has turned out the other way. The budget director has seemed to have as much influence in the situation as the president himself and if anything he comes closer to being an assistant president than any other official in the whole government. His word in nine cases out of ten carries as against departmental recommendations, and usually because he has a sound argument and facts to back up his case and can bring to bear on each problem the relative value of an appropriation in one department as against an item in another so as to make the whole come within the budget.

CLANTON TO HAVE REAL 5C AND 10C STORE

Mr. V. J. Elmore Will Open Up First Class Variety Store About October 1.

Remodeling and repairing is being done this week on the old Connell Grocery Store building on Main Street getting it in shape for an up-to-the minute 5c and 10c store, which will be ready for business about the first of October. Mr. V. J. Elmore will be in charge of this new business, which is one of a chain of over 800 similar stores in the different small cities of the country. This new store will be affiliated with the Consolidated Merchants Syndicate, Inc., and will present a distinct credit to our little city.

Mr. Elmore is having the old Connell building fixed up in spic-and-span fashion for this new store, and it is going to be one of the prettiest places in Clanton. Large plate glass show windows and mirrors will adorn the entire front of the building, and new and novel show cases and counters will be artistically arranged inside. In the rear of the building Mr. Elmore is having built an assembly room through which all his goods will pass for checking purposes before being placed on the sale counters. The arrangement is a complete one in every sense of the word, and it is going to be very pleasing to the eye when it is completed.

Mr. Elmore leaves for New York some time this week to complete his arrangements with Consolidated Merchants Syndicate and make the final arrangements for the shipping of his goods.

This new store will be different from anything we have ever had in Clanton. The business will be operated on a basis similar to that of Kress and Woolworth in the big cities, and will be the only store of its kind between Montgomery and Birmingham.

MR. BRYANT McKEE DEAD

Mr. Bryant McKee, age 70 years, died at Marbury last Saturday morning. The body was brought to Clanton Sunday morning by undertaker Martin and interment made in the Samaria cemetery. Rev. J. D. Hughes officiated, assisted by Rev. B. Lawrence. Mr. McKee is survived by his wife, three sons and seven daughters. The sons are J. E. McKee of Brimingham, G. O., and E. M. McKee of Montgomery. The daughters are Mrs. Ed Dennis, Mrs. J. N. Roper of Marbury, Mrs. A. J. Devaughn of New Castle, Ala., Miss Ila McKee of Birmingham, Mrs. J. M. Parrish of Verbena, Miss Mattie McKee of Marbury, and Mrs. Edwin Clapp of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. McKee was an old citizen of Chilton County, he having spent his boyhood days here as well as a major part of his active life. He lived in Clanton where he engaged in business for a number of years, moving away from here some four or five years ago. Mr. McKee has countless friends in Chilton County, who will learn of his death with much regret.

K. M. Vinson, W. M. Wyatt, Pat Harton, and their families are on the river this week fishing. They are camping on Walnut Creek near the river.

The annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventist Conference of Alabama will convene in Clanton, August 20, continuing for ten days. For several days the beautiful oak grove just north of the city has been a scene of active preparation for this meeting. Several large tents have been erected for use of public services and about 50 family tents are ready for the accomodation of the delegates who will come from all parts of Alabama.

The business sessions of the Conference will be held in connection with this meeting, at which time the Conference officers will be chosen for the coming year.

The program which has been arranged for the meetings provide for religious services beginning with devotional meetings at 6 o'clock in the morning, and continuing throughout the day, with Bible study at 9:30, and preaching services at 11 o'clock, and again at 7:30 at night. Special meetings under the direction of W. P. Bradley, Missionary Volunteer Secretary of the Southern Union Conference, will be conducted for the young people at the early morning hour, and also at 5 o'clock in the afternoons. The afternoons will be devoted to Conference work and study of the various departments of the church activities.

Elder C. B. Stephenson, President of the Alabama Conference, will be in direct charge of the meeting, and he announces that a number of prominent ministers of the denomination will be in attendance. Among these will be Elder C. P. Bollman, of Washington, D. C., and Elder H. M. Sparrow, who has recently returned from the foreign mission field.

Representatives from the Southern Union Conference will be Elder G. W. Wells, President; Elder O. F. Frank, Home Missionary Secretary; and F. W. Schnebl, Field Secretary, and they will render strong service throughout the meeting.

In addition to Elder Stephenson of the local conference, there will be present, Mr. J. F. Ashlock, Field Missionary Secretary; and, Elder K. R. Haughey, Home Missionary Secretary; besides a number of pastors of the churches in Alabama.

In a visit to the well ordered and neatly arranged camp, one sees evidences of great care and thoroughness in providing for the comfort and conveniences of the campers. Electric lights, and an abundant supply of water have been provided, and all sanitary arrangements made for the health of those in attendance.

An interesting feature of the camp will be the book tent, in charge of C. O. Franz Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama Conference, and Book and Bible house. A varied supply of general religious literature, as well as a full display of Bibles, will be found at this tent.

The music for the meeting will be in charge of Elder J. G. Mitchell, pastor of the Mobile church. The Jesse French Piano Company have recently established a sales room in Clanton, and have kindly furnished a piano for the main pavilion.

The headquarters for the Alabama Conference are located here in Clanton, with office at 502 Second Avenue, South. President Stephenson, together with his associate workers in the Conference office wish to extend to their friends of Clanton and vicinity, a cordial invitation to attend these services, and become acquainted with the delegates from over the Conference, and share with them in the rich spiritual blessings which the Lord bestows upon His people when met together in holy convocation.

L. B. PATTERSON KILLED AT CHEROKEE BLUFFS

L. B. Patterson, son of John W. Patterson, was accidentally killed at Cherokee Bluffs on Monday, when a large rock boulder weighing about 6 tons fell on him. The heavy rock crushed the young man's body so severely that death followed.

The accident occurred about 9:00 o'clock Monday morning and Mr. Patterson died about 5:00 p.m. the same day.

It is said that workmen were attempting to move the big rock by means of a hoist, and when they got it in motion the hold broke, allowing the rock to tumble down the hill. It crushed into a pump house where Mr. Patterson was working.

The young man is survived by his wife and one child, his father and mother and several brothers and sisters.

He was buried at Poplar Springs Wednesday afternoon.

Democrats Will Make Tariff Their Big Issue

Leaders Will Make Their Bid For Support To The West Instead of East.

Washington, Aug. 10.—A difference of opinion about principle and of view about strategy among democratic leaders has dissolved to a point where there is a definitely preponderant sentiment in favor of one course. The result is a practical certainey that the democrats will put forward tariff revision as an issue in the coming congress, and in the senatorial and congressional elections immediately following.

In the difference between the two groups of leaders, both of course took the South for granted as democratic. The democrats can win with the East plus the South, or the South plus the West. The question was whether the party should aim for the East or for the West.

Those who favored trying to carry the East favored also necessarily making the Volstead Act the issue, or at least toward making what one may describe as the "less dry" position. They pointed out, and most persons agreed, that New York, New England and New Jersey are "wet" and that only a platform and candidates satisfactory to the "wets" can carry them.

It was equally agreed, however, that if the democrats should make their appeal to the East, they would be obliged to ignore the tariff issue.

The New England democrats, who are the workers and small business men in the textile manufacturing districts, are frequently as favorable to the protective tariff as the republican mill-owners. Partly because of this, the notion of aiming mainly at the East is practically abandoned. To be "wet" and to be for a high tariff merely in order to appeal to a section, was too much sacrifice of principle, and seemed on the whole less promising strategically than the western plan.

The coming program of the democratic party will be sympathetic to prohibition and in favor of tariff revision. It will rest on identity of interest and union of forces between the South and the West.

The program will make the tariff the issue and appeal to the West on it. The leaders who advocate this course say they can readily win with the South plus the West. They point out that Wilson won in 1916 though he lost all the East, carrying no state east of Ohio or north of Maryland.

Western democratic leaders are emphatic in their description of the sentiment in their section against the republican high tariff, and strong in their conviction they can carry most of the West on that issue. They claim that the protective tariff as a republican principle has become weaker and narrower in its appeal than the republican leaders realize. They assert it is now chiefly New England and some spots elsewhere that regard the high tariff as indispensable.

They point out that great areas of manufacturing in the West and Middlewest, employing millions of voters, are not interested in a high tariff, but would actually prefer a low one. The automobile industry, they say, is subject to no foreign competition on what they sell, but is compelled by the tariff to pay higher prices for what they buy. The same is true of the manufacturers of farm implements. These two contribute the bulk of manufacturing in the Middlewest.

Democratic leaders claim further that even the railroads would be benefited by a lower tariff. As for the farmer, these western democratic leaders prescribe him as disillusioned by the high tariff, and about what the democrats describe as the identity between the republican party and big business.

All this composes the crystallization of policy among the ablest of the democratic leaders and the ones who make up the preponderance of sentiment in the party's hierarchy.

It will be followed almost certainly. It will result in some discouragement among democratic leaders in the East but it will be followed anyhow. The position of the Eastern leaders will be understood and they will not be expected to be as successful as they otherwise might.

At the same time, however, it is thought that even in the East many congressional districts, especially in farming districts, can be carried on the low tariff issue.

This program as a whole would seem to foreshadow some interesting results. Superficially it would seem like conceding the senatorial election in Massachusetts next year to the republicans.

Butler, both as senator and as a textile manufacturer, is a symbol of the protective tariff. According to the reasoning of democratic leaders themselves, they can not count on carrying Massachusetts on a tariff revision issue. It must have been, and will yet be, a temptation to the democrats so to frame their issues and the campaign as to give them a chance to beat so conspicuous an official republican as Sen. Butler.

At the same time measured in terms of control of the senate, Butler has but one vote; and the democrats claim they can win more senatorial seats in the West and border states by emphasizing the low tariff position.

MRS. T. J. LITTLEJOHN DIED LAST THURSDAY

After an illness of several months Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn, wife of Sheriff Littlejohn, died on last Thursday morning.

Early last spring Mrs. Littlejohn was sick with flu, from which she never completely recovered. Complications set up which grew worse and worse as the weeks passed.

For several weeks she was in the hospital here, and later went to the home of her father, Mr. Bud Dobbs, near Shiloh, in the hope that the quiet and rest which she might find there would bring her back to health.

Death came at an early hour last Thursday morning to bring her sweet relief and to bear her noble spirit to that heavenly home not made with hands.

Mrs. Littlejohn is survivied by her husband and two daughters.

The funeral was held at Highland church Friday morning, conducted by Rev. C. C. Wilkerson.

In the death of this woman Clanton has lost one of the noblest characters ever known. She was a good Christian woman, kind, noble, and cheerful, always winning her way into the hearts of her acquaintances by her smiles and kindly ways. The hundreds of friends whom she had won are now sad because of her departure.

VALUE OF VETCH IS NOW IN EVIDENCE

The value of hairy vetch as a soil building crop is now in evidence on hundreds of farms throughout Alabama. Reports from county demonstration agents show that despite a very unfavorable season last fall, winter, and spring, the crop has again demonstrated its value by causing very large increases in the yield of corn, cotton, and other crops which were planted after it was turned under last spring.

These reports come from counties in every section of the state. In the Tennessee Valley the yield of corn following vetch in demonstrations is easily double what it is on identical land where no vetch was turned under. The same is true of truck crops in the Gulf Coast section. In central and south Alabama where cotton followed vetch excellent yields are expected.

In connection with hairy vetch the county agents are insisting that the curse of Alabama agriculture is poor soils, and that the soils of this State are poor because they are lacking in sufficient available phosphorus, nitrogen, and organic matter. Hairy vetch adds nitrogen and organic matter, which are two of the most expensive needs.

Present indications are that the acreage in hairy vetch this fall will be the largest on record. Announcement is made from the State Farm Bureau headquarters at Montgomery that this oganization can deliver the seed to members in any county at 10c per pound. This is two to three cents under the price of 1924 which was decidedly the lowest since hairy vetch has been grown on a large scale in Alabama.

For several weeks Frank Boyd, Extension agronomist, has been delivering illustrated lectures, showing the value of hairy vetch and explaining how to grow it. He has a slogan "A sack of vetch seed for each farmer and a carload of seed for each county." If this is done he insists that Alabama farmers will be far on the way to rich land, which every good farmer wants.

SHAW BROTHERS NOW OWN THE WADE GIN

Shaw Brothers, who have been running a gin at Jemison for the past ten years, are now the sole owners of the Wade gin in Clanton. Mr. Shaw says they have completely overhauled the plant, putting in new saws and brushes, and they are ready to put out the best service to the farmers.

The Shaws are experienced gin operators and those who patronize this gin in Clanton can be assured of getting high class service.

The Shaws will continue to operate their gin at Jemison.

A New Wrinkle For Milady's Stocking - - Support

IT keeps a man broke footing the bills to have his wife keep pace with all the new fads that designers are constantly flooding the market with. If it isn't some new fangled gown, or new trick hat, or spider-web hosiery, it's some new creation in—er—er—garters!

On Miss Mahoney's right ankle is also shown a new ankle bracelet. Just what that is for—is hard to say. Verily, a woman's ways are queer.

OAK GROVE

Foshee took charge and finished the school and conducted the concert. We have had one of the best schools in the history of this place; all the patrons and students are very well pleased. We had 63 pupils.

Mr. Robinson promises that if he teaches at all next year, he will give us a chance. We all want him again. —W. J. Northcutt.

WEST CHILTON

Had a fine rain Sunday, the best this section has had since early in May.

Mrs. Isaac Waldrop is quite feeble and has been for a long time.

Miss Dora Armstrong of Birmingham came down recently for a visit. She was formerly a resident of Randolph.

Revival meeting at Randolph this week.

Oscar Waldrop of Herrin, Ill., is visiting his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Waldrop. He came through in his new Hudson, bringing with him some watermelons from Missouri.

Mrs. Belle Smith and children left on a visit to Birmingham Thursday.

Mr. Willie Honeycutt of Birmingham has been on an extended visit here.

Rev. Bailey of Minooka was here Saturday.

Mrs. Martin of Oak Grove was her Saturday looking after the W. M. U. Society.

Rev. S. N. Waldrop and daughter, Mrs. Cleveland of Robertsdale, came on a visit Saturday.

The writer had an enjoyable visit from our old friend Mr. John T. Weeks of Prattville some few days ago. Mr. Weeks was formerly a resident of Randolph.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard of Jemison was in the meeting at Macedonia a few days last week. No citizen of our county stands fairer than Mr. Hubbard.

A truck load of people left here Saturday morning for the swimming pool at Helena, taking in Siluria, also. They were caught in the storm late in the afternoon.

Rev. Carpenter of Cox, and Rev. Freeman of Wilton delivered one sermon each at Macedonia last week.

A noted bathing resort is established near Isaac Waldrop's residence, east of the Southern railroad. Visitors in great numbers go there.

Mr. M. T. Cox of Cox's Chapel was in the meeting some at Macedonia. He is one of the finest men we ever knew. No followers of the sainted John Wesley ever impressed us more than Mr. Cox. Though bowed with age his prayers are as eloquent as ever. May his shadow never grow less.

Several members were added at the Pleasant Grove meeting, Rev. Dykes in charge. That church in her early history was noted for great piety and humility, and was founded back in the 70's by R. M. Honeycutt.

We learn that Rev. Bailey will hold a meeting at Mars Hill in the near future.

Mr. Charlie Langston's son from Kilgore visited here last week.

Restlessness now goes everywhere. How much better if people would be contented and keep busy instead of strenuously seeking for happiness and never finding it.

The Southern Baptist Convention said our morals were on a retrograde. That is a dark picture, but our opinion is that the remedy must be formed in the home.

The passing of the "great commoner," Mr. Bryan, as well as evolution, is much talked of. He came into the limelight when the South was going through one of the worst panics of her history, due, no doubt to the low tariff then existing. His last battle was against evolution. The inconsistencies of the Evolution Theory was being portrayed more than a quarter of a century ago by the world renowned Charles Taze Russell, whose literary works have covered the earth.

Mr. R. L. Primm brought in a specimen of cotton of which he has several plants among his ordinary planting, and asked if we knew what it was. We did not, but found a Mr. Heflin in town who says he has a lot of it among his cotton, and classifies it as "Dixie." He also says that when grown under favorable conditions it is a good sort to grow, but the sample we had appeared to be stunted.

We had another look-in at Thorsby's new public school building on Tuesday morning and found it a busy place indeed, although there is still so much to be done to prepare the building for opening the school, that it is found necessary to postpone that event one week, making it August 24 instead of the 17th. Work is now being rushed on the auditorium and the opera chairs for seating it are on the way according to Mayor Cleckler, who gave us considerable information.

Prof. Willie Bean, at one time Chilton County Superintendent of Education, and an experienced teacher, has been employed as principal. Mr. C. S. Miss Stewart, who was a member of the faculty last year will be with us again and the Misses McNeill of Jemison, well known teachers, complete the personnelle of the faculty.

Thursday, August 20th has been designated as "Clean Up Day" when all patrons and those citizens of Thorsby interested in the school which should be an object of pride to us all, are invited to assemble at the grounds to cut weeds, clear up all rubbish and do some grading which will require a team and scraper, and put the spaceous grounds in the best shape possible for a beginning of their use. There will also be plenty of work to do inside the building to make it spick and span like any new home.

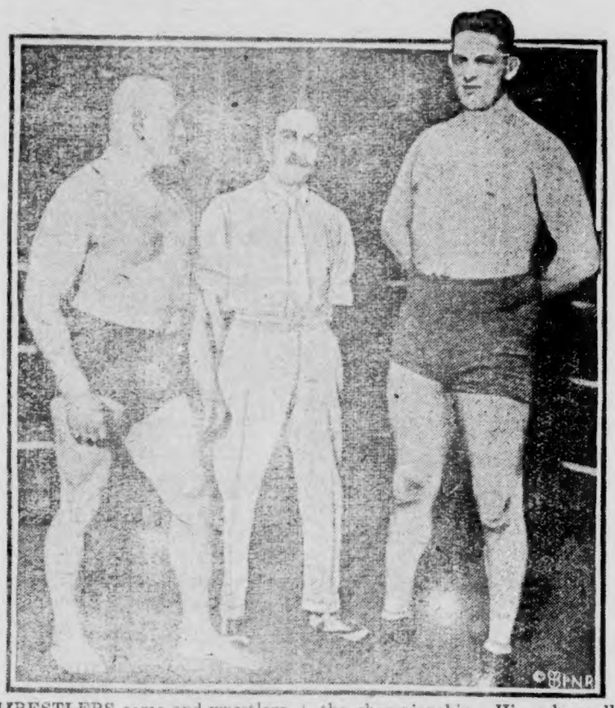
Father Time Can't Pin His Shoulders To The Mat!



WRESTLERS come and wrestlers go—but it looks like old Stanislaus Zbyszko is going on forever. Out of the tangled mess that now involves the heavyweight championship, with claims to the title being filed by half a dozen different athletes—the story of Zbyszko's career in the ring is like a breath of fresh air. Inspiring. Remarkable.

Although more than 50 years of age, the veteran Pole's great physique and strength is nothing short of phenomenal. He has tackled and defeated the youngest, the strongest and the heaviest of mat experts and come within just one rung of the championship. His only really decisive defeat in his mat career was at the hands of Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, generally recognized as the present titleholder.

TOM GLASS ARRESTED ON WHISKEY CHARGE

Last Sunday morning Sheriff Littlejohn went up to Jemison to look after a matter under investigation, and as he was scouting around he saw some suspicious looking actions besides what he was there to investigate. As he drove up the road he saw two cars drive out to the side of the highway and stop. He went on past them and turned around. As he came back to where the cars were stopped, he saw two men, one of whom was engaged in transferring whiskey from a jug to a bottle. This man proved to be Mr. Tom Glass, whom the Sheriff arrested. Glass later made bond. The car which Glass had was taken in charge by the Sheriff.

MAPLESVILLE DOTS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your interesting paper to say a few words in regard to this place.

Health conditions here are fine at present, and we are not regretting it a bit.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Culp from Selma motored up to Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Seals' last Sunday and spent the day.

Our services here at the Baptist church both morning and evening of last Sunday were enjoyed by a very large attendance, which we are indeed proud to state. Here's hopes we will have a larger attendance next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mayford from North Alabama have moved to this place, and we extend to them a hearty welcome.

One of Chilton County's best citizens, Mr. L. B. Broadhead, spent last week in Birmingham, Detroit, and parts of Canada.

Mrs. Maelean McCary, the 15 year old wife of Mr. S. D. McCary, is the proud mother of an 11-pound girl, which the stork brought in on last week end.

Miss Wilhelma Fox from Rockford is now visiting relatives at this place.

We understand that Mr. W. O. King and family are planning to move to Pletcher, Ala., in the near future, and we regret very much to see them leave.

Long live The Banner.

That critic who says that America has no genius for music is not talking about chin music. We've got thousands of artists in this line.

Europe has agreed to pay its debt to Uncle Sam with the provision that Uncle Sam lend them more than enough to pay it with. We would like to trade that way, too.

Had you ever thought of this? If the surface of the earth were made perfectly level the whole world would be covered with water a mile and a half deep. Well, it is a fact and you can figure it yourself.

You've heard of the "steam roller." Well, Clanton has got a real one; but it is used only to take the kinks from the surface of the streets. We ought to provide for a return engagement of this machine when politics open up.

Since the death of William Jennings Bryan, it has been truthfully said that "he was preeminently the greatest campaigner America has ever known and brought to the political hustings a force and fire that eclipsed the flights of Henry Clay; and behind a golden eloquence that would have glorified the giants of ancient Greece was a life as stainless as an angel's dream."

"What we need in this State is more co-operation on the part of our citizens for the enforcement of law. If all of our people would quit purchasing liquor from these poor, ignorant mountaineers, they would not then be encouraged to make it."—Governor Brandon. To the above statement The Union-Banner wishes repeatedly to say amen. So long as our "good" citizens will pay $4.00 a quart for "moonshine" whiskey, some poor hillbilly with a dwarfed respect for law will continue to make it. If he had no market for his wares he would quit making whiskey and go to doing something else. The "good" citizen who buys the stuff is as much a law-violator as the poor simp who makes and sells it.

FORESTRY LETTER

Drought can kill trees in the same way that it does other plants, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The effects in this connection are not as quickly apparent as in the case of shortlived plants, but are readily distinguishable during a long drought or a succession of droughts.

Many plants have protective devices to prevent the too rapid evaporation of water from the foliage, such as hairy surfaces or the presence of wax over the leaves. These special adaptations often vary according to the season of the year and the locality in which the plants are growing. Desert plants, in particular, have such arrangements developed to a high degree of perfection. Few Southern forest trees, however, are well equipped to protect themselves in this manner, since under normal conditions there is sufficient soil moisture to permit of practically year long evaporation from the leaves without too great a drain upon the tree.

In Alabama the long dry period of last summer and fall was followed after a brief winter intermission by another severe drought during the recent spring and early summer. In many parts of the state young pines have suffered severely and a material percentage of mortality has occurred that can be attributed to no other cause than a lack of soil moisture.

Had the drought of last year not been accompanied or followed by extensive forest fires, the surface mulch would have been preserved and the precipitation falling during the winter would have remained in the soil instead of rapidly running off. If the soil could have absorbed and retained the winter rains a great deal of ground moisture would have been available during the spring drought, and not only the forest growth but also the agricultural crops would have fared much better.

Rose to the Occasion, Anyway.—A riverside village boasted a post on which was marked a line showing the height to which the river had risen during the time of a serious flood.

"Do you mean to say that the river reached this height five years ago?" asked the astonished visitor.

"Not exactly, sir," replied the villager, "but the children were so fond of rubbin' out the first mark that the Council had to put it a bit higher so as to be out of their reach."—Epworth Herald.

GOVERNOR BRANDON DEFENDS HIS PARDON POLICY

Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1925.

Mr. Editor:

There has been much criticism of our good Governor Brandon about the number of convicts he paroles. One of these criticisms from a good man reached me and I submitted it to the Governor. In his reply to me he makes his position so clear and praiseworthy, I asked his permission to broadcast it through the press.

This he cheerfully agreed to do and I submit it to you. It is a matter of wide-spread interest. I think the people ought to be informed about it. Will you kindly aid in giving it publicity? I will be grateful if you will and it will be pleasing, I am sure, to your readers.

The Governor's policy is so hedged about and discriminatingly administered only good can come from it.

The plea for co-operation in administering the law will meet with a ready response from every good citizen.

Thanking you in advance for the use of your column, I am,

Your fellow citizen,
W. B. CRUMPTON.

Gov. Brandon's Letter.

State of Alabama,
Executive Department.
Montgomery, Ala., July 24, 1925.

(Personal)
Dr. W. B. Crumpton,
127 S. Court St.,
Montgomery, Ala.

My dear Doctor:

I am in receipt this morning of the letter which you so kindly sent me, addressed to you and signed by a Pastor of one of your churches. I appreciate the interest which you take in me and my administration by sending me the letter and for your information I beg to say that in my opinion, the system which I have used in paroling convicts has done more to reform erstwhile law violators than any other method.

First, let me say that the parole is only issued to a man after he has served a part of his sentence and only gives him an opportunity for reformation. Unlike a pardon, the parole is issued during good behavior and in every instance where the man violates his parole and misbehaves or shows a disposition to violate the law, he is returned to prison and required to serve out his full term. I do not recall an instance where I have paroled a violator that was not recommended by the Trial Judge, the Solicitor and the Board of Pardons, besides the leading citizens in the community.

If you could be in my office and see the numbers of women and children in absolute want, who are objects of chafity, appealing for their husbands and fathers, your heart would be touched, and it is gratifying for me to report that literally scores of men, under this system, with the parole hanging over them, who have returned to their homes, have their children in school, are supporting their families and are crusaders for law enforcement. There are instances where some men have not lived up to the parole and I have instantly revoked the parole.

In my opinion, as the facts will demonstrate, this system of paroling has returned many former law breakers back to their families and is making out of them law-abiding citizens. It is my purpose, as far as I can, to reform these poor unfortunates and give them an opportunity in life to reclaim themselves.

The spirit of our churches is that no matter how steeped in sin a man has been, if he is truly penitent, they extend a helping hand to restore him and show a forgiving spirit. The parole gives him an opportunity to reform.

It has been the source of gratification to me to visit the homes of many whom I have paroled and find them law-abiding, and in many instances, Christian citizens, because they have been given a chance. The parole is held over them in case they wander from the path of rectitude and right.

No doubt our friend thinks the parole is a pardon and is under the impression that no restraint is over the paroled man and that he is paroled on the plea of law violators and those not interested in law enforcement, but it might be interesting to you to know that there is hardly a day that ministers of the Gospel, of every creed and faith, are not in my office appealing to me to give these poor unfortunate men a chance by trying them out under the parole system. In order that you may know that I am keeping up with these men, I have issued an order to my Law Enforcement Constabulary to report to me the conduct of every paroled prisoner in every county in Alabama. I have furnished to them a list of these paroled prisoners and I am receiving reports as to their conduct. Where they are not being reformed and are violating their paroles, I immediately revoke the parole, return the convict to prison and require him to serve out his full time.

I would like to have an opportunity to show to you some of the homes of these paroled men, that was a den of iniquity, and now a home of peace, quietude and happiness. I consider the outstanding feature of my administration has been the reformation of many men who were handling liquor, and who have gone back home, under the parole system, reformed men, cooperating with those who are determined to enforce the law.

I have not only paroled men for violating the prohibition law, but for many other offenses. It might be interesting to you to know that in my efforts to enforce the law during my administration, Chief McAdory and his force have arrested, convicted and broken up more stills, "blind tigers," etc., than ever in the history of the commonwealth. We are using every agency possible to enforce the law, and when we can reform a man by giving him a chance and sending him back home to his family a reformed man, holding the parole over him in order to accomplish this, I think we are doing much for the purification of our country, the betterment of our citizenship and the enforcement of our laws.

If our friend, or any other person, will indicate to me any individual whom I have paroled, who is not living a clean, upright life, he will be immediately returned to prison to serve out the remainder of his term, upon the proper evidence, of course. It seems to me that this answers the question as to whether or not the system I am using is conducive to law enforcement.

I can show you file upon file of applications for paroles that are signed by ministers, as stated above, and I am besieged every week by the best men of the community, to parole prisoners whose families are almost destitute.

Taking into consideration the fact that this administration is handling more convicts, due to the strict enforcement of the law, and that every application for parole is endorsed by good citizens, trial judges, solicitors and the Board of Pardons, do you not think that every inducement should be offered a man to reform, save his family and his soul? If my theory is not correct, then my religious training has been of no avail—because a man has sinned is no reason that he can

FIRST BALE OF COTTON HERE LAST THURSDAY

Charley Baker continued to add to his record last Thursday when he brought the first bale of this year's cotton to the Clanton market.

It was ginned by Joe Maddox and sold at auction by W. W. Fox. Bud Alred bought the bale at the price of 30 cents per pound.

Shaw Brothers ginned the second bale Saturday, which was brought in by a negro named Burns.

not be forgiven, reform his life and make a good citizen. I am determined to enforce the law, but in its enforcement, I do not think that penal servitude is for punishment alone, but is intended to reform the man and to deter others from committing crimes.

I have written you this long letter because I know that you are interested in me and my administration and I believe that you know my heart and that my efforts are to rigidly enforce the law and drive out those things that tend to break down our civilization, our homes and our churches, as well as our communities. You are my neighbor—I have known you all my life—the record is being made to be read of all men and I think that at the close of my administration I will be able to demonstrate that under the parole system I have done more to give respect to law, enforcement of law and reformation of some of our citizens by the parole system, than by any other method I could have used. When a man goes out after having served his full term, there is no inducement for him, so far as punishment is concerned, to be reformed. If, however, he has served all of his term, except a few months or weeks, and that still hangs over him, and he goes out with the sympathy of the officials, in nine cases out of ten, because of that parole hanging over him and the danger of having to serve out the rest of his term, he turns about and forms habits that eventually develop him into a good citizen. If this is wrong, then I am guilty, but as long as I can reach down and help a poor fellow to a better life and better citizenship, it is my intention to do so.

What we need in this State is more co-operation on the part of our citizens for the enforcement of law. If all of our people would quit purchasing liquor from these poor, ignorant mountaineers, they would not then encourage them to make it, there would be fewer paroles for the Governor to issue. What we need is a sentiment among respectable people to frown upon the purchase of prohibited liquors and not create a market to encourage the sale thereof.

Knowing you as I do, I am submitting these views that you may know the motive that actuates me in my humble efforts to bring our commonwealth to the place it should occupy.

At some time, when it is most convenient to you, I would like to go over this subject with you because with the co-operation of such good men as you, I believe, that under this system, we can gradually bring about conditions we earnestly desire.

With great respect, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Wm. W. Brandon,
Governor.

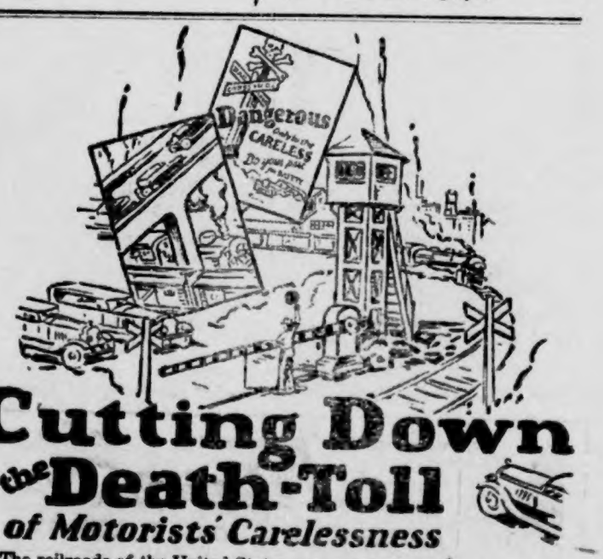
BANKER'S WIFE ADVISES CLANTON PEOPLE

"I had stomach trouble so bad everything I ate soured and formed gas. Was miserable until I tried Adlerika. This helped the first day." Because Adlerika is such an excellent intestinal evacuant it is wonderful for constipation—it often works in one hour and never gripes.



Cutting Down the Death-Toll of Motorists' Carelessness

The railroads of the United States are constantly and effectively striving to save human life and prevent accidents where their right-of-way crosses public highways. Warning bells, cross-gates, flash signals, and numerous printed and painted warnings admonish the motorist not to take chances.

That this work has been effective is evidenced by the fact that during the year 1924 one hundred and nineteen less deaths were caused by grade-crossing accidents than in the year 1923; and that an even better record is being made for 1925, as shown by the fact during the first half of the year seventy-two less deaths occured than during a similar period in 1924.

The railroads can't do it all. You must do your share for safety. There is no better advice that can be given you than the three words so universally used—"Stop, Look and Listen" when you approach a railroad track. Remember that accidents occur when you are trespassing on the railroads' right-of-way, that the train cannot leave the tracks, and that if it were necessary for trains to stop at every grade crossing it would play havoc with America's unexcelled transportation system. The motorist should come to a dead stop and look both ways.

American railroads are building under-passes and overhead bridges as rapidly as their capital will permit. In the meantime, do your part for safety.

POOR OR

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

Frequent Bilious Attacks

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month," says Mr. J. P. Nevins, of Lawrenceburg, Ky. "I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief.

"A neighbor told me of

BLACK-DRAUGHT

and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and made me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep, and could do twice the work."

Bilious attacks are "seasonal" with many people. Millions have taken Thedford's Black-Draught to ward off such attacks, and the good results they have reported should induce you to try it.

W. M. DEVAUGHN NOW WITH JESSE FRENCH & SONS

The many friends of Mr. W. M. Devaughn as well as those of the Jesse French Piano Co., will be proud to learn that Mr. Devaughn is now working for that company as salesman. Inasmuch as Mr. Devaughn has for the past several years been intimately connected with the music interests of the county as singing teacher, the game of selling pianos will not be an altogether new one for him.

Mr. Devaughn and the local Jesse French officials extend an invitation to his friends to come to see him at their music store on Seventh Street, Clanton.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Resolved, 1st: That this convention most heartily expresses its appreciation of the hospitality of Thorsby Lodge No. 759 for the manner in which it has cared for the visitors to this convention.

2nd: That we express to the various members who attended this convention thanks for their time and attention in perfecting themselves in the work.

3rd: That we thank Bro. J. B. Atkinson, district lecturer, most heartily for his painstaking and earnest work of instruction in the Masonic degrees. He has been faithful and untiring, and through his efforts much for the good of Masonry has been accomplished.

4th: That we are most appreciative of the courtesies extended on Thursday evening by the ladies of the Eastern Star, and for the tempting refreshments served.

5th: That we thank the officers of the conference for the dispatch with which they handled the business of the conference.

6th: That we urge those who have attended this conference to carry back to their lodges the information they have gained in this conference, so that the good effect will not be lost.

7th: That in carrying back to the various lodges the instruction gained in the work, let none lose track of the tenets of the order, that while we may learn that in obeying the principles of Free Masonry while traveling through this vale of tears, each Mason may be laying up in his heart the true teachings of Masonry as living stones for the spiritual building, that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.

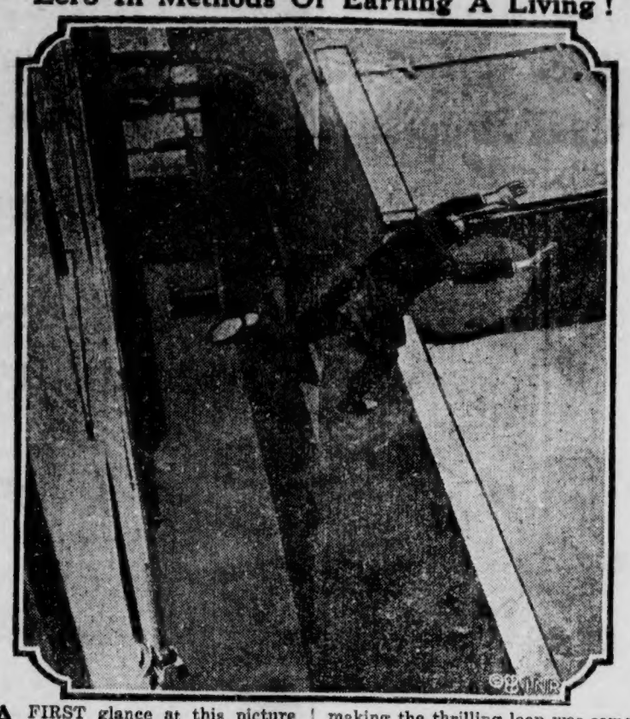
Zero In Methods Of Earning A Living!



A FIRST glance at this picture would indicate that it's one of a man doing his darndest to break his neck. But that fellow with the camera in the window below at the left—gives the story away.

The photo shows Frank Gish—known as the Hungarian "Douglas Fairbanks"—making a daring leap from a window on the sixth floor of a Broadway building to the roof of a near-by building, several stories below. The areaway he cleared in making the thrilling leap was some twenty-five feet wide. It was a stunt that fairly took the breath away from those who watched the performance.

Gish is soon to make his debut in American films and this jump was merely one of the many hazardous stunts he has undertaken to keep in trim. He can do it—if he wants to. Most everybody else will just about agree that his job is—"zero in methods of earning a living!"

CLANTON LOSES ANOTHER PAIR

Clanton lost a very loosely played game to Siluria on the local field last Thursday, 14-12. The Clanton team as well as most of the fans, was expecting only a nice workout, batting practice, and a foot race. They got all three, but the boot was on the wrong foot. Siluria took the batting practice and foot race, and Clanton fielders got the workout in running down the long hits from Siluria bats. During one inning the Siluria team got 9 scores, nearly all of which were made from hits. "Goat" Edwards got two home runs over the centerfield fence. Jack Hayes got a long triple with 3 men on base, for the locals. None of the Clanton pitchers seemed able to spike Siluria's guns until Webb Parrish took the mound, and although a bit wild, did not allow a score in three innings.

On Saturday Clanton went down to Tallassee and lost another slugfest to the tune of 14-8.

Clanton will play but a very few more games, as our Thursday afternoon half-holiday is good for only two more weeks. Besides, some of the boys will be making preparations for entering upon the new school year.

FORD NEWS

During the month just ended, the Ford Motor Company did a remarkable July business in every division, it was announced at the Highland Park General offices. Domestic sales of Ford cars and trucks totalled 167,626 in July, exceeding by 6,182 those of a year ago. Sales of Fordson tractors were more than 3,300 greater than last year, and 207 more Lincoln cars were delivered to customers during the month than in the previous July.

On the basis of Branch reports received early in July, the company anticipated an increased volume of business and while it predicted that summer buying would rise to a higher level than usual, the demand for all Ford products during the month exceeded expectations.

The outlook is for increasing business in August.

One of the chief indications of this appears in agricultural sections of the country where farmers are coming into the market in rapidly growing numbers. Evidence of this is found in the remarkable sales of Fordson tractors during July.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTION

We find that during the past year the Masonic Fraternity has lost by death, four Masons: Brethren J. H. Patton, W. R. Dawson, of Jemison Lodge No. 411; and Elijah Burnett and S. M. McCary, of Thorsby Lodge No. 759.

Resolved, 1st: That in the loss of Brethren J. D. Patten and W. R. Dawson, Jemison Lodge No. 411, has been deprived of two of her pioneer members, each of these Masons being more than 75 years old, and had been faithful members of the Masonic Fraternity for more than fifty years.

Resolved, 2nd: We deeply regret the passing away of these faithful landmarks. In this day and time we need the advice of those whose experience, age and knowledge is well worth heeding. But we are forcibly reminded of the old adage, "Old men for counsel, young men for war." Then again, we recall the truth in God's word trat states, "Though dead, yet he liveth."

Resolved, 3rd: That we, as Masons, express our sincere sympathy to Thorsby Lodge No. 759, in the removal by Providence of Brethren Elijah Burnett and S. M. McCary.

Resolved, 4th: That, while these two Brethren had just passed the fiftieth mile post, we are more than pleased to know that they had been true to their fellow man, their country and their God.

The Proper End of a Caddy

In a southern town is a lady, socially prominent, who enjoys the reputation of being a modern Mrs. Malaprop. She is credited with having said once that she intended to hire a local clay modeler to make a bust of her hand. On another occasion, referring to a trip she had taken in an airplane, she said that she certainly was glad when the machine descended and she set foot once more on terra cotta. The latest speech attributed to her had to do with the ancient game of Scotia.

"I've often thought," she said to a friend, "that I'd like to take up golf, but somehow I have never gotten 'round to it; and, besides, I don't understand the first thing about playing it. Why if I wanted to hit the ball I wouldn't know which end of the caddy to take hold of."

A Passion for Statistics

Down in the foothills of the Tennessee mountains there once resided a gentleman whose claims to distinction lay in three things—his appetite, his capacity and his digestion. He played no favorites in the food line—he could eat anything that was edible and in incredible quantities. But if he liked one thing a little better than anything else that thing was the canned oyster of commerce—the kind that used to be packed in a circular can with a bull's head on the label and which was customarily anointed with pepper sauce before being consumed.

In the hope of testing his storage facilities a group of his neighbors formed a pool, each contributing half a dollar. The entire amount was invested in cove oysters and then the champion was invited to come to the general store on an appointed afternoon and show what he could do. He came and before an awestricken audience he showed.

Disdaining to use tools he swallowed down the provided bivalves, juice and all from the container. Almost before the storekeeper could open a fresh can he had emptied the can opened a minute before. In half an hour the supply on the shelves of the store had vanished and still the marvel showed no evidence of being satiated.

He scooped up a few truant oysters which had lodged in his whiskers and in the opening of his waistcoat and sent them on their way to join their brethren. Then he remarked:

"Wall, since there don't 'pear to be no more eatin' goin' on I reckon I'd better be puttin' out for home—it's gittin' on toward supper time."

Two of the contributors to the purse drifted out upon the porch to watch his slouching figure vanish in the dusk. For a space they stood in silence. Then one of them said:

"'Tain't no matter of doubt about it—I reckin that there Anse Coombs is shorely the champion cove oyster eater of all creation."

"He shorely is," agreed the other.

"I wonder how many cove oysters could he eat at one sittin'?" said the first.

"More'n you and me could pay for—I know that much," said the second.

"I wonder could he eat all the cove oysters they is in the world?" said the first.

"I don't know," said the second; "how many cove oysters is they in the world, anyway?"

Ace Of Tennis Courts And His "Under-Study"

MANY a youthful wielder of the tennis racquet wishes he had so efficient a teacher as the tall gentleman pictured at the right above. He is Bill Tilden, national tennis king whose speed and exploits on the clay courts of this country and abroad have made sport history for quite a number of years.

The short, snappy-looking lad at the left is Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia whom Tilden is grooming for championship conquests some day. Already latest sport reports indicate that Wiener is not to be overlooked when it comes to the national title tournaments this year. He has speed, stamina, a good service and is a splendid defensive player. Keep an eye on him!

Supt. Lawrence Writes About School Tax

I am sure the readers of the paper saw the call for an election to be held in this county September 15, to determine whether or not we shall renew the county one-mill tax for school purposes.

We are facing a big problem in this county just now in the operation of our schools. A man has just left this office who insisted on getting a man as principal of his school. I know the community and the conditions under which they are laboring, and he is right in asking for it, but what are we to do? Of about 150 or 200 applications from teachers on file in this office I doubt if there are 25 men asking for schools and these are demanding such salaries as we can not afford to pay without cutting down the school term, and no one wants this done. Everyone of us want longer terms, and longer terms will have a tendency to bring the men back into the profession. It is not altogether a question of so much salary per month with them as it is having employment for about five or six months in the year and nothing to do the remaining months, and this vacation comes just when it is most difficult to obtain employment.

The desire of my heart is, along with the desire of your own heart, tto give the boys and girls in the county an equal chance in our schools. This means more and better equipped buildings, longer terms, and in many instances, transportation. Any man or woman should know that before we can have these things we must have the means with which to do. When I was a child and thought as a child, I could not understand why my father did not buy more and better farming implements, but now I know why he did not buy these things—he did not have the means with which to buy them. I believe we have a school board with the interest of our schools at heart, (you understand I am not a member of the board, just it's secretary) who are doing everything they can to better our schools and if the citizenship of this county continues to stand by them we are going forward, otherwise, retrenchment will necessarily be the order of the day.

The county one-mill tax will mean about $13,000 to the school fund. Of this amount the Alabama Power Company will pay the major part. It means this, if your taxes were $20 last year, this year with the one-mill tax, it will be $21, while the Alabama Power Company tax will be increased nearly $6,000. With the other corporation taxes in the county, I am sure this will bring the total taxes of corporations in the county to $10,000, leaving only about $3,000 to be paid by those who live in the county.

Certainly there are people in the county who are opposed to this tax, and they have a right to do so. We are simply wanting the people to express by the ballot whether they want this tax or not. But before we cast our vote let us study it from an unbiased point of view and then vote as we conscientiously feel is for the best interest of our children and our schools.—B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

Mr. B. B. Cooper of Verbena is building a modern filling station at that place, through which he will distribute Crown gasoline. He has signed a five-year contract to sell the Standrd's products exclusively.

Sam Williams Dead

Mr. Sam A. Williams, age 50 years, died at his home on the Kincheon road about four miles south-west of Clanton last Saturday night at 8 o'clock. The remains were buried Sunday morning at Liberty Hill, Rev. A. L. Foshee conducting the funeral services. The deceased leaves a wife and some eight or ten children.

Dr. Ezell Will Return Here This Week

A card from Dr. S. J. Ezell, mailed from Chesnee, S. C., says that he and his family will return to Clanton on Thursday or Friday of this week. He requests us to announce that there will be services at the Buptist church at the regular hours on next Sunday.

The Ezells have been away for some weeks visiting relatives in South Carolina. In his card a brief mention was made of crop conditions observed on the trip, as follows:

"Crops are exceedingly poor after leaving Opelika. Crops in all the Piedmont Belt will not average 50 per cent, and are very very dry. Do not believe the corn crop for 300 or 400 miles is 20 per cent, and is now beyond help of rain."

The many friends of the Ezell family will be glad to welcome them on their return to Clanton.

New Grocery Store To Open Next Saturday

"Del-Monte 101" is the name of a new cash-and-carry plan grocery store which will open for business in Clanton next Saturday. The scheme is a new one here, but it has been well tested in other cities and has proven a very satisfactory manner of handling groceries, both from the standpoint of the retail buyer and the seller.

The new store is located on Main Street next to Johnson Drug Co. The building has been completely renovated and modernly arranged to accomodate the plans of the new business.

The public is invited to the opening next Saturday. The management of "Del-Monte 101" say that they will make an effort to open with as nearly a full stock as possible, so as to be able to fully exemplify their plans of conducting the business to all who may come on the opening day.

Grandfather's Adventures, Stanton School

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Stanton Junior High School will present a play entitled "Grandfather's Adventures" at the school auditorium on Tuesday night, August 25th. The proceeds will be used for benefit of the school, and it is hoped that a good crowd will be in attendance. We can assure you that the performance will be worth seeing. Everybody welcome.—H. A. Harris, Principal.

Mrs. Martha Melton

Mrs. Martha C. Melton, age 78, widow on the late Geo. W. Melton, died at the home of her son, Green D. Melton, last Friday. Funeral services were held at Collins Chapel Saturday marning, Rev. Bonner officiating.

Dief's Service Station To Open Soon

In last week's issue we stated that the filling station being efected by Mr. J. C. Jones on the corner next to the Post Office, would be leased by Mr. J. P. Lawrence, but we understand that Mr. Lawrence contemplates devoting his etire time to the wholesale end of his business, and that this filling station will be operated by Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer.

Mr. Diefenderfer has been connected with the Clanton Motor Car Co., Ford Dealers, for a number of years, and is one of Chilton's most popular and energetic young business men.

"Dief" says "Tell the boys to be patient until the first of October and we will show them a real up-to-the-minute service station and accessory store."

Sentence Affirmed By Court of Appeals

On November 24th, 1924, Oscar Giles was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County for violating the prohibition laws, and fined $250 together with a sentence of 353 days hard labor. Giles took an appeal, and on August 4th the Alabama Court of Appeals affirmed the decree of the lower court, thus leaving the fine and sentence just as the Circuit Court had made it.

Miss Dewey Branch is back in the office of Dr. N. S. Johnson after a two weeks vacation.

Clanton Closed Base-Ball Season Sunday

The Clanton baseball team took the West Point Route into camp last Thursday afternoon and lost the fray 8-4. Starling started for the locals, but the Western team got to him for several hits in the third inning, after Clanton had given him a 3-run lead, and the score was tied in this inning. After the visitors had scored two runs in the next inning Starling gave up the mound to Parrish, who succeeded in holding the Montgomery sluggers to two runs.

On Saturday Clanton went over to Sylacauga and trimmed the Gantt's Quarry team 6 to 4. Whorton broke his hard luck jinx in this game and won, after losing several games in a row. The most of Bill Whorton's losses have been made by errors, but the fans can't see it that way, and Bill gets all the blame for his losses. He holds his head at all times, never becoming rattled so as to make wild throws and the like, and people who will be fair can see that his losses have not been altogether his fault, but bad support of his teammates.

We can think of but two games which were really won on hits off Whorton; in two others he had an even break up until the bobbles came, and the rest he would have won, with anything like support. He pitched a good game at Sylacauga, and with fair support, won an easy victory.

Clanton went to Montgomery Sunday and outplayed the Western Railroad team at Cramton Bowl in one of the best games of the season. The count was 7 to 4. This game brought the close of the season for Clanton.

The railroad team made many errors afield, while Clanton rallied to Pat Moulton with the best support and one of the easiest victories of the season.

The first four rounds were as pretty as anybody would want to see, neither team registering a score. It looked like an airtight pitchers' battle between Pat Moulton and "Lefty" Jim Alley.

In the fifth inning Clanton grabbed hold of Alley's left-handers and walloped him to a sudden and spectacular finish with five hits in a row, three of which were infield bunts, which should have been fielded. When the smoke got too thick for Alley, the catcher refused to pass the ball back to him and Manager Eubanks sent Riddle to the mound. Four runs were made by Clanton in the fifth.

The railroaders came up in their half of the fifth and put three runs across.

The Clanton team played hard to win this, the last game of the season, and in doing so they put up one of the smoothest exhibitions ever seen at Cramton Bowl. After the game the club disbanded, and the players went their ways to home to get ready for the opening of college in a few weeks.

Pat Moulton will return to Auburn, where he says he is going to make the Tiger gridiron team or bust.

Jack Hayes, who is Clanton's own, has made a most excellent record this season. He is proclaimed the best shortstop ever seen at Cramton Bowl. Jack is going to the University of Alabama this fall, and it is anticipated that he will easily win a berth on the athletic field, in almost any branch of sport.

Every player on the Clanton team is deserving of honorable mention, because they have all played well, and have acquitted themselves in a way that does credit to our town and good, clean sport.

Standard to Build Fine Station on 7th and 3rd

Negotiations were completed Tuesday of this week whereby the Standard Oil Company became the owners of the lot on Seventh Street and Third Avenue which is now occupied by Mr. Honeycutt's blacksmith shop. The lot fronts 75 feet on Seventh Street and 70 fet on Third Avenue, the consideration of the deal being $4,000. Mr. D. H. Bohler of Birmingham, district manager for the company, was here and with Mr. J. P. Lawrence, the local representative of the company, made the purchase of this lot.

The Standard Oil Company will erect on this lot one of the most modern drive-in filling stations in Alabama, which will be built within a very short time. This station will not be run by Mr. Lawrence, as all of his time will be required to take care of the wholesale end of the business in Chilton County. The company will lease the filling station to someone who will do a hustling business.

Heretofore the Standard Oil Company has not catered much to the trade right here in Clanton but has devoted most of its energy here to small stations scattered all over the surrounding country, but they have come to realize that there is something for them in Clanton and they are going after it.

J. L. Smith of Maplesville was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

E. L. Glasscock of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Ervin Robinson Recover From Injuries

Late reports from the home of the young man say that Ervin Robinson is recovering fast from the serious injuries which he sustained last week whe he was struck by a loaded truck.

Reports say that the Robinson boy was riding on a truck driven by Lester Mims. Just as this truck started to meet Vanness Mims who was driving a loaded truck, in front of the home of Dr. Hayes in Clanton, the Robinson boy fell off the truck on which he was riding and landed right in front of the loaded truck. The loaded truck was so close to the boy that the driver could not avoid striking him. We understand that the truck did not run over the Robinson boy but it merely struck him. In the accident the boy sustained a cut on both knees, a gash in the head and four broken ribs. He was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital where he was treated for his wounds. He was released from the hospital Saturday and was carried home.

Ervin Robinson is about 20 years old and is the son of Mr. Wesley Robinson of Temple Community.

Singing at Friendship On Sunday Afternoon

There will be singing next Sunday afternoon (Fourth Sunday) at Friendship Baptist Church just north of Clanton. The public has a cordial invitation to attend and help in the singing. Prof. W. M. Devaughn has agreed to be present, and it is the hope of the church as well as that of Prof. Devaughn that as many of the Concord class be present as possible. Also visitors from Refuge, Walnut Creek and all other neighboring communities will be gladly received and welcomed into the singing service.

The United Singing Society from the northern part of the county has promised to be with us at Friendship next Sunday afternoon, and we expect to have the best singing we have had in a long time.

This is the regular preaching day and Rev. W. W. Robinson will preach Sunday at 11:00 o'clock and Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock. Sunday School will be held as usual at 10:00 o'clock. All who can are invited to attend these services.

Maplesville News Was Erroneous Last Week

The Union Banner carried in its issue of last week a letter of correspondence from Maplesville, which, since the paper went out, we have found to be almost entirely untrue. Since the truth was grossly ignored in this letter a part of it is very unjust to some of the people of Maplesville who were mentioned in the letter. The paragraph regarding Mrs. Maclean McCary, the wife of D. S. McCary, we have been informed, was entirely untrue, and such a statement is a gross reflection on this young lady.

The Union-Banner has on file the original copy of this letter sent in from Maplesville, which will be used in an effort to identify the person who sent it in. Only three initials were used as a signature to the letter, which were "R. J. C."

The Union-Banner is unable to understand why anyone would want to send in such an untruthful letter as this.

Fox Will Close His Store in Clanton

Mr. W. W. Fox is laying his plans to dispose of his stock of goods and discontinue his store in Clanton. This decision is reached because Mr. Fox is not able physically to look after the business, and Mr. H. A. Harris is going back to teach the school at Stanton.

The whole stock of goods and fixtures is going to be sold. Everybody knows that when Fox says sell, he is going to sell. He has priced everything down and if you want a chance at the bargains you will have to hurry.

Read his advertisement in this paper.

OAK HILL SINGING SCHOOL

The singing which has been taught by Prof. A. H. Glasscock at Oak Hill church for the past month came to a close last Saturday night when a musical concert was presented by the pupils. The program, which consisted of choruses, quartets, a song by a baby, and short funny speeches, lasted about two hours, and all during the presentation the large gathering gave splendid attention, showing that they were enjoying the program.

Prof. Glasscock lives a clean Christian life, and is a splendid teacher of the Bible, as well as music, and is certainly to be commended for the splendid work which he did in making the school the gratifying success that it was.

The school wishes to publicly thank Messrs. W. G. Atkinson, J. W. Sorrell, C. C. Conway, trustees of the Odd Fellows hall, Mr. L. H. Bean of the Farmers Hardware Company for the use of the chairs for the seating of the class, and Mr. E. L. Glasscock for the use of his piano. We thank the people for the splendid help given throughout the school and concert and especially the public for the fine contribution which will go to the church at this place.

CHEVROLET MAKES RECORD TRIP

Los Angeles to Detroit at a total cost of $22.20. That is what it costs in a Chevrolet, according to Joseph L. Rogers, Hollywood, and A. V. Gallina, Los Angeles, insurance men who recently made the trip of 3,104 miles at an expense of $44.40 for gasoline, oil and food, or seven-tenths of a cent per man per mile.

The Chevrolet used was a sedan owned by Mr. Gallina. It had been driven only 630 miles before they decided to make a vacation tour to the Detroit home of Mr. Roger's brother, Clifford W. Rogers.

Alternating at the wheel, they made the trip in five days and 18 hours, only a day and a half longer than the time of the transcontinental flyers which travel a much shorter distance due to the windings of the motor roads.

The tourists gave no particular thought either to the speed or economy of the trip until they were questioned in Detroit by the manager of a Chevrolet service station where they stopped on arrival to change the crank case oil. He induced them to visit W. S. Knudson, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, General Motors building. After inspecting and driving the car, Mr. Knudson pronounced it in excellent mechanical condition.

"The trip was in no sense a stunt," said Mr. Rogers. "We had no accidents except a puncture, the repair of which incidentally is included in the expense budget. Our only adventure was finding two Indian children nearly dead of thirst on a lonely stretch of desert road in New Mexico. They fell on their knees when we gave them a bottle of water."

Piscatorial Problem.—"Father, do the big fishes eat sardines?"

"Yes, my son!"

"How do they get them out of the tins?"—Buen Humor (Madrid).

First Locomotive To Steam Into Washington, D. C.

BACK in 1832, President Andrew Jackson adjourned a cabinet meeting to go out and see this ancient locomotive steam into Washington, D. C. It was built that year for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company and was the first locomotive of its kind to run into the capital.

The "Atlantic"—as this old "coal eater" is known—still is in the possession of the B. & O., and still able to operate under its own steam.

In the above picture, you see attached to it a coach also built in 1832 and brought to America as a private car for officials of the Nova Scotia Coal & Mining company at that time.

A LETTER ON THE PROPOSED SCHOOL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me to say a few words in your paper about the tax election announced in your last week's issue.

It is to be voted for 20 years. Now, I believe in prosperity, but I think it is time for the people to stop voting taxes on themselves for schools or anything else for a while. Anyway, there is plenty of money at present to send every child in Chilton County to school six months in the year, if it was properly handled, I think, and to keep on raising taxes will not help the cause very much. It has been a tax raise every time the wheel turned over for several years, and if the people don't stop it, it will get to where they can't pay the bill. The tax starts on the land owners and business men and will wind up with the poor man, the renters of farms, land and houses, will have to pay their part. When the taxes are raised, the rent goes up. I would be glad for every renter in Chilton County to come out and vote against any tax raise. I am a renter myself, and I know by that what it means for the taxes to be raised. If taxes are raised on railroads, they advance rates on freight, and it is passed on down to the farmer and he pays the bill after all, so I hope to see the biggest vote cast on the 15th day of September that has ever been cast against any tax issue that has been cast, so, to the whole voting list of Chilton County I say: Come out and mark one against this and all the other taxes for a while and see if we can't get along better without so much money. This is my first time to ever write on any tax issue and if this gets by the waste basket I may come again some day. I close, hoping the Union-Banner and its readers much success, and hoping to defeat the tax issue.—C. Williams.

POPLAR SPRINGS

During the past week a great revival meeting was held at Poplar Springs. The pastor, assisted by Rev. Joe Hand, delivered wonderful sermons each day and night through Thursday night, using as our "special" song, "The Old-Time Religion." It made us feel the old-time religion, too, when some one who had deserted us came back home.

Thirty-one additions were made to the church, 23 of which were by baptism. All the members were old enough to be a wonderful help to our church in the future. They have proved already that they are willing to help, by the additional help in Sunday School last Sunday.

We feel grateful to Rev. Hand for helping to make this a successful week. It was decided that he would be with us in our revival meeting next year if nothing prevents. May God help him through another year and enable him to be with us.

Everybody is invited to visit our church. We have singing every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, Sunday School at 10; and preaching every Second Saturday and Sunday.—A Member.

The farm price of hogs of $12.02 for July 15 was the highest since the deflation of 1920-21, and nearly double that of July 15, 1924.

MR. J. H. HAYES HERE FROM CALIFORNIA

The Union-Banner was pleased on Monday to have call on us our good friend Mr. J. H. Hayes, formerly of Chilton County, but residing for the past several years in San Diego, California. Mr. Hayes is in Clanton to see his mother, Mrs. Jane Hayes of West End, Clanton, who is in ill health.

Mr. Hayes made the trip from San Diego by automobile, and related to us a very enjoyable trip through the country. Enroute, he stopped off long enough to make a close inspection of such interesting natural phenomenon as the Petrified Forest, the Painted Desert, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, etc. It is very interesting to hear Mr. Hayes relate some of the interesting sights he saw on his trip.

Crop conditions are reported by Mr. Hayes to be poor from California through to Mississippi, where it is said are the best crops ever raised in that state. Mr. Hayes says he found the roads in pretty fair condition except in New Mexico, which was rather bumpy.

Mr. Hayes arrived in Clanton last week and will be here probably a month or so, or until there is a change made in the health of his mother.

CHESTNUT CREEK

Our singing society met last Sunday at 1:30 o'clock, and was opened with a song, led by the chairman, Prof. W. M. Devaughn. Those entertaining the audience during the afternoon were Messrs. S. M. Yates, I. D. Huett, . R. Robinson, A. D. Boswell, W. M. Devaughn, G. C. Weldon, J. W. Cagle. Those who ably performed at the piano were Misses Lena Mae Devaughn, Claudie Hughes, Mrs. Stanley, Messrs. Lee Grant and A. D. Boswell.

Our program also consisted of general quartettes and cotettes. Our church was almost filled with people, and we are always glad to see lots of people out. We invite them all back again.—Mrs. Mollie Miner, Secretary.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Clanton and Highland community for their kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of Mrs. Lula Littlejohn. Especially do we thank the doctors who cared for her during her suffering and made every effort to bring her back to health, also we thank the good colored people for their kindness and help.—T. J. Littlejohn, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dobbs, Myrtle Powell.

Mrs. Bryant McKee of Marbury was in town Tuesday.

Alabama has 256,000 farms with an average acreage of 76.4, and an average value of $2,600.

The peach crop in Alabama this year is larger than that of last. Up to August 8, a total of 257 cars had been shipped, as compared with 119 up to August 2, 1924. The grand total for 1924 was 132 cars.

"Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" is a bulletin that is in big demand during the summer season. It is published by hte Extension Service, Auburn, Ala., and distributed upon request by mail or by the county home demonstration agent.

Alabama's watermelon crop is low this year. Up to August 8 a total of 1,452 cars had been shipped as compared with 1,902 up to August 9, 1924. The grand total for last year was 2,278. The commercial acreage this year is 7,650; that of 1924 was 8,500.

ADVERTISING DID IT

Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day.

He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5-cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention.

He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5-cent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

A LOT OF PEOPLE DON'T KEEP BOOKS

Farmers as a whole do not keep books. Consequently, they do not know just what or where their losses and gains are nor where to plug up the leaks or to increase the profits. That's a brick-bat frequently flung at agriculture. It's a missile that can be shot right back to town. More than half the businesses of this country do not have adequate accounting systems. They keep books, it is true, after a fashion, but so poorly that they do not know the leaks in various processes or steps of the business and consequently do not know how to stop those losses or turn them into profits.

When you buy stock in a company you become a part owner of the company. The company takes your money and operates property of which you are a part owner. If it hasn't an adequate accounting system it very probably is wasting your money and your property. Isn't it urgent common sense to get the history of the company in which you buy stock to see if your money and property will be wasted?

FORESTRY LETTER

Many weed trees, or species formerly regarded as inferior, have been found to be vauable for certain uses, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry, in a statement recently issued. In the early days only the best parts of the best trees were used. If heart longleaf was available, no one would bother with sap pine. With the diminishing supply of longleaf, shortleaf pine came into general use. However, it was not until the last few decades that old field pine, spruce pine and other lighter woods could be marketed. Such species were regarded as mere forest weeds in the sense that they took up space and yielded little value, corresponding somewhat to the undesirable plants that crow into gardens and fields.

One of the tasks of forestry has been to develop practical uses for all forest products so that nothing may go to waste, thus lessening the demand upon the forest as a whole. Lumbermen and foresters have been working for years to persuade the public that for certain needs trees usually regarded as inferior species will furnish entirely suitable material. For many purposes sap pine is as satisfactory as heart pine, but it required a long time to convince the buying public of this fact.

Old field pine, or loblolly pine, as it is often called, is one of the trees formerly regarded as inferior that have lately come into their own. Under skilled manufacture, old field pine produces a bright, beautifully figured finishing material that finds ready sale. It is also suitable for general building purposes. When subjected to preservative treatment loblolly pine is available for a large variety of special structural and engineering puposes. In the wood using industry this species is credited with about 66 different uses, and the list is growing year by year.

DAYS WE'LL NEVER FORGET

POLITICIANS AND BOND ISSUES

The usual unfortunate and injurious procedure of mixing politics with everything that comes up in Alabama seems to be panning out true to form in the proposal to issue another block of good roads bonds. Candidates for Governor and other State offices are preparing to launch their campaigns upon platforms either in opposition to or in support of the bond issue. This seems to us to be a clumsy and ill-advised program. The bond issue should not be used as a hobby-horse to ride some man into office or another man into political obscurity. Whether a man is for or against the bond issue is no reliable test as to his ability or disability for Governor of the State.

The bond issue and the consequent building of roads is another matter that holds the future of progress for Alabama. Such a great problem can not be justly carried through if it is to be made the football of the many designing political aspirants in our State.

The future road problem in Alabama is bigger than all the politicians in the State. If all the politicians and everybody else will get together in the right spirit, they may solve the road riddle and carry Alabama forward. But there is not any single politician in Alabama who is big enough to ride the issue alone and get himself elected to something and perform the miracle of salvation for Alabama's roads and highways.

The fellow who essays to perform such a great task and thereby gets into office upon his promises to do the impossible will soon join the unsung throng of "weighed in the balances and found wanting."

ALABAMA MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The final plans for the ninth annual convention of the Alabama Merchants Association in Birmingham August 25-27 are complete, according to C. C. Blackwell, chairman of the entertainment committee. Two handsome Radiolas will be given away during the convention by the Wholesale Merchants and Manufacturers Association, which organization is entertaining the visiting merchants.

One of the Radiolas will be awarded at the Jefferson Theater Party. An interesting program of entertainment will be presented at this event, which will be on the night of August 26.

R. G. Pankow, of Chicago, nationally known lecturer on merchants' problems, will speak to the merchants on "Profitable Retail Merchandising," and also answer any questions they may wish to ask on this subject.

Other features of the evening's entertainment will be a dance act, "All Southern Follies," with Miss Rose Gallagher, who has been nominated as a candidate for "Miss Birmingham" at the Atlantic City Pageant, and five other Birmingham beauties; a black face comedian act, a musical saw number and several selections by the Independent Presbyterian Church quartette.

Among other features of the entertainment which will be free to the merchants during the convention will be a barbecue, baseball game, dance revue at Cascade Plunge and Temple Theater Party at which the "San Antonio Twins" will be the headliner.

EDUCATIONAL LETTER

There are nearly 857,000 children of school age, 6 to 20 years, in Alabama, according to the census of 1924. Of these, 623,914 enrolled in school last year. Adding the enrollments in colleges, there would be approximately 220,000 children who did not go to school. If these people had gone to school the educational institutions now provided could have accomodated them.

The enforcement of the compulsory education law and the increasing interest in education all over the state are operating to fast reduce the number who formerly did not attend school.

School Growth.

Though our school census has increased only 3.6% in ten years, our school enrollments have increased 18 2%, about five times as much increase in enrollments as in children of school age. A still better sign of the increasing interest in education is the regularity with which pupils attend school. The average daily attendance has increased 42% in ten years. The schools have a greater holding power than ever before. While children formerly began to drop out in large numbers about the fifth grade or sixth grade, we find now that these grades are well filled and that the hold over to high school grades is increasing enormously. High school enrollments have increased 168% in ten years. Normal schools and colleges have likewise shown tremendous increases in the same period. This can be interpreted as a sure sign that people in Alabama, and the same is true of other states, are very much interested in the education of their children.

As a result of this interest large expenditures have been made for buildings and equipment, the school term is gradually getting longer, more money is being invested in instructional cost as trained teachers are coming to be recognized as necessary. Increasing enrollments in high schools make for a larger expense as this training is from one and one half to three times as expensive as elementary education, varying with the community. This is true the country over.

The form of government under which Alabamians live will not permit them to say who shall be denied a high school or college education. Contrarily, Alabama has set out to maintain schools for all the people at public expense and to allow every boy and girl to climb as high as his or her strength and ability will permit, giving to every child as nearly equal opportunity as possible.

To meet this assumed obligation, Alabama is faced with the problem of providing greatly increased revenues for her schools.

Cherries, pineapple, peaches, pears, and strawberries, which do not make good jellies when used alone, can be combined with apple juice. The pectin in the apple juice makes it stiffen well and the mild apples do not disguise the flavor of the other fruit.

"Chuckle" Column

REMEMBER—

Way back when Ma informed
You—"Johnny, your vacation's
Well nigh over. It's back to School for you next week?"
And to make things worse, she Made you wash in back of the Ears and past the "dead-line"
On your chin so she could take
You to Brown's store for that
New School Suit?
And 'member how foolish you felt
When Mr. Brown tickled your ribs
As he tape-measured your Circumference? An how he would Go back and pick out a suit with
A pattern in it that you wouldn't
Sport to a dog-fight nowadays?
The coat with its one-inch wide
Lapels? Buttons as big as a silver Dollar? And the vest that almost Closed at the top? And then—
Mr. Brown would push you in a
Dark corner and tell you to try
On the tight-fittin' pants
With three or four buttons on Each side for ornaments? And
How—when you had the whole outfit
On—you were afraid to move for Fear of rippin' something? Yes,
You looked for all the world
Like something that escaped from
A circus? An then—to increase
Your agony—Ma bought you one o'
Those cheese-cuttin' collars with Corners in front that bend down?
And one of those ready-tied Four-in-hand ties with a knot in
It as big as father's fist? And
A stiff-bosom shirt that cracked
Like a boiler plate every time
You bent forward? And the new Shoes that pinched and squeaked
Like an un-oiled baby buggy? And
The silly-looking hat that fit
You twenty years too late?
Ma beamed with pride when she sent
You back to school in that outfit.
But—

WORDS FAILED YOU!

"Cockroaches were introduced on this continent by early explorers" we're informed. Where do they get that "introduced" stuff. Was there ever anyone that sought the introduction? Never heard anyone saying "Pleased to meetja" when they glimpsed the critters.

POOR OR

—to build up Weight!

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

Mr. Ed Teel of Birmingham returned to his home last Friday after spending a week in Clanton with relatives. This was the first time Ed has been back to his old home in about four years.

Frequent Bilious Attacks

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month," says Mr. J. P. Nevins, of Lawrenceburg, Ky. "I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief.

"A neighbor told me of

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Liver Medicine

and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and made me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep, and could do twice the work."

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON EASY MONEY

"An awfully interesting man came to see me today, Aunt Emmy. He had a list of stocks and bonds that look very favorable to me. Take this," said Helen, handing an alluring looking folder to Aunt Emmy. "This stock is pretty good. The man said it would be quoted at 20 on the exchange a month after it is put out. I can buy shares now at two dollars so I would make eighteen dollars for every two dollars I invest and all inside of four weeks." Helen paused for breath while Aunt Emmy looked at the folder.

"If I were to buy those White Leghorn chickens of yours," remarked Aunt Emmy, "would you promise me their eggs will sell for one dollar and a half a dozen a month from now?"

"Of course not, Aunty," laughed Helen. "The price of eggs depends entirely on the supply and demand in the market."

"Well, how about stocks? Why can this man promise you this stock will be selling for twenty dollars a month from now?"

"Well, I don't know exactly, but the listings on the stock exchange are different, aren't they?"

"The prices of stocks quoted on the stock exchange are influenced by supply and demand like the prices of eggs. No one can honestly guarantee the future price of any stock. A promoter who urges you to buy stock on any such guarantee is misinforming you. A stock salesman you could trust would never make such a statement. If you are going to listen to such talk you'd better put your money in the savings bank."

"But I wouldn't make so much on it!" objected Helen.

"Big profits mean big risks, and you cannot afford to take risks," said Aunt Emmy. "The house that gets out this booklet is unknown to you. Why don't you find out who you are dealing with?"

"How can I find out about the thousands of stock houses in the United States?"

"Well," said Aunt Emmy, "if you insist on considering making investments, you ought to at least take the trouble to go to your bank and find out about the people you are dealing with."

"I didn't know banks would bother with anything but actual banking," Helen said.

"They are glad to," Aunt Emmy said. "The more people that save and invest money wisely the better it is for the banks."—A. B. Aymes.

Spoken From the Heart Out

In an effort to link practice with preaching, the Sunday school teacher asked her class of small boys to recite appropriate quotations from the Scriptures as they added their free will offerings to the regular collection. The youngsters had a week in which to find and memorize suitable texts.

On the following Sunday the teacher summoned the superintendent in order that he might witness the ceremony.

Under his approving eye the scholars advanced, one by one, each with a coin ready and his brow furrowed by the effort of trying to remember the quotation he meant to deliver.

First, as was fitting, came the brag pupil and, as he deposited a dime in the plate, he said:

"The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

"Beautiful," said the teacher approvingly. "Now then, Harry what are you going to say?"

"The liberal soul shall be made fat."

"Willie?"

"Whoso giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord."

"Bobby?"

"Freely thou hast received, freely give."

"Very good, indeed. Tommy, it's your turn next."

Tommy's hand came slowly forth from his pocket, bringing a penny.

"A fool and his money are soon parted," said Tommy.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

We know of nothing in which the whole community has more interest than the progress that is developing in educational facilities in Thorsby, where two large modern school buildings are under construction. The one for our public school is so near completion that plans are made to occupy it with the opening of school Monday, August 23rd. A visit to the building Tuesday morning reveals four fine class rooms in condition where little remains to be done except to arrange the furnishings; a fifth class room is rapidly nearing completion in the basement under the north end of the building, which is in reality only half basement, and has practically the same light facilities from its five large windows as the room directly above it. There is also another good sized room in this basement designed for use as a manual training department. We are not informed as to just when this will be ready for use for the purpose intended.

Work on the auditorium is being pushed along and will soon be completed. This room, 45 x 80 feet in size, has a stage 18 feet wide extending across the east end, giving ample room for entertainment. The hall proper will have 300 opera chairs and will be well lighted.

The building occupies high ground on a five-acre tract giving ample room for playgrounds and exper mental agriculture. Several new streets will be opened to give ready access to the grounds from all directions.

The old public school building and its grouds 100 x 140 feet, were offered for sale last week by the Town Council, in a notice for sealed bids, which would be opened at the Town Hall on Saturday. Mr. Green Burnett was the highest bidder and the property was sold to him for $641.00 cash. This money will help materially in furnishing the new school building.

Don't forget to remember, Thursday, August 20th is "Clean-Up-Day" at the Public School grounds.

Parnell, returned last week from a motor trip to Atlanta, Ga., where they spent several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Biggs, Mrs. Biggs will be remembered as being, while living in Thorsby, Miss Anna Berlin. They report a wonderful trip, giving credit to their old "Lizzie" for a trip of 500 miles without so much as a punctured tire. While in Atlanta Mr. Reagan bought a full line of Christmas goods so that Thorsby folks will not have to go to the cities to do their Christmas shopping.

The annual Lutheran Sunday school picnic was held in Conrad Carlson's grove last Wednesday. A good crowd was in attendance, plenty of eats were served during the day and evening and all returned home with pleasant memories of "A Perfect Day."

The revival meeting at the Baptist church, which has been in progress for the past nine days, closed Monday night. The attendance was good right up to the last meeting, and much interest was manifest not only by the members of that particular church, but of the other churches as well and the community in general. Six new members were added to the church.

Rev. Joseph E. Each and family returned from their vacation spent among friends in west Florida, last week. Mr. Each will be away from Thorsby most of the time for two weeks conducting special services in two other churches which he serves as pastor. He expects to occupy his pulpit in Thorsby Congregational church next Sunday morning.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their next social at the home of Mrs. E. W. Butler Thursday, August 27th.

D. R. Heaton has sold for immediate possession his home, land and his growing crops to C. M. Williams. The Heatons have moved into one of Mrs. Villadsen's small bungalows recently vacated by Clyde Simms, who with his family have moved to Valdosta, Ga., where Mr. Sims has secured employment under L. A. Norman, which calls for the use of his trucks in highway work the same as he had here.

What might have been a very serious automobile accident occurred in Thorsby Sunday afternoon, when a speeding Hudson car, driven by a Federal officer, struck a Ford car containing D. R. Heaton, his son-in-law, Blankenship and his children. By a swift turn of the big car which landed in against a telephone post and damaged it, a full contact with the Ford was avoided, but it was sideswiped in such a way as to shake it up badly and one of the children sustained a broken a se.

Unique Case In Closing Plantation

A forty acre farm on the Carter Hill road was padlocked by Judge Henry D. Clayton in an order issued early Thursday afternoon. On that farm seven hundred and seventy gallons of liquor were found by raiders of the state law enforcement department August 8.

Anthony Bozeman, negro, who had leased the farm from McGehee Brothers, of Montgomery, must climb the fence or obtain permission from Walter K. McAdory, chief supervisor of the state law enforcement department, when he desires to enter or leave the premises. The padlock was placed on the only gate by the district marshal and on orders of Judge Clayton the key was put in the possession of Chief McAdory.

It is the first case that has come to public attention where an entire farm has been closed because of a violation of the federal prohibition laws. Judge Clayton directed that Bozeman may give a five hundred dollar bond as a pledge that he will not permit the use of the premises for further violations of the law and that if such bond is given the padlock may be removed.

In issuing the injunction Judge Clayton made an address from the bench in which he again emphasized that he is determined to break up violations of the Volstead act in his territory. He said federal officers should direct their attention to the rum runners and the big violators while state courts should handle the pint and quart violators.

"Whenever a case comes to me with evidence that the law has been violated I intend to impose such punishment and issue such orders as will uphold the law," said Judge Clayton. "The argument is made in this case that the defendant operated a boarding house for bird dogs. The government contends that this was merely a camouflage for the purpose of drawing attention from violations of the prohibition laws. I want to say that you cannot camouflage seven or eight hundred gallons of liquor, and that I am determined to break up these violations of the laws."

The evidence submitted to the court was as follows: Chief McAdory and assistants visited Bozeman's place in the afternoon and discovered liquor in two outhouses. Investigations showed a total of seven hundred and seventy gallons. This was the greatest supply ever taken by the law enforcement department in one raid since it was created. Later in the night a white man drew up in a small automobile which did not carry lights. Bozeman was called. The two entered one of the buildings. Officers identified the white man as Chappell Gray. Both were arrested and the liquor was confiscated.

Injunction proceedings were filed before Judge Clayton by J. O. Middleton, assistant district attorney. Gray failed to appear in court Thursday morning. Bozeman contended that he rented the outhouses to a man who called himself Mr. Johnson, that he had nothing to do with the placement of the liquor and that he was not present when it was delivered. He admitted, however, that late one night a large truck drew up at the outhouses. He said he was paid fifty dollars a month as retal. He insisted that his occupation was a farmer and boarder of bird dogs and that he had never engaged in the liquor business.

J. H. McGehee, one of the owners of the farm, testified that he visited the farm at frequent intervals and had never obtained any information that could cause him to believe that the prohibition laws were being violated.

Mr. Middleton, assistant district attorney, in an address to the court following the submission of evidence, appealed for a padlock injunction against the farm, contending that the bird dogs were being kept as a blind and that the real purpose of the dog farm was to give warning of the approach of outsiders and also to prevent any suspicion that the prohibition laws were being violated by the storage of a huge quantity of liquor. "This was a vicious, bold and diabolical violation of the Volstead act," said Mr. Middleton. "A padlock injunction should be issued against the owner of the land. The owner owes a duty to the public to exercise due diligence to prevent violations of the law."

J. R. Thomas, who appeared as attorney for Bozeman, insisted that the owners of the farm knew nothing of the violation and that an unfair punishment would be inflicted on them if the padlock should be placed on the farm. He also contended that Bozeman did not know that the buildings were to be used for violations of the law. On the stand Bozeman contended that he entered the outhouse with Gray only after state law enforcement officers had asked him to do so. He said this was his first visit and that he was not in possession of the keys to the buildings.

Judge Clayton said he would not impose unfair punishment on the negro. It was his opinion that white rum dealers had gotten him into the trouble. However, he declared that the storage of such a great quantity of liquor in the buildings could hardly have been accomplished without the knowledge of Bozeman.

"I am not going to be unfair to this defendant," said Judge Clayton. "I am going to put a padlock on the entrance to the farm. However, I am not going to prevent the gathering of the crops. I am going to put the key into the possession of a person who can be depended upon to see that no automobiles enter the farm in the future and that the property is not used for violations of the prohibition laws."

Judge Clayton first designated Mr. McGehee as the possessor of the key, but Mr. McGehee requested that the duty be placed on another. Chief McAdory was named at the suggestion of the assistant district attorney.

Methodist S. S. Convention At Selma

All plans are perfected for the Methodist Sunday School Conference which convenes in the Church Street Methodist Church of Selma on Tuesday night, September 1, according to announcement made by Sam A. Fowlkes, Chairman of the General Committee on Arrangements. The Committee is expecting an attendance of 1,000 from the 600 Methodist Sunday Schools of south Alabama and West Florida. The meeting will continue through Thursday afternoon, and prominent speakers and a splendid musical program with several unusual features, combine to make the gathering one of great importance and interest. J. W. Andrews of Pensacola is President of the Conference.

Bell Telephone Co. Improve Service

Along with many other improvements that are taking place in and around Clanton, it is of particular interest and importance to observe that the Southern Bell Telephone Company is improving and enlarging its local equipment so as to be able to give the best and most modern telephone service.

A large crew of workmen have been here all this summer making additions to the Bell equipment. A cable system has been installed all over town, and the exchange or central office has been enlarged to take care of many more local phones. We understand that the local equipment, when completed, will be capable of handling around 300 local phones, more than 100 of which have already been installed or contracted for within the city.

One of the most valuable phases of the Bell Telephone system is the plan which they have adopted for handling rural telephone service. This system is going to have the special attention of the Bell people in an effort to establish a number of rural lines into Clanton in the near future. and to us it seems that their offering is the best possible way for rural people to have adequate and dependable telephone service at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Clanton and the surrounding communities need the service that the Bell people are in position to render. We hope to see the people and the adjacent rural communities avail themselves of this splendid telephone service.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the kind people of Thorsby and Cedar Grove communities for the kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Martha C. Melton. We also thank the doctors, who did all they could for her. May God bless each of you is our prayer.—Mrs. W. P. Lowery, G. D. Melton, D. T. Melton, G. W. Melton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Brockett of Montgomery were injured late Sunday afternoon in an automobile accident near Thorsby. Mrs. Brockett is said to have sustained very serious injuries. Her husband was rendered unconscious. They were rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton.

Reports from the hospital say that Mrs. Brockett had been severely injured about the head and neck. Later examinations were expected to show iternal injuries.

Mr. Brockett's automobile is said to have been struck by a passing car, both machines overturning. Mr. and Mrs. Brockett were pinned beneath their roadster. The occupants of the other machine had not been found Monday morning. They left the scene of the accident immediately, and were not seriously injured.

The accident occurred about five o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Brockett were returning to their home in Montgomery after spending the day in Birmingham.

Program of Unity Fifth Sunday Meeting

The Fifth Sunday Meeting of the Unity Baptist Association will be held with the Billingsley Baptist Church, Billingsley, Alabama, August 30th, 1925.

On account of seemingly unavoidable circumstances the program and notice of this meeting is a week or two late, but we hope it will not prove injurious to the meeting.

In several respects this meeting should be one of the very best meetings we have had this year. It is the last one we will have during this Associational year. Dr. D. F. Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama Baptist State Convention, will have a part on the program; also, Dr. S. J. Ezell will speak to the convention, and all who know him know what a treat it will be to hear him.

We urgently invest that each pastor and as many as two or three interested workers from each church in the Association attend this meeting. Do not stay away because you are not on the program. We assure you that you will have a chance to say something if you will be there and have something to say.

The following is the complete program:

9:45—Devotional, C. D. Golson.

10:00—"The Fifth Sunday Meetings and their Importance," Rev. E. A. Norris.

10:25—"The W. M. U. a challenge to the Laymen's Movement," Rev. J. W. Mitchell.

11:20—"Our Immediate State Mission Needs," Dr. D. F. Green.

Give Us Some Salt With That One

When one gets out among his neighbors and hears them talk and express opinions, he usually learns something that he has not known before. For instance, while the editor of The Union-Banner was in attendance upon the opening of the Thorsby Public School Monday morning he had the pleasure of hearing some very uplifting talks by different persons—and among the speakers one fellow had his sights so high as to refer to Clanton as having within the past year become a suburb of Thorsby. We admire the "Thorsby Spirit." It has done some wonderfully fine things up there. But when they get to pulling that "suburb stuff" on us, we are compelled to reach for a pinch of salt.

Small Stalk Of Cotton With 28 Bolls

The Union-Banner has on display a unique specimen of cotton, which is about the fullest we have ever witnessed. The little stalk is exactly 24 inches high and contains twenty-five open bolls of cotton and three bolls which have not yet opened. This stalk has more the appearance of a mass of cotton all grown together than it does a cotton stalk.

This stalk of cotton was brought into our office by Mr. Lee wells of Clanton Route 2. Mr. Wells intends to carry this stalk of cotton to the State Fair this fall.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of George W. Bowles wish to express their thanks and appreciation to the people for their kindness shown the fmally and Mr. Bowles during his recent illness, death and burial. We also wish to thank Dr. Suggs and his nurses for their faithful attention during the illness.—The family.

MACEDONIA

There will be a few days of meeting here, beginning Friday night. Rev. W. S. Cox will preach, and Rev. W. H. Wilson will fill his place on the Third Saturday night in September. Bro. Bailey will also preach here. Everybody come.—V. G. Smith.

Rev. F. B. Ticknor is in Clanton visiting the family of Mr. W. H. Kennedy. Mr. Ticknor spent some time this summer with his son in Milwaukee, Wis. He will probably remain in Clanton a few weeks taking time while here to devote a few days to fishing on Mitchell Lake, before going back to his home in Columbus, Ga., for the winter.

Power Company Seeks New Lines

Petition was filed Friday with the Alabama ublic service commission by the Alabama Power Co., for certificate of convenience and necessity for a distribution line from Clanton, a distance of 15 miles, to Verbens, Coopers, Mountain Creek and Marbury, with distribution systems at these towns, and approval of schedule of rates. Another petition asked authority to construct a distribution line from Courtland, a distance of 12 miles to Moulton, with distribution system at Moulton, and approval of schedule of rates. Dates of hearing on the petitions has not been fixed.

A complaint was filed with the commission Friday by R. G. Cobb on behalf of the Mobile chamber of commerce and Business league, versus the L. & N., and Muscle Shoals, Birmingham and Pensacola railroads, against rates on peaches, pears and other fruits, carloads, from points on the lines of the two railronds mentioned to Mobile. This case was docketed for October 6.

Frank P. Morgan, associate member of the public service commission, went to Mobile to hear Friday the citation issued by the commission to a number of boat operators, involving rates on river traffic.

Death of G. W. Bowles August 17

George W. Bowles, age 72 years, died at a hospital in Montgomery Monday, August 17, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Bowles lived in Autauga County and had been carried to Montgomery for treatment.

He was buried at Bethsalem last Wednesday, Rev. Limbrick conducting the funeral services.

Mr. Bowles is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowles, and four sons, Joe, Charley, Wash, and Alphus; two daughters, Mrs. Emma Caver and Mrs. Ida Deramus.

He was born in Georgia and came to Alabama when in his youth, and has lived in Autauga County ever since. He was a good citizen, highly respected and loved by his neighbors and friends.

All-Day Singing At Oak Hill Sunday

There will be as all day singing at Oak Hill, three miles north-east of Jemison, on next Sunday, August 30. A number of the county's best singers have promised to be present, and a great day of singing is anticipated. All singers and lovers of music are not only invited but urged to be present and take part in the song service. Prof. W. M. Devaughn of Clanton has promised to be present as well as a number of other noted singers. Everybody come to Oak Grove next Sunday and let's spend the day singing praises to Him from whom cometh all blessings.

Revival services will begin at Oak Grove next Sunday night and will continue throughout the week. Rev. E. E. Caullere, pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, Birmingham, will be in charge. All denominations are invited to come and take part in these services with us.

Aug. 16 Cotton Report For Alabama

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 24.—Although the hot and dry weather during the period from August 1 to August 16 took its toll of Alabam cotton, reducing the condition of the crop from 74% of normal on August 1, to 70% on August 16, yet a crop of more than a million bales was still in sight on August 16, according to a report issued today by F. W. Gist, Federal Agricultural Statistician, cooperating with Alabama Extension Service, and Alabama Department of Agriculture. The condition on August 16 last year was 70% of normal.

Deterioration in the state cotton crop is usual at this season, and the prospective production of 1,002,000 bales of 500 pounds gross, forecast on the basis of the August 16 condition is a reduction of only 8,000 bales from that indicated on August 1. 36,954 balea had been ginned to August 16 in Alabama. The August 16 forecast is practically the same as the one made from the July 16 condition, and therefore depreciation since the latter date has been about average. Last year's production for Alabama was 985,000 bales.

As was the case on August 1, the Northwest district reported the highest condition, showing a gain of 3% to 86% of normal, since that report. Likewise the East Blackbelt district also reported the lowest condition this time, and showed a decline of 9% to 61% of normal on August 16.

The district conditions reflect very accurately the rainfall since August 1. The amount of rainfall in the Tennessee Valley was generally sufficient, and two of the three districts in that section showed gains in conditions since the last report, while the third showed a slight decline. This drop is due to the fact that a large part of this district is out of the valley, in a section where practically no rain fell. In all other districts there were declines in conditions, because only a few scattered localities had enough rain during the 16 day period.

The estimated yield per acre, based on the August 16 condition, is 140 pounds of lint, against 141 pounds indicated on August 1. Last year's acre yield for Alabama was 154 pounds, while the ten-year average was only 124 pounds per acre.

The damage done by the extremely hot and dry weather was in the form of excessive shedding of small bolls and squares, and the premature opening of bolls. However this dry, hot weather was not altogether a curse, as it served to hold the weevils in check. The per cent of weevils present on August 16, compared with the number present on that date last year was only 92, while the per cent present on July 16 this year, compared with the number present on July 16 last year was 106.

Rust is prevalent and doing much damage in the West Blackbelt district, and in the Norwest district. While the greatest damage is centered around the West Blackbelt district, reports of rust also came from localities scattered over the central and northern parts of the state.

Let Mr. Russell take your measure for that Fall suit Friday and Saturday of this week. Mr. Russell is with the Kahn Tailoring Co., and will be at Tom Kemp's store.

FORD ANNOUNCES IMPROVED LINE OF BODY DESIGNS

Changes Most Pronounced — Bodies Longer, Lower and All-Steel. Goes to Colors in Closed Car Models.

Body changes and chassis refinements more pronounced than any made sice the adoption of the Model T chassis were announced here today by the Ford Motor Motor Company. There will be no advance in price, it is also stated.

Outstanding features of the improvements in both open and closed types are lower, all-steel bodies on a lowered chassis, complete new design in most body types, a change from black to colors in closed cars; larger lower fenders, newly designed seats and larger, more powerful brakes. Longer lines, effected through higher radiator and redesigned cowl and bodies are apparent in all the improved Ford cars, but are especially pronounced in the open types. Wide crown fenders hung close to the wheels contribute to the general effect of lowness and smartness.

While runabout and touring car remain in black, the closed bodies are finished in harmonic color schemes, enhanced by nickel radiators. The Coupe and Tudor bodies are finished in deep channel green while the Fordor is rich Windsor Maroon. Greater comfort is provided for driver and passengers in both open and closed cars by larger compartments, deeper cushioned seats and greater leg room.

Many new conveniences are also incorporated in the improved cars. In the runabout, tourig car, coupe and tudor, the gasoline tank is under the cowl and filled through an ingeniously located filler cap completely hidden from sight by a cover similar in appearance to a cowl ventilator. One-piece windshield and narrowed pillars in the tudor and coupe offer the driver greatly increased visibility and improved ventilation.

Driving comfort is materially increased by lower seats, scientifically improved back rests and lowered steering wheel. Brake and clutch pedals are wider and more conveniently spaced.

Four doors are now provided on the touring car and two on the runabout, permitting the driver to take his place from the left side of the car. Curtains, held secure by rods, open with the doors.

Most important in the mechanical changes are the improved brakes. The tranmission brake drum and bands have been considerably increased in size, which gives the foot brake softer and more positive action as well as longer life. The rear wheel brake drums are larger and the brake of self-energizing type.

Cord tires are now standard equipment on all Ford cars.

MIDDLETON SPEAKER AT THORSBY SCHOOL OPENING

Visitors at the opening of Thorsby Public School last Monday were delighted to liste to the splendid address of Col. J. O. Middleton, in which he very fittingly dedicated the new public school building to the training of "the golden-headed boys and girls of Thorsby."

Particularly impressive was the tribute paid by Mr. Middleton to the founders of the little city of Thorsby, in which he stressed the fact that those people chose to build their town and their home surroundigs upon a foundation composed of good schools and good churches.

His address was received in high applause by a packed house.

LOVELY GIRL DROPS DEAT AT REVIVAL IN KENTUCKY

The Daily Kentucky New Era, published at Hopkinsville, carried the following report of the death in its issue of August 13th:

Miss Ruby Pearl Cunningham, nineteen years of age and a graduate of Bethel Womans College of this city, dropped dead last night at the close of a revival meeting at Hurricane church in Trigg County, Ky. Miss Cunningham, beautiful and talented, was the youngest daughter of Levi Cunningham of Cadiz, superintendent of Trigg County Schools. The young lady finished a course at Bethel College here last year with honors and was teaching her first term of school at Rockcastle, near the Hurricane Baptist Church.

At the end of the services she walked up to the altar to say good-night to the preacher and fell lifeless in the aisle as she turned to leave the church. Acute indigestion is given as the cause of her death, superinduced by a heart ailment of long standing. She is survived by her mother, father, and three sisters. The sisters are Mrs. Don C. Harris of Cadiz, Ky., Mrs. L. Champion of Bowling Green, Ky., and Mrs. E. V. Smith of Clanton.

THREE ARRESTED BY OFFICERS IN PAST WEEK

Miss Leona Kimbell of Mitchell Dam was caught Saturday night as she was engaged in retailing liquor in Coca-Cola bottles. She had two bottles in her hands when the officers entered the house. Six other bottles were found when the place was searched. Another search was made of the place Suday and two gallons of whiskey was found. The young lady brought to jail and was released Monday on bond.

Will Caffey, negro, was caught at Knight's Ferry as he was coming across the river with some liquor. He is now in jail.

HERE'S a rather lovely, yet simple little summer frock for the cute little miss between 4 and 10 years of age. One of the children's style hits of the season. It is fashioned of pussy willow silk of a soft blue shade with a border of darker blue at the hem and over the shoulders. Quite attractive.

EILAND GIRL DROWNED

Miss Marjorie Eiland, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cooley Eiland, of Linden, was drowned in the Tombigbee River last Sunday. She was wading in the river and stepped into a deep place from which she was unable to rescue herself. A Mr. Harris, who saw the girl go down, jumped into the water to rescue her, and was also drowned in the effort to save Miss Eiland.

Mr. and Mrs. Eilard are former residents of Chilton County, and their many friends here are grieved at the unfortunate accident.

It Worked All Right!

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Monday, August 24th was a "Red Letter" day in Thorsby. At an early hour more than half the population of the town and some from outside assembled for the dedication exercises and opening of Thorsby's fine new public school building, designed for an elementary and junior high school. The building is located on a 5-acre tract and occupies a site on the highest part of its campus, with broad views in every direction. Several new streets are soon to be opened to give easy access to the grounds from all sides. The particular location is the north-west five acres of the old J. F. Peterson home place.

The building has a west front of about 150 feet, is one story high with concrete foundations throughout, and exterior walls of brick tile. It contains five modern standard class rooms, a room for manual training and an assembly hall or auditorium which, when fully equipped with opera chairs, will accommodate approximately 500 people. A stage 18 feet wide extends completely across the east end of the hall, giving ample room for entertainments and exhibitions. The total cost of the building including land and equipment, will be approximately $20,000. While there are still many finishing touches to be made, there were many expressions of congratulations over the fact that we were able to open our school this year in a new and modern home.

The speakers for the occasion were County Superintendent Lawrence, and J. O. Middleton, both of whom emphasized in their remarks "The Spirit of Thorsby" and the influence for good it has been in Chilton County. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Thorsby Orchestra, composed of J. O. Johnson, Charles Howard, Nels Peterson, C. R. Foss and Miss Naemi Turnquist, accompanist at the piano.

The faculty for the present school year will be W. T. Bean, Principal; C. E. Brown, Assistant Principal. Mr. Bean and Mr. Brown are both students from Auburn, the former being within one year and the latter within two years of graduation. They will have charge of 7th, 8th and 9th grades and manual training. Miss Mary Sue Stewart will have charge of 5th and 6th grades. She is a graduate of Jacksonville Normal School and has had special training at Auburn. Miss McMae McNeil will have 3rd and 4th grades. She is a normal school graduate and has been for several years a successful teacher. Her sister, Kate McNeil, takes the two lower grades, for which she has had special training.

On Sunday afternoon, August 23, a quiet wedding occurred at the home of the bride, when Mr. Emmett Billingsley and Miss Vercie Littleton were united in marriage by Rev. Bonner, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Billingsley are well kown in and about Thorsby, where they were born and brought up. The bride was attired in a beaded powder-blue Canton Crepe, with gray accessories. Immediately after the ceremony refreshments were served. Mr. Billingsley is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Billingsley of this place, and the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Aaron Littleton also of Thorsby, with whom the young couple will make their home.

The iron material needed for the walls of Thorsby Institute new building has arrived and is being rapidly placed in position. Other material has been coming along, and the near completion of the public school building will release some of the carpenters, who will be available and help speed up the work at the Institute. Plans are now being made to open the school September 30th, regardless of whether the new building is ready or not. We hope to be able to announce the complete faculty next week.

Rev. Joseph E. Each, who has been confined to his home for the past week by illness, is slowly improving and hopes to be out in a few days.

Chas. M. Williams has secured a position as principal of a school in Bibb County not far from Centreville and will take up his work there Monday, August 31st.

Mr. Edward Howard of Fairfield, (not Ensley, as reported last week,) motored to Thorsby for a week end visit, stopping at Jemison to get his wife, who had been spending a week with her parets there, also their baby daughter, whom they brought along to give her delighted grandpa and grandma another chance at the little one before taking both wife and baby home with him.

Mrs. Loveland went to Birmingham Sunday morning and while there took the opportunity to look up some equipment that will be needed for T. I. soon.

Rev. Bakke announces preaching in English at the Lutheran church Sunday, August 30th, at 11 a. m.

Thorsby Parent Teachers Association held a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Danielson last Tuesday afternoon. This organization is working to raise funds for equipmet of our new public school building.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their regular monthly social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler on Thursday afteroon of this week.

Mrs. Chas. S. Howard is entertaining her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Husby, also her brother, Lewis Husby and sister, Clara, all of whom live at St. Elmo, Ala., but were formerly residents of Thorsby. The sister is married, but we did not get her name; she has with her a little daughter three years old. The entire party expect to return to their homes late this week.

We are glad to present to our readers this week another interesting letter by Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, descriptive of places and scenes in the extreme north-west of the United States. Mrs. Gerald and her daughters, Ruth and Mary Ella, returned Tuesday to their home in Thorsby, after spending nearly three months in touring the far western parts of our country. Her letter follows:

Portland, a city of about 300,000 people, is situated on the Willamette River, and is the only fresh water harbor on the west coast. It averages about one ocean-going boat a day, and late statistics give over 15,000 leaving the past year. It has a 35-foot channel leading out to the ocean and is the largest lumber shipping port in the world. It also ships more wheat than any other city on the west coast. Portlad has many large and beautiful parks. Of these Council Crest is one of the most scenic. It is largely an amusement park located 1073 feet above the sea level and about 20 minutes ride from the business part of the city. It has an area of 3,000 square miles and from it one can see five mountain peaks, snow-capped, the most beautiful being Mt. Hood and Mt. St. Helens. From it one can also see the Willamette and Columbia Rivers.

Portland is the north-west headquarters of Montgomery, Ward & Co., and still retains the Forestry Building of the Lewis & Clark Exposition, held in Portland several years ago. Portland has been scheduled for 25 conventions this year, among which are the Iternational C. E. Convention, the Elks and the grand lodge of Odd Fellows.

City Park is a wonderful natural park containing a collection of animals and birds. It has a statue of the bird-woman guide, Indian Sacajowea, who conducted Lewis and Clark down the Columbia River.

Lauralhurst, a park of 31 acres, is near the center of town and is in the middle of the residence district in the main part of the city. It contains a statue of Joan of Arc and one of Ex-President Roosevelt. These statues and many others have been presented by Dr. H. W. Coe of Portland. All of these parks contain tables and benches for picnicers and they are liberally patronized.

The Battleship Oregon is one of the interesting things that all visitors want to see. It was built in1896 in San Francisco and sailed around Cape Horn during the Spanish-American War and participated in the battle of Santiago under commander Chas. Clark. It was condemned by the government about a year ago has since been turned over to the State of Oregon for a historical museum.. It is anchored at Broadway bridge with a caretaker in charge, and Boy Scouts are detailed as guides. It has three decks and old fashioned coal burning boilers. It carried 4 13-inch and 4 8-inch guns.

On the ship, under lock and key, was a $25,000 sterling silver punch set which was given by the school children and the citizens of Oregon. On top deck was marked a circle, where Schley received Cervera's sword when he surrendered at Santiago, and President Wilson also stood on the same spot when he made his Armistice speech.

Three trips of interest out from Portland, were to city of Salem, city of Vancouver, and up the Columbia highway. Salem, about 21 miles from Portland, is the capital of the State, and is located in the heart of the Willamette Valley on the Pacific highway. It is the second largest city in the State, and contains the State Hospital for the insane, a tuberculosis sanitarium and the reform school. Willamette University and the Kimball School of Theology, both Methodist institutions, are located at Salem and it has the largest loganberry bottling place in the world.

Vancouver, Wash., is the oldest settlement in this district. It was founded by the Hudson Bay Company as a trading post. It contains Fort Vancouver, which has an aviation field, and a detachment of the regular army stationed there. The Columbia River highway is one of the most scenic trips in the United States. After a drive of about 15 or 20 miles from Portland we strike the river with its wonderful and ever-changing scenery. An immense formation of rock, called "Rooster Rock," 285 feet high, was one of the interesting pictures that fell on our view. This rock is one of the spots that artists use for a beautiful picture, and also, it is sold in post card forms. A little further along we came to what is known as the "Vista House." It is a sort of observatory built structure from which you can see up and down the river for a distance of 35 miles each way. It is a resting place for visitors and tourists. From the "Vista House" we reach the river bed by a series of 8 loops, a 5% grade. The location of "Vista House," 25 miles from Portland, is called Crown Point, and in the next 10 miles we pass 11 beautiful falls. The most important are Lealaurell, 227 foot drop, Mist fall, 120 feet high, Waukeena, about 400 feet high. Multnomah Falls has a double drop, the first 541 feet, and the second 69 feet, a bridge crossing the stream between the two falls. A little farther along we stopped at Bonneville, where there is an extensive fish hatchery. Our last stop was in the National Forest Reserve, at Eagle Creek, where we had dinner, took some pictures and started for home. The Columbia highway cost Multnomah County about one and a half million dollars.

The Mark of Quality

25 Years of Firestone
Service
to Highway Transportation

25 years of anticipating the requirements of motorists—making manufacturing processes more certain—producing a higher standard of quality—25 years of unswerving adherence to the Firestone pledge, "Most Miles per Dollar"—summarizes Firestone's record of service to car owners.

Firestone factories have grown from a small building approximately 75 x 150 feet to mammoth plants having floor area of over 60 acres—from a capital of $50,000 to over $50,000,000—from an annual sales volume of $100,000 to over $100,000,000—all in the short period of 25 years.

This Firestone record could only have been made through furnishing the public with outstanding values and is, consequently, your assurance of quality and lowest prices.

If you would like to know more of this wonderful record, ask your Firestone dealer to send you an illustrated folder.

With today's high cost of crude rubber and other raw materials, Firestone's opportunity to serve the public was never better, due to its great volume and special advantages in buying, manufacturing and distribution.

FORD ANNOUNCES IMPROVED LINE OF BODY DESIGNS

Changes Most Pronounced — Bodies Longer, Lower and All-Steel. Goes to Colors in Closed Car Models.

Body changes and chassis refinements more pronounced than any made sice the adoption of the Model T chassis were announced here today by the Ford Motor Motor Company. There will be no advance in price, it is also stated.

Outstanding features of the improvements in both open and closed types are lower, all-steel bodies on a lowered chassis, complete new design in most body types, a change from black to colors in closed cars; larger lower fenders, newly designed seats and larger, more powerful brakes. Longer lines, effected through higher radiator and redesigned cowl and bodies are apparent in all the improved Ford cars, but are especially pronounced in the open types. Wide crown fenders hung close to the wheels contribute to the general effect of lowness and smartness.

While runabout and touring car remain in black, the closed bodies are finished in harmonic color schemes, enhanced by nickel radiators. The Coupe and Tudor bodies are finished in deep channel green while the Fordor is rich Windsor Maroon. Greater comfort is provided for driver and passengers in both open and closed cars by larger compartments, deeper cushioned seats and greater leg room.

Many new conveniences are also incorporated in the improved cars. In the runabout, tourig car, coupe and tudor, the gasoline tank is under the cowl and filled through an ingeniously located filler cap completely hidden from sight by a cover similar in appearance to a cowl ventilator. One-piece windshield and narrowed pillars in the tudor and coupe offer the driver greatly increased visibility and improved ventilation.

Driving comfort is materially increased by lower seats, scientifically improved back rests and lowered steering wheel. Brake and clutch pedals are wider and more conveniently spaced.

Four doors are now provided on the touring car and two on the runabout, permitting the driver to take his place from the left side of the car. Curtains, held secure by rods, open with the doors.

Most important in the mechanical changes are the improved brakes. The tranmission brake drum and bands have been considerably increased in size, which gives the foot brake softer and more positive action as well as longer life. The rear wheel brake drums are larger and the brake of self-energizing type.

Cord tires are now standard equipment on all Ford cars.

MIDDLETON SPEAKER AT THORSBY SCHOOL OPENING

Visitors at the opening of Thorsby Public School last Monday were delighted to liste to the splendid address of Col. J. O. Middleton, in which he very fittingly dedicated the new public school building to the training of "the golden-headed boys and girls of Thorsby."

Particularly impressive was the tribute paid by Mr. Middleton to the founders of the little city of Thorsby, in which he stressed the fact that those pe[illegible] chose to build their town and the[illegible] home surroundigs upon a foundation composed of good schools and good churches.

His address was received in high applause by a packed house.

The Daily Kentucky New Era, published at Hopkinsville, carried the following report of the death in its issue of August 13th:

Miss Ruby Pearl Cunningham, nineteen years of age and a graduate of Bethel Womans College of this city, dropped dead last night at the close of a revival meeting at Hurricane church in Trigg County, Ky. Miss Cunningham, beautiful and talented, was the youngest daughter of Levi Cunningham of Cadiz, superintendent of Trigg County Schools. The young lady finished a course at Bethel College here last year with honors and was teaching her first term of school at Rockcastle, near the Hurricane Baptist Church.

At the end of the services she walked up to the altar to say good-night to the preacher and fell lifeless in the aisle as she turned to leave the church. Acute indigestion is given as the cause of her death, superinduced by a heart ailment of long standing. She is survived by her mother, father, and three sisters. The sisters are Mrs. Don C. Harris of Cadiz, Ky., Mrs. L. Champion of Bowling Green, Ky., and Mrs. E. V. Smith of Clanton.

THREE ARRESTED BY OFFICERS IN PAST WEEK

Miss Leona Kimbell of Mitchell Dam was caught Saturday night as she was engaged in retailing liquor in Coca-Cola bottles. She had two bottles in her hands when the officers entered the house. Six other bottles were found when the place was searched. Another search was made of the place Suday and two gallons of whiskey was found. The young lady brought to jail and was released Monday on bond.

Will Caffey, negro, was caught at Knight's Ferry as he was coming across the river with some liquor. He is now in jail.

EILAND GIRL DROWNED

Miss Marjorie Eiland, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cooley Eiland, of Linden, was drowned in the Tombigbee River last Sunday. A Mr. Harris, who saw the girl go down, jumped into the water to rescue her, and was also drowned in the effort to save Miss Eiland.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Monday, August 24th was a "Red Letter" day in Thorsby. At an early hour more than half the population of the town and some from outside assembled for the dedication exercises and opening of Thorsby's fine new public school building, designed for an elementary and junior high school. The building is located on a 5-acre tract and occupies a site on the highest part of its campus, with broad views in every direction. Several new streets are soon to be opened to give easy access to the grounds from all sides. The particular location is the north-west five acres of the old J. F. Peterson home place.

The building has a west front of about 150 feet, is one story high with concrete foundations throughout, and exterior walls of brick tile. It contains five modern standard class rooms, a room for manual training and an assembly hall or auditorium which, when fully equipped with opera chairs, will accommodate approximately 500 people. A stage 18 feet wide extends completely across the east end of the hall, giving ample room for entertainments and exhibitions. The total cost of the building including land and equipment, will be approximately $20,000. While there are still many finishing touches to be made, there were many expressions of congratulations over the fact that we were able to open our school this year in a new and modern home.

The speakers for the occasion were County Superintendent Lawrence, and J. O. Middleton, both of whom emphasized in their remarks "The Spirit of Thorsby" and the influence for good it has been in Chilton County. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Thorsby Orchestra, composed of J. O. Johnson, Charles Howard, Nels Peterson, C. R. Foss and Miss Naemi Turnquist, accompanist at the piano.

The faculty for the present school year will be W. T. Bean, Principal; C. E. Brown, Assistant Principal. Mr. Bean and Mr. Brown are both students from Auburn, the former being within one year and the latter within two years of graduation. They will have charge of 7th, 8th and 9th grades and manual training. Miss Mary Sue Stewart will have charge of 5th and 6th grades. She is a graduate of Jacksonville Normal School and has had special training at Auburn. Miss McMae McNeil will have 3rd and 4th grades. She is a normal school graduate and has been for several years a successful teacher. Her sister, Kate McNeil, takes the two lower grades, for which she has had special training.

On Sunday afternoon, August 23, a quiet wedding occurred at the home of the bride, when Mr. Emmett Billingsley and Miss Vercie Littleton were united in marriage by Rev. Bonner, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Billingsley are well kown in and about Thorsby, where they were born and brought up. The bride was attired in a beaded powder-blue Canton Crepe, with gray accessories. Immediately after the ceremony refreshments were served. Mr. Billingsley is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Billingsley of this place, and the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Aaron Littleton also of Thorsby, with whom the young couple will make their home.

The iron material needed for the walls of Thorsby Institute new building has arrived and is being rapidly placed in position. Other material has been coming along, and the near completion of the public school building will release some of the carpenters, who will be available and help speed up the work at the Institute. Plans are now being made to open the school September 30th, regardless of whether the new building is ready or not. We hope to be able to announce the complete faculty next week.

Rev. Joseph E. Each, who has been confined to his home for the past week by illness, is slowly improving and hopes to be out in a few days.

Chas. M. Williams has secured a position as principal of a school in Bibb County not far from Centreville and will take up his work there Monday, August 31st.

Mr. Edward Howard of Fairfield, (not Ensley, as reported last week,) motored to Thorsby for a week end visit, stopping at Jemison to get his wife, who had been spending a week with her parets there, also their baby daughter, whom they brought along to give her delighted grandpa and grandma another chance at the little one before taking both wife and baby home with him.

Mrs. Loveland went to Birmingham Sunday morning and while there took the opportunity to look up some equipment that will be needed for T. I. soon.

Rev. Bakke announces preaching in English at the Lutheran church Sunday, August 30th, at 11 a. m.

Thorsby Parent Teachers Association held a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Danielson last Tuesday afternoon. This organization is working to raise funds for equipmet of our new public school building.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their regular monthly social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler on Thursday afteroon of this week.

Mrs. Chas. S. Howard is entertaining her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Husby, also her brother, Lewis Husby and sister, Clara, all of whom live at St. Elmo, Ala., but were formerly residents of Thorsby. The sister is married, but we did not get her name; she has with her a little daughter three years old. The entire party expect to return to their homes late this week.

We are glad to present to our readers this week another interesting letter by Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, descriptive of places and scenes in the extreme north-west of the United States. Mrs. Gerald and her daughters, Ruth and Mary Ella, returned Tuesday to their home in Thorsby, after spending nearly three months in touring the far western parts of our country. Her letter follows:

Portland, a city of about 300,000 people, is situated on the Willamette River, and is the only fresh water harbor on the west coast. It averages about one ocean-going boat a day, and late statistics give over 15,000 leaving the past year. It has a 35-foot channel leading out to the ocean and is the largest lumber shipping port in the world. It also ships more wheat than any other city on the west coast. Portlad has many large and beautiful parks. Of these Council Crest is one of the most scenic. It is largely an amusement park located 1073 feet above the sea level and about 20 minutes ride from the business part of the city. It has an area of 3,000 square miles and from it one can see five mountain peaks, snow-capped, the most beautiful being Mt. Hood and Mt. St. Helens. From it one can also see the Willamette and Columbia Rivers.

Portland is the north-west headquarters of Montgomery, Ward & Co., and still retains the Forestry Building of the Lewis & Clark Exposition, held in Portland several years ago. Portland has been scheduled for 25 conventions this year, among which are the Iternational C. E. Convention, the Elks and the grand lodge of Odd Fellows.

City Park is a wonderful natural park containing a collection of animals and birds. It has a statue of the bird-woman guide, Indian Sacajowea, who conducted Lewis and Clark down the Columbia River.

Lauralhurst, a park of 31 acres, is near the center of town and is in the middle of the residence district in the main part of the city. It contains a statue of Joan of Arc and one of Ex-President Roosevelt. These statues and many others have been presented by Dr. H. W. Coe of Portland. All of these parks contain tables and benches for picnicers and they are liberally patronized.

The Battleship Oregon is one of the interesting things that all visitors want to see. It was built in1896 in San Francisco and sailed around Cape Horn during the Spanish-American War and participated in the battle of Santiago under commander Chas. Clark. It was condemned by the government about a year ago has since been turned over to the State of Oregon for a historical museum.. It is anchored at Broadway bridge with a caretaker in charge, and Boy Scouts are detailed as guides. It has three decks and old fashioned coal burning boilers. It carried 4 13-inch and 4 8-inch guns.

On the ship, under lock and key, was a $25,000 sterling silver punch set which was given by the school children and the citizens of Oregon. On top deck was marked a circle, where Schley received Cervera's sword when he surrendered at Santiago, and President Wilson also stood on the same spot when he made his Armistice speech.

Three trips of interest out from Portland, were to city of Salem, city of Vancouver, and up the Columbia highway. Salem, about 21 miles from Portland, is the capital of the State, and is located in the heart of the Willamette Valley on the Pacific highway. It is the second largest city in the State, and contains the State Hospital for the insane, a tuberculosis sanitarium and the reform school. Willamette University and the Kimball School of Theology, both Methodist institutions, are located at Salem and it has the largest loganberry bottling place in the world.

Vancouver, Wash., is the oldest settlement in this district. It was founded by the Hudson Bay Company as a trading post. It contains Fort Vancouver, which has an aviation field, and a detachment of the regular army stationed there. The Columbia River highway is one of the most scenic trips in the United States. After a drive of about 15 or 20 miles from Portland we strike the river with its wonderful and ever-changing scenery. An immense formation of rock, called "Rooster Rock," 285 feet high, was one of the interesting pictures that fell on our view. This rock is one of the spots that artists use for a beautiful picture, and also, it is sold in post card forms. A little further along we came to what is known as the "Vista House." It is a sort of observatory built structure from which you can see up and down the river for a distance of 35 miles each way. It is a resting place for visitors and tourists. From the "Vista House" we reach the river bed by a series of 8 loops, a 5% grade. The location of "Vista House," 25 miles from Portland, is called Crown Point, and in the next 10 miles we pass 11 beautiful falls. The most important are Lealaurell, 227 foot drop, Mist fall, 120 feet high, Waukeena, about 400 feet high. Multnomah Falls has a double drop, the first 541 feet, and the second 69 feet, a bridge crossing the stream between the two falls. A little farther along we stopped at Bonneville, where there is an extensive fish hatchery. Our last stop was in the National Forest Reserve, at Eagle Creek, where we had dinner, took some pictures and started for home. The Columbia highway cost Multnomah County about one and a half million dollars.

"Get in the Well Dressed Circle"

A Feature in connection with CURLEE CLOTHES is the Fact that the Models are always Correct and in Good Taste. The Designing Staff steers clear of the extreme, which accounts for the good-looking lines of CURLEE CLOTHES.

We are showing a splendid array of Dependable Fabrics in the season's Choicest Colorings. Among them you will find the Suit which you will Want, which will fit you and which you will enjoy wearing.

And when you consider the low prices at which CURLEE CLOTHES are sold, you naturally wonder how it is done. The answer is simply this: CURLEE Clothes are manufactured by a large organization with a large sales volume. The Mark of Quality

Firestone Service

to Highway Transportation

25 years of anticipating the requirements of motorists—making manufacturing processes more certain—producing a higher standard of quality—25 years of unswerving adherence to the Firestone pledge, "Most Miles per Dollar"—summarizes Firestone's record of service to car owners.

Firestone factories have grown from a small building approximately 75 x 150 feet to mammoth plants having floor area of over 60 acres—from a capital of $50,000 to over $50,000,000—from an annual sales volume of $100,000 to over $100,000,000—all in the short period of 25 years.

This Firestone record could only have been made through furnishing the public with outstanding values and is, consequently, your assurance of quality and lowest prices.

If you would like to know more of this wonderful record, ask your Firestone dealer to send you an illustrated folder.

With today's high cost of crude rubber and other raw materials, Firestone's opportunity to serve the public was never better, due to its great volume and special advantages in buying, manufacturing and distribution.

The best time to select seed for planting next spring is in the field this fall.

The new government report on cotton crop August 16 places the estimate at 13,990,000 bales; the estimate of August 1st was 13,566,000 bales. Up to August 16 Alabama had ginned 36,954 bales.

Anybody can say "yes," but it takes a man to say "no." It's an easy matter to float with the current, but the current always goes down stream. It takes effort to say "no" to the common drift of today and try to keep your life continually on the incline.

Members of the Alabama Automotive Trades Association in executive meeting Sunday at Montgomery, went on record as being opposed to the seventy-five million dollar road bond issue as suggested by Senator John Rogers. The automobile men at the same time, however, expressed favor for a smaller bond issue.

147 More Miles of Hard Surfaced Roads

Alabama farmers and tourists now enjoy 147 miles more of Federal-aid highways than they did a year ago, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. This mileage, completed in the year ending June 30, cost a total of $1,371,376, of which the federal government furnished $676,950. Highway construction under this plan now under way in the state totals 804 miles, while the total mileage completed previous to last year was 464 miles.

This additional mileage, while a convenience to the tourist in the state, is a godsend to the farmer, according to the Foundation. It is estimated that each and every farmer in this section of the country averages 23 tons of farm products hauled to market and five tons of feed, fuel, fertilizer, machinery, supplies, etc., from town. When good roads make trucks feasible this is not very burdensome, but it represents a good many hours' labor where horses and poor roads must be used. And so while the tourist finds inter-city roads mighty comfortable, to the farmer a good serviceable road from his farm to the nearest market is a downright necessity.

The expansion of hard road systems both in this and other states in recent years has given the farmer an added inducement for going into business for himself, the Foundation states. That he has not been slow to take advantage of the opportunity is testified in the increasing number of roadside markets on the more frequented highways. Figures show that each of these markets takes in fifteen to thirty dollars up to several hundred dollars a day, varying with the locality, the preponderance of buyers being tourists driving through the vicinity. Some of these are nothing more than stands of simple board construction while the more pretentious are housed in buildings which may be locked after the day's or season's business. The most successful of the markets are so placed as to have convenient parking facilities where prospective buyers may examine the articles of food, which should be of good quality yet moderately priced and attractively displayed.

Present indications are that hogs are approaching the peak of their price cycle, although short supplies for the next few months point to continued price advances through the late summer.

During the next twelve months the number of hogs on the markets will be smaller than at any time since 1921. Prices higher than during the last twelve months are expected. The probabilities are that these high prices plus a larger supply of corn this year, that will stimulate production during 1926 and if this happens a downward swing in the price cycle will follow.

A wheat crop for 18 countries of 2,148,000,000 bushels this year as compared with 2,098,000,000 last year for the same countries is reported by the Department of Agriculture.

Unfortunate is the farmer who is farming poor land and is too lazy to make it rich, which he can do, with the help of hairy vetch.

One of the best ways a man can show his love for his wife is by making her kitchen as convenient as it can be.

WILLIE BEAN BACK IN SCHOOL WORK

Monday morning of this week Prof. W. T. Bean returned to his "first love," the schoolroom, and he expressed himself as being thrilled by the incident and having somewhat the feeling of the prodigal son who returned to his father's house after a series of adverse experiences.

In the return of Prof. Bean to the work of school-teaching and school administration, we feel that the entire school system of this county is to be congratulated, and particularly is it the good fortune of the Thorsby Public School, of which he is to be the principal this year.

Mr. Bean is unquestionably one of the most outstanding school men of our county. He began teaching about 20 years ago, achieving a signal success and a record not to be ashamed of. He was for several years at the head of our county school system as superintendent of education, and his record in that capacity was marked by the same degree of success that has always attended him in his school work.

The great need of our schools today is to get back into the work more of the sturdy, experienced, and well-qualified men of the type of Mr. Bean. With all due respect to the present teaching force of our schools, we can not refrain from saying that our schools are not holding up to the standard that they should maintain, and the great cause of retrogression is the fact that we haven't got the right kind of teachers to administer the important business of our educational machinery.

The fact that we haven't got them is no fault of the teachers, either. Our best teachers have quit teaching because they do not find in the school business the degree of remuneration which they can get from their ability when directed toward other lines of business endeavor.

We like to believe and claim that our school business is the greatest business of the present day. Yet we importance when we allow conditions fail to mark it out as of such relative to prevail that will draw out from our school work our very best teachers and carry them into other lines of work because they can thereby get a better dividend from the investment which they made in preparing themselves for earning a living.

We know that it is not possible for all teachers to be the best in ability, training and experience. But it is possible to have enough of such teachers to act as a ballast and thereby strengthen our school system greatly. If we can have a liberal scattering of teachers who are capable of holding to the ropes in spite of all the besetting gales, we can feel much safer than if all our teachers are inexperienced and ill-prepared for the work.

We rejoice at the sight of anything or any movement that means the betterment of the schools of our county. Better schools, better teachers, mean better citizens of tomorrow.

DR. EZELL DIDN'T GET HERE LAST SUNDAY

Dr. S. J. Ezell did not get back to Clanton as was expected last week. He was detained in South Carolina by the serious illness of his wife's sister.

He expects to be here in time for the services next Sunday.

Dr. R. J. Eiland went to Linden on Monday to attend the funeral of his niece, a young girl about 14 years of age, who was drowned Sunday. She was the daughter of Mr. Cooley Eiland.

Forests Help To Keep Streams Running

Several Southern cities are threatened with a shortage of electric power on ccount of an insufficient head of water back of the dams, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. This is due partly to deficient rainfall in recent months, but more especially to the fact that the rain that has fallen was not retained in the soil whence it could seep into the streams and keep the reservoirs filled.

When rain falls upon the earth it may either soak in or quickly run off If the surface upon which it falls is loose, spongy and porous it will absorb tremendous quantities of water. A surface of this nature keeps the mineral soil underneath from becoming hardened, and enables the latter also to retain water, yielding it at a comparatively slow and steady rate into the streams. Such a surface is furnished by nature through leaf mold and the decay of forest litter. In general this part of the soil is called the humus layer.

If the humus layer is not allowed to accumulate or is burned off by forest fires, the exposed soil becomes baked and hardened, thus permitting the water to run off quickly causing floods of greater or less severity. Even when a part of the water succeeds in penetrating the soil it is quickly evaporated by the sun and wind in the absence of a protective mulch.

For the forest fires that swept the south last year we are still paying the penalty. Over millions of acres of land, much of which was at the headwaters of our streams, the humus layer was completely destroyed. It will take several years for this again to accumulate. Meanwhile, with a spring and summer drought following that of last fall, the earth has been so thoroughly drained of its moisture that, unless the situation is saved by general rains, in certain localities hydroelectric power may dwindle to a point where its service to the public will be greatly curtailed.

Field Selection of Seeds Is Being Done

With most crops mature and the remainder rapidly maturing wide-awake farmers are now selecting seed for next year. They are making their selections in the field, which is the only place where it can be done to best advantage.

By making their selection in the field now these farmers say that they can select seed from those stalks that have out-yielded other stalks under the same conditions. In this way they will reproduce the highest yielders.

This work is being encouraged by county agents. If selection is postponed until planting time next spring it will be impossible to select the seed from stalks which yielded best. And high yields is the chief reason for seed selection.

Following a drouth, which has been rather general all over Alabama, a suggestion is being made that a careful search be made for stalks of corn, cotton, soybeans, peanuts, and other crops which have stood out and made good yields despite the drouth. Such stalks are not found frequently but when one is found it should be very valuable.

In variety tests of corn on the experiment station at Auburn the largest yielding variety has yielded twice as much as the lowest, thereby demonstrating the value of getting the right variety. The difference is just as marked with cotton and other crops.

After seed are selected the next step is to store them where they will be out of reach of rats, mice, and insects; and also protected against injury by weather.

NEWS FROM REFUGE

Our meeting which began here on August 15th was very successful. This was one of the best meetings ever held here. We thank Rev. W. W. Robinson for his assistance, together with our pastor, Rev. M. J. Parrish. We had a good attendance day and night, and the attention was excellent. Sixteen gave their hearts to God for baptism, two came by letter, and two who had been excluded from the church came back. So we now have 20 additional members to help us roll the wheel in spite of satan's stumblers.

We have an evergreen Sunday school, 83 on roll; last Sunday we had 72 present.

We will have our baptizing services at Mims Pond next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody invited.

Rev. W. W. Robinson went to Elmore Monday to conduct a revival meeting. He found the folks too busy picking cotton to attend protracted meeting, and returned home Monday night.

"CHRISTINE'S IVORY PALACE"

The above is the name of a new story just off the press, written by Mrs. Lula M. Dudley of Clanton. As one would naturally infer from the first word of the title, the story is based on Christianity, and is very striking and interesting along this line. As the author puts it "Christine's Ivory Palace" is a story in allegory of primitive Christianity living and moving in the twentieth Century.

Mrs. Dudley, who is a native Clantonian, is the author of several good books, such as "In the Sweet Clover Fields," "Through Pastures Green," and "The Secret of a Happy Day Laborer."

All those who have read John Bunyan's famous allegory on Christianity, "Pilgrim's Progress," should get a copy of Mrs. Dudley's book and read it. This new book is written in the style of Mr. Bunyan's masterpiece but is different in form in that "Christine's Ivory Palace" is more modernized and depicts Christianity more as it is in this, the twentieth century. In the introduction Mrs. Dudley says: "I present in allegory Christine and her household in a spiritual Kingdom —fulfilling the Word that Jesus Christ 'hath made us kings and priests unto God.'"

The total number of farms in the United States in 1924 was 30,000 fewer than the number in 1923, reports the Department of Agriculture. There was also a reduction of 1,200,000 acres of land in crops. This represents only 1-3 of 1%. Approximately 1,000,000 acres of this land was turned into pastures.

the Railroads Face an Enormous Task

Statisticians and well posted traffic authorities, both in and out of the railroad business, have estimated that two million more freight cars will be required in 1925 than in 1924.

This estimate is supported by the fact that during the first eighteen weeks of the current year, nearly half a million more cars were used than during the same period last year.

Fall stocks of merchandise and bumper crops must be transported. The railroads have the biggest task on their hands that they have ever had to accomplish. You can help by ordering shipments out now, before the October and November rush comes on.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has added to its equipment 2,000 freight cars and 25 engines since the first of the year; representing an investment of $4,700,000. This railroad is trying to do its part.

POOR ORI

Eczema

OH! The joy of a peaceful, restful night. What a wonderful "up and going" feeling follows such a night of undisturbed slumber.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that send new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Because the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. Start taking S.S.S. today and watch it rout that annoying, skin destroying, health undermining army that holds your system in its grasp! Learn again what it means to enjoy peaceful, restful nights of slumber.

when I felt that way, and it would relieve me, and I would feel better for days.

"My husband takes it for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more.

"I sure do recommend Thedford's Black-Draught."

Your liver is the largest organ in your body. When out of order, it causes many complaints. Put your liver in shape by taking Black-Draught. Purely vegetable.

Adventists Conference Now in Session Here

The 20th annual conference and camp meeting of the Alabama Conference of Seventh Day Adventists is now in session in Clanton. Delegates and workers are present from all parts of the State and a representative of The Union-Banner was informed that the attendance this year was unusually large and the spirit of the meeting is unusually inspirational.

At the first business session of the conference President C. B. Stephenson rendered his annual report indicating the progress of the various departments of the church work for the conference year. Many interesting features were noted, but especial attention was called to the fact that during this period there has been a 10% increase in the conference membership, largely as result of evangelistic work in Pensacola, Mobile and Bessemer.

His report further showed that the membership of the Alabama conference paid during the year 1924 tithes amounting to $23,756.63, and gave offerings to missions of $18,719.48, or a total of $42,476.11, which makes an average of $56.55 per member annually.

Seventh Day Adventists believe in the soon coming of Christ and that the whole world must hear the Gospel of the soon coming Kingdom. This belief prompts them to liberality in the support of the Gospel work.

The report of the conference treasurer, Mr. C. O. Franz, revealed a very encouraging financial situation. An increase was shown in amount of tithes and offerings received and also that the indebtedness on church and conference properties and other liabilities had been reduced approximately 50% during 1924.

Secretaries of the different departments of the conference work gave brief reports, each showing very material progress for the year.

Mr. J. F. Ashlock, Field Secretary of the Alabama Book and Bible House emphasized the interesting fact that fifteen students from Southern Junior College were earning scholarships for the coming year through the sale of deominational literature.

Sabbath School Secretary, Mrs. K. R. Haughey, reported that a majority of the 1,000 or more members of the Sabbath schools in Alabama follow the excellent custom of studying the Sabbath School lesson every day and hold records of perfect attendance at Sabbath school for the year. The offering to missions through the Sabbath School for the second quarter of 1925 was an average of 30c per week per church member.

Bishop G. W. Wells of Nashville, Tenn., president of the Southern Union Conference is giving a series of Bible studies on "The Christ Life," "Justification by Faith," "Perfection of Christian Godliness," and kindred topics. These studies have been attended by the power of the spirit and brought a new vision of the possibilities of the victorious life.

Prof. Marion E. Cady of Washington, D. C., Educational Secretary of the general conference gave a series of inspirational lectures on Christian Education, an education that develops the body, trains the mind and brings the heart into harmony with God. Adventists are firm fundamentalists and believe that the inspired Word of God is the foundation of all true education. Prof. Cady stated that in Seventh Day Adventist schools provision is made for the children and youth from kindergarten to college, and at the present time 40,000 students are enrolled in these schools receiving preparation, to bear a part in the promulgation of the message of the soon coming of Christ.

The official business of the conference is being carried through with promptness and unity of spirit. The nominating committee submitted the following names as officers for the ensuing year:

President, Elder C. B. Stephenson; Secretary-Treasurer, C. O. Franz; Home Missionary Secretary, Elder K. R. Haughey; Sabbath School and Young People's Missionary Volunteer Secretary, Mrs. K. R. Haughey; Field Missionary Secretary, J. F. Ashlock; Executive Committee, C. B. Stephenson, C. O. Franz, J. G. Mitchell, W. P. McLennan, J. F. Ashlock.

Elder W. F. Martin, Religious Liberty Secretary of the General Conference, and Elder H. P. Sparrow, who has spent long years of service in the mission fields of Africa, have arrived on the grounds, and will carry a large part of the preaching work during the closing days of the meeting. It will be worth while to hear these speakers, as the message they will bring is timely and vital.

Other general representatives of the denominational work present are Prof. Hamilton and Prof. Adams of the Southern Junior College, Collegewah, Tenn.; Messrs. F. W. Schmehl, W. P. Bradley and Elder O. F. Frank of the Southern Union Conference, Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. H. P. Gay, Superintendent of the book department of the Southern Publishing Association, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Iverson, who are at home on furlough from Singapore.

The meetings will continue until Sunday night, August 30, and a cordial invitation is extended to the citizens of Clanton and vicinity to attend the services and share in the blessings of the meetings.

Two Conundrums and a Tragedy

I do not know why it is that nearly all the stories having to do with frugality should be aimed at the Scot. Personally, it has always seemed to me that the Scotch were not a stingy race, but rather that they merely had elevated canniness in business dealings to the nth degree. Your average Scotchman does not particularly wish to hoard his money; he merely desires that when he spends it he shall obtain a proper return. But if one may judge by the overbearing yield of Scotch stories—or rather, stories aimed at the Scotch—the world at large holds to a different view.

You know of course the ancient conundrum which was printed years ago in London Punch. As I recall it, this conundrum ran as follows:

"How, at the conclusion of a railroad journey, can you definitely fix the nationality of an English passenger, an Irish passenger, and a Scotch passenger?"

The answer was:

"The Englishman hurries to the lunch-stand; the Irishman hastens to the bar; the Scotchman goes back through the train to see if anybody left anything."

Then, here just the other day, a friend fired this one at me:

"Why," he asked, "have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"All right," I said, "I'll bite; tell me, Mr. Bones, why have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"Because," he said, "it's a gift."

A still later addition to the crop has just reached me. It is stated that an Englishman, standing treat to a Scotchman at a pub, recommended that his guest try some very fine brandy which the establishment had in stock at three shillings a drink. With glistening eyes the Scotchman agreed. He waited until the barmaid had poured out the brandy and then with a sudden leap he pounced upon the glass, seizing it in both hands as in a vise.

"Why do you do that, old dear?" asked the astonished host.

"Because," said the Scotchman, "when I was a verra young man, back in Edinburgh in the year 1802, I saw one of them spilled."

POOR ORI

Eczema

OH! The joy of a peaceful, restful night. What a wonderful "up and going" feeling follows such a night of undisturbed slumber.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that send new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Because the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. Start taking S.S.S. today and watch it rout that annoying, skin destroying, health undermining army that holds your system in its grasp! Learn again what it means to enjoy peaceful, restful nights of slumber.

Adventists Conference Now in Session Here

The 20th annual conference and camp meeting of the Alabama Conference of Seventh Day Adventists is now in session in Clanton. Delegates and workers are present from all parts of the State and a representative of The Union-Banner was informed that the attendance this year was unusually large and the spirit of the meeting is unusually inspirational.

At the first business session of the conference President C. B. Stephenson rendered his annual report indicating the progress of the various departments of the church work for the conference year. Many interesting features were noted, but especial attention was called to the fact that during this period there has been a 10% increase in the conference membership, largely as result of evangelistic work in Pensacola, Mobile and Bessemer.

His report further showed that the membership of the Alabama conference paid during the year 1924 tithes amounting to $23,756.63, and gave offerings to missions of $18,719.48, or a total of $42,476.11, which makes an average of $56.55 per member annually.

Seventh Day Adventists believe in the soon coming of Christ and that the whole world must hear the Gospel of the soon coming Kingdom. This belief prompts them to liberality in the support of the Gospel work.

The report of the conference treasurer, Mr. C. O. Franz, revealed a very encouraging financial situation. An increase was shown in amount of tithes and offerings received and also that the indebtedness on church and conference properties and other liabilities had been reduced approximately 50% during 1924.

Secretaries of the different departments of the conference work gave brief reports, each showing very material progress for the year.

Mr. J. F. Ashlock, Field Secretary of the Alabama Book and Bible House emphasized the interesting fact that fifteen students from Southern Junior College were earning scholarships for the coming year through the sale of deominational literature.

Sabbath School Secretary, Mrs. K. R. Haughey, reported that a majority of the 1,000 or more members of the Sabbath schools in Alabama follow the excellent custom of studying the Sabbath School lesson every day and hold records of perfect attendance at Sabbath school for the year. The offering to missions through the Sabbath School for the second quarter of 1925 was an average of 30c per week per church member.

Bishop G. W. Wells of Nashville, Tenn., president of the Southern Union Conference is giving a series of Bible studies on "The Christ Life," "Justification by Faith," "Perfection of Christian Godliness," and kindred topics. These studies have been attended by the power of the spirit and brought a new vision of the possibilities of the victorious life.

Prof. Marion E. Cady of Washington, D. C., Educational Secretary of the general conference gave a series of inspirational lectures on Christian Education, an education that develops the body, trains the mind and brings the heart into harmony with God. Adventists are firm fundamentalists and believe that the inspired Word of God is the foundation of all true education. Prof. Cady stated that in Seventh Day Adventist schools provision is made for the children and youth from kindergarten to college, and at the present time 40,000 students are enrolled in these schools receiving preparation, to bear a part in the promulgation of the message of the soon coming of Christ.

The official business of the conference is being carried through with promptness and unity of spirit. The nominating committee submitted the following names as officers for the ensuing year:

President, Elder C. B. Stephenson; Secretary-Treasurer, C. O. Franz; Home Missionary Secretary, Elder K. R. Haughey; Sabbath School and Young People's Missionary Volunteer Secretary, Mrs. K. R. Haughey; Field Missionary Secretary, J. F. Ashlock; Executive Committee, C. B. Stephenson, C. O. Franz, J. G. Mitchell, W. P. McLennan, J. F. Ashlock.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Two Conundrums and a Tragedy

I do not know why it is that nearly all the stories having to do with frugality should be aimed at the Scot. Personally, it has always seemed to me that the Scotch were not a stingy race, but rather that they merely had elevated canniness in business dealings to the nth degree. Your average Scotchman does not particularly wish to hoard his money; he merely desires that when he spends it he shall obtain a proper return. But if one may judge by the everbearing yield of Scotch stories—or rather, stories aimed at the Scotch—the world at large holds to a different view.

You know of course the ancient conundrum which was printed years ago in London Punch. As I recall it, this conundrum ran as follows:

"How, at the conclusion of a railroad journey, can you definitely fix the nationality of an English passenger, an Irish passenger, and a Scotch passenger?"

The answer was:

"The Englishman hurries to the lunch-stand; the Irishman hastens to the bar; the Scotchman goes back through the train to see if anybody left anything."

Then, here just the other day, a friend fired this one at me:

"Why," he asked, "have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"All right," I said, "I'll bite; tell me, Mr. Bones, why have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"Because," he said, "it's a gift."

A still later addition to the crop has just reached me. It is stated that an Englishman, standing treat to a Scotchman at a pub, recommended that his guest try some very fine brandy which the establishment had in stock at three shillings a drink. With glistening eyes the Scotchman agreed. He waited until the barmaid had poured out the brandy and then with a sudden leap he pounced upon the glass, seizing it in both hands as in a vise.

"Why do you do that, old dear?" asked the astonished host.

"Because," said the Scotchman, "when I was a verra young man, back in Edinburgh in the year 1862, I saw one of them spilled."

Letters to the Editor

THE CONDITION OF FARMERS

Editor Union-Banner:

The farmers around Clanton are laboring under unnecessary hardships. We farmers are not satisfied with the present crop not making as much as we were expecting two months ago. However, that can't be helped.

We begin gathering our crops by paying too much for cotton picking. We haul our cotton to the gins and pay two prices for having it ginned. We take our sample and receipt to town and sell it for what we can get for it. We are to blame for the whole thing. We should get busy and see that the price of ginning is cut. If we could get 30 cents for cotton the present price for ginning would not be too much. As it is, it is unreasonable. Let us get busy for ginning another season.

It also seems that our cotton buyers at Clanton are a little behind other towns. So we will try to locate Monroe Hubbard of Jemison in Clanton, and one or two from elsewhere, and try to get some opposition in our town, and see if we can't get more interest in our behalf.

I think this proposition should be looked after.

We take it for granted that every home in the county takes a county paper. If it don't, they should. So I would be glad for somebody else, and as many as will do so, express an opinion about this important question. Anybody has a right to discuss this question, and I hope to see what you have to say about it.—G. T. Wilbanks, Clanton, Ala., August 24, 1925.

AGAINST THE SCHOOL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

I hear that there is coming another election for more tax on us poor folks. I will say to the people, let's come together and vote it down. Let us cut our schools down to five months and teach our children to work seven months in the fields and make something to live on. I think it would be best for our children at present.

I love education as well as anybody, but I think it is becoming too hard for us poor folks. Let's teach our children to work in the fields and make a living at home. The school business has run into speculation. It is not worth the price that we pay to have teachers. If we will come to a reasonable price and stick to it, the teachers will come to it and teach our schools for us and be glad to get to teach.

I know that some people will make light of what I say, but I am honest about it. I think the people should vote this tax down.—John S. Dennis, Clanton, Ala., Route 1, August 24, 1925.

Let Mr. Russell take your measure for that Fall suit Friday and Saturday of this week. Mr. Russell is with the Kahn Tailoring Co., and will be at Tom Kemp's store.

A LETTER FOR RENTERS

Mr. Editor:

I saw in the Banner last week a letter from a man who said, "I am a renter, myself," and he urges "every renter" to come out on September 15, and vote against the proposed school tax. It is by all means the thing for every renter to do—IF HE WANTS HIS CHILDREN TO BE RENTERS ALL THEIR LIVES.

We are told that in the old slave days, the slaves prayed for the day when their children might be free. But in these modern days many of those who are "chained to the land," will fight the hardest against those who would release their children from these same chains.

If Chilton County could compel every white child in the County, whose health of body and mind would allow it, to attend a good school 9 months in the year for ten years from 7 to 17, Chilton County would be, 25 years hence, the wealthiest County in the State, unless other Counties did the same thing, and the children of the renters would reap the largest benefits from the improvement.—E. W. Butler, Thorsby, Ala., August 22, 1925.

IN FAVOR OF SCHOOL TAX

Dear Editor:

Permit me to say a few words about the County one-mill tax. I am a land owner of Chilton County and a citizen of same, and as such am interested in the schools. I have noticed that most of the people who oppose taxation are those who do not own property and therefore do not pay one penny of the tax. I do feel that those people should be willing that those of us who pay the taxes should have the privilege of doing so.

The Board is striving to reach our rural children and give them better schools. I am glad to see them turning their attention this way and I want to see it continue and if we cooperate with the Board it means that we shall have better buildings and longer terms. We want one of those buildings out here in our community, and we know, furthermore, that if we begin to cut down the funds the Board can not do these things for us. I am glad to pay the tax because I think it means something to the system and the time is here that if we do not give our children the very best training it is possible for us to give them they will have but little chance when they get to be men and women.

With best wishes and hopes of being able to vote the one-mill county tax, I am, Yours for better schools.—J. T. Cox, Clanton, Ala., R. F. D. No. 3.

Alabama lands increased in value 7.7% from 1923 to 1925. At the same time, Georgia land decreased 3.7%; Mississippi, 7.7; while North Carolina showed no change.

LAWRENCE WRITES AGAIN ABOUT SCHOOL MATTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

I have just returned from the opening of the Thorsby School. They are just now getting into their new hollow tile building and I have never seen a people in better spirits than those splendid people of Thorsby were Monday morning. Not only were the grown-ups happy but the little fellows were as happy and jo'ly as children are when father has bought them a new suit or a new pair of shoes. The children have been going to school in a building that was altogether inadequate but now they have a structure which is a credit to any town or community. The faculty was no less optimistic because they feel that they have something with which to work. Teachers need tools with which to work as much so as a carpenter or any one else, and we have been too long realizing this.

During the past three years the County School Board has been giving much attention to this phase of our school system. Within these years they have spent $88,818.10 for buildings and equipment and this has been done in the face of a great reduction in State funds. It is remarkable how they have been able to do so much with the money in hand. There are now eight new buildings in the County, and when the Verbena scool is completed there will be nine. The work of this board is a monument to their business ability and the wise way in which they have handled the school affairs. If we stay behind them in this work it will not be long until we shall build up a system of schools in this County that will be a credit to it.

I certainly hope we hold to the same standards, at least, and I always feel that even individuals should strive constantly for higher standards. That is exactly why we are asking you to re-vote the one-mill tax. Not to vote it means to go forward. If we turn back let us "make a cross mark and spit in it" before we do it. If some one should offer any farmer in this County $10,000.00 with which to improve his farm provided that farmer would spend $3,000.00 for the same purpose I am sure he would gladly accept the proposition. That is exactly what the one-mill tax means to our school system. The corporations will furnish about $10,000.00 over against the farmers' $3,000.00 If you are not a land owner you pay none of this tax.

Again asking that every one do the fair thing and study the proposition from an unbiased point of view and vote as he conscientiously believes is for the best interest of the schools, I am, Yours for better school system.—B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

Grammar School To Open September 7th

The Clanton Grammar school will open on Sept. 7. In order to avoid the confusion that we usually have on the first day of school, I shall ask that the pupils in the first, second, third, fourth and fifth grades be present at 8 and the ones who are in the sixth and the Junior High Grades be present at 10.

The incidental fee will be 3.50, as it has been for several years. You can get your receipt for this fee at the Alred Drug Store. This fee is payable at the beginning of school. Please attend to this matter at once.

We have been having a great deal of trouble about people enrolling their children in school before they have reached the legal age. The law is very plain on this matter, and there is nothing left optional with the teachers. The law says that a child must be six years of age on r before the first of October to be elgible to enter school. We shall make an honest effort to carry out the law in regard to the age limit, and we hope that no one will enroll a child who is not six years of age before October first.

In order that we may arrange to accomodate all the pupils who wish to attend this school, we would be very glad for you to enroll on the first day, even though you may not be prepared to attend regularly at first.

We are all very much disappointed in not having a new building, but we hope that we may continue to have the co-operation of the people and rtill make this one of the best schools that we have ever had. I want to assure you that there will be no relaxation on the part of the faculty on account of this disappointment. We would all like to have a new building, but we do not want to lay too much emphasis on this part of the school. I have seen some mighty good school taught in much worse buildings that we have. So let us not get the idea that the school is going to be a failure because we did not get a new building.

Dr. Ezell's Father On Visit Here

Upon his return from a four-weeks vacation last Thursday, Dr. S. J. Ezell brought with him his father, who will spend a few weeks here.

The elder Ezell is himself a Baptist preacher of the old school. He filled the pulpit for his son Sunday night. His remarks were in the nature of a testimony for Christ covering briefly some very interesting experiences as a soldier of the cross for many years. Those who heard him were filled with joy at his interesting discourse at the close of which practically every person in the house went forward and greeted him with a hearty handshake.

The sermon of Dr. Ezell at the morning service was declared by many to have been the best he ever preached. It was a very touching exposition of the practical side of Christ's care for burdened humanity in all of the trials and experiences of life.

Road Completed From Clanton North

Before many more days shall have passed the new cement road from Clanton to Birmingham will be open to traffic, except a short distance in Jefferson County. Morgan-Hill Paving Company, coming south from Lomax, completed the distance to Clanton last Saturday. They took up their machines at the top of the hill above Maddox's gin and skipped through the business part of town, beginning again Monday at the intersection of First Avenue and Seventh Street. It will take them only a few days to connect up at the old Hot Well with the paving that already extends south to Cordrey's Old Mill.

Morgan-Hill has the contract for paving to the county line south, and they will continue to push forward in that direction when they complete here.

Officers Capture Large Whiskey Plant

Sheriff Littlejohn and his deputies, together with Federal officer Gillespie, went into Stumps Hills last Saturday and destroyed a large wild-cat whiskey plant. It was composed of three 400-gallon copper stills arranget side by side in a dug-out in the side of a hill. Each still was filled with beer.

The outfit was not in operation and no arrests were made.

On their way out from the still the officers found fourteen gallons of whiskey, which was destroyed.

World Forestry Meet At Rome, Italy

A World's Forestry Congress is being arranged to take place at Rome, Italy, during May, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Alabama is not the only region lately awakened to the necessity of restoring and perpetuating her forest resources. Many other states have taken steps toward this end. Excellent progress has been made in some of these. In others the advance has been compartively slight, with forestry laws in operation only nominally or not at all. In general, the situation in the United States is encouraging.

In Canada, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany, France, India, New Zealand and a few other countries, forestry is being practiced on a substantial scale. In certain others there would be more forests were not the population so dense. Nearly every acre of land that can yield any growth at all is being devoted to other uses. In still other countries particularly those of the Far East and the Near East, unstable governments and a general failure of the people to cooperate among themselves have caused an almost comp.ete stripping of accessible forests with disastrous results, particularly in China, where annual floods destroy thousands of lives.

The forestry congress to be at Rome will consider all questions of interntional importance. Statistics, lumber trade, industrial uses of wood and other forest products and forest extension are considered of first importance. Other economic, technical and administrative questions relating to forestry will be discussed. It is believed that many obscure points will be cleared at this congress and that the world in general will profit from its deliberations.

Dallas County Sheriff Shot By Weaver

Selma, Ala., Aug. 28.—Sheriff Percy Dawson, of Dallas County, and Deans Weaver, Dallas County property owner, were killed in a gun battle on the Wever plantation two miles from Selma late Thursday afternoon. The sheriff was shot down by Weaver, who in turn was killed by Deputy Sheriff Hugh Sinclair.

Funeral services for Sheriff Dawson were held Saturday after the arrival of his sister, Mrs. Mary Jordan, from New York.

The double tragedy resulted from hostility of Weaver to the construction of a power line of the Alabama Power Company across his place, it is stated. Weaver had refused to sell the right-of-way to the power interests.

Weaver is said to have cut posts on his land and made threats, which resulted in Sheriff Dawson and three deputies going to Weaver's place to protect workers on the power line.

Sheriff Dawson was accompanied by Deputies Hugh Sinclair, J. E. Gaddy and F. B. Lindsay. When the shooting took place the sheriff and Deputy Sinclair were together, while the other two deputies were off some distance. Weaver is alleged to have approached the sheriff and opened fire with a 32-caliber high powered rifle. Sheriff Dawson was struck by two bullets and killed almost instantly, though not before he had returned the fire of his assailant, while Deputy Sinclair also returned the fire. Weaver was killed on the spot, being struck by a single bullet, which was fired either by the sheriff or the deputy, it is not known which, it is stated. The two other deputies were not close enough to take part in the shooting. No arrests have been made in connection with the affair.

Sheriff Dawson belonged to a prominent Dallas County family, and was highly reputed as an officer. He had served for several years as sheriff of Dallas County. He was about 55 years of age and is survived by one son, Nat Dawson, who is about 21 years of age.

Weaver was about 45 years of age, and unmarried. He was a member of one of the pioneer families of the city. He was known as a sportsman and a crack shot.

Dan Parrish Wins Prize

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Parrish of Mitchell Dam are being congratulated by their many friends because of the fact that they won the first prize recently awarded by the Alabama Power Company for the best kept house in all the villages of the company.

There were 101 entries in the contest ,and the decision of the judges giving first prize to Mr. and Mrs. Parrish is a decided tribute to them.

A beautiful photograph of their home, prited in colors, is shown on the cover of "Powergrams" for the month of August.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Prraish also of Mitchell Dam was declared next to the top in this contest.

Drought Ends Cotton Production

Fleecy Staple in Alabama Is Being Rapidly Harvested; Corn Crops Suffer Also.

Another week of dry weather minus excessive heat has brought the cotton, corn, and most of the other crops of Alabama to an end of the production season, according to the officials of the Auburn extension department. Only in north Alabama and in late fields in central Alabama is cotton still fruiting, and in these instances it is rapidly nearing a close.

Reports received at Auburn, and also from local correspondents, indicate that the cotton crop of north Alabama made an unsatisfactory showing during the week, although experts say that the injury is probably not as severe as it appears to be. They point out that cotton is not a wet weather plant, and that it has in all probability suffered less from the drought than the top appearance indicates.

The last official report of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, which was verified by F. W. Gist, of Auburn, estimated the prospective yield as of August 16 at little more than a million bales, or 8,000 bales under the estimate of August 1. The consensus of opinion is that the next condition figure will be below that of August 16, which was 70% of normal. It is not expected to be as much below 70% as was indicated a week ago, but a million bale crop is not believed to be in sight at present.

All over south Alabama, and well up toward north Alabama, the crop is practically all open except fields here and there which were planted late, or where the land is low and fruiting continued later.

All reports indicate a crop of corn and hay which will be inadequate for the needs of the state, and even short of farm needs.

The acreage planted in these crops was larger than that of 1924, due to the persistent efforts of county agents, farm bureaus and other leaders, but the dry weather has reduced the yield very materially.

In view of this, the extension service workers of the agricultural college at Auburn are urging farmers to plant oats, rye, vetch and other feed crops this fall. For feed, oats is given first place for fall planting. Hairy vetch for soil improvement is being emphasized.

Likewise the sorghum and sugar cane syrup crops are short. Sorghum making soon will be under way in north Alabama, while sugar cane syrup making in central and south Alabama will not start until later.

New Bridge Finished On South 6th Street

The county has finished construction of the new steel and concrete bridge across the swamp at the south end of Sixth Street. It will be open for traffic in about two more weeks when the concrete floor has time to season properly.

The structure is a good one, built of steel frame on concrete pillars and with concrete floor. County Commissioner A. P. Vinson has given the job his personal supervision and he is to be thanked for the speedy time that has been made in erecting the bridge.

A "Charmer" From Mexico's Stage

DON'T think that everything is revolution and counter-revolution down in Mexico. Indeed not. Our sister republic to the south can boast of some of the prettiest and most charming actresses on the world's stage.

Above is pictured one of her stars—Carmen Pintado, attired in a costly dress of pearls and feathers. She has scored tremendous popularity with her countrymen through her winning acting with a musical production. And that popularity is increasing daily.

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

The big social event in Thorsby last week was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Howard in honor of Mrs. Howard's guests, her father, mother, brother and sister, all of St. Elmo, Ala., but formerly of Thorsby until about ten years ago, when they moved to south Alabama.

Invitations were sent out to very near everybody now living in Thorsby who knew these good people when they were citizens of this community. Most of them accepted the invitations and fully 100 of them, including their children which of course all wanted their old friends to see, were assembled in the house and on the lawn to meet and greet the guests and renew old time acquaintences and friendships. It seemed more like a big family re-union than anything we have seen for many a day.

The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Husby, their son Lewis, and daughter, Clara Mrs. Helton, and her small daughter, all of whom left for home last Thursday morning, stopping with the Barretts at Selma for an hour, and arriving at St. Elmo Thursday night. They found Mr. and Mrs. Barrett ready to embark on one of these Florida East coast free excursions to "View the Land." Mr. and Mrs. Barrett were formerly residents of Thorsby.

Mrs. Martha Grothe entertained a few friends Wednesday afternoon, August 25. Those present were Mrs. C. S. Howard and her mother, Mrs. Husby, and sister, Mrs. Helton. Mrs. Johanna Lefstead and daughter Alma, Mrs. Bakke, Mrs. Ernie Hanson, Mrs. Carl Green, Misses Caroline Skinnis and Ida Green.

Prof. C. M. Williams and family, Tom Burdett and family and Mrs. Each and children went to Gore's Pond Friday night where they enjoyed the bathing and had afterwards a moonlight picnic from well filled baskets and weiners and coffee for desert.

Mrs. Johanna Lefstead is entertaining this week her sons Waldemar and Lawrence, with his wife, from Birmingham. Waldemar is now a Theological student at a college in South Carolina, and is scheduled to preach at the Lutheran church Sunday night, September 6.

Rev. Bakke will conduct morning service at the Lutheran church next Sunday in Scandinavian language.

On Thursday afternoon August 27, at the home of Mrs. Herbert Peterson, Mrs. Peterson, assisted by Mrs. Webb Parrish, entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Emmett Billingsley. The guests were received by Miss Martha Martin, who supervised their registration in the brides book, and then, directed them to the Punch bowl, where Mrs. Webb Parrish presided. A contest was enjoyed, Mrs. E. N. Bentley winning the prize, after which many beautiful gifts were drawn from a well and presented to the bride. Later refreshments were served to about 45 guests. The home was beautifully decorated in pink and gold.

Mrs. Anna S. Villadsen had as week end guests her nephew, Arnie Christiansen of Birmingham with his bride and mother-in-law, Mrs. Harvey. Mr. Christiansen was for several years a Thorsby boy.

At Thorsby Institute the concrete work on the outer walls is nearing completion, partitions, ceiling joists and rafters are being put in place. The building will soon be under roof and interior finish can be started.

Miss Lois Leech, our beloved matron, is lying in a Minnesota hospital with little prospect of an early release, although a complete recovery in time is hoped for, but she will not be able to return to the duties of her position for several months. In the meantime an excellet substitute has been secured and the faculty for the coming school year is nearly completed.

A nice letter has just been received from Miss Esther Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, of Thorsby. She is a graduate of Thorsby Institute and has been two years in Piedmont College at Demorest, Ga., She has been a member of the family of Rev. Henry M. Edmonds, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian church of Birmingham, who for moths has been so desperately ill that his recovery was doubtful. They have been spending the summer at Madison, Conn., where Dr. Edmonds has so far recovered as to announce a resumption of his duties early in October. Miss Johnson writes of the delights of a summer season at the sea shore, with almost daily ocean baths, also of other scenes and pleasures sure is enjoying, not the least among them being occasional visits with Alabama friends.

The Sunday services at Thorsby Congregational church Sunday September 6th, will be as follows: Sunday School 9:45 A. M., Preaching by the pastor, 11,00 A. M. Junior Endeavor, 4:00 P. M. Senior Endeavor, 7:00 P. M. Reports of delegates to District services for the first Sunday in each month.

Congregatioal ladies Aid Society meets this week Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herbert Peterson. All Thorsby ladies will understand that this is not a secret society conclave.

The $50.00 donated by The Ladies Guild of Thorsby to Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association, for the new public school equipment, was augmented by a gift of $10.00 by Mrs. Anna Villadsen, and all expended in securing beautiful and substantial shades for the twenty big windows in the new school building. These shades arrived and were carefully hung by Mr. Carl Karlson, who also donated his services to complete plans of the ladies.

Prof. Bean reports public school affairs settled down to a smooth running basis, 130 pupils enrolled and cotton picking not done yet; about $400 has been expended by the student body for new books, and these mostly for pupils entering higher grades than they were in last year. A new piano has been installed and $40 paid on it; anyone is at liberty to add to the Piano Fund. Prof. Bean reports at least one family moving to Thorsby to get the benefit of superior advantages in educating their children. Mr. W. W. Williams of Billingsley will be located on what old residents of Thorsby know as the Amundson place.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and daughters, Agnes, Ruth, Mary Ella and Iola, spent Sunday at the home of Lawrence F. Gerald in Clanton. Misses Ruth and Mary Ella will spend a few days there with their brother and his family this week.

Mrs. Roland Mikesell of Council Bluffs, Iowa, arrived in Thorsby Sunday morning accompanied by her sister, Clara Peterson, and friend, Mr. Lewis Self, from Birmingham. Mrs. Mikesell will spend a few days in Thorsby with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, when she will leave for Kansas City, Mo., as a delegate to the convention of the Loyal Stars.

Miss Ollie Lee Bray of Birmingham who has been visiting Miss Agnes Leary, was called home suddenly on account of the serious accident of a friend.

On Sunday, August 23, a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Leary, Miss Agnes Leary, Miss Nell Wells of Jemison, and Mr. James LeCroy motored to Jacksonville, Ala., to visit Mr. Earl Leary. The party was delightfully entertained at the New Lunsford hotel.

"Waddy" Gets His Toenails Manicured

WHO says elephants don't require attention to their personal appearance? Look what "Waddy"—whose home is in the Franklin Park zoo in Boston—is getting. A toenail manicure. Only instead of orange sticks and similar delicate instruments of the trade, the keeper is using a nice long, coarse, rasp file. A bit rough, but it does the work.

Mrs. Louis Howard entertained a few of her friends at her home on the afternoon of August 26. The guests were Mesdames Dr. S. C Wood, A. B. Heaning, Fred Howard, W. L. Leary, and Miss Agnes Leary.

Mr. Earl Leary pleasantly surprised his people and friends by an unexpected visit the past week end.

Mr. W. H. Conway of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday. He says that if the people around Jemison could get their cotton picked and the gins could gin it, the crop would all be harvested by October 1. About 400 bales were ginned at Jemison in August.

Paint to Protect —As Well as to Beautify

WHEN you get ready to paint and are talking it over, debating this color and that, don't overlook the most vital point—protection. The biggest job paint has to do is to save the surface. It is a well-known fact that Pee Gee Mastic Paint has never been surpassed in protecting any surface to which applied. Its beauty is an incident to its real value—adding long years of life to your home, barn, outbuildings—wherever used. It stays "put" and retains its high gloss for years.

Rural children certainly can not afford to miss a day from school when their sessions are only about 60% as long as they should be.

The Danish farmers admit that practical cooperation has brought them from a condition of dire need to the most prosperous farmers in the world.

Even now some people are talking "unemployment." People in Alabama who are without a job now-a-days surely must be people who either can not or will not put on a pick-sack and rush off to the cotton patch. Our farmers are crying for help and offering good wages, but it is hard to get even at that.

The Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, recommends the use of "invertase," a liquid extract from yeast, in making syrup to keep it from turning to sugar. It will not increase the cost of producing a gallon of syrup by more than one-half cent. The Bureau will send instructions on request.

DON'T BE HASTY

The man who rushes into an investment usually stands a good chance of losing his money. The fake stock salesman often tries to hurry the prospect into a decision, either by claiming that the price will soon be higher or by hinting that enormous profits are to be made by getting in on the "ground floor. There is always plenty of time to take advantage of honest investment offerings. If one opportunity escapes you there will be plenty of others. Swindling exists only because so many people, honest in themselves, are careless enough to hand over their money before they get all the facts about the securities urged by salesmen who talk smoothly of overnight wealth and "tomorrow's" prosperity. Remember, that investments that are worth buying are worth investigating.

LITTLE PEN-O-GRAMS

PROF. MARTIN WANTS THE CO-OPERATION OF HIS PATRONS

The Clanton Grammar School opens next Monday. The new building which has been talked about and anticipated hopefully will not be built for use at this session of the school. Everybody regrets that such is true, but it can't be helped now. We must have the best school possible in the old quarters for another year, and the problem now before us for solution is how to have the best school possible.

The fact that we shall not have the new building is not a valid reason, not even an excuse, for anybody to form an idea that the school this year will not be up to the standard of former years. It can easily be above the standard of former years if the patrons will do their duty by the school and the teachers.

The faculty of teachers, with the leadership of Prof. Martin as principal, can and will make a school worth while and creditable to our town if the patrons of the school and citizens of the town will render to them that which is justly due them—a full measure of co-operation and support.

Prof. Martin presages the confidence of the patrons in the ability of his teaching force when he urges the patrons to lay the responsibility for a successful school at the feet of the faculty. In oder to do this, the patrons must co-operate with the teachers. Mr. Martin knows that he and his teachers can "deliver the goods" if the patrons will co-operate with them, in spite of the handicap of an inadequte building and equipment.

The teaching force for this year is of a higher standard in point of training than ever before. If the people will support them, the school will be a success. If the people do not support them, they could not make the school a success, even if they were the best trained and most experienced teachers in the world. Neither would a fine new school house assure us of a successful school without the proper co-operation of patrons with the teachers.

If the school fails to come up to the standard it should attain this year, either the patrons or the teachers will be to blame. The patrons can avoid the responsibility for any short-comings of the school only by fully co-operating with and supporting the teachers and the school.

The teachers in turn can only avoid the blame by "delivering the goods" in terms of the right kind of service. They welcome the whole responsibility, which fact makes us know that we shall have a good school.

Let none of us be to blame for any degree of failure in any department of the school. Failure has no part in the consideration. We shall all do our full duty to our boys and girls by guaranteeing that they shall have their just dues—a good school.

GREAT CHANGE IN THE COTTON HARVESTING SITUATION

Time was—and not so many years agone—that the cotton farmer basked in an autumn sun undisturbed while cheap labor gathered his crop. Now he is pestered not only by a scarcity of help, but the price he must pay for labor is something unheard of in a cotton field.

It used to be—ten years ago—the pickers were at the farm house door bright and early begging work. The price was thirty to fifty cents a hundred—and no perequisites. Today, in some places the price is $1.50 a hundred-weight and the pickers are being fed, housed and carried even to the fields in automobiles. They won't walk. Many are the cars parked along by the side of cotton fields, in fence corners and in farm roads and they are not all four-lungers, either. There are aristocratic sixes and eights and twelves out there. The cotton farmer chauffeurs for his help—and is glad of the opportunity.

Not all the Alabama farms are paying $1.50. Some farmers are fortunate enough to get the staple gathered for $1.35 a hundred but the higher price prevails where help is most scarce. But wherever cotton is grown in this section the call is for help and more help. Labor agents say labor has gone to public works, meaning highway construction, building of houses, railroads, factories and to the mines. It was explained that, when times are good, labor quits the farm. When dull periods come in the centers of population, the unskilled laborer drifts back to the rural sections.

Gathering the crop has become such a serious question that many farmers here-about who plant cotton on an extensive scale are said to be looking about to find other profitable crops. The mechanical cotton pickers have not proved practical and the old method of hand picking is the only reliable means of gathering the staple from the stalk. Picking cotton is recognized as a tedious and back-breaking job. A good picker can gather 200 pounds in 10 hours. That is a fair average, the farmers say. At even the high prices paid, that scale, they say, does not touch the "public works" pay. Time was when white labor was available. It is said to be almost impossible to employ white unskilled labor on the cotton farm. That leaves the planter almost entirely dependent upon negro labor which is growing more scarce all the while.

No longer is heard the old-time spirituals and day-long singing by fifty contented negro cotton pickers in a single field. And it is a thing of the past to witness a laborer at days' end carrying a staple-laden basket to "the cotton house." A scant few men and occasionally a woman or two are now whirled to the field in motor cars; their day's pick is taken up and transported to the scales for them. In style and comfort, the unskilled laborer on many farms is experiencing a condition said to be hitherto unknown.

25 YEARS AGO

News Items As Published in The Banner in Its Issue of September 6, 1900.

A fine new two-story school building is being erected at Cross Roads, two miles south of Thorsby. The material will cost $160 and the work is being done by the neighborhood.

Some of Clanton's leading citizens are bestirring themselves in the matter of a first-class hotel for the town.

Sheriff Kilgore and the other new county officials entered upon their duties last Saturday.

Rev. A. L. Pattillo of Verbena, was in town Wednesday.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING IS FUNDAMENTAL NEED

Declaring that cooperative marketing is one of the great needs of agriculture today, Prof. L. N. Duncan, director, Extension Service, issued an appeal to all cotton growers of Alabama to market their crop cooperatively this year.

Prof. Duncan says that "after four years of operation the cooperative marketing associations of the South have demonstrated conclusively that this method of marketing is very beneficial to all growers and that it is certainly the best way to market cotton."

"The state associations," he added, "have banded themselves together into the American Cotton Growers Exchange which now has sale representatives in all the principal markets of the United States, and also in Europe. Approximately a dozen sales offices are maintained in the important marketing centers of Europe, and, in this way, cotton growers have direct contact with the cotton mills on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean."

Prof. Duncan says that cooperative marketing is not in opposition to anybody but that it is simply "an improved method of selling." The old system of selling individually was necessary in its day, but its day has passed and a new order of affairs has been ushered in. Hence the need for cooperative marketing, which enables growers to finance themselves at a lower rate of interest, reduce freight and insurance, eliminate waste in the form of country damage, avoid unnecessary sampling, etc., and to place it on the market as the mills want it. Thus the market is stabilized and a better price received.

Officials of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association were highly praised.

DELIGHTFUL VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Glasscock and daughter, Miss Lucile, of Jemison, accompanied by Misses Ines and Estelle Smith of Birmingham were visitors to the Banner office Monday of this week. They took special interest in being shown through the printing plant and observing the work in progress for the making of this week's paper. We were glad to have them visit us, as we always welcome to our office the readers and friends of the paper from over the county.

EVOLUTION

This evolution racket got Under our skin enough to Tempt us into doing some Experimentin' of our own.

We started by slippin' a Dollar bill into our left
Hind trouser pocket. Left
It there for two weeks - -
Thinkin' maybe it would be
A five when we again reached
For it. But no such luck. It
Evoluted out! The wife got it!

Put our old shoes out on the Back porch—hopin' some Mysterious power might make
A new pair out of them by Morning. Bright and early
Next day we rushed thither.
Nope. Same run-down heels and Holes in the soles. Again—
No Progress.

Pushed a worm on a hook and Shoved it into the water of
A nearby river—hopin' it
Would evolute into a fish.
All the evolution we got
Was an old piece of stove
Pipe! 'Twas tough!

Sent our dirty shirt to the Laundry—hopin' to see it
Evolute into a nice new one.
We got back half as much as
We sent. Maybe, that was Reverse Evolution?

Took our last year's hat over
To be cleaned—hopin' it would Evolute into saving us the Price of a new one. When it
Came back, it didn't fit.
It shrunk. More—
Reverse Evolution?

Deposited ten dollars in the Bank—hopin' to see it
Evolute into a fortune. To-day
We got a bill for coal.
Good-bye—fortune!

POOR OR

Valuable Information for Our Strawberry Growers

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to say to those around Clanton and elsewhere who heve for the first time started to growing strawberries that, on account of the very dry seasons, we shall have another short crop, unless we have rain in September and October and the plants put out new runers, which they will do, and will set new plants until a heavy frost or severe cold weather. If they are free of weeds and grass, and we have rain in 60 days and a reasonable stand of plants are yet green, they should have a liberal amount of fertilizer—say three or four hundred pounds per acre after the first rain. Barnyard manure should not be used, on accout of making the berries soft and they will not stand shipment to the northern markets. If this is used, be sure to apply not later than September 15th.

All those needing fertilizer should place your order with me or Mr. J. N. Dennis at once, in order that you may have it to apply after the first rain. Another application of 800 to 1,000 pounds per acre should be used in February, containing a high per cent of potash to harden and add quality to the berries. I would suggest 8-3-10 as being about the proper percentage, preferably home mixed from acid phosphate, tankage and muriate of potash.

A number of people happen to be at sea in regard to cultivation. Any method to keep out weeds and grass is good. You will learn all about them in a few years of growing them.

We consider this one of the best money crops for the small farmer, which gives us a good money crop in the early spring and enriches the land and gives us a chance to increase soil fertility which cannot be done with all corn and cotton. There is little danger of over-production of strawberries. I suggest that the farmers who have been working at saw mills between crop seasons, as the timber supply is about exhausted, that you might make $10 per day at your leisure period growing strawberries, and the work is light too.

I have had twelve years experience in strawberry growing, and I certainly would not recommend it if I did not have this experience, for I am in sympathy with the farmers and my great desire is to be of assistance in helping them to get on a cash basis, educate themselves and their children, and above all, stop working free of charge and boarding yourselves.

A meeting of the strawberry growers will be held at the old public school buildig at Thorsby, on Saturday, September 12th at 1:00 o'clock p.m. to discuss fertilizers and place orders for same.

Manager, Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association.

OAK HILL

The all-day singing at this place last Sunday was a success in every way. It was productive to a high degree in terms of most excellent music, which in turn brought a bountiful flow of cheer and happiess to the hearts of a great number of people who had come to enjoy the day with us.

Those who could sing, did sing; and those who did not sing surely enjoyed hearing the others.

Together with our own home class, we had with us a group from Birmingham brought here by Prof. W. P. Ganus, which included besides Prof. Ganus, Willie Smith, Clyde Ganus, Clarence Ganus, Walker Skelton, Cecil Ganus, Wesley Varnon, and Miss Ethel Baker. The last named is a pianist of note, and rendered valuable service in that capacity throughout the day.

Prof. Ganus himself, in his very able way, conducted several numbers very impressively. All those in the group of visitors coming with him won their places in the hearts of the people by their fine singing.

Clarence Ganus was especially admired by his solos. He, with Willie Smith, Clyde Ganus and Cecil Ganus, sang a number of very fine quartets. They are all boys under 16 years of age; which fact made their splendid singing more remarkable.

Mr. A. H. Glasscock acted as chairman. A committee composed of J.H. Jackson, E. L. Glasscock and L. R. Cobb was appointed to arrange the program. This they did in the way that seemed best to give all visiting singers a chace to be heard.

We are thankful to the singers and music lovers from differet parts of the county, who came and helped us so greatly. Among them we note the names of these well-know singers: Akins Collins, W. G. Culp, H. H. Hayes, L. T. Grant, Ellis Martin, Amie Boswell and A. V. Northcutt.

In addition to Prof. Ganus and Miss Baker, mentioned above, the following played the piano: Misses Emma Campbell, Inez Hayes, Flossie Cobb, and Mr. Amie Boswell.

At noon dinner was spread and the people were bountifully fed. Mr. Ganus, who is a judge of good things to eat as well as a fine singer, paid very high tribute to the good ladies of Oak Hill, who prepared the excellent dinner. This testimony of Mr. Ganus was rendered in two ways, both of which delighted his friends here.

We thank the visitors for the liberal contribution given us on the fund which we are getting up to seat our church.

When we have another singing at Oak Hill, we will let you know, and we want everyone to come back to see us again.

ENTERPRISE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

We wish to state that the Enterprise school will begin on Monday, September 7th, with five teachers employed, for a term of 8 months. We have received permission from the County Board of Education to carry the senior grades, one and two.

We were very fortuntae in securing such a talented teacher for our principal, Prof. G. C. Weldon. He assures credit for all work accomplished. We also have some splendid teachers employed for assistants.

A very large attendance is expected. Come on, and let's make this school one of the very best.

Child-birth

THOUSANDS of mothers for over three generations have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pains during expectancy. How important it is that the Mother-to-be should pass this period with calm nerves. The sweetest story ever told is the soul-whispering of mother to her unborn child! Mother love and expectancy—be prepared to make this dream a reality.

"Everyone was surprized how well I got along." Writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth. Plain oils only penetrate the skin. Mother's Friend penetrates deeper and soothes the bread muscles of the abdomen, back and hips; making them soft and pliable—thus really aiding Nature to do her part.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

VERBENA SCHOOL WILL OPEN NEXT MONDAY

The Verbena Consolidated School will open next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. It is expected that a speaker from the State Department of Education will be present to deliver an address on education. There will be special music for the opening exercises by the teacher of piano and voice.

Verbena is to be congratulated upon their new school building which will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. It is very modern in every detail, constructed of granite that was quarried at Verbena. It is a state model building which is fully approved by the State Department of Education for an accredited high school. It is the aim of the faculty and the people of Verbena to bring the work of the school during this session up to a standard that will comply with all requirements to get on the Southern accredited list.

Special attention will be given to physical culture and athletics, which will be under supervision of the principal, Prof. T. F. Burnside. Mr. Burnside comes from Reinhart College, Georgia, where he served last year as director of physical culture and athletics.

Mr. Burnside says that football practice at Verbena will start immediately, and that the school will sustain a well equipped team. All athletics will be conducted under the rules and requirements of the State High School Athletic Association.

The following is the faculty for this year:

T. F. Burnside, principal; Miss Mamie Northcutt, Selma, science; Miss Estelle Strickland, Verbena, grade work; Miss Ruth Deramus, Verbena, English; Miss Thelma Rhodes, Highland Home, grade work; Miss Etta Irving, Verbena, grade work; S. M. Bolding, assistant principal, manual arts; Mrs. T. F. Burnside, voice and piano; Miss Evelyn Scott, mathematics.

The interest of the people of Verbena in their school is running high, and it is predicted that they are going to make it a school that will be second to none in Alabama.

THE PENCIL MAKES A FARM PAY BETTER

Farm Accounting Reveals Losing Methods and Points Way to Bigger Profits.

(From Banker Farmer)

A farm cannot properly be called successful unless it pays a fair rate of interest on the investment and returns fair wages for the farmer's labor. Agriculture is considered by all odds the most important industry in the world, and yet in no other industry is the business end so neglected.

It is common to find a farmer with an investment of fifteen to twenty thousand dollars, yet does he keep books? Perhaps he may jot down a note now and then of an important deal, but this is of no value in an analysis of his business as a whole. No other industry, however small, is carried on without books of some sort.

Farming is a business and to be successful must be conducted in a businesslike way. The business man's mind should have indelibly printed upon it two questions: What profit is my business making? How can that profit be increased? To know the latter, one must find out the former; and to find out about profits requires the keeping of books.

It is not necessary for a farmer to have a course in bookkeeping. Almost every agricultural college in the country has issued a simplified farm accounting book which it sells at cost, and only a few minutes are required each day to jot down the day's happenings.

Accounts Increase Profits

Instances number a thousandfold where farmers have profited by knowing their business. Accounts kept by nineteen farmers in Illinois led them to improve the organization and operation of their farms in ways that added approximately $650 to their average net income in 1922, the seventh year they had kept accounts.

An Iowa farmer found at the end of the first year he kept books that crops fed to livestock brought more money than when sold outright. His figures showed that his cows were poor; compared with other farms in the state, he found the number of acres cultivated per man on his farm, as well as the number of acres per horse were below average. He rented more land and replanned his fields, so that the crop areas per man and horse were increased. He sold some of his scrubs and bought good cows. The second year his income from the farm, after paying all expenses and interest on the money invested, had been increased over $550.

Costs Can Be Regulated

"I have discovered," says one farm bookkeeper, "that the kind of man you have on a job, as well as the particular team, often makes quite a variation in the cost of performing certain tasks. I have learned from the pages of my book that if I could have increased the yield of my wheat field by two bushels and my corn by five bushels I would have realized a substantial profit from them."

While the farmers may not be able to fix prices on their products, they do have a voice in determining the costs of production. To reduce this cost they must first know what the costs are.

The number of farmers who are keeping books on their business has increased remarkably in recent years, but the number of businesslike farmers is woefully small when listed alongside the sum total of the farmers in the country.

Inventory Is Indispensable

The basis of any system of farm accounting is the annual property list or inventory. It is the starting point of the farm records. One must take into consideration decreases or increases in the value of all property owned to gauge the progress of the business. Lacking facts as to the value of his property, no business man can form an accurate estimate of how he stands financially. Increased cash may be due to property which was sold, or increased debts may be due to improvements made. If a farmer is falling behind, the inventory will emphasize this fact. Often when a man is discouraged and thinks he is making no progress, his inventories will tell him that he is better off than he thought.

At the end of each year a financial statement is drawn off. This is the farmer's rating and no farmer with a good financial statement need fear walking into a bank and asking for a loan.

BANKERS HELP

A bank in Monrovia, Ind., tests seed corn for farmers. A basement room was fitted out last season for the purpose and 25,000 ears were tested for fifty-six farmers. One-fourth of the seed tested last year was unfit for seed. This year the percentage will run even higher. The work is done under the supervision of the high school agricultural teacher. He reports that the community will have a surplus of seed corn this year.

The banks of Conway, Ark., have offered prizes for the most marketable sweet potatoes produced on one acre of land. A first prize of $150 is offered, along with three district prizes of $50 each. The county agent and the banks are working out the details.

The County Bankers Association will help to employ a full time county leader this year for boys' and girls' club work in Calhoun, Cherokee and Buena Vista counties, Iowa.

A Stickler for the Truth

I have a friend who practices law in the Florida courts and deals in citrus fruit on the side. One day he was on his way in a car from his groves to his home in Miami. On the road he overtook a lank native who seemingly was in a high state of indignation, muttering to himself as he trudged along and clenching and unclenching his freckled fists.

The lawyer stopped and offered to give him a lift.

"I ain't goin' so very fur," said the stranger as he climbed into the car, "but I can't git to whar I'm goin' a minute too soon. There's a feller livin' down the road here a piece by the name of Ed Watts, an' jest this mornin' the word come to me that yistiddy, in town, he told a gang of fellers I was a low-down, hawg-steelin', wife-beatin', alg-suckin' cur dawg.

"So I'm on my way to his place to settle it with him. When we git thar you stop while I go in, an' then you better jest watch to see whut I'm goin' to do to him."

Presently they came to a cabin set among straggly fruit trees. A very large, very strong looking man sat on a doorstep busily engaged in doing nothing at all.

"Stop right here!" commanded the aggrieved person. "Thar's that thar Watts yonder. Now, mister, jest you keep your eye on me!"

From the car my friend watched while his late passenger dismounted and marched toward the front door of the cabin. At his approach the larger man uncoiled himself to a height of considerably more than six feet, at the same time moistening the palms of his two brawny hands after the approved fashion.

The two men exchanged a few words; then, with the air of having satisfactorily accomplished a difficult but necessary piece of business, the invader turned about and returned to where the car stood in the road.

"Wall," he said, "That's all settled."

"What happened?" inquired my friend.

"I axed him ef he'd said what them fellers told me he'd done said, and he come out like a man an' owned up that he hed. Ef he'd a-denied it I'd a-beat him half to death."

A Peacemaker Who Blessed Himself

The peacemaker is blessed. Sometimes he is careful as well. As witness this instance which was told to me by an eyewitness. At least he said he was an eyewitness.

The proprietor of a drug store in a small Indiana town was issuing from the front door of his place when a small boy came tearing 'round the corner at top gait with his head down and butted squarely into him.

"Hey, kid!" demanded the druggist. "What's the matter?"

"I'm tryin' to keep two boys from gittin' into a fight," panted the youngster.

"Who are the boys?" asked the druggist.

"I'm one of 'em."

REUBEN POPWELL DIED LAST FRIDAY

The death of Mr. Reuben Popwell, age 80 years, occurred at his home near Clanton on last Friday morning. He had been in ill health, due to old age, for the past three years, but was confined to his bed about two weeks ago.

Mr. Popwell was known and respected by a large number of friends, and he was admired for his integrity of character. It is but a fitting tribute to the supreme aims of his life that he was a devoted Christian man, which trait he always exemplified in his conduct and dealings with his fellowman.

He was born and reared near Clanton, and lived here all his life. He served as a soldier of the Confederacy during the Civil War.

He is survived by his aged wife. His sons living are Alfred, John, and Emmett, all of near Clanton. His youngest son, Leon, died in the army at Camp Hancock, Ga., during the late World War.

The daughters surviving him are Mrs. Georgia Sharbutt, Mrs. Annie Farley, Mrs. Linnie Henley, Mrs. Evie Lowe, Mrs. Callie Miller, Mrs. Emma Teel, and Miss Lena Popwell, who is at home with her mother.

Funeral services were held at the home Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish. Burial was in Clanton cemetery.

In the death of Mr. Popwell, his many friends feel that a good man has gone from among us, and the place he has filled as a citizen of this community for so many years will be left vacant to the regret of everyone. He leaves a family of noble sons and daughters who by their good reputation are a living witness of the worthy example which was always laid before them by their father.

Boils!

S. S. S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorder. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils! It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

SOMEBODY FOUND AN AUTOMOBILE

Monday a young white man accompanied by a negro, drove a dodge touring car onto the yard at Shaw's gin, got out of the car and walked away without saying good morning, howdy-do or anything to anybody in sight. It was thought of course that they were going a short distance away and return to the car soon. They did not return Monday, Tuesday the car was there and they did not come back. Wednesday morning the car was still there with no one to claim it.

Sheriff Littlejohn was notified of the curious incident and he went out and took charge of the car.

Papers in the car indicated that it might have come from Gadsden, Ala. Communication with authorities there established the fact that it stolen from the Dodge agency last Saturday night.

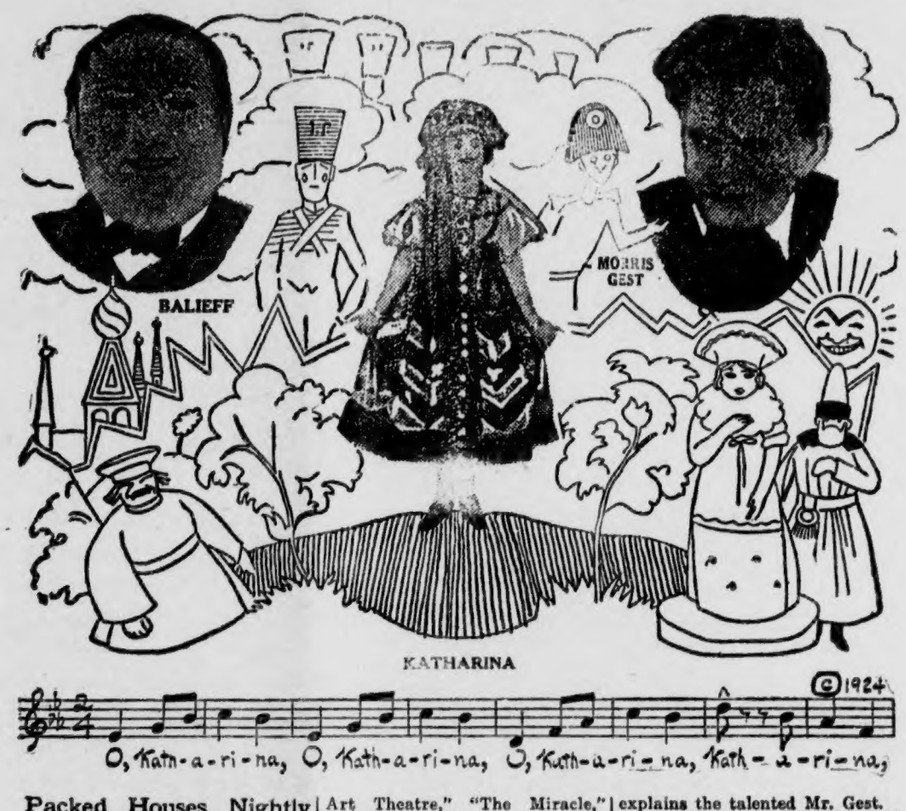
MORRIS GEST, AMERICAN ART KING, A S T O N I S HES BROADWAY WITH NEW CHAUVE SOURIS FEATURE



Packed Houses Nightly Warble "Katharina" Leo by Balieff

New York City.—Steel kings and coal kings, cereal kings and coffee kings have a riva here. It is Morris Gest, art king.

The name has just been applied to Mr. Gest by his admirers along Broadway, where art is not always so readily acclaimed.

The title is a recognition of Mr. Gest's signal services to the American stage. These services in the last three years have included the bringing to America of Eleanora Duse, "The Moscow Art Theatre," "The Miracle," staged and directed by Max Rheinhardt, and Nikita Balieff's "Chauve Souris."

The interesting feature of Mr. Gest's claim to fame is that, though his expeditions into the realm of super-art had been regarded as a gamble by his colleagues, they have yielded rich financial returns.

In short, Mr. Gest has made a fortune out of art, just as certain captains of industry have made fortunes from tin, iron and copper.

"Anybody who had my faith in the good taste of people in general could have done the same," explains the talented Mr. Gest.

"Everybody loves beauty and there is no reason why the artistic best should be kept for the edification of a select few."

Mr. Gest's most recent triumph has been effected with the return of "Chauve Souris" for its third season of sold-out houses.

This production is also credited with putting over the season's most remarkable hit, "Katharina," sung by Madamoiselle Darian Birse. The jolly moon-faced Balieff, with his ever amusing English, actually wins a self-conscious American audience over to singing the chorus at every performance.

Jemison High School Opened Last Monday

The high school at Jemison opened last Monday morning under conditions that look most promising for a successful year's work. The opening exercises, held in the new school auditorium, were attended by a fine representation of the patrons of the school and citizens of the town and community of Jemison.

Mr. J. S. Lambert, supervisor of the rural schools under the State Department of Education, was present and made an address. His theme was the importance of training the boys and girls of Alabama to make them capable of developing Alabama's wonderful resources.

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton of Clanton made an address which has been declared the best effort of his notable career as a public speaker. His subject was of an optimistic nature, and the things he brought out were very uplifting to his hearers. In his wonderful way the speaker lifted the burden of darkness and pessimism which we are somewhat prone to labor under, and revealed the glorious light of better times which surely exists in the world. He posed as the apostle of sunshine, and established his claim thereto by a masterful array of witnessing circumstances that came out of a study of present world conditions and human progress.

Buford Lawrence, county superintendent of education, was present, and made a short talk.

Prof. Peterson, principal of the school, made a very interesting address, dealing with the subject of the operation and conduct of the school. His revelations as to the splendid way in which the school business of Jemison is administered was accepted as a tribute to the manner in which the board of trustees have labored in carrying out their plans.

It is noteworthy that the new building of the Jemison school is now completed and seated throughout, which makes it among the best equipped schools in the county. The building is already wired for electric lights as soon as the Alabama Power Company turns on the juice in the town.

The following is the faculty of the Jemison school:

J. A. Peterson, principal and teacher of science; Eva Olivia Golson, English and mathematics; Alma Stanley, history and home economics; B. L. Bonner, social science and athletics; G. E. Summers, expert in manual arts; Bertha Johnson, music director.

R. M. Hubbard, W. G. Atkinson, and W. C. Erwin are the school trustees, whose untiring efforts in behalf of the school are declared to be most commendable.

Judge L. H. Reynolds went to Montgomery on business Tuesday.

A big sign on the corner of First Avenue and Seventh Street says that Dief's Service Station will be open for business about October 10.

FIVE AND TEN CENT STORE NOT OPEN YET

Mr. V. J. Elmore informs us that the new five and ten cent store which he is preparing to open in Clanton will not be ready for business until about December 1st. This delay is caused by the failure of the manufacturers to deliver the specially designed fixtures which are being made for the store.

Mr. Elmore assures the buying public that he will be open in time for the Christmas holiday trade at which time he expects to show the best variety of things ever assembled in Clanton.

Meanwhile, Mr. Elmore is urging the people to visit The Chicago Sales Company, next to First National Bank where he is now putting on display a $20,000 stock of new merchandise for the fall and winter.

Clip the coupon on the front page of this week's Banner and take it to Chicago Sales Company and Mr. Elmore will present you a free gift of crockery ware that will be worth going after.

It is necessary for all who filed papers of exemption prior to 1923 to come again and make out new papers to comply with the present law.

It is necessary that the applicants have their discharges when filling out these applications.

Weldon Urges Support Of School Tax

I deem it next to useless to even appeal to the intelligent voter and ask that he maintain the educational standard he has once established, because we, as a people, a nation, a state, a county, believe in growth.

Our superintendent estimates the 1-mill tax will produce $13,000. Of this amount, the Alabama Power Company and other corporations will pay $10,000—in other words, they furnish three and one-third dollars every time we put up one dollar.

There are about 5,000 of school age in Chilton County. By simple division you will see there will be a little over $2.50 for each child. Now, if your district has one hundred pupils you will get $250, or enough to lengthen your term one and a half months with two teachers. If in your district your property is assessed at $50,000 your district will pay $50 or $1 on each $1,000, 10 cents on each $100.

However, it is a policy, a right we as Americans have always enjoyed, to peaceably meet, to express our opinions both publicly and privately. Thus we can always trust the people to fix such conditions as will best serve a free and independent people and safeguard our republic.

An educated populist is an absolute necessity if we expect to hold our place with present day world complications.

To educate requires money. The honey bee grows under his wing the wax with which he builds his comb, but our Board of Education must get from the people money with which to build our schools.

We are all crying for longer terms, more teachers, transportation, better buildings and more equipment. Of course, we must pay for these things by taxation and private donation.

There has been a canvass of my district (Enterprise) and but one legal voter opposed renewing the 1-mill tax. This same man opposed our new building plan three years ago. Now don't understand me to say he is an undesirable citizen. He is a good man, but was reared when boys had six weeks or three months schooling each year, had one teacher for seventy-five or a hundred pupils, had split logs with legs driven through auger holes for benches, and an old open fireplace for heating. I had such grand advantages myself, but God being my helper, my boy shall have better opportunities.

It costs me about one hundred dollars each year for the upkeep of my old flivver. Am I willing to go back to the old ox-wagon, that groaning, crying slowly bore me to church when a child? Nay, double, treble, quadruple present cost, but don't force me to return to bygone ways. Thus I am sure enough voters like me are satisfied with our present progress and are willing to trust an honest Board of Education to properly handle our school funds and wish the proposed tax was not 1 mill but 4.—G. C. Weldon.

STANTON SCHOOL TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

The opening of the Stanton Junior High School for the 1925-26 session will be held next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. All parents and friends are urged to be present.

County Supt. Buford Lawrence will be present and will make an address.

The faculty for the present session will be as follows:

H. A. Harris, principal and teacher of mathematics; Leo C. Langston, science and history, and athletic coach; Miss Margaret Cottingham, English and economics; Miss Eva M. Easterwood, fifth and sixth grades; Miss ——— McKinney, third and fourth grades; Miss Vivian Schurter, first and second grades.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Taylor have returned from a motor trip to points in Geogia, and Roanoke, Ala.

Vote On School Tax Is County-Wide

The proposed one-mill school tax to be voted upon September 15th, is a county-wide proposition. The election will be held at every regular voting place in the county, and every qualified voter in the county will be entitled to vote upon it.

This explanation is made by The Union-Banner because we have noted some confusion of the county-wide one-mill tax with some district three-mill taxes which will be voted upon the same day in some school districts of the county.

School Meeting On Saturday, Sept. 12

Editor Union-Banner:

I have read with much interest the letters to the Editor in your issue of August 27, from Mr. G. T. Wilbanks, "The Condition of the Farmer," letter from John S. Dennis, "Against the School Tax," from Mr. E. W. Butler, "A Letter for Renters," from J. T. Cox, "In Favor of School Tax," and Mr. B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education. I would like to suggest, to better our condition and understand each other more fully, that every farmer in Chilton County and all who are interested in schools, meet at the courthouse on Saturday, September 12 at 10 A. M., and let's have a face to face talk on all matters that may benefit our County and State.

I would like to meet all the farmers and other friends on that date. I am quite sure I can say something then that will be of great benefit, and I am sure I can learn much hearing others. So let's all get together on the above date and see what we can accomplish. Yours for co-operation. —W. R. K. Stanford, Lawley, Ala., August 8, 1925. 2w

The Burning Question of the Moment

When Admiral Peary, then a naval commander, came back from the Pole a group of special correspondents for big city papers secured a tug from the Dominion government and steamed up the Labrador coast to meet the returning explorer and to get the first interviews with him.

In the party was one New York correspondent who spent three days framing a highly scientific and involved question which was designed, so he thought, to bring out the exact truth regarding Peary's achievement. It will be remembered that the Dr. Cook controversy was then waging.

All the way up the coast he was insisting that he should have a chance, without interruption, to fire his broadside.

Peary's answer, he stated, would inevitably have a direct bearing upon the claims of Dr. Cook and would show conclusively whether Peary had really reached the Pole.

In a body the newspaper men boarded Peary's ship and met him. After the first exchange of greetings and congratulations the spokesman for the interviewers cleared his throat and said:

"Commander Peary, this gentleman here has a very important question to ask you."

Peary turned aggressively upon the New Yorker. His bushy eyebrows and bushier mustache were bristling.

"What do you want to know?" he demanded briskly.

The New York newspaper man was seized with confusion. He fumbled in his pockets and produced a cigarette.

"What is it you want to ask me?" repeated Peary sharply.

The correspondent swallowed hard:

"Have you got a match?" he inquired.

Congress Will Consider Aviation Future

Whole Subject of Military Flying Will Have To be Threshed Out Along New Lines.

New York, Sept. 7.—At Mitchell field, the greatest army flying station in the East, and at Lakehurst, the naval dirigible headquarters where the gloom of the Shenandoah disaster still hangs like a pall over the countryside, there is a general impression that the whole subject of American military aviation will have to be threshed out in the congress this winter and that it is useless for officers of the army or the navy to make plans of any sort in advance of the investigations which are certain to be held.

Col. "Billy" Mitchell's outburst down in Texas is looked upin as complicating rather than simplifying the situation. Contrary to what one might think from the hurrah he has been causing the past few years, the big Long Island flying field used by the army was not named for Col. Billy. It was christened Mitchell field as a lasting memorial to the late John Purifoy Mitchell, who was mayor of New York City, who took up aviation at the outbreak of the World war and who was killed in a flying accident.

"Washington At Any Price."

Col. Billy Mitchell, according to all the comment one can hear in the flying services about the metropolis has "asked for it" once too often. The colonel could not be for the idea of being banished to far away Texas. His slogan has been Washington at any price. Probably he will go to Washington soon. Or maybe the war department will decide the cruel and unusual punishment of having the doughty colonel, who not so long ago was a brigadier general, tried at his station in Texas. This would be the last stroke of ignominy.

Some officers are of the opinion that the twin disasters of last week seemed to give aviation as a whole such dubious standing with the public that Col. Mitchell, the great advocate of flying in all its branches, felt the aerial services needed a quick and sure defense. His enthusiasm as a defense counsel appears to have carried him too far. Brother officers are convinced also that Col. Mitchell undoubtedly wants to be courtmartialed and perhaps cashiered, being conscious of the fact that he has friends enough in congress to take up his case and perhaps to confound the military authorities who would discipline him for his outspoken utterances. They have been reluctant to reach this conclusion, for they have known the colonel as an earnest officer and have felt that he could work his will in the army in the regular way.

But the colonel has grown impatient. He has listened to some congressmen and perhaps some senators, who have offered to introduce bills commissioning him a major general, whether the war department would have it so or not.

Pershing Disciplinarian.

Col. Mitchell, it is said, also has banked very heavily upon the support of Gen. Pershing, but of all things, Gen. Pershing is a disciplinarian and he would do nothing to break it down in the army even to help his aide of the American Expeditionary Forces, whom he promoted to head the flying forces in France.

While Mitchell apparently is in for a bad time himself, officers at Mitchell field and Lakehurst are of the opinion that out of the disasters of last week and out of the row started by Mitchell, there may come after all a unification of the flying services. Most of the officers nevertheless believe in keeping the military and naval branches separate, but they also believe congress may reach the conclusion to try the experiment of putting all aviation under a single control and direction, as Mitchell has advocated these past few years and as Great Britain has done.

It was recalled that President Harding was much in favor of combining both the war and navy departments under one cabinet head. The idea then was that there should be three sub-chiefs, one directing the army, one directing the navy and the third directing the aviation forces.

Many Arrests Made By Local Officers

During the past week the Sheriff, T. J. Littlejohn, and his deputies, with the help of Federal officers, invaded the camps of a number of the night-riders and law violators of Chilton County.

On last Friday Sheriff Littlejohn and Deputy Foshee went out to Gass and Daniels saw mill in the western part of the county and arrested Floyd Dobbs, for whom a warrant had been sworn out with the charge of carrying a concealed weapon and using abusive language. Dobbs was brought and placed in jail, and was released on bond Monday.

On last Saturday night Littlejohn, Foshee and Federal officers Gore and Gillespie went out near Macedonia in the western part of the County and took charge of a Ford car belonging to J. C. Price. Three pints of liquor was found in the car. One pint was broken by the occupants of the car but the officers got the other two pints. Those arrested were J. C. Price, Chatman Trott, and Robert Rasberry. The officers took charge of the car and brought the men to jail. Rasberry and Price made bond Sunday afternoon. Trott is still confined in jail.

On Sunday afternoon Deputy Foshee and Federal Officer Gillespie caught Argnis Robinson near the brick yard west of Thorsby. Robinson was in a Chevrolet car and was carrying a quart of wine. Robinson was drunk. He was arrested and brought to jail charged with violating the prohibition laws. The car was also taken by the officers. Robinson is still confined in jail.

Later Sunday afternoon Sheriff Littlejohn, Deputy Foshee and Federal Officer Gillespie went out west of Jemison, and near the place of Bill Lowery they arrested Amos Bean, who had a half-pint of whiskey in a Ford car. The car was not moving, so the officers did not bother the car but Bean was arrested. He furnished bond and was released to await trial.

About dusky dark on Tuesday night of this week Sheriff Littlejohn and Deputy Foshee happened out near Stanton in the western part of the county, and arrested Wiley Ingram for violating the prohibition laws. The officers were on the side of the road at the place called "Dixie," when Ingram came along riding a mule on his way home. Upon careful inspection it was revealed that Ingram carried in the bosom of his shirt four pint fruit jars of peach brandy. Ingram was brought to Clanton and lodged in jail.

Clanton Hottest Place In Alabama Saturday

September 4th Was Hottest Day in History of Clanton; Highest Temperature Since 1881.

Reports from Montgomery last Friday stated that the official weather bureau bulb of that city finally reached the dizzy heights of 102.7 at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Thursday with a temperature of 99.3 broke all September weather records in Montgomery but Friday went Thursday 3.4 degrees better. Saturday compared with Friday about equal, according to Meteorologist, P. H. Smith of the weather bureau.

Clanton, with a temperature of 106 was the hottest town in the state. At Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Friday afternoon the thermometer reached 105, according to reports, which was the closest contender for Clanton.

But those who thought Friday was the hottest day very likely do not remember July 7th, 1881. On that day the thermometer reached 107. In fact the week of July 5th of that year was the hottest week ever experienced in Alabama, having one day of the highest temperature in the hostory of the Montgomery weather bureau.

Only 72 two times in the history of the Montgomery weather bureau has the temperature even reached as high as 100.

VISITORS HERE FROM ST. CLAIR AND ETOWAH

Last Thursday The Union-Banner was favored with a visit from Mr. Belton Cather and Mr. Curtis Atkins, from Asheville, St. Clair County. Mr. Cather is editor of The Southern Aegis, and will be a Democratic candidate for Secretary of State. Mr. Atkins is a Republican of note in his home county. He has been Tax Collector in St. Clair for the past term, and expects to succeed himself in the forthcoming election.

Mr. Cather and Mr. Atkins had been down to Montgomery to attend the Alabama Boosters' Convention, and stopped over here on their return home. They were accompanied by Lonnie Noojin of Attalla, and Mr. King, cashier of the Bank of Asheville. The Motgomery Advertiser of Friday printed the pictures of Atkins, Noojin and King, and complimented them for the interest they took in the movement to advertise Alabama resources. We asked Mr. Cather why it was that his picture was not in the paper, especially since he is such a prominent contender for the office of Secretary of State. He said he supposed the reason was that he did not have his check book with him as did the other boys.

Cost of Public Schools In Alabama

The cost of public education in the elementary and high schools of Alabama for 1924 was, for each child in average daily attendance, 21.5 cents for current expenses and 4.7 cents for capital outlay, a total of 26 cents for each child. If these figures had been calculated for each child enrolled the cost would have been 18 cents per day for each child. The average state of the Union during 1922 spent for each child in aveage daily attendance, 42 cents for current expenses and 10 cents for capital outlay—a total of 52 cents for each child. The highest amount spent for any state in 1922 was 89 cents per child attending, California, and the lowest amount 17 cents, Mississippi. In that year, 1922, Alabama spent 23 cents per child attending for all purposes. It will be noted that Alabama has increased her public elementary and high school expenditures by 3 cents per child attending since 1921-22. It is reasonable to suppose that other states have increased their expenditures also.

When we say that Alabama spent in 1924 $14,540,233 for her public elementary and high schools we are inclined to say that this is a large sum for schools, but when it is spread over the state to all the schools, it appears very small. To think and talk in terms of millions of dollars is beyond the ability of most people. but to talk in terms of pennies is within the grasp of us all.

For this 26 cents a day per child attending school Alabama has provided the following: A teacher for every child, supervision of instruction for a part of the children, the service of county and city boards of education, the services of county and city superintendents of schools, janitors' supplies and janitors' services, teaching supplies and equipment, the maintenance of buildings and erection of new buildings, fuel, light, water and power for schools, for some schools health officers and attendance officers, transportation of pupils in consolidated school districts, libraries, insurance of school properties, rents, interest, payments, etc.

If all the services named above have not been satisfactory or adequate, it is due principally to the fact that not enough money has been invested in the service. If the same kind of services are to be provided the increasing thousands of boys and girls seeking an education or if improvements are to be made in the services now being rendered, one of the first steps is to increase the revenue going to the support of the schools.

No Reason Seen For Cotton Price Drop

Although the price of cotton has dropped approximately two cents a pound since the beginning of the present picking season, F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, says that there is no statistical reason for a decline.

A year ago the cotton in sight totaled 15,334,000 bales, which included the carry-over and the prospective yield. At present the cotton in sight, which includes the prospective yield of 14,000,000 bales and a carry-over of 16,100 bales, totals 16,110,000 bales, or only 276,000 bales below the same date in 1924 which is a very small percentage difference.

Not only has the price dropped approximately two cents during the last few weeks but it is also three cents a pound below the same period a year ago. Therefore, the present crop, which is a little larger than that of last year, is worth approximately $210,000,000 less.

Mr. Gist says that the chief reason for this decline is the expected rapid rate of selling, due to earlier opening and picking.

Summarizing, he said: "The best way I know for stabilizing the market and avoiding further decline is for the growers to pool it with the co-operative marketing associations and sell it orderly as the market demands it. Since the market is already supplied for the time being, the best thing growers can do is to place their cotton in the pools and thereby relieve the congested condition due to heavy dumping."

"SHORTY" MINER AGAIN AT BAKER & TAYLOR'S

This week it again becomes our very pleasant duty to state to the public that Mr. Andrew Miner has accepted a permanent situation at the store of Baker & Taylor in Clanton. Mr. Miner is one of the most popular "store clerks" in the city. He invites his friends to come to see him at Baker's.

Zack Lowery and family went to Greenville last Sunday to see his father-in-law, G. L. Foshee, who is in the hospital of Dr. Stabler.

Zack says that bad roads and big rains made the trip rather bad from the standpoint of a driver of a Ford car.

Chilton High To Have Good Football Team

Last week Chilton High's new football coach carried a few of his gridiron prospects out to a camp on the Coosa to spend a few days in preliminary exercise before the football season opens at C. C. H. S.

Coach Quarles has lately taken a course in coaching under Knute Rockne, the fine coach of Notre Dame's athletes, whose wonderful "four horsemen" attracted nationwide attention and brought forth much comment of sports writers everywhere.

Together with his special training Coach Quarles will have some good material with which to build a winning team. Not many veterans of last year's fine team will return, but there will be many new ones from which to pick men to fill the gaps. Although the graduation last year of Jack Hayes, Howard Thompson and Crit Jones takes a trio of fast backs from the lineup, the forward wall will be strengthened considerably by the appearance of "Fattie" Knox. Chilton is expected to put out a much heavier team than last year but the present prospects now are that it will not be as fast as the 1924 combination.

Chilton's first game will be with Sidney Lanier High School in Montgomery at Cramton Bowl on September 19.

Last year Chilton tried to arrange a game with Sidney Lanier, but they replied that "they wanted to schedule games with strong teams only." Taking this slap in the face quietly, Chilton waited until the baseball season and arranged a three-game series with the haughty lads. In the series of three games, Chilton took a little of the starch out of the Lanier boasters by trimming them twice and tying the third. This year Lanier snapped at the chance for a contest with the Chiltontana.

STATEMENT OF DR. GRAGG CONCERNING HOSPITAL

As stated last week the election of officers of the Central Alabama Hospital relieved Dr. Gragg of the duties of President of that institution. Not having to look after the hospital, Dr. Gragg now feels that he will have more time to devote to his private practice. Concerning this matter Dr. Gragg has issued a statement which he requests us to publish, as follows:

To the Public:

I wish to state that as I am no longer president of the Central Alabama Hospital, I will have much more time to spend in my outside private practice and will be glad to put myself at the service of all good appreciative friends both day and night. This does not mean that I will not operate any more nor use the hospital less, but it means that I am now relieved of the cares of president and that my relations with the hospital will be in a passive way and not in an active way as before.—V. J. Gragg, Clanton, Ala., Sept. 7, 1925.

10,000 Will Attend Singing Convention

Greatest Convention in History of The South Scheduled in Atlanta for October 9, 10 and 11.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 9.—Atlanta, famed throughout the nation as "The Convention City of Dixie," will be host to her largest convention in October, when the Southeastern Singing Covention meets here the 9, 10 and 11 of that month, according to R. L. Stuckey, Dalton, Ga., president of the association. More than 10,000 people from the six Southeastern states are expected to attend the convention and participate in its three-days program of songs, it is stated.

Famous song leaders and composers of church and Sunday School music from all parts of the country are expected to be at the convention, and their presence will be a great drawing card for lovers of commuity singing throughout the Southeast. Among the world-famous musicians who are expected to be here are: Charles H. Gabriel, T. B. Mosley, C. R. Mullins, John M. Dye, J. A. Lesley, J. N. Rodheaver, V. O. Stamps and Mc. D. Weams.

The first session of the convention will be held on Friday, October 9 at the Southeastern fairgrounds at Lakewood Park, and will be a special feature of the Southeastern fair, which will be on the 8th. It is expected that the attendance at the fair that day will pass all previous records as fair officials and railroad officials are cooperating with singing convention committee to make this the greatest convention in the city's history. Special railroad rates are being given by all railroads leading into Atlanta and connectig lines are cooperating so that every one who desires may attend the convention at a minimum of cost.

Sessions on Saturday and Sunday, October 9 and 10 will be held at the city auditorium. Special sessions will be held last Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening at the fair grounds. City organist Charles A. Sheldon very probably will be the official organist for the convention and play the accompiments to the songs on the $50,000 pipe organ in the auditorium.

Mr. Stuckey is making a special effort to have church choirs from all the leadig churches of the South attend the convention and contribute to its success as well as receive the benefits to be derived through contact with the world's greatest leaders of church and Sunday school music.

Committees of leading Atlantans, headed by Charlie D. Tillman, H. M. Stanley, Homer F. Morris and E. C. Hudson, are working energetically to complete plans for the reception and entertainment of the great host that will be in the city for the convention.

The season of the year is here for outbreaks of sorehead in poultry. Poultry specialists at Auburn say that as a preventive 2 pounds of sulphur should be added to each 100 pounds of mash. Mix it thoroughly with the dry mash and continue its use until all danger of the disease is past.

This is by no means a positive preventive. Should sorehead appear the affected birds should be isolated immediately and the affected parts of the head treated with a salve composed of equal parts of idine and vaseline. Spray the premises with a reliable disinfectant and clean up.

Vote For Tax Means Longer School Terms

Editor Union-Banner:

In other letters to your paper I have called attention to the fact that if the one-mill tax carries in the county it will mean about $13,000 to our school funds, which, according to last year's monthly pay roll for teachers, would add about three weeks to our school term. Much is being said about where this money will be spent. I have this to say, and the School Board is with me in it:

WE WILL SPEND EVERY DOLLAR OF THIS TO LENGTHEN THE SCHOOL TERM, AND AS EVIDENCE OF THIS, I ASK THAT YOU FILE THIS PAPER, AND IF YOU SHOULD SEE FIT AND NEED TO, CALL OUR HAND ON IT.

Furthermore, no teacher's salary will be raised because of this. The salary schedule was adopted three months ago and will not be changed.

A few days ago some of my friends were in the office, and while we were looking into this matter, it was found that about three years ago—at the time this tax expired, our school term dropped to four and one-half months. This was, of course, partly accounted for by the great slump in State funds, but the one-mill tax would have held it up to at least a little over five moths.

Again, let me urge that every citizen of Chilton County who loves the boys and girls give this matter their most serious consideration and vote as they conscientiously feel is for the best interest of the children.

Yours for better schools,
B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt. Education.

POOR ORI

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

On September 15th every voter of this county will have the opportunity of voting for or against the levying of a 1-mill school tax. At a request of several voters, I have consented to write this article, giving my views upon this question. However, in doing so, it will be my intention not to discuss it from a personal viewpoint, but I shall try to give the facts, showing up the situation just as I see it.

This question, as well as all questions, has two sides to be considered.

The first question that probably will be considered by the voters is the question of what it will cost him individually. This can be easily found, for it will increase the taxes of every one just one-twentieth where they are already paying a 3-mill district tax. If you will get your last year's tax receipt and see what one-twentieth of the amount is this will give you exactly what the increase in your taxes would be should it be levied. The second question to be considered is: Does the County need the extra school funds, and how will this extra money be expended? The rural schools are now having only about six months term, which is entirely too short to give the rural children adequate training to cope with children who are receiving nine months training each year. I have been informed by the school officials that every penny of this money will be used in the extension of all school terms where the term is not already nine months, and it is estimated that this tax will give an increase of enough to extend the term about two, or probably three weeks. I believe that every voter should first figure just what it would cost him to pay this increase in taxes, and then ask himself if he is not willing to pay this small amount in order to give this increase in the school term. If this tax is levied, it will increase the school funds approximateiy $13,000, of which amount the corporations will pay about $10,000, thus leaving only about $3,000 to be paid by the farmers. If you are willing to pay a small part of this $3,000 if the corporations will pay $10,000, then you should spare no time in getting every one to cast his vote for it. If you are not willing to do this, of course you have a perfect right to cast your vote against it.

There are a great number of people who do not understand why the school term is shorter than it was a few years ago, but this is more easily understood when we consider that within the last six years this particular 1-mill tax that has been collected for several years expired, and this decreased the school funds several thousand dollars. Also, the school board has expended within the last three years about $88,000 on new school buildings and equipment. Too, the salaries of all teachers have been raised on an average of about $15.00 per month, and many more teachers are now employed than when the term was longer. This increase was forced upon the county board by the high cost of living. With this increase in salary it is now impossible for the board to get enough competent teachers to supply the schools.

As you read this, I trust that you will bear in mind that if this tax is levied that it will not affect my salary as a teacher, for that is already fixed. The only way that it can affect me is to cost me a few dollars extra taxes, but I am willing to pay that to see the boys and girls of this county have the best opportunity that we can give them. This is an important question, and I hope that every voter will give it due consideration.

Very truly,
W .T. BEAN.

Soon Felt Improvement

"The first time I took Cardui I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas. "I went fishing one day. A heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain. I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. I could not get my breath. My mother had some in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it. Almost from the first dose I could feel an improvement.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

How The Accomplished Helen Keller "Hears"

THOUGH blind, deaf and speechless, the famous Helen Keller continues to startle the world with her accomplishments. The above—an unusual picture—shows her "listening" to a speech by former United States Judge Benjamin Bledsoe. As you will observe, she is "hearing" his words with the aid of her highly sensitive finger tips.

Miss Keller's wonderful accomplishments have long been an inspiration and an encouragement to folks who believed that "life had cheated them." Despite her physical handicaps, her ability to get so much joy out of life and to equally bring so much into it for others who were handicapped as is she, has been one of the marvels of this age.

UNCLE DOCK WELLS NOW AT THORSBY

Rev. A. C. Wells, more commonly known by his many friends as "Uncle Dock" was in town Tuesday and had his Union-Banner changed from Lomax to Thorsby. Uncle Dock said that he had gotten Lomax pretty well straightened out and that he was going to Thorsby and see if he could make anything out of that town. If it can be done, Uncle Dock will do it!

SINGING AT WALNUT

The singing society will meet in regular monthly session at Walnut Creek church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All singers have a cordial invitation to come. Some good leaders have agreed to be present.

WEST CHILTON

Had a shower Monday afternoon, which was some relief from the long drought.

G. W. Hodgens is sufferinng very much with a cancer.

Mr. Emet Waldrop of the Reed Motor Company of Montevallo was here recently.

Y. O. Freeman of Jemison was here the other day. Mr. Freeman is one of our old time citizens of sterling worth.

There was a revival at Union Springs last week. Revs. Falkner, Bailey and Davis had charge. Rev. Davis, it is reported, delivered his noted discourse on "The Railway to Hades," using metaphorical terms to illustrate steps man takes to reach the second death—not life in any sense of the term, but absolute extinction of life in harmony with the original penalty.

Mr. John S. Waldrop is improving his store building, looking out for the fall trade.

We think of several good comfortable rural school buildings over here, with school prospects, not flattering pupils going to town, people leaving the farms. Some high in position think that our system of education is not a real success. Indications seem to corroborate that idea.

Baptismal services Sunday by Rev. Lowerly was held. Rev. Lowery is a very logical speaker, his discourse about the average.

Mr. E. G. Cofer attended the merchants meeting in Bimingham recently.

Several new Fords have been placed in this section—a good index to the fiancial standing of our citizens.

The national administration is pledged to economy and tax reduction. That is what Alabama needs. The national administration enjoys the people's confidence as safe and sane.

While harvesting this fall it is well to do some thinking and calculating as to what the farm has returned this year.

A salve of equal parts of iodine and vaseline is a good remedy for sore-head chickens. Rub it on all affected parts.

A NEW TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

The Ford is my auto, I shall not walk. It maketh me to lie down in muddy roads; it leadeth me into trouble; it draweth on my purse. I go into the paths of debt for its sake. Yea, though I understand my Ford perfectly, I fear much evil lest the radius rods or the axle might break; it hath a blowout in the presence of mine enemies. I anoint the tire with a patch, the radiator boileth over. Surely this thing will not follow me all the days of my life, or I shall dwell in the house of poverty forever.

Moral: Equip your Ford with one of the new improved cuckoo clocks. When the car reaches a speed of 25 miles an hour, the bird will come out and sing, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and at 40 miles an hour, "Lord, I Am Coming Home."—Exchange.

All fair-minded people agree that the best way to market cotton is to pool it and sell it co-operatively as there is demand.

There is a reason why one farmer makes 12 bushels of corn to the acre while his neighbor makes 30. Discover the reason and put it into practice.

KILLING THE FARMER'S FRIEND

When an Iowa farmer complained that the pheasants were eating his corn, the game department killed two of the birds, examined their crops, and found 200 cutworms—and no corn. Almost without exception, the scientists investigate such cases and find the same result. The farmer owes his crop to the feathered police that keep down the bugs, insects and worms. With continuing slaughter of every form of bird life, the insect loss will be heavier and farm work harder. The nation could train an army of riflemen in a comparatively short time, but it couldn't in a century restore the bird armies that are the farmers' allies in raising food to feed the country.

UNFAIR TO THE WOMEN

Within a decade, electric stoves, washing machines, ironing machines, water heaters, mixing devices, refrigerators and similar power appliances will be as much a part of a house as the modern bathroom, is the prediction of Earl E. Whitehorne, editor of Elictrical World.

"While the modern office is filled with labor saving devices, only 18% of the homes are thus provided. The women are required to do the same kind of drudgery their grandmothers did, all because the home is away behind the times.

"The development of the consumer-owned power companies, which is real public ownership, will bring about the further use of electricity in the home."

It's The Same Old Story

KEEP AWAY FROM WILDCATS

Buying blue sky and wildcat shares of stock is not the popular indoor sport it was a few years ago. People are learning more and more the wisdom of consulting a bank with a good reputation before making investments and handing out their hard earned money.

National distribution of the better class of investments has become a modern science, and in a great nation like ours with enormous accessions of newly created wealth, it is very important that those who buy securities know what they are getting.

Our harvest season is here. Farmers are blessed with normal crops and in some cases better than normal, and prices are above normal. They will find themselves with plenty of money this fall and the slicker stock salesman will be on hand to take it away from them.

There are many good investments in all lines of activity, and all that a buyer needs do is use ordinary prudence and consult with responsible banking or investment houses, and millions of dollars will be saved from loss.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Powell and children of Albany, Ala., came down Saturday night and spent Sunday and Monday with relatives in Clanton. Emmett says that he is liking the Tennessee Valley fine.

CROPS SORRY IN OKLAHOMA

Mr. Lee Wells of Clanton Route 2 handed The Union-Banner a card which he has just received from Uncle Mose Popwell, who is on a visit to his son, Fulton Popwell, in Vinson, Oklahoma. Following is what Uncle Mose said:

"Vinson, Okla., Aug 30.—Crops here are burned up. If you could see crops here I think you would be satisfied with yours. I heard one man say that it would take an average of fifteen acres to make a bale of cotton. Fulton has about 55 acres and I don't think he will get over five bales if that much.

M. POPWELL."

CHARLES E. HUGHES GIVES US SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

At the American Bar Association meeting, Judge Charles Evans Hughes former secretary of state, re ently a justice of the supreme court of the United States, and once candidate for president of the United States, voiced some truths well worth remembering. Among other things pertinent to the present he said:

"The most ominous sign of our times, as it seems to me, is the indication of the growth of an intolerant spirit. It is the more dangerous when armed, as it usually is, with sincere conviction. It can be exercised only by invoking the genius which watched over our infancy and has guided our development—the American spirit of civil and religious liberty. Our institutions were not devised to bring about uniformity of opinion; if they had been, we might well abandon hope.

"Especially should we be on our guard against the varieties of a false Americanism which professes to maintain American institutions while dethroning American ideals. But the just demands of liberty are not to be satisfied even by a free and uncorrupted right of suffrage. Democracy has its own capacity for tyranny. Some of the most menacing encroachments upon liberty invoke the democratic principle and assert the right of the majority to rule.

"The interests of liberty are peculiarly those of individuals, and hence of minorities, and freedom is in danger of being slain at her own altars if the passion for uniformity and control of opinion gathers head."

At this time when more money is being spent upon education in the United States than at any other period; when we boast our educational institutions, our culture, our advancement, there are greater evidences that most of our education is a sham, a veneer, and it has had no broadening effect whatever. Regardless of the pretensions of a person, and notwithstanding the degrees and designations that person is able to append to his or her name; if that person is narrow and intolerant, the alleged education is mere sounding brass and tinkling cymbal. The distinguished speaker continued:

"Again, where schemes of control are needed either in national or local affairs, we find it necessary ever to be on the alert against insidious encroachments under the guise of official discretion—against the armored cars of bureaucrats which run so freely without showing a head to hit.

"If science and the artifices of the unscrupulous have disclosed new perils, they have also shown the impotence of mere general legislation.

"If progress has taught us anything, it is the vital need of the freedom of learning.

"Yet it is with respect to the freedom of learning that we find a disposition to impose restrictions which cannot fail to give us grave concern. It is to be observed in the field of medical research. What department of intellectual activity is more important to a free people?

"Yet we observe persistent attempts in our legislatures not only to impair the immunities already gained but to hamper scientific investigations through which alone the scourges of disease now beyond remedy may come under control.

"What could be a nobler exercise of governmental power than to destroy religious error and save the souls of men from perdition? That plausible pretext has given us the saddest pages of history. That is the road that leads back to the perversion of authority and the abhorrent practices of the dark days of political disqualifications on grounds of religion, of persecution, of religious wars, of tortures, of martyrdom.

"We have problems enough without introducing religious strife into our politics."

Where is it all going to end? This growing mania to inject religion into schools; to force it down people's throats, to prescribe them because they belong to a certain sect—and all, too, by persons who probably know nothing whatever of the real spirit of religion! It is a curious thing, but religious zeal and meddlesomeness has caused more strife, more bloodshed, more wars, more suffering and anguish, and the death of more men and women than all other causes of war and strife put together!

And why? Why should any person desire to interfere in the religious beliefs of another? What business is it of his? Who gave him a mandate, and how is he to know that his brand of religion is better than that of the one he is seeking to punish, prescribe or force to conform to his views? And, finally, suppose he does force the other fellow to conform, what then? Yet down the ages this spirit of meddlesomeness and proselyting has existed, and bids fair to continue to exist.—The Birmingham News.

EVOLUTION OF A HUSBAND

Before Marriage - -

He used to ring the bell very
Gently. Smile his best with a Cheery "Good Evening" when he Came in. Take off his hat before
He crossed the threshold. Sit
Politely in the parlor without as Much as crossing his feet. Say all Sorts of sweet nothings to his lady
Fair. Stand up when her mother
Came into the room. Gently ease the Chair behind his sweetie when she Sat down to dinner. Always allow
Her to step in front of him when Entering a room. Go home at an early Hour—intoning the sweetest of "Good-Nights." Well—in general—
He just fell all over himself trying
To score the hit that would Lead to the altar. But—

After Marriage - -

He doesn't ring the bell any more.
He's knocked the door nearly off its Hinges—slamming it to let his wife
Know he's in the house. If he smiled
He's afraid his face would stay
That way. His hat he parks on the Living room table, on the floor or Anywhere it happens to land. Says all Sorts of "hot" things about the world
Being all wrong. And something about
"It owing him a living."
If his mother-in-law enters the room
He never rises. Merely shifts his Legs and groans.
He sits down to the table before
Everybody else. If his wife hasn't a
Chair—he tells her to go and get one.
He walks ahead of his wife on many Occasions. Burns the midnight oil
Listening to the radio. Acts unconscious
When his wife wishes him "Good-night."
And, the next morning, falls all over
Himself to get down to the office. It—
Leaves friend wife wondering—

He said it would crown his happiness to have her as a wife. And he gassed her with the usual castle story about the future. Told her how he had cleaned up in his business and that many people owed their pearly smiles to him. And he asked her would she not bridge the gap between the present and the future with a ,'Yes?"

"No dentist for mine," said she.
Filled with sorrow, he pulled out for home.

Alabama Teachers Seek Better Training

According to R. W. Cowart, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association, more than 8,000 teachers of Alabama attended summer schools to better equip themselves for their work. All the summer schools of Alabama were crowded. Several hundred teachers were in such institutions as Teachers College, New York City, and the University of Chicago, doing advanced work in school administration, supervision and special teaching methods.

Alabama begins her schools this year with twice as many teachers who are graduates of teacher training institutions as she had in 1918. Newspaper comments show that every community of the state that has succeeded in getting a strong faculty for its school is very proud of the fact.

Alabama's teaching personnel is steadily improving. Great strides have been made. Commendable efforts are being made in nearly every community of the state to pay teachers a sufficient salary to permit them to study and keep fit for the work of eaching. Enthusiasm for good schools is spreading and an interest is being aroused to invest more heavily in educational facilities than ever before.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blalock of Birmingham spent the week end with relatives in and around Clanton. They returned home Monday afternoon and were accompanied by Miss Essie Parrish, who will spend a few days with them in the Magic City.

The queerest thing about wrecks is that both cars invariably get run into.

Millions for New Service

THE telephone construction programme outlined for this year is the largest ever undertaken by this company. It calls for new and additional plant costing more than $13,000,000.

The large, additional investment is but a reflection of the demand for service in this and other Southern States. The new plant is necessary to meet the service needs of present and prospective subscribers, whose business and social activities require adequate, efficient, comprehensive service.

After all, the telephone system is merely the joint trustee for those who own the property and those who subscribe for the service. In no other industry are there as many owners as in the Bell System. There are approximately 750,000 security owners and more women than men stockholders.

The enormous sums of new money constantly required have greatly increased the investment per telephone, making it necessary to earn greater revenue per telephone, in order to meet the growing cost of producing service and leave a reasonable balance for profit.

Our efforts to keep pace with the growth and progress of this State and to measure up fully to our serious responsibility are aided in no small measure by your friendly encouragement.

Canoeing to Music Newest Summer Fad

Vaudeville Star Introduces Sport to Country House Guests

The very latest summer sport at Bar Harbor, Southampton and Newport is canoeing to music. Marcelle de Leleu, vaudeville headliner, known to theatre-goers as "Miss Marcelle," introduced the new pastime to friends who were week-ending at her summer place in Maine and they, enchanted with the innovation, passed it on.

Miss de Leleu, whose life is full of music, says there can never be too much of a good thing and so she had a victrola with a squat body and compact insides riveted in her canoe and found that her paddling improved to the fox trot rhythm of "Let Me Linger Longer In Your Arms," a song she has made favorite among vaudeville fans.

"Any bodily exercise can be speeded up and made pleasanter by the application of music," Miss de Leleu declares. "I have a victrola in my kitchen, too, and my cook has been with me ten years!"

Former Congressman Very Sick

Birmingham, Sept. 7.—William F. Aldrich, former congressman and well known in Birmingham, is seriously ill at his residence in the Altamont apartments and physicians have abandoned hope for his recovery. He has been in ill health for a year. Several days ago he was seized with another attack of heart trouble.

Mr. Aldrich is 72 years old. He is the founder of the town of Aldrich in Shelby county and thrice held a congressional chair, having contested the election of his opponent, Gaston A. Robbins on one occasion, Thomas S. Plowman on the second and again Gaston A. Robbins on the third. He served until March 3, 1901.

He was owner and publisher of The Birmingham Times for many years. He is a knight templar and a 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason.

After his retirement from congress he engaged in business here as a coal operator. He has been retired for several years. He has been an Alabama resident for 51 years, having been born in Palmyra, N. Y.

Take Care To Prevent Burning of Woods

A small tract of land is equivalent to a savings bank account with Mother Nature making the deposits in behalf of the owner, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Many a farmer hard pressed for funds has suddenly discovered that a neglected corner of his land possessed value to timber buyers running into hundreds and thousands of dollars. When money could be secured in no other way many small landowners have tided themselves over by marketing ties, piling and logs.

Often the farmer regards such good fortune as mere luck. Many, however, have found that by devoting a little attention to their timberlands they can greatly increase the amount and quality of timber produced. Keeping fire out of the woods, of course, is the first thing to be done and is not nearly as difficult as it may seem. Scattered throughout the state are numerous holdings that have not been burned for from 10 to 50 years. This has resulted through watchfulness and prompt action during periods of serious fire danger, with but little expenditure of time and money.

By using the suppressed and defective trees for fuel and other domestic purposes, the straight and taller can be left for sale. Where the growth is too dense the owner can thin it out leaving the remaining trees fairly equally spaced. The material removed in thinning if not merchantable can be used on the farm.

When the timber is sold the contract should provide that one or two seed trees be left on each acre, that no fire be used in connection with the logging and that no trees under 12 inches in diameter be cut. The tops left after cutting should be dragged away from the remaining trees so that the latter will not be attacked by insects. If these precautions are observed, Mother Nature will see that a new crop of timber is produced for the owner's benefit.

The heat and drought, which has held Thorsby, in common with a large section of the South, in an unprecedented grip for many weeks, has at last been somewhat alleviated by a fierce electrical, hail and rain storm, which began about 5 o'clock Monday, preceded by a high wind which raised enormous clouds of dust, which found its way into homes and business places at every opening. The relief afforded gave most of our people one comfortable night's sleep, but before noon Tuesday the mercury was again above 90 with prospect of going still higher.

H. H. Dahl had a pleasant surprise Saturday night when his daughter, Mrs. Tom Lucas, husband and children arrived from Dallas, Texas, and his daughter, Miss Palma Dahl of Birmingham.

Thorsby Institute new building is progressing favorably. The working force has been considerably increased and partitions and roof are assuming position at encouraging speed. Considerable equipment has already been purchased and it is hoped to have some of the class rooms ready when school opens.

Thorsby Institute faculty and assistants for the school year 1925-26 will be as follows: Miss Helen C. Jenkins, Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland, Miss Elizabeth J. Robison, Mr. Roscoe Maddox, Miss Lois Hawkes, Miss Marian Fairbank, Miss Alithea Parker, Mr. Robert Echols, Miss Odie Lee Arthur, Miss Sue Murray and Mrs. M. O. Post. The official date and place for opening the fall term of school is set for 10 o'clock a.m., Wednesday, September 30th, at Thorsby Congregational church. Town students will register Monday, Sept. 28th or Tuesday, Sept. 29th, at the temporary office in the dining hall, from 9 to 12 only on either day. Mrs. Loveland invites all girls who were students at Thorsby Institute last year to meet at the dormitory from 3 to 5 p. m., on Friday, September 11th.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. G. F. Harper Thursday afternoon, September 10th. Rev. R. L. Bonner is expected to preach next Sunday morning and evening at the Baptist church.

Regular Sunday school, morning service, Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor meetings will be held at the Congregational church next Sunday. There will be no preaching service at night as the pastor is due to go to one of his out of town churches.

Edna Lee Wilder is reported quite seriously ill with fever. She is the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Wilder.

Messrs. Reagan and Soberg, accompanied by Mrs. Loveland, went to Birmingham Tuesday on business connected with Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson and Mrs. C. A. Peterson each returned Saturday from a week's visit in Birmingham.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald and daughters, Mary Ella and Iola, left Wednesday morning for Demorest, Ga. The three girls will resume their studies at Piedmont College, where their brother, Sumner Gerald, is one of the instructors, and Mrs. Gerald will keep house for them. Miss Agnes Gerald left Monday to take a position as teacher of mathematics and civics in a consolidated school at Bladenboro, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Martin and children of Birmingham spent Sunday with J. R. Martin and family here.

Miss Margaret Butler returned to Demorest, Ga., Tuesday morning to take up her studies at Piedmont College.

How human it is to regard as necessities things we have but recently acquired, having done without them all our lifetime previously. Here we are as a community at Thorsby, considering ourselves greatly afflicted because our electric light plant is out of commission, and not likely to be started up before the Alabama Power Company installs their service and connect us up with a power plant that is likely to give ample all-time service. We never stop to consider what people did for lights before electric lights were invented about 50 years ago. The writer well remembers when they were exhibited as a great curosity at an exposition in Chicago as an Edison invention.

Many of our readers are ardent disciples of Isaac Walton and would rather go fishing than anything else in the way of sport. It seems proper to quote from a sketch from W. C. Prime's book, "Along New England Roads," as particularly refreshing in these days of heat: "A clear stream swollen with last night's rain, roared down by the side of the road as we slowly ascended. There are doubtless trout in that stream, for along it now and then we saw boys fishing. None of them had any trout. All agreed that the water was too high, but all asserted the presence of trout, The faith of an angler is worthy of the study of philosophers."

Mrs. S. C. Wood, Miss Eva Maye Parnell, Fank Wood and Howad Wenning spent the week end in Selma.

Miss Rosa Nelson leaves Thursday to enter training at Fraternal Hospital, Birmingham.

WALNUT CREEK

Rev. G. B. Golden has gone to Kingston in Autauga County to hold a revival for Rev. J. H. Limbrick. We wish them a succesful meeting.

Sunday is our regular preaching day at Walnut Creek. Come and hear Bro. Golden deliver a good sermon.

Sunday afternoon is regular singing evening at this place. Everybody is invited to come.

Mrs. J. J. Johnson and children spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Wilson at Montevallo.

Mrs. Gracie Wilson from Montevallo is visitig relatives around Walnut Creek this week.

Mrs. Tabitha Easterling, Mrs Irvin Kennedy and Messrs. Elijah Easterling and Clarence Mims spent Sunday at Cherokee Bluffs with Mr. Irvin Kennedy.

Misses Hixie Mae and Lilerbel Golden are at home now, after taking a three-months course in Alabama College at Montevallo.

Happy indeed is the woman who gets running water in her kitchen after drawing it from wells or bringing it from springs all her life.

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Final preparations are being made for the crucial test of the deep well of the Greater Huntsville Oil and Gas Company, a string of casing from the top to the bottom, 2,600 feet below, having been installed. The water which was almost up to the top, is being bailed out cautiously in order not to relieve the pressure too suddenly. Dr. Walter B. Jones, assistant state geologist, is watching the operation, and checking developments.

According to data gathered at Birmingham by the Alabama Water Company, numerous Alabama towns are suffering from a shortage of water. Opelika, Auburn, Ft. Payne, Hartselle, Onconta and Guntersville are mentioned among those needing water. The company states that "in not one of the 15 cities and towns where the Alabama Water Company operates water systems, has it been necessary to restrict the use of water."

Federal income tax returns, opened for inspection September 1, showed that Alabama firms and individuals will pay the government $6,482,197.17 this year. Ninety per cent of the current now being distributed by the Alabama Power Company, is steam-generated the company states. This is due to the long drought. Never before has so much steam-generated current been used.

Charlie Mynatt, young Gadsden negro, who escaped hanging for a criminal assault on a six-year-old white girl because he was not quite 14 years old when he committed the crime, has been sent to the reformattory for negroes.

During a pistol battle between a negro rum runner and officers in Birmingham this week, a negro woman who was in the auto the liquor runner was using, fell out, breaking her neck.

FARMERS USING MORE COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER

The use of commercial fertilizer is on the increase in the United States. It is estimted that the tonnage this year is 10% greater than that of 1924. Total tonnage by years follows:

1920	7,639,000
1921	5,183,000
1922	5,889,000
1923	6,647,000
1924	7,250,000
1925 (Estimated)	8,000,000

The decline in 1921 and in 1922 was due to the severe slump in prices of agricultural products which temporarily paralyzed agriculture and put thousands of farmers in bankruptcy while others were caught with debts which will require many years to pay.

School Meeting On Saturday, Sept. 12

Editor Union-Banner:

I have read with much interest the letters to the Editor in your issue of August 27, from Mr. G. T. Wilbanks, "The Condition of the Farmer," letter from John S. Dennis, "Against the School Tax," from Mr. E. W. Butler, "A Letter for Renters," from J. T. Cox, "In Favor of School Tax," and Mr. B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education. I would like to suggest, to better our condition and understand each other more fully, that every farmer in Chilton County and all who are interested in schools, meet at the courthouse on Saturday, September 12 at 10 A. M., and let's have a face to face talk on all matters that may benefit our County and State.

I would like to meet all the farmers and other friends on that date. I am quite sure I can say something then that will be of great benefit, and I am sure I can learn much hearing others. So let's all get together on the above date and see what we can accomplish. Yours for co-operation.
—W. R. K. Stanford, Lawley, Ala., August 8, 1925. 2w

Careless!—Restaurant Manager (to ochestra conductor)—"I wish you'd display a little more tact in choosing the music. We've got the National Association of Umbrella Manufacturers here this evening, and you've just played 'It Ain't Gonna Rain No More!' "—Good Hardware.

Co-operation of farmers may not have been necessary 50 years ago but it is now.

CLANTON COMPLIMENTED BY VISITORS DAILY

Among the visitors to Clanton the past week were Col. John B. Isbell and his son, Dr. D. Isbell, of Fort Payne. They expressed themselves very favorably at the manifest spirit of progress which they saw in their brief stay here.

Our paved streets are the biggest item in making visitors realize that the town is pushing forward to the making of a real city. It is as simple as two and two makes four to figure out that a town that can do what Clanton is now doing in the way of permanent improvement is able to do other things necessary to double the size of the town. And that is the view expressed by Mr. Isbell and hundreds of other visitors who come here daily from far and near.

New Dry Chief Begins At Montgomery

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 11.—J. W. Adkins, new federal chief of prohibition enforcement for middle district of Alabama, accompanied by W. W. Hudson, federal prohibition agent, arrived in Montgimery Friday, and will establish headquarters here for federal prohibition enforcement work in middle Alabama. Under the new regime of prohibition enforcement recently inaugurated, Uncle Sam is doubling his forces of law enforcers in the middle district of Alabama. Mr. Adkins will have five agents under him, making a total of six federal prohibition enforcement officers in this district, to replace the three federal officers who operated in this district under the old arrangement, and who have been transferred to Mobile.

Mr. Adkins is deputy administrator of prohibition enforcement for the middle district, with headquarters here; S. O. McPherson is deputy administrator for the northern district, with headquarters at Birmingham; and A. W. Hargett, former prohibition director for the state under the old regime, is deputy administrator for the southern district at Mobile.

Mr. Adkins, who comes here from Birmingham, is a native of St. Clair county. He is a veteran in law enforcement work, and is rated as a very capable officer. He will have under him here five experienced prohibition agents: W. W. Hudson, who comes here from Birmingham; W. B. Seale from Birmingham; C. E. Newton from Tuscaloosa; T. G. Burns from Jasper; and W. H. Page from Columbiana.

The three federal officers who have constituted the federal prohibition force in this district, W. H. Gillespie and John L. Gore, who operated from Montgomery, and H. T. Hughes, stationed at Dothan, have been transferred to Mobile, and form part of the prohibition force for the southern district. The federal force at Mobile, in addition to deputy administrator Hargett and the three officers just mentioned, comprises under the new arrangement the following: P. T. Graves and E. J. Lindholm, who have been stationed for some time at Mobile; F. L. Britten and O. D. Beard, transferred from Birmingham to Mobile; and A. J. Roberts, transferred from Anniston to Mobile.

Deputy administrator McPherson of the northern district at Birmingham has under him the following agents: R. W. Buckner, A. H. Fowler, W. B. Copeland, B. H. Crumpton, V. S. Root, and J. N. Robertson.

Mr. Adkins called on Chief Walter K. McAdory of the state law enforcement department at his office, and the state and federal prohibition chiefs were in conference during the day. Three of Alabama's sheriffs also called on Chief McAdory today: Sheriff J. E. Gaddy of Dallas county, recently appointed to succeed Percy Dawson, Sheriff P. H. McQueen, of Crenshaw, and Sheriff W. B. Prater of Coosa county.

It will help you and your neighbors for you to take part in your community and county fairs.

Power Begins Flowing From Wilson Dam

Florence, Ala., Sept. 12.—Twenty thousand kilowatts of electrical energy generated at Wilson Dam by waters of the Tennessee river were today turned into the transmission lines of the Alabama Power Co., lessee.

Major General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers, personally started the machinery which marked another stage in the harnessing of the river. On August 29 the first turbine was tested. Since that time the machinery has gone through the "tuning up" process incident to connecting the generators with the power lines.

The energy generated by the waters of the river, coupled with that of the government steam plant today approximated 85,000 kilowatts, close to the capacity of the transmission lines.

There were ceremonies connected with the event, which valley inhabitants had been looking forward to for many years. General Taylor made a close inspection of the dam and then joined other officers at the power house, where the generators were put to work. He will remain on the reservation until tomorrow. He is making a complete study to ascertain if additional power may be developed at this time.

The power from Muscle Shoals is being transmitted over lines erected by the Alabama Power Company, following acceptance of its bid for the energy generated during the test period. These lines connect with the government steam plant, which is leased to the power company. The steam plant connects with the company's Gorgas plant, thence the southeastern superpower zone lines. These latter lines form an interconnected system which carries the power, when needed, into Tennessee, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Low water last week caused the power company to reduce by one-half the amount of power being transmitted into other states. To the end that other states might profit by additional power during the drought, work at the dam was speeded up in an effort to relieve industries suffering for lack of power.

MR. ROPER THANKS PEOPLE FOR AID IN TICK ERADICATION

To my Friends:

On the first of this month I concluded my services for the government as Tick Eradication Inspector for Chilton County.

I am writing this to thank my many friends all over the county who have so kindly and courteously co-operated with me in the discharge of the duties devolving upon me in that capacity. I shall certainly remember with much pleasure the surprising amount of cordial assistance that was rendered me by so many of the good people whose cattle we had to dip.

I am also especially grateful to Commissioner Dorminey for his uniform and unceasing efforts to aid me in the work and for his careful attention in the matter of expending the county funds in this work.

Wishing you all the best of good luck, I am, Yours truly,

H. B. ROPER.

Statement of the Local Chautauqua Committee

Our Chautauqua Committee has received its assignment of dates, and is now asking every one to reserve September 23, 24, and 25 for attendance at this community affair in Clanton.

The program circulars indicate that the talent throughout the entire three days will be fine, and that each one who attends the Chautauqua will be well repaid for his time and money. According to the established custom of the Radcliffe Chautauqua System, from whom our Committee has brought this service, there will be a lecturer and an entertainment organization, comprising some of the most successful men and women in the Chautauqua profession, on the program each afternoon and evening. The corelated series of lectures deals with vital considerations of national, community and personal success, and each entertainment organization will provide that good and wholesome type of recreation which is of lasting benefit.

In urging the people of this community to support and attend the event the local committee has issued the following statement:

The Local Chautauqua Committee of Clanton is pleased to announce the 1925 Radcliffe Chautauqua, and cordially invites you to every session of this splendid three-day program. We have secured this Chautauqua, with its addresses on vital topics and attractive musical and dramatic events, for the sole purpose of providing our community with a recreational and educational festival worthy of your support, and that will be of lasting benefit to all of us. We offer it to you with the assurance that it will well repay you for the time spent with us, especially when you consider the small amount it will cost you to enjoy the twelve events on the program.

The Committee is now selling season tickets at a price much reduced from the single admission rate. Adult season tickets, admitting you to each of the six double performances, are on sale for two dollars each, and the Junior season tickets sell for one dollar each. (Single admissions to the whole Chautauqua total four dollars and fifty cents). At this price you can not afford to stay away from this big community gathering, nor to deprive your boys and girls of the opportunity to attend these twelve splendid lectures and clean, wholesome entertainments at an average cost of less than nine cents for each event!

Our belief in you has caused us to assume the obligations necessary to bring the Chautauqua here, and we are confidently expecting not only a complete justification of this faith, but also a very successful engagement.—The Chautauqua Committee.

Reynolds To Have Barbecue on Oct. 16

Judge L. H. Reynolds is making plans for pulling off a big barbecue at his farm, known as the Hyman place, above Jemison, on Friday, October 16th. The barbecue will be in connection with a sale of his farm in that section on the same day.

Homeseekers in this county will find a rare opportunity in the plans of Judge Reynolds to dispose of the Hyman place in small tracts. There are 600 acres in the place, and never before has there been a chance to buy it in small farms. It is one of the best and most favorably situated places in the county. It lies along the new cement highway for a mile and a half above Jemison and any farm on the place will be within two miles of the town of Jemison. For a man who desires a small farm for a permanent home in a good community there is no other opportunity like it in the country.

Messrs. Ford and Ford, experienced real estate men of Birmingham will have charge of the sale, and they are now in conference with Judge Reynolds in having the 600-acre tract cut up into small farms so as to be most attractive and suitable to those who may be interested.

Judge Reynolds, in making this advance announcement of the barbecue and land sale, authorizes us to state to his friends everywhere that he is preparing to entertain them on that day in the good old fashioned way, and he wants you to come along whether you buy a farm or not.

Further announcement of the plans will be made as soon as Judge Reynolds and the Messrs. Ford have worked out all the details.

MRS. MARGOLIS DEAD

Mrs. Margolis, mother of Mrs. Maurice Lande, died at the family home in Montgomery last Wednesday morning, following an illness of several weeks.

The many friends of Mrs. Lande in Clanton extend their sympathy in her sad bereavement.

Boys Kill Father At Mother's Bedside

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 14.—Furman and Marshall Merritt, local young men, are in the county jail here awaiting the outcome of an inquiry into the shooting of their father, S. A. Merritt, resident of Crenshaw county, the sheriff's office reported Monday morning.

The two young men surrendered at the jail Sunday afternoon, claiming that they had killed their father in self defense.

A report filed with P. H. McQueen, sheriff of Crenshaw county, reveals that the father and sons had not been on good terms for some time, but that the father had agreed to allow the young men to make a visit to their sick mother. An argument started in the sick room, the report shows, and pistol shooting resulted. The father is said to have been killed as he went out a back door, his body being later found on the back porch. Five bullets lodged in his body.

It is said that a bullet from the gun of the elder Merritt passed through Marshall's coat and pierced his brother's sleeve.

Woman's Neck Broken Still Living

Mrs. W. R. Allen, 506 South Twenty-Sixth Street, who broke her neck while diving at East Lake last Thursday, was still alive Monday, although physicians believed all hope for her recovery to be futile.

Mrs. Allen was taken to the infirmary Thursday, with none of her family realizing the seriousness of her condition. She has not regained consciousness. Physicians say that an operation at this time would be unsuccessful and that time would only tell whether or not they would be able to do anything for her.

Mrs. Allen dived into shallow water at East Lake, striking her head on the bottom. Her husband is an employee of the Birmingham Electric Company.

Democrats Expect Chilton to "Fall In"

The members of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party in Chilton County have been called to meet on Monday afternoon, September 28, at two o'clock at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton. The call was issued last week by Judge S. M. Adams, chairman of the Committee.

Democrats say that reports from each beat will show that the County is alive to the fact that Chilton is due to fall in line with the rest of Alabama.

If it does do that, "great will be the fall thereof."

Curtis Adkins, tax collector of St. Clair County, passed through Clanton Monday on his way to Montgomery to see his father, who is stationed in the capitol city as director of the law enforcement officers for the Middle District of Alabama.

Davis' Advice Was Help To Coolidge

Washington, Sept. 14.—Dwight F. Davis, acting secretary of war, revealed himself as a shrewd counselor in the aviation controversey and may have earned for himself even more favorable consideration than before as a successor to Secretary of War Weeks.

Mr. Davis brought persuasive arguments to President Coolidge, urging the appointment of a disinterested board to investigate aviation, and although Secretary Wilbur, of the navy department, thought the inquiry superfluous he readily agreed when he saw the objectives outlined.

Mr. Davis knew that if President Coolidge didn't take the initiative and get the jump on Congress, there would be an investigation with the administration on the defensive. He knew too that Col. Mitchell's remarks could not be brushed aside as merely insubordination, for the fiery colonel has a big following, not only in the aviation service itself, but with ex-service men whose imagination he has captured by his aggressive methods.

Mr. Coolidge was disposed to keep hands off and let the war department make the regular investigation and perhaps courtmartial, but he was urged to consider the fact that this would only give Col. Mitchell and other critics an opportunity to carry on their verbal warfare. Mr. Coolidge took a leaf out of the book of experience of the late President Wilson who, when confronted with a somewhat similar upheaval in public opinion with respect to aircraft production, called in impartial investigators like Charles Evans Hughes and the public soon forgot about the affair, giving only passing attention to the final report when issued.

Congress, of course, will not be dissuaded from making a thorough inquiry into aviation, but the administration will have the benefit of a friendly board who will not seek to embarrass it. When congress investigates, the administration will have drawn all the fire of the critics and may be in position to make constructive changes in time to take the wind out of the sails of the inquisitors and critics. Mr. Coolidge found the commission method a splendid stop-gap in the case of the agricultural discussion a year ago and recognizes that time is a great healer of controversies.

The concensus of opinion here, therefore, is that Mr. Coolidge acted wisely in accepting the advice of Acting Secretary Davis, and that the Missourian may have won himself a permanent place in the cabinet by his activity in this emergency.

CENTRAL OFFICE CHANGES

The services of Mr. George Culp with the Peoples Telephone Company of Clanton were terminated last week.

The directors of the company will within the next few days make arrangements for the permanent operation of the central office by someone to take Mr. Culp's place. Meanwhile the business is being taken care of by a temporary force.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON "GOLD BONDS"

"Before I go to the bank to ask advice about investing the money mother left me, I wish you would tell me something more about bonds," said Helen to Aunt Emmy. "Am I right in thinking that gold bonds are absolutely safe? Are gold bonds what people mean by gilt edge securities?"

"What a child it is!" laughed Aunt Emmy. "I can see that you do need to learn something about bonds. The term 'gold bond' does not have anything to do with the term 'gilt edged security.' The latter is nothing more than a commonly used phrase that means a safe security. Companies that issue gold bonds usually agree to redeem them in United States gold coin of the weight and fineness of the gold coin issued by the United States Treasury at the time the bonds are put on the market. This is done in order to protect the bondholders from the very remote possibility of a radical change in the value of United States currency, such as, for example, the changes in the values of German and other European currencies as a result of the war. While such a thing is unlikely to occur in this country, financiers always try to guard against every possible trouble. Although a bond may be payable in gold it is unnecessary to demand payment in actual gold coin since our American money is on a gold basis anyhow and our good old paper dollars have exactly the same value as golden dollars.

"But you want to bear in mind one thing. Because you buy a so-called 'gold bond,' that does not mean that the bond is secured by gold in any way, or that it is stronger than any other bond. The strength of a bond lies simply and only in the ability of the company that issues it to pay its debts. And of course you should consider the value of the property pledged or mortgaged to secure the bond, if any property is given as security."

"Dear me, Aunt Emmy," exclaimed Helen, "I never realized how much one needs to know before investing one's money. In my case it's awfully important not to have a loss, because although I have only a tiny amount of money it is all I have in the world. How can I ever learn to tell what is good from what is bad?"

"I am not sure you ever can rely on your own judgment, my dear," smiled Aunt Emmy, "but if you will be guided by your bank, you needn't worry."—A. B. Aymes.

ON GUARD AGAINST FARM CROOKS

With every constructive movement for the improvement of agriculture, one is likely to find men who will attempt to capitalize it for their own personal benefit. This may take the form of shipping in poor and unprofitable livestock to palm off on unsuspecting farmers, or it may sometimes be selling fair to good livestock at exorbitant prices under promise of taking back some of the offspring at high figures.

There are several instances where the college of agriculture through its county agent system has co-operated in heading off the introduction of undesirable or extravagantly priced livestock. In other instances the state bankers association, through its agricultural committee or the secretary's office, has sent warnings to its member banks relative to individuals or firms operating on an unsound basis. It is as important to head off undesirable and unprofitable investments as it is to encourage constructive and profitable ones.—Banker-Farmer.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Bedford county, Tennessee, are furnishing pure bred eggs to all who will agree to return one pullet for each fifteen eggs in the fall.

The Missouri Bankers Association issued the first number of the "Agricultural Information Service Quarterly" in April. This publication deals with timely agricultural subjects of interest to bankers. A discussion of the various projects proposed as a basis for the program of banker-farmer co-operation in Missouri appears in the first issue.

Tractor manufacturers report that 1925 is their biggest year since 1920. Some of the manufacturers report increases over 1924 amounting to as much as 70 and 80%, while increases of 50 and 60% are common. A few estimate that more tractors will be sold this year than in the past 5 years.

Although the Danish farmers are the richest in the world they have an average of nine county agents per county. The average county in Denmark is smaller in area than those in Alabama but Denmark is far more thickly populated.

The Danish farmers are better organized than those of any other country, and the county agents are employed by these co-operative societies in co-operation with their government. 80 to 90% of the Danish farmers belong to one or more of the co-ops.

In the main, Alabama will prosper in proportion as the soil of her farms is fertile.

The Alabama cotton crop promised a total of 1,024,000 bales on September 1. Our last crop of 1,000,000 bales was that of 1915.

The Agricultural Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama, now has a highly trained woman devoting all her time to research work on nutrition. She is studying the vitamin content of vegetables grown and consumed in Alabama.

An increase of 36% in the total rye crop, based on reports from countries which produce 78% of the world's crop, is reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Germany's rye crop this year is the largest since the war. It is estimated at 301,873,000 bushels against 225, 573,000 bushels last year. The pre-war average was 368,000,000 bushels.

In this week's Collier's appears a very stinging article dealing with the prohibition question in America. In part it reads: "When prohibition was a local issue in each community the same voters who voted a county or a town dry also voted into office sheriffs, judges and other officials whom they knew to be dry . . . . . Now federal prohibition is controlled by behind-the-scenes politicians, including United States Senators who vote 'dry' in Washington and pick 'wet' enforcement officials at home."

It is a fact, although a lamentable one, that the federal government has found it a tremendously hard, and even so far as yet known an impossible task, to subdue the whiskey traffic in the nation. Federal prohibition has been in force five years, and from a general standpoint it has been a miserable failure. So, the question is still being asked—"is there any way under the sun to conquer old man Barleycorn?"

It's The Same Old Story

THE CHAUTAUQUA COMING

There is a note of interest in the announcement of the coming of the Radcliffe Chautauqua to Clanton for a three-days' program September 23, 24, and 25. The local committee heralds the event as "a splendid three-day program—with its addresses on vital topics and attractive musical and dramatic events, for the sole purpose of providing our community with a recreational and educational festival worthy of our support, and that will be of lasting benefit to all of us."

It stands without argument that any event that can provide this or any other community with the class of entertainment promised in the above extract is certainly out of the ordinary for the present day. There are indeed few musical and dramatic events in this fast age of the world that can qualify under the broad terms which are used in this instance.

Out of the deluge of chaff and nuisances that pervade our country in many forms of "shows" and entertainments, it is surely encouraging to have the word of good and well-meaning people that there is yet possible an entertainment that is uplifting, moral, decent and elevating.

The local committee of Clanton folks who are bringing the Radcliffe Chautauqua here again this year is composed of men and women who know what the program is. There is much pleasant assurance in the personal pledge of these people as to the character of Radcliffe, and we hope anxiously that the actual performance will measure up in full to the excellent prospectus which they have given.

Upon their recommendation, we can not hesitate in urging the fullest co-operation and support on the part of Clanton's citizenship.

Evolution in dress from times of ancient Egypt to 1925 was recently shown in a style show of the home economics department of Forest Park High School, Baltimore. Costumes were copied from famous paintings and historical books in order that the the twenty-five period costumes exhibited might be accurate.

WILL YOU SUPPORT THE HOSPITAL NOW?

Many people in Clanton and Chilton County in the past withheld their support from the Central Alabama Hospital, claiming that they could not support it under the administration of those who had charge of it in an official and administrative capacity.

Recognizing this lack of support on the part of many who are in position to help the hospital a great deal if they will do so, the stockholders at their recent annual meeting sought to change things in such a way as to remove all these objections and open the way for everybody to freely support the institution.

How well they wrought in their efforts remains to be seen. Their success will be measured in terms of support for the hospital coming from those who have refused torendertheir support in the past. Those who have been backing the hospital all along will continue to do so.

Clanton can not well afford to lose the hospital. To have this institution hit the rocks of failure would be the biggest step that our town has ever taken backward.

Who would want to be responsible for its failure? If it fails somebody will be responsible.

THE LOSS OF $250,000,000

Irregular attendance in the schools throughout the United States, according to estimates made by the Bureau of Education, caused the waste of approximately $250,000,000 last year. The effectiveness of a school system depends on the regularity of attendance of the pupils enrolled as well as on such factors as the quality of instruction and the length of school term. A study of 72,120 country children in 70 counties of 10 states indicates the median number of days of actual attendance of these children was 141.7 days. Half of the children attended school less than 7 1-2 months while over 1-4 of the children attended considerably less than 6 months, and over 1-8 of them attended less than 3 months. Attendance in consolidated schools was slightly better than in one-teacher schools. The median daily attendance—79 and 60%, respectively—was higher in schools providing 9-month terms for their pupils than in schools providing 7-month terms thereby indicating that longer terms usually mean better daily attendance. Pupils with less than 130 days of schooling averaged over 1 1-2 years below grade in reading and spelling ability.

Other studies show poorer attendance among younger than among older children. Many people expect this since the older children are more likely to attend school during bad weather. A more probable factor, no doubt, is the erroneous attitude of parents in considering it less serious for the younger children than for the older children to miss school. Trivial excuses such as "went to town," "ran an errand," "got up too late," "had shoes repaired, etc., are worse than none. Closer co-operation between the teacher and the parent should result in better attendance.

Ruben E. Wyatt and T. E. Wyatt of Clanton went to Birmingham last Saturday and took in John Robinson's circus, as well as some dozen or two water spouts and mud baths on their way up there and back.

W. R. E. Stanford of Lawley was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday attending the citizens' meeting at the court house. Mr. Stanford is the man who called the meeting, and the subjects dealt with evoked much interest among those who attended.

FORESTRY LETTER

Thus far during the current drought the Alabama forests have escaped the severe fire damage sustained by some of the other southern states, according to the State Commission of Forestry. This is almost entirely due, says the Commission, to a general carefulness on the part of the public. A number of fires have occurred, some of cosiderable size, but in nearly every instance they have been successfully controlled by the local residents and the Forest Rangers.

The general situation, however, is to be regarded as very acute, since in spite of all ordinary precautions fires are almost certain to occur through accident or from natural causes. The effects of brief thunder showers usually disappear within a day and sometimes within an hour or two leaving the forest litter almost as inflammable as before the rain. With the unusually heavy leaf fall due to the severe drought, the amount of debris on the forest floor is constantly increasing. With the first frosts this will be further augmented and conditions will be ripe for serious conflagrations.

The fact that the burning of the forests works a great injury to the various communities is becoming generally appreciated throughout the state, as is also the fact that control of forest fires is a strictly feasible undertaking. The result has been that thousands of citizens during the past year have turned out to fight fire on their own initiative, chiefly from a sense of civic duty. It is impossible to estimate how many fires have been prevented from starting. A survey of the situation shows that carelessness on the part of local residents and transients easily could have started hundreds of fires to date. However, only increased efforts at prevention and prompt action toward the suppression of such fires as may occur can prevent a recurrence of destructive fire conditions comparable in severity with those of last fall.

POOR OR

CHEVROLET COMPANY BUILDS TWO-MILLIONTH AUTOMOBILE

The two-millionth Chevrolet built September 8th establishes a new record in automotive history. The Chevrolet Motor Company is the first maker of selective gear shift cars to attain this production.

"Passing the two-million production mark emphasizes Chevrolet's progress," said W. S. Knudsen, president of the company. "The present record should not be the last as the company expects to produce close to a half-million cars during 1925 which will exceed by a wide margin the 1923 Chevrolet peak production."

When the first "Baby Grand" touring model was turned out at the Flint plant in 1913 Chevrolet production for that year totaled only 5,987 cars which would today represent less than three days work. The original plant would be lost today among the huge buildings of the organization which include motor, pressed steel and assembly plants at Flint, Mich.; six other assembly plants at Tarrytown, N. Y., St. Louis, Mo., Oakland, Cal., Janesville, Wis., Norwood, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.; three factories at Detroit for the manufacture respectively of gears, axles and forgings; a transmission plant at Toledo, O., a small parts factory at Bay City, Mich., and an export assembling plant at Bloomfield, N. J. The company occupies 167 buildings with a total floor space of 6,555,227 square feet. The various plants occupy 345 acres.

The first Chevrolet, purchased by the company a few years ago from the original owner, is still in perfect running condition. At the conservative average of 10,000 miles per car, the two million Chevrolets produced since the completion of this first Chevrolet represent 20,000,000,000 miles of transportation or more than 40,000 round trips between the earth and the moon. Placed end to end the 2,000,000 Chevrolets would form a traffic jam 4,655 miles long.

The Chevrolet Motor company at 12 years old is a comparative newcomer in the automotive field. The gigantic strides which it has made are illustrated well by the fact that nearly one million of the two million cars produced so far were made during the last two years.

As the company grew, improved machinery permitted more cars to be built per employee, marvelous precision equipment rendered possible quick and accurate assembling and the resultant increase in production gave the advantage of tremendous purchasing power.

These factors formed an endless chain continually pulling down the cost of manufacture, an advantage which has been passed on to the purchaser. The result is that the two-millionth Chevrolet, a Fisher body coach with refinements, improvements and stamina undreamed of a decade ago, now sells at a figure more than $300 below the price of the original Chevrolet touring car, which sold for $1,000.

The company's position in the automotive industry was strengthened further in 1918 when it became one of the units in the gigantic General Motors corporation. The executive offices are in the General Motors building at Detroit.

Disregarding the idea of yearly models, constant efforts are being made to improve the car. But changes, even of the minor variety, are made only after long and gruelling tests over the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground at Milford, Mich., not far from Detroit, where seven Chevrolet cars, operating night and day, are making a total mileage of 75,000 monthly.

"Comparatively speaking, Chevrolet has only started," said Mr. Knudsen. "Our policy of providing maximum quality at the lowest possible cost has brought spectacular success to the organization. We shall continue to follow this policy."

STATE FAIR PLANS BEING MADE

The management of the State Fair of Alabama to be held in Montgomery November 2-11, announces that plans have been made to insure the greatest agricultural fair in the Southeastern States this year, space having been reserved for twenty-five collective agricultural and horticultural exhibits. Every foot of available exhibit space in the main exposition building has been reserved except a small number of booths in the merchants and manufacturers section and not more county or community exhibits will be accepted.

Everything indicates, says Mort L. Bixler, that there will be an attendance this year that will break all Alabama records. The railroads for the first time in years have announced special excursion rates on important days and the Mobile & Ohio has gone to the surprising limit of announcing a special excursion train on Armistice Day making one cent a mile each way.

In addition to the big agricultural show there will be an entertainment program that will be the best ever offered at any fair in the South. The features, which will be announced later, are the kind that find a place on the program of the Palace and Hippodrome of New York, as the management feels that when people come to the State Fair of Alabama they should be provided with a program that can not be seen elsewhere.

Dr. Gowan will make application for said ferry to the Cimmissioners Court of Coosa County at the session of said Court to be held at Rockford on October 5, and also the Commissioners Court of Chilton County.

My Favorite Stories

The Curse of an Active Mind

My father, for the greater part of his life, was in the steamboat business. He was an official of a company operating packets on the lower Ohio river. The headquarters of the line was the gathering place of pilots, captains, mates, clerks and engineers—a collection of quaint types and homely philosophers. One of the regular visitors was a grizzled master who had as quick a wit and as gorgeous an inventive faculty as any man I ever saw. His fictions and fables, told with an air of sincerity, were local classics.

I was a small boy but I still remember it as though it were yesterday, when on a summer afternoon the talk drifted to the subject of mules. Somebody ventured the opinion that the mule was a stupid animal.

Instantly our champion romancer spoke up:

"Don't you believe it," he said. "The average mule has got more sense than the average horse has got. What's more, every mule has got something that no horse ever had—and that's imagination. Why, I know of an instance when a mule was killed by the power of his imagination.

"It happened forty years ago when I was a young shaver, on my uncle's farm up the Tennessee river. My uncle owned an old gray mule. He had the mule on pasture in a ten-acre lot. In the middle of the lot was a long crib full of popcorn.

"Along about the middle of July came the most terrific hot spell that ever occurred in this country. The thermometer went to 118 in the shade and stayed right there day and night for three weeks. At the end of the third week, on the hottest day of all, the sun set fire to the roof of that corncrib and it burned to the ground. Naturally, the heat popped all the corn and it fell three inches deep, all over that ten-acre lot. The mule thought it was snow and, laid down in its tracks and froze to death."

As a Favor to the Railroad

A New York theatrical magnate had a bad attack of grippe in the winter and went South to recuperate. He stopped a few days in a small town in South Carolina. When he got ready to leave for the North he found the official bus had mysteriously vanished; probably the driver had gone joy riding. There was no conveyance, public or private, to be had; and in order to catch his train the Northerner was compelled to labor afoot over a mile and a half of dusty road, with a valise in each hand.

When he staggered up to the tiny station there was no one in sight except an old darky who was sitting on the platform.

"Uncle," inquired the New Yorker, "why in the name of goodness did they build this depot so far from the town?"

The old man scratched his head.

"I don't know, boss," he said, "onless it wuz because dey wanted to git closer to de railroad!"

YOUNG CHILDREN IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Children whose first year is spent in the kindergarten are fortunate. Since the one-room school cannot offer kindergarten work, country children of kindergarten age should be kept at home. According to information received by the Bureau of Education, Department of Interior, parents in rural districts in increasing numbers realize that children should wait until they are approximately six years of age before entering school.

Teachers appreciating the injury often inflicted by the change from the active outdoor life so essential to health and physical development to the sedentary life of the schools are doing much to make school life less sedentary, and the transition from the pre-school life to the more exacting demands of the school gradual and easy. They see to it that children get exercise, physical relief, and education, in using such materials as construction paper, paste, crayola, scissors, clay, blocks and a set of type for printing. Where school boards have not furnished such supplies money is often raised for their purchase thru the efforts of parent-teachers associations and other organizations. The young children are taught to talk freely, play games, and to sing. Older children read aloud to them and tell them stories; thus getting needed practice, and at the same time arousing in their listeners a desire to learn to read.

Activities of this kind, while apparently delaying children's progress in learning to read really hasten it. It is becoming quite general for children sufficiently mature to profit by first grade work to enter rural schools in the fall and, after attending regularly for nine months, to read through several primers and first readers before the year closes.

KLAN ISSUE TO COME UP FOR DISPOSITION SOON

Congress Will Decide on Whether to Seat M. O. Dunning as Collestor of Customs.

Washington, Sept. 15.—In a fight which will focus the attention of the nation and decide one of the bitterest issues, congress will soon determine whether Ku Klux Klansmen shall be debarred from holding public office because of their membership in the hooded fraternity.

The issue will revolve around Marion O. Dunning, recenfly appointed collector of customs at Savannah, Ga.

Dunning is a national organizer and high light of the Klan. Protests have come into Washington from over the country against the confirmation of the collector.

The sole objection raised against Dunning is that he is a Klansman, and his confirmation or rejection by the senate will hinge upon that issue.

Congress will thus be forced for the first time to decide whether a Klansman is unworthy of public trust. In the past, it has avoided the issue. "investigation" of the Klan was made in 1921, but the records at the capitol indicate that the congressional committee did nothing more than hold a few desultory hearings.

Because of the importance of the coming test, the Klan, spurred to new enthusiasm by the 40,000 parade here, will mass its strength behind Dunning. Arrayed against it will be the three racial and religious groups that, it is alleged, are opposed by the Klan.

Dunning has told friends here an interesting story of his appointment. He said he came as a Klan chief to block the appointment of one, Munroe of Georgia, and after he had been assured that Munroe would not be given the appointment, Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews of the treasury department suggested that Dunning himself accept the collectorship.

Dunning said he told Gen. Andrews that he was a conspicuous office-holding Klansman and asked whether he should resign his Klan post in order to take the public position. Dunning said Gen. Andrews assured him he could retain his Klan post without embarassment.

BURBER BEAN ARRESTED WITH LIQUOR

Burber Bean was arrested last Sunday on the streets of Clanton by Deputy Sheriff Harvey Foshee, charged with having prohibited liquor in his possession, and also with transporting liquor in an automobile. A five-passenger Overland car was possessed by the Sheriff. Bean was placed in jail, later making bond.

In the car with Bean was Vernon Jones, who ran away during the scuffle between Bean and Deputy Foshee.

IN MEMORY

An infant son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright on August 18, 1925. They were not blessed with his presence but a short time, for on Sunday evening, September 6, the death angel called him from our midst. The little baby suffered just a short while, being taken very ill Sunday morning.

The little body was laid to rest in the Jemison cemetery, Pine Hill, with Rev. B. Lawrence conducting the funeral service.

May we all realize that "the Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away," and we should willingly submit to His Holy will.

Little Darling, we will miss thee,
Oh, more than words can tell;
May we some day meet thee,
In a better land, and there forever dwell.

—Mrs. W. T. Bean.

Thirty nationalities are represented among the 2,200 pupils enrolled in public school No. 96, New York City. Nearly all of the children, however, were born in this coutry.

When the rain came up last Saturday many bales of cotton on wagons and trucks at the gins got such a wetting that it could not be ginned and had to be carried back home by the owners and scattered out to dry.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ABOUT POLL TAX

The attention of all ex-soldiers is hereby called to the fact that if they desire to get on the list of qualified voters under the Constitutional Amendment exempting them from poll tax, it is their duty to fill out the required blanks at the Probate's office for that purpose.

It is necessary for all who filed papers of exemption prior to 1923 to come again and make out new papers to comply with the present law.

It is necessary that the applicants have their discharges when filling out these applications.

MR. WILBANKS WRITES AGAIN ABOUT RENTING

Editor Union-Banner:

Two weeks ago you published an article for me, so I am calling again. I, being a land renter, know something about their disposition. Ordinary renters are a little careless about taking care of the land which they work. They say, I don't know whether I will be here another year or not, so it isn't necessary for me to take much interest in keeping the place up.

I think we have the wrong idea in this respect. Most landlords want good renters who will take interest in patching and keeping up houses and the farm land. The landlord can and will show us more favors if we do what he wants done, and we will not be moving from one place to another. So, we think it best for renters to get good land with good landlords and take interest as if it were our own, build up instead of moving all the time. If we would stay at one place all the time it would be better for us and for the landlord.

Some will say that land is too poor; cotton rust too bad this year, so I will hunt land that don't rust so bad. We had rust this year where we were never bothered before. In fact, it wasn't rust—it was blight or scald caused from continued hot weather and lack of rain and then followed by unusual hot weather for the time of the year.

School Tax Defeated In Tuesday Election

Unofficial returns from 17 out of the 26 voting places in the county up to noon Wednesday indicate that the proposed one-mill school tax was defeated. The figures compiled showed 298 votes cast for the tax and 310 against it.

Beat 4, Beat 11 and Beat 15 seem to have led the fight against the tax.

The official count will be held Friday; next week we will publish the correct figures from every voting place in the county.

ANNUAL BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Sunday Schools of the Chilton County and the Unity Association will be held with the Samaria Baptist Church one and one-half miles southwest of Clanton, Ala., on the Fourth Sunday in this month, September 27th, 1925.

All the Sunday Schools in the two associations are earnestly requested and are expected to send representatives to this convention with a report of the work in each school during the year.

A good program will be arranged with able speakers. Speakers from the State Sunday School Department will be present.

We urge and insist that each district president and each Sunday School Superintendent be with us at the convention. Let us make this the best Sunday school meeting yet held in the Baptist work.

Yours in the work,
H. A. HARRIS, President.
J. Z. MIMS, Secretary.

This same land likely won't rust again in ten years; so, don't move for that reason. You might get land that is worse than you left.

We think this fine section of country along the railroad would be much better if Clanton people would get busy and help locate a cotton mill at or near Clanton. Such enterprise would put new life in business of all kinds. So we hope in a few years to see cotton mills, knitting mills and also cheaper ginning in Clanton.

Respectfully,
GEO. T. WILBANKS.

Sudden Death of Mr. A. S. Jones

Mr. Andy S. Jones, age 68 years, died suddenly at his home in West End, Clanton, about 8:30 o'clock last Sunday morning. He was sitting in the porch swing when death came upon him as if he had merely fallen asleep.

Mr. Jones was born and reared in the Mulberry community where he lived all his life until moving to Clanton a few years ago. He was the youngest of a family of 16 children, only three sisters still living. They are Mrs. Woolley of Lamkin, Texas, Mrs. Wiley Ramsey of Clanton and Mrs. Laura White of Clanton.

Of his immediate family surviving the deceased are his wife; two sons, Hugh Jones of Clanton and Span Jones of Mulberry; four daughters, Mrs. J. P. Hayes of Clanton, Miss Hattie Jones of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Lloyd Duncan (W. L. Jones) of Birmingham and Miss Irene Jones of Bessemer. The late Heath Jones, a well known and popular business man of Clanton, was also a son of the deceased.

Mr. Jones had been a member of the Baptist church for about 47 years. He has always borne the honorable distinction of being a man of noble character and splendid ideals, exemplifying those traits in his daily life and in his conduct and dealings with his neighbors and fellow-men.

The family of noble and upright boys and girls which he reared to maturity is but the most convincing testimony that he was a man whose heart was right and whose soul was leading onward and upward to the mark if the high calling which is in Christ Jesus.

The funeral was conducted by his pastor, Rev. S. J. Ezell, at the Clanton Baptist church Monday afternoon, when a host of sorrowig friends and relatives gathered around the bier to pay their last respects to a companion and a neighbor whom they had known and loved for many years.

Brother Got the Lingo.—A boy left the farm and got a job in the city. He wrote a letter to his brother who elected to stick to the farm, telling of the joys of city life in which he said.

"Thursday we autoed out to the Country Club, where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach for the week-end."

The brother on the farm wrote back:

"Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all the afternoon. Today we muled out to the cornfield and ge-hawed until sundown. After we had suppered, we piped for a while. After that we staircased up to our room and bedsteaded until the clock fived."—Pittsburgh Christian Adv.

Autumn Fashion Hint For Milady

PARIS fashion designers pass along this "pictured tip" as to what will be correct for Milady's walking costume this fall. It's a charmingly tailored Tweed Suit, modeled by Vladimir of Paris.

Not only for hiking out along the countryside but for walking or riding in town, this suit is still "le dernier cri"—whatever that means. At any rate, we believe our feminine readers will agree that its simplicity in lines make it attractive and appealing, thus assuring its popularity.

EXPECT 500 VETS AT STATE REUNION

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sept. 14.—An attendance of probably 1,500 persons at the twenty-fifth annual reunion of the Alabama department of the United Confederate Veterans in Tuscaloosa on October 21 and 22 was the estimate made Thursday night at a meeting of heads of local committees preparing for the event. In that number will be included approximately 500 Confederate veterans. The remainder will be formed by members of the staff of officers, Sons of Confederate Veterans and United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Tuscaloosa's hotel capacity is to be conserved and residents of the city are to be asked to open their homes to the veterans, entertaining them and giving them their breakfast. Arrangements are being made to give the veterans their luncheon and dinner in the city. The estimate as to the attendance was made by Col. Paul Sanguinetti, adjutant general, of Montgomery.

Announcement has been made by the transportation committee that round-trip tickets can be secured by the veterans for the price of one fare, and those coming with the veterans for one and one-half fares.

The well outlined program for the reunion includes dedication, river trips, parades, picnics and a sham battle in which the university students of today will take part.

Plans for the comfort and entertainment of the veterans will include the services of the boy and girl scouts and free automobiles furnished by the citizens of Tuscaloosa. Plans will include a good band through the time of the reunion and the use of the Tuscaloosa band and the university band when those bands are at liberty to assist.

A Resume of the More Importan Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Actual work on the Tennessee River bridge at Albany-Decatur was started Thursday. With the starting of this work a dream of more than a quarter of a century has been realized. This bridge when completed will be the largest concrete bridge ever built in Alabama and will span the Tennessee River at the Bee Line Highway forming the connecting link between Alabama and Tennessee.

The State Board of Health has certified to the purity of water being obtained from a new plant on Cedar Creek near Russellville. Another town is now getting water from that source. The supply is said to be large enough for a city of 50,000 people. The improvements cost the Alabama Water Company, owners of the system, $86,000.

A federal government estimate of the 1925 cotton crop, September 8 puts the condition of the Alabama crop at 65 per cent normal and the state's probable yield at 1,024,000 bales. The estimate for the whole country is 13,740,000, or 250,000 bales below its forecast of two weeks before.

Doss Livingston, said to be a Florida labor agent, was probably fatally shot by Deputy Frank Hall not far from Troy. Robt. Sealey, who accompanied the officer, was shot three times, but not seriously hurt. The shooting is said to have grown out of Livingston's carrying off negro laborers working at a saw mill.

St. Bernard College, at Cullman opened last week with an enrollment of more than 125 students. Quite a number of the old boys have not as yet put in appearance, and with their coming the attendance will be greatly increased over last year.

Dorsey Austin, 18-year-old Pike County youth, was arrested recently charged with forging the name of his fiance's father to a marriage permit. The girl was only 14. The marriage had taken place before her father knew of the proceedings.

Cotton crop this year in the vicinity of Troy so far has almost tripled that of last year. Official reports show that 8,561 bales had been ginner up to September 1 this year, while up to the same date last year only 3,055 had been ginned.

Clark Windham, young Crossroads Ala., man, was shot to death by Coy Green, 18, of the same neighborhood. Green was arrested and claims self defense. Officers say both had been drinking.

Dr. J. E. Brodie, the newly appointed full time health officer for Lee County, has arrived, and has entered upon his duties as head of the county unit with his office at the court house at Opelika.

Birmingham lovers of liquor are preparing to launch a drive for modification of the present prohibition laws. J. B. Mills, of the Alabama Anti-Saloon League, told a meeting of Birmingham pastors.

Heat records for all time were broken in many sections of Alabama the first two weeks in September. Temperatures as high as 107½ were reported.

Many Shelby County farmers were guests at a barbecue given by the Montevallo Exchange Club recently. A number of experts on farming spoke.

D. B. Roper, of Bangor, Ala., 24, shot himself to death in Birmingham. Notes left by the young man indicate that despondency over a love affair was the cause.

License tags for motor vehicles for 1926 have been received at the office of the probate judge of Cleburne County.

Believers Own World Says Minister

Dr. Jerome O. Williams, Former Chilton Minister, Preaches to Packed House at Bessemer.

Bessemer, Ala., Sept. 20.—Dr. Jerome O. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist church, after being away for one week in Montgomery and attending the Birmingham Baptist association, was back at home for the morning service Sunday. He preached to a congregation that taxed the capacity of the building on the theme, "The Wealth of Believers."

The pastor emphasized the fact that all believers are in Christ and that Christ is in God and being in the family of God all things belong to believers.

"All the splendor of nature belongs to the believer," said the pastor, "if he is able to appropriate it. One poet has said, 'I own not one inch of land, yet all is mine.' There are those in the congregation today who have enjoyed the scenery of the Canadian hills, the Pacific rockies, the mountains and valleys of Switzerland, the matchless scenery of Scotland—all is ours if we have been able to enter into it."

The pastor went on: "The works of all men are ours. The literature of the past is our heritage, we have it. It is ours but we must enjoy it. The work of art is ours. The work of all the great men of the past comes to us now and is ours.

"The wealth of life is ours. There are those who would say that the wealth of life is made up of material things, such as gold, silver, real estate and bank accounts, but these are not the real values of life. The things that make life great are found to be in ideals, character and aspirations.

"The wealth of God is ours. He comes with His own character and His own greatness, and offers all to His people. All the joy of God belongs to us. The mercy of God belongs to His believers. All is ours, if we are His and seek to do His will."

Coral Gables Bus Held In Damage Suit

On three separate writ of attachments issued by the circuit clerk of Jefferson County, Alabama, against George E. Merrick, Coral Gables, Inc., a corporation and Coral Gables Utilities company, a corporation, based on personal damage suits, a motor bus belonging to the Coral Gables company was being held at Montgomery Friday night by Montgomery county officials pending the outcome of the suits in Jefferson circuit court.

The attachments were served Friday morning by Sheriff R. C. Phelps upon receipt of the proceedings sent him by the sheriff of Jefferson county.

The attachments were issued to enable Harry Holland, Mrs. Dollie Curlee and B. K. Willingham, all of Birmingham, to recover damages alleged to have been sustained on July 5 when the Coral Gables bus ran into Holland's car on a public highway 18 miles north of Birmingham, near Morris, Ala., according to the clerk of Jefferson circuit court, and asks $50,000. Holland and Willingham each sue for $10,000.

According to a telegram sent by the sheriff of Jefferson county, the bus had left Birmingham before the attachments were issued, which was given as the reason for the bus being attached at Montgomery.

An unsuccessful effort was made Friday night to secure a statement from the Coral Gables company.

President Coolidge Had Narrow Escape

Washington, Sept. 21.—Only the quick action of a secret service attendant is believed to have saved President Coolidge from being run down by an automobile while he was walking near the White House last night.

The motorist, who gave his name as Nathan D. Smith, 56, of Baltimore, was arrested on a charge of violating traffic regulations after another of the president's attendants had leaped to the running board of the car as it swept by.

The president, the police were informed, had just stepped from the curb to cross the street at an intersection when Smith, in turning the corner, is alleged to have cut in sharply toward the curb. With the car sweeping in directly toward him, one of the secret service men who saw it, quickly grabbed the president's arm and drew him back to the curb, the car narrowly missing him.

The attendant who jumped onto the running board of the car turned Smith over to a traffic officer for arrest after they had gone about a block further on. Smith was charged with cutting corners and failing to give the right-of-way to pedestrians. He was released on $3,500 bond for his appearance in traffic court. The president was taking one of his customary evening walks through the down town section and had reached the intersection at H street at Jackson place, just a block from the White House, to which he was returning when the incident occurred.

Mr. Coolidge apparently was little disturbed by his narrow escape and it was some hours afterward before attaches at the White House had even heard of it.

The president's experience recalls a similar one which Mrs. Coolidge had during the summer at Swampscott, Mass., when she narrowly escaped being struck by a motorcycle on the road near White Court.

Legislature May Meet In Extra Session

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 18.—Call of a special session of the legislature is very probable, provided legislators and administrators can get together in advance on definite programs for good roads, education and the port of Mobile, Gov. Brandon stated today.

Rumors of an extra session have been rife for some time, with rumor placing the time of meeting probably some time in mid-winter. From time to time in recent weeks, various members of the legislature have dropped in at the governor's office, and it has been presumed that the question of an extra session was among those coming up for consideration at these conferences between the chief executive and the members of the law-making body of the state.

The statement from Gov. Brandon today was in substance a reiteration of a statement from the governor some months ago, in which he declared that definite programs for good roads and education must be agreed to in advance of an extra session. The governor today added the port of Mobile, as one of the major problems on which an understanding is sought.

"If we can within the next few months work out definite programs for roads, education, and the port of Mobile, which would be agreed to by the legislature and by those charged with the administration of these phases of public activity, there is a strong probability of the legislature being called in extra session," the governor stated.

It is generally understood that the road program will embrace a bond issue for good roads, though there has been some difference of opinion as to the amount of this issue, the state highway commission favoring a $75,000,000 issue, while others have advocated an issue of $25,000,000.

The port of Mobile question is also comparatively simple. The present legislature at its regular session in 1923 placed restrictions on the expenditure of the $10,000,000 voted by the people for seaport development. Providing that only half of this amount could be spent within the four years' time and also that only $5,000,000 of bonds could be issued until certain completed parts of the project had produced a net income of 5%.

Removal of these restrictions is expected in event of a special session.

The question of providing additfonal revenue for education is regarded as more complicated. A 4-mill tax for education was advocated by the governor at the last regular session, but failed without even coming to a vote. The general consensus of opinion is that no further state ad valorem property tax will be voted by the people for education or anything else. A severance tax, and a sales tax on tobacco, cosmetics, soft drinks, etc., have been mentioned as possible new sources of revenue. In addition to the three major questions of good roads, education and the port of Mobile, several other matters have been mentioned as likely to come before an extra session, among them the regulation of busses using the public highways of the state. There has also been considerable talk recently to the effect that a bill to re-establish the double primary system in Alabama will be introduced in the event of a special session. Such a measure was overwhelmingly defeated by the house of representatives of the present legislature, at the regular session and its passage at a special session is regarded as very dubious.

THE OLD TIME SINGING OUT AT LIBERTY HILL LAST SUNDAY

The Harp and Harmony Singing Convention held at Liberty Hill last Saturday and Sunday was greatly enjoyed by many present both days, and we consider it a success.

On Saturday the president and the secretary being a little late, the convention was opened by the vice president, T. J. Jackson, and prayer by Brother J. H. Williams. Then the president took charge and called the following directors to the floor for three songs each: T. C. Jackson, T. J. Baker, H. W. Sanders, J. W. Hays, Mrs. Sarah Bates, J. M. Williams, T. J. Jackson, J. H. Williams. Recess one hour for dinner.

After noon A. A. Jackson, Miss Ruth Williams, Martin Jackson, J. N. Scott, Miss Lillie Pearl Cooper, Mrs. Honeycutt from Birmingham, Miss Ordell Wilkinson, E. D. Shirley. We closed Saturday at 4.10 p. m. by one song and prayer by Rev. J. N. Scott.

Sunday the convention was called to order by the president, Z. J. Jones at nine o'clock. The vice president T. J. Jackson directed song, "Bellview," in the Sacred Harp, after which prayer by Rev. J. N. Scott. The first lesson of three songs was led by J. N. Scott. The leaders for the day were about the same as the first day. It was an enjoyable service. There was plenty of dinner both days. The convention closed at 3.20 o'clock by singing one song and prayer by our president, Z. J. Jones, to hold the next convention at Pate's Chapel.—J. N. Scott, Secretary, Jemison, Ala.

Famous Stamps Quartet To Sing Here October 8

The hundreds of people in Chilton County who like to hear and appreciate high class singing will be pleased to learn that one of the best, if not the best, quartets in the entire South will present a musical concert at the high school auditorium in Clanton on the night of October 8th. This group of singers is known as the Stamps Quartette, who are sent out by the Stamps Music Company and School of Music of Jacksonville, Texas. The quartette coming to Clanton is the original No. 1 Stamps Quartette, Virgil O. Stamps himself being one of the singers.

It is a mere coincidence that these famous singers are stopping in Clanton, as they seldom put on concerts anywhere other than in the larger cities. But Clanton happened to be on their direct route from Jacksonville to Atlanta, where they are going to attend the big Southeastern Singing Convention, and for that reason the famous singers were induced to stop off here and put on their program.

The price of admission is only 25c and 35c, 20% of which will go to the county high school and the remainder to the singers. This price is small in comparison with the class of singing and the quantity of it, together with other comic numbers, which the audience will be greeted with by Mr. Stamps and his troupe of musical entertainers. So, don't forget the time and place—high school auditorium, Clanton, Thursday night, October 8th, at 8:00 o'clock.

Shelby Officials Said To Be Incompetent

Columbiana, Ala., Sept. 19.—Recomendations for impeachment of William E. Harrison, tax assessor of Shelby county and charges against J. L. Isbell, tax collector, that he is "incompetent and in many ways apparently to us, corrupt," are contained in the report of the Shelby county grand jury.

Impeachment proceedings against Tax Assessor Harrison were recommended following a report by state examiners who audited his books. The grand jury charged Harrison with being "incompetent, inefficient and incapable of assessing the taxes of Shelby county."

The grand jury further charges:

"His books are in a deplorable condition, error after error occurring in his assessmets through the years 1922, 1923 and 1924. We find his records incorrectly kept and that errors occur throughout all his books. We believe that a great deal of this is due to the lack on Mr. Harrison's part of thoroughly comprehending the duties which are evolved upon him as tax assessor, and the fact that he has been in the habit of hiring inexperienced and incompetent help to assist in doing the work."

The grand jury found, also, it is reported, that the abstract book furnished the tax collector is incomplete, many items being left off and many being placed on the book long after he is supposed to have made out his receipt for same. Alleged differences in valuations, amounts assessed and valuations paid, also are cited in the report.

Harrison is charged specifically with incompetency and wilfull neglect of duty.

Prosecution of the cases against the tax assessor will fall to John J. Haynes, solicitor of the eighteenth judicial circuit of Alabama. His assistant, Paul O. Luck, stated today in the absence of Mr. Haynes, that impeachment proceedings would probably be started next week.

In regard to the case of Isbell, the grand jury reported:

"We find that James L. Isbell, tax collector of Shelby county, has proven himself to be incompetent and that in many ways apparent to us corrupt in many of the items which appear in the report of the examiners, but the fact that Mr. Isbell will soon go out of office and the fact that there is now pending in circuit court of Shelby county a suit seeking to recover from Mr. Isbell and his bondsmen the amount due the state and county, we deem it not necessary here to go further into the matters pertaining to his office. As impeachment proceedings will not be necessary, we close the matter here and do not think it necessary to discuss it further."

MEETING OF CHILTON COUNTY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

Negro Killed Trying To Enter House

Greenville, Ala., Sept. 20.—Good aim, deadly shot and an iron nerve probably prevented a terrible tragedy near Greenville last night when Mrs. Grady Martin killed a negro man named R. Shepherd, as he was attempting to gain entrance to her bedroom thru a window. Mrs. Martin was awakened by the negro as he first tried to open the door to her room. He was unsuccessful here and then was about to enter thru the window when she shot him thru the head with a 38. caliber pistol. The bullet went completely thru the negro's head.

Mrs. Martin was alone in her home with a small child. Her husband was not at home at the time and it is believed the negro was aware of this fact.

The shooting occurred about midnight and as Mrs. Martin had no one to leave with her children, neighbors were not summoned until after day.

Mrs. Martin was in Greenville today and discussed the shooting and did not appear to be at all excited over the affair and she stated to friends that she rejoiced over the fact that her shot proved effective and that she was able to protect herself and children.

Chilton High Loses To Sidney Lanier

Chilton County High School lost her first game of the season to the Sidney Lanier team of Montgomery in the Capitol city last Saturday. The affair was a long drawn out squabble due to the excessive heat, which was registering 102 in the shade at the time.

The score was 6 to 0. Many fumbles on both side marred the play, and it was not until a few minutes before the end of the last quarter that Lanier lucked a pass which put them on Clanton's 2-yard line. From here they scored a few minutes later on a buck.

Chilton's line was too much for the touted Lanier backs, and they were forced to take to the air to win, although this was the only pass completed.

It looked like a walk-away for the Chilton team at first, but several penalties, some of them seemingly unjust, killed Chilton's chances at each crucial moment.

Coach Quarles will give his men several stiff workouts before the next game, and some changes may be made in the line-up.

With a little more team-play and speed, Chilton should give someone some trouble this year.

Announcements of games will be made as soon as scheduled.

Proclamation By Gov. William W. Brandon

In Regard to Forest Protection and Suppression of Forest Fires; Gives Out Important Dates.

Whereas, a severe drought occurred in the fall of last year, when great areas in the southern states were swept by forest fires, followed after a brief intermission of winter rains by a spring drought continuing through the summer during which other fires extended the damage; and

Whereas, these fires burned away the natural mulch and leaf mold which through its decay is the chief source of soil fertility and which absorbs the rainfall thus preventing rapid evaporation of the soil moisture and permitting the water to seep slowly into the springs and streams, instead of running rapidly off causing floods followed by scarcity of ground water; and

Whereas, as a result of the forest fires occurring last fall and during the spring, the winter rains were largely lost to the soil and the effects of the successive droughts have been unduly severe: Mature timber, shade and fruit trees are dying; agricultural crops are suffering for lack of soil water; forest growth is at a standstill; the live stock industry is hampered through the drying up of springs and streams; wild game is suffering; many fish are dying in the stagnant waters; hydroelectric power is restricted through diminished stream flow; industries and transportation are handicapped from lack of water for steam boilers; and domestic use of water is greatly curtailed through drying wells and depleted reservoirs, thus imperiling the health of communities; and

Whereas, the present acute drought situation in Alabama presents serious probability that further destruction may be wrought by forest fires during the current season unless prevented by foresight, carefulness and diligence on the part of all our citizens;

Therefore, I, William W. Brandon, Governor of the State of Alabama, do urge that operators of engines and boilers using wood and coal make a special inspection of all spark arresting devices and insure their effective operation; that smokers be exceedingly carefel not to drop lighted matches or cigaret stubs in the grass or woods; that naked torches be not used in hunting; that railroad authorities, highway crews, land clearers and all other persons discontinue the use of fire in the open for any purpose during the present drought and that every citizen do his utmost to extinguish such forest fires as may occur through accident or otherwise. I do hereby proclaim Friday, October 16th, 1925, as Special Forest Protection Day and I urge upon all schools the observance of this day by exercises appropriately designed to impress upon the pupils and patrons of the schools the serious and distressing effects of forest fires and the destruction they may work if not prevented or promptly suppressed.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this, the 12th. day of September, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-five.

W. W. BRANDON,
Governor.

PLANTERSVILLE BOY TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Sixteen Year Old Boy Shoots Self as He Gives Note to Girl of 13 Years.

Selma, Ala. Sept. 22.—Oran Carroll, young high school boy 16 years old, of Plantersville, Ala., attempted suicide on Sunday evening at 6:45 by shooting himself through the chest in the night of a 13-year old girl, after he had handed her a note in which he gave direction for the disposal of his body, will recover, it is thought today. The boy was rushed to Selma in a car, meeting the Breslin ambulance about nine miles from Selma, which had been sent for him, and was carried to the Baptist hospital. One shot was fired, the ball entering the chest on the left side above the heart and puncturing the lung.

The shooting took place on the highway near the home of Thomas Sherrer, an uncle of young Carroll, where the boy had been visiting his cousin, John Sherrer. At about 6:30 John Sherrer started out to church with his four sisters and Carroll's half sister, and the two Lawrence girls, Pauline and Marguerite. The girls were standing in front of the Sherrer home when young Carroll approached them and handed a note to Pauline Lawrence (his little sweetheart), in which he said he was going to shoot himself, and told her what to do with his body. The girl considered the note a joke. Young Carroll continued down the road a little distance and pulled out a pistol and in plain sight of the girls shot himself through the chest. Medical aid was summoned at once.

His cousin, John Shearrer, said they were together for two hours Sunday afternoon, and Carroll did not seem brooding, though he is said to be a quiet boy by natuie. He is the step son of George Mitchell, who lives a mile south of Plantersville. He is in the Plantersville high school. The family is well known. Little Pauline Lawrence is the 13-year old daughter of O. H. Lawrence, well known citizen of Plantersville.

RALLY AT COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

The rally pulled off at the County Training School last Sunday was a wonderful success. The welcome address by principal Bryant was clear cut, giving in detail the purpose of the rally. Great stress was placed on the trained boy or girl for service. That is practical education—being the right kind for the boys and girls of today, that they may fit in for a useful life.

Dr. C. C. Wilkerson, pastor of the Methodist church, Clanton, was then introduced to the vast audience, and delivered an address that will ever be remembered by those who heard him.

The citizens of this community are elated over the work done at the County Training School, giving much praise to the high service rendered by the principal, whose work is second to none in this section of the State.

After the address the collection was taken. There were 10 clubs that reported $272.00, Ed McCall having reported $51.00 to his part, winning the 48-lb sack of flour. The total raised was $316.00 All back claims against the school have been paid off, and we are ready for new things.

The shop is now the order of the day. It will be under construction as soon as a contractor is found.—A. D. Gordon, Secretary.

WORD OF THANKS

This comes to express our sincere thanks for the hearty cooperation and support of the white citizens in the very successful rally given by the County Training School last Sunday. Net proceeds were $316.00.—I. B. Bryant, Principal.

UNEARNED CRITICISM

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

Chairman, Public Relations Commission American Bankers Association

There has been some disposition to criticize the administration of the country's banking system for the sudden collapse of prices and curtailment of credits in 1920 and 1921, and the subsequent financial difficulties of the farmers. As a matter of fact, whatever blame may attach to bankers must be for the too generous financing, in many cases, of speculative investment in farm property during the period of inflation. If any just criticism could be directed at the manner in which the Federal Reserve System functioned in this situation in the opinion of many it would be that the Reserve banks delayed too long in raising the rediscount rates. An earlier effort might have stayed the process of inflation.

Francis H. Sisson

The collapse of 1920 was by no means confined to agriculture, and was the inevitable sequel to the inflation period. All branches of business suffered in this period of reaction and perhaps none more than banking, against which this criticism has been levelled. The financial situation of the farmers was greatly aggravated by the fact that the high land values and high prices of agricultural products had led many farmers to incur obligations based on the inflated values. If the farmer was victimized at all, indeed, he was the victim of too much rather than too little consideration. The real progress which has been achieved in agricultural finance in recent years lies more in the intelligent distribution of farm credit than in volume.

With agencies now functioning for the provision of ample credits for the American farmer, his enduring success depends upon the wisdom and foresight with which he meets the problems of production and marketing. More than ever before, his activities must be regulated with reference to world conditions, and his profits, like those of the manufacturer or merchant, will reflect the measure of his success in adjusting his activities to these conditions.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

We are faced with another feed shortage here in Alabama, but by planting oats this fall we can make lots of feed by spring.

Alabama is beginning another fair season. From September to November scores of community and county fairs will be held. For the first time in many years both Montgomery and Birmingham will have state fairs this fall.

A recent survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture revealed that 70% of the price paid by consumers in Boston for onions was absorbed in the handling cost between producer and consumer. Less than 30% went to the grower. Retail margins absorbed 54%; wholesale and jobbing margins 3%; and country dealers' margins accounted for 8%.

If America Should Quit Making Automobiles

The American people spend annually $8,000,000,000 for the purchase and upkeep of automobiles of which there are more than 17,500,000 in the United States. That's how greatly the automobile business has grown in a quarter of a century in this country, which turns out more cars in ten days than England turns out in a whole year. If this business were to suspend operations today, millions of workers would be thrown out of employment, the oil industry would go the pot, steel companies would be seriously affected, and the copper, rubber, leather, lumber, glass and scores of other businesses would be badly crippled. Even many farms would be demoralized.

The making and selling of automobiles has added billions of dollars to the wealth of this country. On the surface it seems that this business provides a very safe and profitable working place for savings. And so it does, if the right companies are chosen; but it must be remembered that the automobile business is highly competitive. Often the value of the automobile securities depends more on earning power than on their equity in fixed property. Efficiency of management, economy in production costs, and successful selling are often factors of more importance to the investor in this field than the amount of property the company owns. If a company can not earn money, its plants and machinery will usually lack a great deal in reimbursing those who have put up the money for them.

Present Outlook of Cotton Crop

Thirty-cent cotton, if farmers hold steady, is the forecast from the meeting of Commissioners of Agriculture of the cotton states, held at Memphis, Tenn., last week. The Commissioners declared that this price was impossible unless farmers "sat steady in the boat" and refused to continue to dump cotton on the market and thus lead to further slump.

There are, based on Government estimate, in sight 286,000 less bales than one year ago. The market is now unduly low because farmers are too generally seized by an unreasonable desire to throw much of the crop on the market at once.

Reports reaching this office show that 70% of all cotton received in South Alabama Warehouses has been delivered, and it is estimated that at least half of this has been sold.

The Government estimate is 13,740,000 bales, but the Commissioners estimate but 12,937,000 bales, in view of the scarcity of labor and approach of equinoctial storms. If cotton will hold fairly steady in the face of this rapid wave of fall selling and scarcity of labor, it is easy to foresee that cotton must go higher after ginning season is over.

The season for equinoctial storms is now at hand. A fall storm will destroy vast amounts of cotton and send prices upward. Labor conditions are acute in certain regions; cotton never ripened earlier. There can be no more cotton made than is now ripe, and the chances are there will be much less.

It may be necessary for farmers to sell a small amount of cotton for present needs, but continuace of the present selling is believed by the Commissioners to be unwise.

There is a strong belief among the Commissioners that 30-cent cotton will follow the present decline.

The Convention of Commissioners stated that business was good, freight movements very active, interest rates reasonable, and demand for cotton and goods strong. Cotton farmers are faced with prospect for a good price, provided they do not continue to dump cotton on the market and force the price lower.—James. M. Moore, Com. of Agri. and Indus., Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 19 1925.

Boll Weevils Should Be Destroyed Now

Reports from various sections of Chilton County indicate that there is a full crop of boll weevils now in the fields. The fact that the cotton stalks have begun to put on a second growth creates an excellent hiding place for the weevils as well as sustenance for them. This immense growth of weevils should by all means be destroyed in order to allay their advance on next year's crop of cotton.

Also the old cottoon stalks will produce much fertility to the land. Owing to the fact that this year has been so dry the cotton plants have not taken up much of the fertilizer placed on the land this year, and the early turning of the land this fall will retain this fertility in the land for next year's crop.

Our farmers should give this matter their attention and turn under their old cotton stalks just as soon as this year's crop has been gathered from the fields.

The 1925 grain crop in Russia is estimated at approximately 3,000,000,000 bushels, which is an increase of 50% over last year, says an announcement from the Russian Information Bureau of the Soviet Union.

Alabama Can Be Safe For Land Investment

In listing the advantages of Alabama as a field for investment and development, we must not omit the timber producing capacity of the lands not used for other purposes, points out the State Commission of Forestry. Outside capital contemplating southern investment is not altogether interested in spectacular and risky opportunities for a quick turnover, but is also seeking safe undertakings with adequate assurance of steady returns over an extended term of years.

At present there are about 22 million acres of unimproved land in Alabama. Some of this undoubtedly will be used for agriculture. It is safe to state, however, that from 18 million to 20 million acres will be put to no more profitable use than the growing of timber for at least one or two generations, and it is probable that from 15 million to 17 million acres will permanently remain in forest growth.

The long growing season of the gulf region, the valuable nature of our principal forest trees and the accessibility of the Alabama forest lands to the entire country, and through our seaports to the entire world, place our basic facilities for profitable timber growing upon a high plane. Added to these is the increasing public interest in protecting the forest lands against fire. In fact, it is difficult to find a region more ideally adapted to the practice of forestry as a business enterprise.

The non-agricultural land within the state can be made to produce under proper management net annual returns of from $2 to $4 per acre. This means from $44,000,000 to $88,000,000 per annum added to the wealth of the state and the rural communities. When this valuable asset is taken into account along with our mineral, water power, agricultural, transportational and other natural resources, we can challenge any other state to show better foundations for safe and profitable investments.

Ordinances have been introduced in several of the larger cities to make milkmen wear rubber soles on their shoes and put rubber tires on their wagon wheels so as not to disturb the early morning sleep of us mortals. Very good idea. Now if they will only provide said milkmen with Maxim silencers for their voices and rubber milk bottles that can be thrown against our back doors without making a sound—all will be well. What say?

POOR OR

Game Law Is Abused In Chilton County

Sheriff Littlejohn asks The Union-Banner to remind the peoople of the county that the open season for shooting squirrels does not open in Alabama until November 1st. In most sections of the county this law is being sadly ignored by people who have little respect for law, which should not be the case. There seems to be quite a lot of squirrels in Chilton County this year, and if the people who want to hunt them would wait until the law comes in and give everyone an even start, everybody could enjoy hunting them for a few weeks.

The open season for brids comes in November 20th. People are allowed to hunt opossums and fox with dogs now, but trapping is not allowed until November 1st.

The following excerpt is taken from the Game and Fish Laws of the State of Alabama: "Any citizen of the State who is not an employee of the Department of Game and Fisheries, who is responsible for the arrest and conviction of a violator of the Game and Fish Laws of Alabama, will receive one-half of the fine imposed and collected by the court in which the violator is tried."—Section 674, Act approved October 1st, 1923.

The citizens of the county should co-operate with the officers of the county in helping enforce the game laws. Our game should be protected during the closed seasons and it is every citizen's business to help see that the law is not ignored.

The Union-Banner has on hand a limited number of copies of the Game and Fish Laws of Alabama, which we shall be glad to furnish to those who will call at our office for them.

We have these late records: "Death of Floyd Collins," "The Rovin' Gambler," "William Jennings Bryan's Last Fight," "The Runaway Train," "Little Mary Phagan," "Red Wind," "Many, Many Years Ago," and a long list of others. Hear them at Jesse French & Sons Music Store, Clanton.

Elmore's New Store Near Completion

Work on remodeling the new home for the Elmore's 5c and 10c store in Clanton is being pushed rapidly toward completion. This week Mr. Elmore has at work an experienced man from the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, who is putting in the large plate glass front and fine mirrors which will adorn the front show windows of the new store.

Mr. Elmore says that he will have everything in readiness for the holiday trade which will open up before many weeks. When this new place of business is completed and opened up, it will be quite a distinct asset to our little city, as it will be as fine as can be found even in the large cities.

N. M. MOORE WRITES ABOUT LAND RENTING

Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed in last week's Union-Banner from a Mr. Wilbanks in regard to renting land, and I have also read several letters this year in other papers about land renting, and have been thinking for some time that I would write something to some paper as to my views about renting, so here I come to the good old Union-Banner.

You know everybody don't see everything just alike. I think that Mr. Wilbanks was right when he said some land renters are a little careless about keeping up farms and things about them. I see it this way—there are not very many men who rent land but that want to rent a farm that is in good shape. It is reasonable that he should. Well, why not think about it this way—that if one wants to get a farm that is fixed up in good shape that probably there are other renters that want to get on a well-fixed farm as bad as he does. I don't think it is right for land renters to be careless about doing the best they can toward keeping up the farm where they find some part of it in bad shape, and about the first thing I do after I get moved and everything kindly straightened up is to begin to look around and see what needs to be done. I go ahead and fix up as much as I have time for. You know sometimes a fellow don't have time to fix everything in one year and make a crop, but I always do the best I can, and I think this is right.

Now, I want to say something about the landowner. Sometimes you will find a landowner that is a little careless, too. I think they should assist their renters as far as they can. You will find one once in a while that seems like he don't know when a fellow does enough. Some will not turn their hand to help the renter do anything, and I have known of places where the renter worked hard and built up the place in good shape and the landowner would then go up on the rent and the fellow who did the work would be compelled to come to his figures or move. I think that when a landowner gets a good renter who works hard to build up his place ought to appreciate it more than this and give the renter a fair showing when he earns it.

I could say so much along this line but I drop off right here and if I see this in print will write more next week, or sometime soon, anyway.

With best wishes to The Union-Banner and its readers.—N. M. Moore, Lawley, Ala., Route 1.

A Chance for the Visiting Angel

When William Travers Jerome was district attorney of New York he started a crusade of prosecutions against fortune tellers, soothsayers and fake mediums, who at that time infested parts of Manhattan island in numbers. A county detective named Al Thomas, a husky person with a wit of his own, was detailed to the job of securing evidence against these offenders and then arresting them.

In pursuance of his object Thomas called upon a so-called crystal-gazer, pretending that he wanted a reading.

The faker ushered the customer into a dimly lit room hung with black hangings and adorned with mysterious objects presumably pertaining to black art. There he sat Thomas down at a table and taking a seat on the opposite side he took Thomas' brawny left hand, palm upward, in one of his own hands, and in the other he balanced a large glass ball.

For a period of impressive silence he alternately shifted his gaze from the stranger's palm to the ball and back again from the ball to the palm. Then seemingly he began to drift into a trance. His eyes dropped, his head nodded, then at length his lips moved, framing words.

"A shape is hovering above me," he stated in rapt tones. "It draws nearer and yet nearer—it is an angel!"

"Fine and dandy," broke in the impious tones of Detective Thomas; "if said angel is a pal of yours you'd better fetch him along with you to put up the bail money. Because you're pinched!"

Providing a Clean Bill of Health

On a voyage back from France after hostilities had ended, one of the transports had aboard a negro labor battalion. Included among the returning veterans of the Brest docks was a crap shooter of mighty powers, originally from Memphis.

Off the banks the ship ran into nasty weather, and the gamester, frightfully seasick, lay in his bunk too miserable and too weak to move, and expecting each succeeding moment to be his last, as the craft stood first on end and then wallowed deep in the trough of the sea. As a matter of fact, the peril was real. The laboring steamer had blundered off her course and was dangerously near the shores of Newfoundland. Suddenly in the middle of the night a siren steam whistle at a lighthouse station on the mainland blared out, the sound rising above the roar of the wind. To the sufferer in bed down below, that appalling blast could mean but one thing—the trumpet call of judgment day.

He got down on his knees and prepared to uplift his voice in prayer for salvation. Then he remembered what he carried in his trousers pockets. He reached in his pocket and as he flung into space his educated ivories he cried out:

"Git away, evidences! Come on, Angel Gabriel!"

Harp and Harmony Convention

Saturday and Sunday the County Musical Convention of the old books met at Liberty Hill. It was a grand session; there was a multitude of people there.

Many directors were present among whom we noted Mr. John W. Hayes, of Chunchula, Ala., T. C. Jackson, of Sylacauga, Mrs. Honeycutt, of Birmingham. Among those who directed were some very small children—Willie Pearl Cooper and Flora Shirley. Their skillful direction speaks volumes for their teachers. Several lady directors were called to the floor during the day—the Shirley sisters, Miss Wilkins, Miss Williams and Miss Ida Scott. One gentleman came from Montgomery just to hear certain selections, which were directed by Mrs. Era Culver. She held the great audience spellbound while she sang.

Much of the music was sweet and inspiring, like an echo from the Supernal home. The dinners were fine and abundant.

Next session goes to Pate's Chapel, the first Sunday in May, 1926.

We regret very much o see Mr. Dennis Knowles and wife leave us. They have been with their grandfather, Mr Wilbanks, this year.

Dr. Hinkle and wife are working so hard these days that we are afraid the undertaker will have a job soon, but we hope not.

Mr. Wood has purchased the place on which he has been farming this year.

Ernest Parker broke his arm cranking his car the other day.

Mr. W. J. Watson has overhauled and repainted his store building and it looks mighty good.

Mr. Vance is our champion cotton picker. He picked 309 pounds the other day.

Mr. Wiley Gray is making 6 bales of cotton on seven acres this year; Dr. Hinkle is making 4 bales on 3 acres.

Mr. Joe Wheeler Wilbanks and wife are with the former's father, Mr. G. T. Wilbanks.

Cotton Crop Large; Feed Crop Is Small

Although the present cotton crop promises the largest total yield since 1915, the feed crop will be considerably short of farm needs, according to the last official forecast.

Recognizing the situation, the county agents of the State are now reminding farmers that unless they take steps this fall to produce feed for next spring and summer a great many of them will have to buy most of the feed used in making the 1925 crop.

Records of experiments conducted on the Experiment Station here show that the best thing farmers can do to increase their feed supply is to plant oats this fall. As an average, over a period of 23 years, oats sown in the fall yield twice as much as those sown in the spring; and those sown early in the fall do much better than those sown later. Early October is an excellent planting date.

will ALWAYS give Most Miles per Dollar

No matter where crude rubber prices may go—Firestone advantages in securing raw material, in manufacturing and distribution are always active to make good the pledge of Most Miles per Dollar.

Racing drivers—hill-climbing and endurance record holders—taxicab, motor truck and bus operators—and hundreds of thousands of car owners—are daily emphasizing the unheard-of mileage and service delivered by Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is one of the biggest factors in tire performance and long mileage, making Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords the most economical tires ever offered motorists.

The cord from the fabric mills is first delivered to a separate plant where it is treated in a solution of gum, which insulates every fiber of every cord. This protects against internal friction and heat, giving the sidewalls greater flexibility and additional strength.

Prove Firestone's many superiorities for yourself. If you have never had the safety, comfort and economy of these serviceable, long-mileage tires—go to the nearest Firestone Dealer—for Firestone only builds Gum-Dipped Cords.

Drinks Own Liquor Dies In 3 Minutes

Montgomery, Sept. 16.—"Judge, I ask that this case be stricken from the docket," said District Attorney Grady Reynolds when the case of George Bethune, charged with selling wildcat liquor, was called in federal court yesterday afternoon.

"Why?" asked Judge Clayton.

"Because," answered Reynolds, "this man is dead. He drank some of his own whiskey and died in three minutes."

"It is a pity that more of them do not drink their own liquor," Judge Clayton observed as he ordered the case ended.

Pimples

What can I do?

"Oh, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people for their sincere kindness shown during the recent illness and death of our little baby.—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright.

Sorry He Spoke.—It is well in making a cross-examination to be reasonably sure of the answer before asking a question. Otherwise there may result the predicament of the man whose little daughter was asked by a visitor which member of the family she liked best. "Mother," said the child. "Who next?" "Little sister." "Who next?" "Auntie." The father, who was sitting in a corner of the room, spoke up, saying, "Well, my dear, when do I come in?" "At two o'clock in the morning," was the prompt reply.—The Argonaut.

FAMOUS RADCLIFFE CHAUTAUQUA IN CLANTON FOR WEEK-END REVUE

People of Clanton and Chilton County Enjoying Wholesome and Educational Entertainment by Artists and Players of World-Wide Fame.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week are Chautauqua days in Clanton—the one time of the year when everyone lays aside dull care and monotony of every-day life, and all come together to share in the bounties of refined entertainment and to "Boost the Old Home Town."

The two programs put on yesterday (Wednesday) were exceptionally good—and those booked for today and tomorrow promise to be even better. The Sprague Players will present the program Thursday. In the afternoon they will put on the one-act comedy, "The Duel," and on Thursday evening comes the famous old story—though yet full of life—"Rip Van Winkle." Mr. J. William Terry lectures in the afternoon on "The Man the World Does not Know," and his evening subject is "Education for All."

The famous Boston Joy-Makers will do the real joy-making Friday, the third and last day of the season. These players have the distinct reputation of measuring squarely up to their theatrical name—joy-makers. Their presentations, although educational and elevating from every angle, promise to be thrillers from the standpoint of mirth and care-deriding. Friday afternoon Mr. Eichelberger will lecture on "How to Get the Most out of Life," and at night he will speak on "Brothers All."

Since this is the only Chautauqua that will appear in Chilton County this season, it is hoped that people from all communities of the County will accept Clanton's invitation to "Come and enjoy it with us." So far, the attendance has been gratifying—but it is hoped that today and tomorrow it may get better and better. The items on the program justify the efforts of all in coming to hear and see.

5 Years of Wonderful Progress

by American Railroads

A very interesting volume could be written about the reconstruction and rehabilitation of American railroads during the five years since their return from Federal control.

Handling record volumes of traffic, and showing greater operating efficiency than in any time in their history, their achievements constitute a real epoch in railroad progress—the greatest in the history of transportation.

"Actions speak louder than words", and this record of splendid accomplishment by the railroads justifies a continuation of the cordial support of the public, and a feeling of confidence on the part of the people that the provisions of the Transportation Act afford an excellent working arrangement between the Government and the carriers.

Notwithstanding their failure to realize the fair return on their investment, as permitted by law, the railroads of the United States have, during the past five years, spent nearly three and a half billion dollars for modern freight cars, more powerful locomotives and roadway improvements. They have appropriated nearly a billion dollars during the current year for similar betterments.

Of this gigantic five-year total, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has authorized approximately one hundred and twenty million dollars for new improvements, representing nearly 38% of the property investment at the end of Federal control. In other words, during the past five years this Railroad has appropriated, or spent, practically 38% of the total amount of money invested during the first seventy years of its existence.

The railroads are thinking progressively and working efficiently. This accounts for the wonderful record described above.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

The most important event of the week for Thorsby section is the advent of a crew of workmen engaged in the construction of a transmission line for Alabama Power Company current from Clanton to Jemison, which will be the trunk line that is to supply these towns and intervening territory. We understand that all lines and their supports which have been used by the small light system at Thorsby will be replaced with equipment capable of giving efficient, modern, all-time service, which will be a substantial improvement for our industries and homes. We are not informed at this writing just when the work will be completed and the current turned on, but we all welcome a beginning of operations as an indication that the day is not far distant when Thorsby and Jemison will be supplied with an abundance of hydro-electric current.

We are pleased to report rapid progress on Thorsby Institute new building. Concrete and brick work, roof and studding for all partitions are completed, and interior finishing is so well under way that at least three class rooms and the office will be in shape for use about the time school opens. One seldom sees a finer exhibition of team work than that displayed by the force of men engaged in this work. All are Chilton County men, most of them citizens of Thorsby, under the direction of R. A. Turner as foreman of carpenter work. Each man seems to have a local pride in his work and an ambition to do his best. Much of the material has been furnished by local manufacturers and dealers and there is a community interest that makes for efficiency and good will.

Mrs. Loveland announces that the formal opening of Thorsby Institute for the school year 1925-26 will be held in the Congregational church at 10 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, September 30. To this the people of Thorsby and vicinity are invited.

Registration of the town students will be at the dining hall from 9 to 12 a. m., Monday and Tuesday, September 28 and 29. Please note the time and place and don't wait for some other time.

A notable improvement in equipment of Thorsby Institute new building will be a gift from a couple of good people interested in this school, which consists of an electrically operated Master Clock, which gives uniform signals at desired periods in every room, enabling the whole institution to be operated on a time system instead of a separate timepiece for each room. The work of wiring the building for electricity, also the plumbing, water supply and sanitary systems, are now under way.

Thorsby will have an unusual run of important social events this week. On Monday night there was a community surprise party in honor of a birthday anniversary for Rev. Joseph E. Each, which filled the parsonage and lawn to capacity, and included his friends and neighbors of all denominations. The affair was worked up so quietly that Mr. Each knew nothing of it and went to call on a neighbor, accompanied by his wife, who managed to have some good reason why they must not stay long—the house and lawn were thronged with people, and a lot of Japanese lanterns assured them that it was a festive occasion and not a fire.

Before any definite arrangements had been made for this affair Mrs. Each had promised to entertain the Ladies Guild for their monthly social, and to make it at night so that "the husbands of the Guild and other male factors might also enjoy the occasion with the ladies, so everyone is expected to come again with a dime, to the parsonage, where the Ladies Guild will assist their visitors to enjoy themselves, from seven o'clock until they think it is time to go."

On Friday at 3 p. m., Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association will hold a social and business meeting at the public school building. All friends of the school are eligible to attend and contribute their dime, or as much as they wish, for the interests of the school, which this worthy association will have demonstrated that they have at heart.

On Sunday, September 27, at 10:45 a. m., there will be English service at Thorsby Lutheran church.

Rev. R. L. Bonner is expected to conduct morning and evening services at the Baptist church.

There will be no evening service following Christian Endeavor at Thorsby Congregational church as the pastor goes to fill one of his out-of-town appointments.

Miss Sue Murray of Wadena, Minnesota, arrived in Thorsby last Saturday, and has already begun her work as Matron of Thorsby Institute dormitory.

Miss Lois Hawks of Syracuse, N. Y., who has been elected a member of the T. I. faculty, arrived Tuesday to do whatever preliminary work may be needed before school opens.

Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson, who has been quite ill for about two weeks, is reported to be slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice announce the birth of a 10-pound daughter on September 15. Her name is Olita Pauline Bice.

Negro Man Burned For Assault on White Girl

No Arrests Made of Mississippi Mob; Act Follows Attack On Girl.

New Albany, Miss., Sept. 21.—No arrests had been made early today in connection with the lynching of J. H. Ivy, negro, who was burned at the stake in a farming community 18 miles from here yesterday afternoon. Sheriff John W. Roberts, from whom the negro was taken by a mob of a thousand persons, declared that he did not recognize any of those in the crowd which rushed upon him when the automobile in which he was attempting to take the negro to Holly Springs was stopped on a highway near here.

The mob dispersed after the lynching and the negro's story that three other negroes were implicated with him in attacking the daughter of a farmer Friday was discounted when the girl, who is in a serious condition in a local hospital declared that Ivy alone had attacked her.

Ivy was a member of a timber cutting crew working near the field in which the young woman was attacked. He was arrested Friday and a mob began to form in New Albany. While Sheriff Roberts was rushing the negro to Aberdeen, United States Senator Hubert Stephens and others prevailed upon the mob to disperse.

Claiming that the girl might die, the mob leaders secured a writ from a magistrate's court ordering the sheriff to bring the negro to New Albany for identification, claiming that this step was necessary for prosecution of Ivy. Accompanied by Sheriff Reese of Lee county, Roberts brought the negro to the hospital and after the girl had identified him, Ivy confessed.

Escaping with the prisoner through automobiles which had begun to assemble around the hospital, Roberts started for Holly Springs. He declared that automobiles "as far back as he could see" were soon on his trail. Eight miles from New Albany, the sheriff's car ran into a barricade of automobiles which had been thrown across the highway. The mob descended upon him and seized the negro.

Ivy was taken to the scene of the crime, his body was covered with kerosene and he was tied to a stake. Brushwood was piled about him and ignited. As the flames began to creep upon him, the negro partly recanted a charge he had made in his confession that three other negroes had joined him in attacking the girl. He said he did not know whether they were guilty or not.

Witnesses to the lynching said that the negro's cries of agony were soon stilled and they believed fumes from the burning kerosene suffocated him.

The mob speedily captured two of three negroes named by Ivy, while the third was placed in jail by deputies. With cries of "burn them," the mob started with the two negroes for the scene of the lynching, but released them when told that the girl had declared only one man had attacked her.

Sheriff Roberts also released the third man.

Alabama Senator Declares Crop Estimate Discredits Washington Board

LaFayette, Ala., Sept. 24.—Characterizing the latest report of the cotton crop estimating board at Washington as a "scandalous performance" United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama declared here today that he will push his campaign for changes in the method of compiling and publishing these reports.

"The crop estimating board at Washington stands discreditable," he said.

"The adding of two hundred thousand bales, when rapid and widespread deterioration of cotton in two-thirds of the cotton belt justified the deduction of more than five hundred thousand bales from the estimate of two weeks ago, and recalls the Holmesh and Hyde scandal of twenty years ago, when they as members of the crop estimating board at Washington added 200,000 bales at the instance of bear speculators in New York for which they were paid forty thousand dollars.

"Two weeks ago the crop estimating board estimated the cotton crop at 250,000 bales less than the estimate it had just previously made and now in the face of daily deterioration in the cotton crop since that time, they have added, strange to say, two hundred thousand bales. If the bear gamblers of Wall street had written the report they would not have changed it in the least. I do not hesitate to say that there is something wrong about this last estimate and I have in mind some changes in the matter of making and publishing these estimates which will prevent a recurrence of this scandalous performance."

OLD OBSERVER WRITES

Lomax, Ala., Sept. 28, 1925.

Dear Editor Union-Banner:

Will you be so kind as to give me a small space in your valuable paper, which I consider the head-light of Chilton County, to say a few words?

Health of our community is good, for which we are thankful.

Had a nice rain Saturday and Saturday night, which was a welcome blessing. The farmers are about through picking cotton. Never in the history of our country have cotton pickers had such hot weather to gather cotton in.

There will be an all-day singing in the old Sacred Harp song book at the Baptist church at Lomax on the second Sunday in October. We are expecting the Birmingham class to be with us on that day.

We are disturbed occasionally in and around Lomax by law violators. It seems to be getting a little difficult and expensive to have the law enforced. I heard one man say this year that he went to get a warrant for a trespasser and the officer of the law inferred that it would be better to use shot than the law. I know of another man who went to get a warrant for a law violator, and the officer charged him twenty-five dollars. Such conditions make it hard for the poor fellow who hasn't the twenty-five dollars, and for the good fellow who don't want to use his shotgun. Shall we call on the KKK, or use our shotguns and money?

Respectfully,
OLD OBSERVER.

Cotton Crop Larger Than Last Year

Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Auburn, Ala., September 23, 1925—An interpretation of the cotton report issued by the government today discloses a prospect for a total crop in Alabama larger by some forty thousand bales than the report of two weeks ago. A condition of 64 at this time indicates an acre-yield of 148 pounds, which on the acreage now standing forecasts a crop of 1,063,000 bales, compared with 986,000 last year. The increase over two weeks ago represents the better out-turn found at the peak of picking, which is now going on. The present indication is found from the reports of regular aids, ginners, and the personal inspection of the statisticians. Actual boll counts were made in over 100 fields throughout the state.

Northwest district, condition 74, Bales 55,000; Tennessee Valley, condition, 66, bales 165,000; Mineral district, condition, 62, bales 75,000; Northeast district, condition, 65, bales 89,000; Blackbelt west, condition, 64, bales, 89,000; Blackbelt east, condition, 63, bales, 143,000; East central district, condition 55, bales, 140,000; Southwest district, condition, 70, bales, 18,000; South central district, condition 68, bales, 113,000; Southeast district, condition 63, bales, 176,000.

The weather has continued dry and hot, with rain on only two days. Practically no interference with picking has been experienced and very heavy ginnings have occured slightly more than 510,000 bales having been ginned to the 16th. It is estimated that about 47 per cent of the crop was ginned to that date and 57 per cent picked.

The condition for the United States was found to be 53.8 per cent of normal, which idicated a total crop of 13,931,000 bales.

Of this 4,275,928 bales had been ginned.—F. W. Gist, Agricultural Statistician, co-operating with Alabama Extension Service and the Alabama State Department of Agriculture.

Ford Car, Diamond Rings and Cash Prizes to be Given Away

The Union-Banner Announces a Circulation and Trade Building Campaign Beginning Today And Closing On November 24th.

Everybody Can Win a Handsome Prize for Just A Little Time and Effort.

MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS HOUSES CO-OPERATE

Votes Are Given For Subscriptions and Trade. Read Below For Details of How You Can Get One of These Prizes for Yourielf or One for Your Friends.

In co-operation with a number of the leading merchants and business men of the county of Chilton, The Union-Banner is going to give away more than one thousand dollars in prizes and cash on November 24, 1925.

The plan and purposes of this campaign is simply a fair and square and honest endeavor to put this paper into every home in Chilton County every week. We realize that it is going to take some work to do it, but there are those who will do the work, and we are going to reward them fully for their labors. Everyone who works with us in this effort to put The Banner in every home in the county is sure to win a prize or receive pay for their work in cash.

The grand prize is a New Five-Passenger Ford Automobile, 1926 model with balloon tires, fully equipped and filled with gas, ready for the winner to drive home at the close of the campaign. This car is the county-wide grand prize, and will be given to the lady who receives the highest number of votes in the whole county. The car has been purchased by The Union-Banner from the Clanton Motor Car Company and will be on exhibition just as soon as a shipment of the new model cars for 1926 arrive in Clanton.

Four beautiful diamond rings will be awarded as district prizes, one each going to the lady receiving the highest number of votes in each of the four districts of Chilton County. Of course the lady who wins the county-wide prize will not be eligible for any district prize.

For the purpose of this campaign the county is divided into four districts. The Southeast district, composed of Beats 4, 16, 6, 10, and 5; the Northeast district, composed of the east half of Beat 9 (including the town of Thorsby), Beat 11, Beat 1, Beat 12, and a small corner on the east side of Beat 2; the Northwest district, composed of Beats 13, 2, the west half of Beat 9, and Beat 14; the Southwest district, composed of Beats 3, 15, 7, and 8.

Any candidate in any district is privileged to work and secure subscriptions anywhere in Chilton County, or outside the County if they desire to do so.

Just as soon as the four diamond rings can be secured they will be displayed at some convenient place, one in each of the four districts of the County.

Cash prizes will be given to every lady who continues as an active candidate until the end of the campaign and does not win the grand prize or one of the district prizes. The cash prizes so awarded will be a check for an amount equal to ten per cent of the amount of subscriptions obtained by her or for her.

How to Enter.

In this issue of The Union-Banner is printed a nomination coupon. If you want to enter yourself, write your name and address on this nomination coupon and mail it or bring it to The Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala. This nomination coupon is good for 5,000 votes. If you want to nominate a friend, write her name and address on the coupon and bring or mail it in. Only one nomination coupon will be credited to each candidate.

Anyone who desires any further information about the plans and the workings of this campaign is asked to come to the Union-Banner office and same will be gladly furnished.

How to Get Votes.

Votes are given with subscriptions to The Union-Banner, and with all cash purchases made at the stores co-operating with us in this campaign. Also in each issue of The Union-Banner will be printed a vote coupon good for a definite number of votes.

Each candidate will be furnished with receipt books and all necessary instructions for beginning the work just as soon as she enters. Each candidate may then start to work among their friends and neighbors or anywhere in the county or outside the county securing subscriptions to the paper.

You will be surprised at the interest your friends will have in your success after you start. So do not put off the little matter of getting into the funniest race that has ever been run by any candidates in Chilton County.

Keep this in mind: Somebody is going to drive out of Clanton on November 24 a brand new Ford car that has cost them nothing but a very few days of pleasant work, almost as if they found a new car in a pig's track. You can be this lucky person if you will get to work early and put your friends to work for you.

Tell your friends to patronize the merchants who give Union-Banner trade tickets and save their tickets for you. You can bring those trade tickets to the Banner office and we will give you votes for them.

Tell your friends to read The Banner every week and see which merchants it is that are giving votes, and get them to buy their goods at those stores.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt payment of accounts.

No private or secret information as to the standing of any candidate will be given out. Candidates who endeavor to win by unfair methods will be dropped from the race.

Vote certificates will be issued to candidates as subscriptions are turned in, and may be either cast at once or reserved at the discretion of the candidate. Vote certificates will also be issued in exchange for merchants votes, and will have the same value, and be under the same conditions as subscription votes. Vote coupons clipped from The Union-Banner must be sent in within one week from date issued to be counted.

Voting shall be absolutely secret during the last period of the contest. To insure this the following method will be used. No vote certificates will be issued after Saturday, November 14. A securely locked ballot box will be provided which will not be opened until after the close of the contest. Merchants votes for any candidate will be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to whom they are to be credited and deposited in a box through a small opening. Subscriptions with the money therefor will likewise be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to be credited and deposited in the ballot box.

On the afternoon of Nov. 24 the box will be opened and the votes counted, giving each candidate credit

Some State Forestry Information

A moderately high humidity of the atmosphere has aided the timberland owners and the general public in the prevention and suppression of many fires during the present fall drought, according to the current record of the State Commission of Forestry. Although extremely severe drought conditions have resulted from the lack of precipitation, the air during most of the time has contained enough water vapor to prevent complete withering of the summer vegetation.

The rate at which forest fires will spread depends very largely upon the dryness of the atmosphere. For each degree of temperature there is a certain amount of moisture that the air can hold. When it contains 100 per cent of this amount it is said to be saturated. The ratio of the actual moisture in the air to the total water carrying capacity of the atmosphere at any temperature is called their relative humidity. When this is high fires burn much less rapidly. On the other hand, when the relative humidity is low any fire is likely to develop into a raging catastrophe.

Even during the hottest summers the relative humidity of southern climates is usually low enough to prevent heat prostration. It can be low enough for this and at the same time high enough to retard the spread of fires. Relative humidity ranging between 45 and 70 per cent serves both purposes very well.

A hydro-thermograph automatically recording both the temperature and the relative humidity for every hour of the day and night is installed at the office of the Commission of Forestry. Such records are valuable in gaging the dryness component of the fire hazard. On the few occasions when the relative humidity dropped to a low point, there chanced to be very few fires started. However, moisture conditions are apt to change suddenly and remain at a dangerous point for several days. The probability of such a situation is very acute at the present time.

RUNAWAY BOY FOUND BEFORE PARENTS KNEW HE WAS GONE

The Austin police broke all records late yesterday afternoon in restoring a run-away child, when Claud Edward Marcus Jr., 18 months old, was returned to his parents before he was missed.

The youngster took "French leave" from Salvation Army headquarters in the 300 block on West Sixth street, while his father, who is directing the "army" home service appeal, was receiving belated subscriptions to the drive, and was successfully negotiating the 5o'clock heavy traffic in the neighborhood of Sixth and Congress when he was picked up by the "coppers" and taken to police headquarters.

As the young "deserter" spoke a language somewhat foreign to Desk Sergeant C. M. Brown, several interpreters were called in. After a hurried conference with the chief of detectives, it was suggested that the old line followed by successful sleuths of returning the "criminal" to the place of the crime usually obtained results—therefore a police car took the youngster back to Sixth street and when the car passed Salvation Army headquarters, the year-old runaway wanted to get out. He did. When his father discovered his son in the hands of the police he said: "If this had happened before I became associated with the Salvation Army, I would say, 'He's a chip off the old block.'"

The above clipping was taken from a recent issue of an Austin (Texas) newspaper. The little "deserter" is a grandson of Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Marcus of, Clanton.

Extension Course To Be Offered Chilton People

Credit for Work Done to Apply on College Course. First Session Meets on October 17th.

Prof. Ralph E. Parker of the University of Alabama, will offer this year, beginning Saturday, October 17, a course in Applied Sociology. While this course is offered to teachers desiring College credit and certificate extension, it is the desire of Prof. Parker that the people of Clanton and Chilton County take advantage of the opportunity offered by the Extension Department of the University. Therefore a special offer is being made to residents of this County.

Members of the group who do not desire college credit or certification can take the course for $6. Those who enroll under this scheme are free to attend class at their convenience. Attendance is not compulsory. Participation in the class room work is welcomed and invited, but not required. This is a fine opportunity for the Study Club, Sunday school teachers and young men and women who desire to do some form of cultural work during the winter months. The course is open to everybody.

Prof. Parker is anxious to meet the people of Chilton County and serve them in any capacity that he can.

Tuesday morning Prof. Parker addressed the teachers of the county and was delighted with his cordial reception. He enrolled a large class and the extension work for this term will doubtless be very interesting and profitable both to teachers and residents.

Remember that the class meets on October 17, in the high school auditorium, at 9:30 o'clock.

FATE FOSHEE DEAD

On Wednesday morning at 3:00 o'clock at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton occurred the death of Mr. G. L. (Fate) Foshee. Mr. Foshee was 59 years old and had been sick for several months. He had been in the South Highland Infirmary in Birmingham and at Greenville in a hospital seeking relief but none could be found. Mr. Foshee has been in the mercantile business at Thorsby for the past several years.

The deceased leaves a wife and two daughters—Mrs. Zack Lowery and Mrs. Edgar Littlejohn. He leaves one brother, Mr. Frank Foshee of near Clanton, and several sisters.

Funeral services will be held today at 11:00 o'clock at Liberty Hill.

AGED CITIZEN AND OLD SOLDIER DIES

Mr. William R. Robinson, one who has seen Clanton and Chilton County in their infancy, passed away on September 23, 1925, after several weeks illness. He was eighty-seven years old and had lived for seventy-five years in Chilton, coming here from Coosa County.

Grandpa, as he was known to all, had pneumonia, followed by paralysis. He was an old soldier and never tired of relating the trial he underwent in Tennessee and other states where he fought.

Although old in years he was interested in Clanton and all around him. He watched the work progressing on the paving of the city, and the State Highway, showing great interest even after confined to his bed.

His was an active life, and the good he accomplished will live after him. The seed he has sown for good will live in his children's children. Many a lesson for good can be had from his noble and upright life. Though gone from this world he is not forgotten.

He is survived by four sisters—Mrs. Annie Childers, Mrs. Mary Bean, Miss Adeline Robinson, and Mrs. J. L. Johnston; one brother—Mr. Mord Robinson.

He leaves six children to mourn and miss him—J. M. Robinson, J. L. Robinson, G. S. Robinson, Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. G. W. Pate, Shelby, Ala., Mrs. J. M. Beasley, Fairfield, Ala., and Mrs. M. A. Benson.

He leaves twenty-nine grandchildren, thirty-five great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

His wife preceeded him to their heavenly home four years ago. Since that time Grandpa has made his home with J. M. Robinson of Clanton.

Beautiful floral offerings were given by friends and relatives. These were especially touching for he was a lover of the beautiful and a flower always brought the accustomed smile that he had for each and every one.—A Friend.

WILLIAM RHODES IMPROVING

Mr. William Rhodes, who fell from a house in Clanton several days ago and seriously hurt himself is said to be gradually improving. At first Mr. Rhode's condition was considered very serious due to the fact that the fall affected his spinal column, but the hopes are now that he will soon be able to be up again.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association in annual meeting assembled on last Friday afternoon unanimously adopted a vote of thanks to Chilton County Board of Education for a gift of 300 opera chairs for seating the auditorium at the new public school building. New officers elected were Mrs. J. H. Goddard, president; Mrs. Chas. S. Howard, vice-president; Mrs. S. E. Norton, Secretary; Mrs. J. M. Bosworth, treasurer. The treasurer reported a donation of $185 for new desks for the public school. Various standing committees were appointed for the ensuing year; these committees form an important part of the machinery of the organization in its activities in raising funds for promotion of the welfare of Thorsby public school. Another object of the association is to cultivate a spirit of co-operation and friendly understanding between parents and teachers in the community.

Everybody wants to know what are the prospects for service from the Alabama Power Company. We are pleased to report that we are reliably informed that a car load of wire and other material is now in Thorsby and it is to be expected that it will soon be followed by a gang of men to put it in place.

By the way: The Manufacturer's Record, issue of September 24th, carries a full page advertisement of Thorsby and vicinity with its industrial advantages. This paper is a sort of journal of industry published in Baltimore and devoted to the development of the South and Southwest as the nation's greatest asset. Hundreds of thousands of copies of this great magazine, published weekly, are scattered all over the United States and probably more thoroughly read than any other publication in the nature of a magazine. The cost of this adv., and it must be considerable, is a gift to Thorsby by the Alabama Power Company, who from now on will become increasingly interested in the welfare of Thorsby and her people.

This incident reminds us of the story of a family who had lived long in a certain town, and having worked themselves into a condition of indifferenct to its beauties and advantages, decided to sell their home and go away "just to be goin.'" They applied to a real estate agent to advertise and sell their property. He wrote an attractive adv., and published it in a local paper, setting forth the beauty of the location, good character of buildings and other improvements and coonveniences and advantages that made the place desirable as a home. Next day they visited their agent and told him they had decided not to sell as they had never realized what a fine place they had until they read his advertisement. They allowed that they would not be liable to find any place that would suit them better.

On Wednesday of this week at 10 o'clock a.m., in Thorsby Congregational church, Thorsby Institute will have opening exercises for the school year 1925-26. While the new building is not yet completed, it is so far along that part of the exercises of the day will be held there, and by next Monday it is expected to occupy at least three of the class rooms and possibly all five, together with the office and library.

We want to call attention to the large number of good books that have been donated to Thorsby Institute library since the fire which wiped out the one they had. Much work has already been done to get these books in shape for use, and it will not be long before Thorsby will again have a very good library, where the use of the books will be free to the public, under such usual rules as prevail in almost any well conducted library. There will be no membership fee, and no charge for the use of books, except when they are kept longer than the time for which they are loaned. The public is urged to avail itself of this opportuity to secure good reading matter. Just when they can be had will be announced later, but it will not be long.

Rev. R. L. Bonner with his wife and boy were victims of an automobile collision on the highway inside Thorsby last Saturday evening, when three cars got tangled up. Although Rev. Bonner's car was crushed and wrecked between the other two, none of the occupants of the cars were seriously injured though considerably scratched and bruised.

Services at the Congregational church Sunday, October 4th will be as follows: Sunday School 9:30 a.m., instead of 9:45 as usual. Promotion exercises from primary department at 10:30; preaching at 11, followed by communion service. Junior Endeavor society meets at 4 p.m., and senior endeavor at 6:30, followed by the usual monthly praise service.

At the Lutheran church the preaching Sunday at 10:45 will be in Scandinavian language.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society meets at the home of Mrs. Carl Petersen Thursday afternoon, Oct. 1.

Harry Petersen and family of Oxmoor spent the week end with Mr. Petersen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen, in Thorsby.

Coy Gibbons and his mother made a trip to Birmingham last Sunday.

Russel Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen, who is in government service, is home on a month's leave of absence. On Thursday night he was treated to a surprise party by a number of his old Thorsby friends, at the home of Miss Clara Hayes.

Dorothy Butler and Ethel Peterson were visitors at the home of Miss Betty Lakeman at Lock 12 last week.

Miss Alithea Parker, music teacher of Thorsby Institute, arrived Monday from her home near Boston. Mr. Robert Echols of Birmingham and Mr. R. A. Maddox of Thorsby Institute faculty, arrived in Thorsby Monday; also Mrs. Post assistant matron. This completes the working force for conducting the school, which now consists of ten people, each efficient in their respective positions and together forming a strong leadership for the students, many of whom have already arrived to be in at the opening day.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will give their annual reception to the Board of Trustees and faculty, students and parents, alumni and contributing friends of Thorsby Institute. This reception will be held on Friday night, October 2nd on Thorsby Institute campus near the dining hall.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ABOUT POLL TAX

The attention of all ex-soldiers is hereby called to the fact that if they desire to get on the list of qualified voters under the Constitutional Amendment exempting them from poll tax, it is their duty to fill out the required blanks at the Probate's office for that purpose.

It is necessary for all who filed papers of exemption prior to 1923 to come again and make out new papers to comply with the present law.

It is necessary that the applicants have their discharges when filling out these applications.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION HELD AT SAMARIA

The Sunday School Convention of the Unity and Chilton County Associations held with the Samaria Baptist Church Sunday was a great success. Each subject was ably discussed and in the discussions there were some excellent ideas advanced and it is hoped that the same will prove a boomerang so that great good may be accomplished thereby.

The Convention is greatly indebted to Rev. W. J. Armstrong and E. A. Norris and Dr. S. J. Ezell for the splendid deliveries made by them as well as the other speakers of the day. The writer doesn't believe that he ever saw a more attractive crowd than the one Sunday.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was spread for the comfort and sustenance of the entire congregation with much to spare.

On recommendation of the Nominating Committee, H. A. Harris was elected President, and J. W. P. Murphy, Vice-President, with J. Z. Mims, Secretary-Treasurer, for the coming year.

The Committee on Resolutions made the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolutions of the Unity-Chilton County Sunday School Convention, Session of 1925, held with the Samaria Baptist Church:—

Resolved—

1. That we express our appreciation of the good rendition of the excellent program in this session of the Convention.

2. That we commend Bro. E. A. Norris for his good sermon.

3. That we endorse the agitation for trained officers and teachers for our Rural Sunday Schools.

4. That we thank Bro. E. R. Johnson, and through him, the Sunday School Board, for the splendid and helpful lecture which he delivered.

5. That we extend hearty thanks to the Samaria Church and community and especially the ladies for their generous hospitality shown in their excellent entertainment of the Convention.

6. That we remember with pleasure our chairman in his arduous and continuous labors through the Associational year.

7. That we hereby offer and pledge our full co-operation with the work for the ensuing year.

Respectfully submitted,

A. E. Davis, B. J. Sessions, and S. M. Yates, Committee.

Really, there was nothing short about the Convention representation of the various schools. Those not present can't realize what they missed.—J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

The political pot in Chilton County is beginning to simmer just a little, although it is several months before the primary comes off next August. Indications are that a ticket of good Republicans will be placed before the people from which they will make their nominations. Next year Chilton will elect a sheriff, tax assessor, tax collector, two commissioners and two members of the school board. By the time the campaign opens a list of genuine old-time Republicans will have "thrown their hats in the ring," and got ready to place themselves in the race for the approval of the voters of the county.

MARK TUCKER AT ANDALUSIA WITH COVINGTON NEWS

The editorial fraternity of Alabama is glad to note that Mark Tucker is back among our number. He has taken charge of The Covington News of Andalusia as editor and manager of that paper.

Mr. Tucker is a man who is not a stranger among newspaper people, he having been for several years engaged in the newspaper business in this state.

We would commend him to Andalusia and Covington county as one who is capable of making for them a community newspaper that will be worthy of that fine town and county.

Our personal acquaintance with Mark has revealed him unto us as a whole-souled, all-round good fellow. Upon one occasion we remember when we were in a strange city, the hotels full and no rooms could be secured. Like the "son of man," we had not where to lay our head. Along came Mark and took us in and shared his lodging with us.

We are sure that Andalusia and Covington county will find him always ready to do something good for them and their community interests. He will make The Covington News an institution of which the city and county can be justly proud.

THE CHILTON COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

The editor of The Union-Banner had the pleasure last Monday morning of attending the opening of the Chilton County Training School for colored boys and girls. It was indeed gratifying to us to get a clear impression of the great and valuable work that has been inaugurated among the colored people of this county. It would be a delightful revelation to any citizen to visit the school and see what is being done there to train the hands, hearts and minds of the colored youth of our county.

A great and commodious modern school building has been erected in conformity with approved designs of the State Department of Education. And the colored people now have on hand over $4,000 in cash with which they are ready to contract for the erection of another building for manual training and domestic arts.

The colored people of this county are highly enthused with the bright hopes that are held out before them through this school. Well may they be proud.

Judge Reynolds delivered the address for the opening of the school. His remarks were well fitted for the occasion, and he was cheered most heartily by a house packed full of students, patrons and teachers.

The Chilton County Training School is the greatest forward step ever taken by the colored people of Chiltoon County, and The Union-Banner congratulates them upon the splendid manner in which they have begun their noble work.

MAKE "FIRE PREVENTION" NATIONAL SLOGAN

The United States destroys more than five times as much property by fire as do European countries, to say nothing of the thousands of lives snuffed out annually. European countries have laws dating back to the Code Napoleon making the tenant or owner of a building liable for fires caused by negligence.

W. E. Mallalieu, General Manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who has recently returned from an extensive study of fire insurance problems in Europe, observes:

"Perhaps in order to reduce losses on this continent to a less reprehensible figure, it may become necessary to supplement the extensive fire prevention work of fire insurance companies, cooperating with many civic bodies, by the widespread enactment and enforcement of personal liability acts, such as already exists in some of our cities. If the man who caused fire by his carelessness or negligence were looken upon, not as an unfortunate, but as one guilty of misdemeanor and subjected to a fine, as he is under the Napoleonic law, doubtless we would all be more heedful."

Fire Prevetion Week will be observed nationally from October 7 to 10. It is safe to predict that there will be fewer fires during this week than normally. Instead of dropping back into our old habit of "fire carelessness," at the end of the week, why not continue fire prevention as a national habit?

Members of home demonstration clubs in five Alabama counties are canning soup and vegetables to be served hot in school lunches this winter.

The farmer who goes into the livestock game without having a supply of home grown feeds or who has not taken the production of these into consideration will not get very far.

KEEPS THE HOME FIRES

Radio has become almost a household requisite. Nothing has done more to promote the home-loving instinct than the ever growing popularity of this great pleasure-giving and educational invention.

From this one may fairly reason that wherever the installing of radio sets is on the increase the home-loving instinct is certainly not on the wane. And, since the broadcast program is essentially a thing to be enjoyed by the family circle, it is to the family circle the radio will cater.

Seldom has the human demandd for novel entertainment found so admirable a combination. As the call for more radio service grows, so also grows the attraction of the home. And as the attraction of the home becomes stronger, so the call for better broadcast programs becomes more insistent.

Everything tends to make the radio influence a wellspring of good. So excellent a caterer to all that is most desirable in promoting true human happiness certainly deserves the very best of the public to whom it ministers.

ADULTS' BEDTIME STORY

Once upon a time—(it ain't a Story if it don't start like that)—
There was a guy over in the land of shoe-
Shiners and olive oil. Let's see—
They call it "It-all-ee." And that guy
What we're goin' to tell about—oh! yes—
His moniker was Christopper Columbo.
His father called him "Chris" for short.
And this here Chris was an awfully smart
Bimbo. He had it in the head.
One day Chris got tired of grinding the Organ and he up and tells his fellow
Spaghetti-wrestlers he "had a idea."
He told 'em the globe didn't have no
Corners like a box but was all bent on
The edges like a fish-bowl. And he Asked them would they be kind enough to Let him have a coupla gondolas to go
Out and discover another real estate
Sub-division that he knew was hiding
Somewhere behind the horizon. Nothing
Doing. They told him to go to h——, or,
Rather where the Spanish onions bloomed.
Sure enough, there he sold his idea. He Managed to tell the queen she looked like
She was "sweet sixteen' and the queen fell
For his line. She let him take three of her Best wash-tubs what had no handles. These—Chris named the "Nina-clubs" and the
"Pinta-grape Juice" and the "Santa-is-it."
Then he got a coupla Spanish bull-fighters
To give him a shove-off and he started for Nowhere. For forty days and the same number
Of nights thrown in, he bobbed around on
The Athalantic duck pond. Nobody ate any
Grub because it wouldn't keep 'em company.
Then one day Chris looked through his Periscope. And he yelled "Land! Ho!" so
Loud his sailors fell outta their hammocks.
No sooner had the words evaporated when—
Bang! His boat scuttled on a sand bar. So—
Chris and his colonels had to step off. They Knew it was the end of the line. But they Didn't mind getting their genuine all-wool
Tights wet. And they waded in to the shore
Where a reception committee of a lotta cigar
Store Indians was awaiting. The Indians
Couldn't speak Chris' lingo but by their Deaf and dumb signs—Chris knew it was

CARE IN SELECTING COTTON SEED URGED

Auburn, Ala., Oct 1.—Special.—The long drouth and unusually hot weather of July, August, and early September developed a seed problem for next year. Due to premature opening, at least the top crop of cotton in many sections did not develop sufficiently to make satisfactory planting seed. Many of them will not germinate at all, while others cannot be expected to produce strong, vigorous plants.

Recognizing the situation, members of the agricultural staff at Auburn are suggesting that farmers be careful in saving cotton seed for planting next year. If the bottom crop, which opened normally, was picked before the top crop opened the seed should be saved, but if both the top and bottom crops were picked at the same time enough seed to plant more than the normal amount should be saved.

While attention is being given to cotton seed, corn and other crops demand attention. The best place to select seed corn is in the field in the fall of the year. After it is selected it should be stored where it will be protected against rats, mice, insects, and also weather.

Another practice of some farmers should be guarded against. It is that of selling all seed this fall with no thought as to the needs next spring The farmer who does this sells his seed on a glutted market at food and seed prices in the fall and will buy seed at high retail prices for seed next spring. Thus a heavy loss is involved.

Soon Felt Improvement

"The first time I took Cardui I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas. "I went fishing one day. A heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain. I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. I could not get my breath. My mother had some in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it. Almost from the first dose I could feel an improvement.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up."

Music Millionaires of Middle West Collaborate

Gus Kahn, Composer, and Isham Jones, lyricist, Make Melody Fortunes

Chicago.—Not many songs are authored by millionaires, but the favorite fox trot of the middle west, "I'll See You In My Dreams," has this distinction, with music by Isham Jones and lyrics by Gus Kahn.

Mr. Jones, Chicago orchestra leader, is called by his friends the "saxophone millionaire." When the income tax returns were all in this year, he was discovered to be paying one of the largest taxes of any man in Chicago.

Capitalists, work packers and manufacturers of great reputed wealth seemed pikers beside this musician who, a few years ago, was a mule driver in a coal mine. That was before he took up the saxophone. Today, he is one of the foremost conductors and a composer of reputation as well.

"The saxophone," declaims Mr. Jones, just as thousands are rushing to buy "I'll See You In My Dreams," "the saxophone is an instrument that returns great profits on one's investment. The worst one endures in connection with it is the bitter enmity of neighbors while learning to play it.

"But today in Chicago there are so many saxophones that it is impossible to get into houses where every apartment is guaranteed to be saxophone-proof. When more of these are built each player can wail, unmolested by counter-wails."

Mr. Kahn, lyricist of "I'll See You In My Dreams," gets calls from composers all over the country asking his cooperation on lyrics, and hardly a day passes that he doesn't write a verse for some composer, or dress up an idea of his own.

He rarely writes a song that doesn't instantly become popular, so that he too is a "music millionaire."

Raymond Duffey of Mt. Creek was in Clanton attending Chautauqua a few days last week.

Ab Retherford received a painful injury at Lock 12 last week when a large piece of steel fell on his foot.

CROP BOARD DEFENDS ESTIMATES

The United States Crop Reporting Board, answering criticism of its September 23 cotton report, announced today that it stands fairly and squarely behind its reports and accepts full responsibility for them.

"The Board realizes at all times," the statement says, "the magnitude of this responsibility and the necessity always to act upon the evidence before it. It calls attention to the fact that critics are free to make any estimate they wish based upon as much or as little evidence as they may have. Statements that the Board erred in certain reports are frequently merely expressions of opinion based upon scant evidence and superficial observation."

The complete records of the Board are on file at the department, the Board pointed out, and members of Congress and others have frequently been invited to inspect them. These records contain the data upon which the September 23 and earlier reports were based and "refute the insinuations which have been made that the Board is affected by outside influences in arriving at its forecasts."

The Board declared in connection with its report issued September 23, that every source of information available to the Board, including reports of township and county correspondents numbering many thousand, which are received direct at Washington, the reports of the thousands of field correspondents who report to the State statisticians, the reports of the State statisticians themselves based on personal field observations and inquiries, as well as estimates from key men in hundreds of counties as to the number of bales of cotton likely to be produced in their own counties, showed a material increase in the probable crop outturn as of September 16 compared with the previous report. Furthermore, the Board added, a careful analysis of the ginning report, which the Board had before it in making its last estimate, combined with estimates from the correspondents as to the percentage of the crop picked and ginned to September 16, fully confirmed the data received from other sources.

"Contrary to some of the statements which have appeared to the effect that the crop was going to pieces, many correspondents and State statisticians reported that the yield was turning out much better than expected in some States and that the recent rains had helped the late crop in some sections," the Board said. "When the September 1 report was issued drought and the threatened invasion of numerous insects in various sections gave a decidedly pessimistic tone to many of the reports received. This pessimism was largely missing from the reports received for the September 16 report, except in North Carolina, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma, where a decline in crop prospects occurred."

The function of the Board, it pointed out, is to review carefully all of the evidence before the Board and to arrive at the best possible estimate of the crop as it appears from the data available. A majority of the Board which makes the cotton report arrive at Washington from the cotton belt the day previous to the report, while the other members of the Board make frequent trips to various sections of the belt where conditions seem to be uncertain. Every member of the Board is thoroughly familiar with the methods used in estimating the crop, the Board said, and most of them have had many years' experience in the work.

DESCRIPTION OF LAND

—o—

This land is highly adaptable to farming of every kind known to this section of Alabama. Every kind of crop may be produced here to best advantage.

There is plenty of water on every part of the farm, and the land lies in a manner that makes it easy to drain and easy to cultivate. The surface is level to gently rolling, and every acre can be cultivated.

It is especially desirable for the culture of fruits, truck, garden and field crops. For a successful strawberry farm, there is no better land to be had in this County than one of these small tracts.

In addition to the paved highway running entirely across the tract, the place is intersected by two other public roads. Every one of the small ten and twenty acre tracts will be on a public road, and most of them will be on the paved highway.

These small farms will be sold at auction on the grounds on the date above stated. You can be there and see the place and know just what you are buying.

In the wooded slopes along the paved highway are some of the prettiest places in the world to build homes.

LOCATION OF LAND

This tract of land is known as the Hyman place, and is located one-half mole north of Jemison, lying along both sides of the paved Birmingham & Montgoomery Highway for a distance of one and one-half miles. It is practically in the Town of Jemison, and when subdivided, no part of it will be more than two miles from the Jemison High School.

For many years people have tried to buy small tracts of this land, but now is the first chance. There is not another opportunity in the County today where such land as this can be bought, situated as it is on the paved highway and with such splendid community advantages of schools, churches, health conditions, Etc.

If you want a good small farm, this is the best chance of your lifetime to buy it. Remember the date, and bring your family and enjoy the big free barbecue.

Firestone

Double the Mileage at Half the Cost

Only a few years ago a 32 x 4 cord tire listed over $50.00. Today, you can buy the highest quality 32 x 4 tire—a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord—for about $26.00.

Last spring crude rubber cost tire makers around 40 cents a pound. Today, it is over 90 cents a pound.

It was not so long ago that 7,500 miles represented the average life of a cord tire, while today, 15,000 miles—and more—is only the usual performance for a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

Due to large, concentrated production, specialized machinery and simplified factory methods, together with economical distribution, Firestone is able to keep tire prices low—no matter where the price of crude rubber goes.

And, because of special Firestone processes, chief among which is Gum-Dipping, motorists are today getting thousands of extra miles by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is an exclusive method used by Firestone. It is an extra process, carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendering machines. Gum-Dipping insulates and impregnates every fiber of every cord with rubber, and practically eliminates internal friction and heat, and builds strength and endurance into the tire.

In the day-in and day-out service of taxicabs, buses and trucks—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere—Gum-Dipped Cords are giving unheard-of mileage, dependability and satisfaction.

Get ready for the coming months of slippery pavements and bad roads. Assure yourself of greater safety, comfort and economy by equipping now with Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons.

Making It a Sweepstakes

Today's offering is one of my standbys. Every time I hear it—and I hear it on an average of at least four times a year—I like it better. I hope you feel the same way about it.

The principal characters are an Irishman, with red whiskers, and a Hebrew with black whiskers. They fall into an argument over the relative glories of the two great races they severally represent. It is finally proposed by the Semitic debater that for every great Jew he names he shall be permitted to pluck one hair from his adversary's face. For every famous Irishman listed the other man may claim the tribute of a hair from the Jew's beard. The first to cry enough, or the first to be entirely denuded will be the loser.

A chosen referee gives the signal for the start. It is the Jew's turn first.

"Moses," he cries, and yanks a hair from the Irishman's chin.

"Brian Boru," shouts his opponent.

"Abraham,"

"St. Patrick."

"Baron Hirsh."

"Daniel O'Connell."

"Rothschild."

Inspiration seizes the Hebrew.

"The twelve apostles," he whoops exultantly, and snatches an even dozen of auburn hairs from where they grew.

With a triumphant whooroo the Irishman fixes both his hands in the Hebrew's beard:

"The A. O. H.!" he bellows, and brings away the entire crop.

The Evidences of Regeneration

By a unanimous vote of the plantation hands one Henry Johnson was held to be the wickedest man on the place. He shot craps, he had served a year on the chain-gang for swinging a wicked razor, and, generally, lived a wild, free, reckless life. Accordingly, there was rejoicing at Zion church when word spread that Henry at last had seen the light and had been converted.

The revival meeting whereat he had been redeemed culminated one Sunday in a grand baptizing on Goose creek. Henry had an eight-mile tramp to reach the appointed spot. When he started from his cabin after breakfast he stowed a dozen cold biscuits in the front of shirt, meaning to refresh himself on the way. But in his newborn exaltation he actually forgot to eat.

A great host was gathered on the creek bank, and, at his appearance, loud hallelujahs arose in a fervent chorus. The preacher laid hands on Henry and, aided by two of the deacons, escorted him to the middle of the stream where the water was waist-deep. As the clergyman, pronouncing the words of the ritual, immersed Henry deeply in the water the lowermost button of Henry's shirt slipped from its buttonhole and rapidly, one by one, four huge cold biscuits arose to the surface and went bobbing down the current.

"Oh, Lordy, parson, dip 'im ag'in—dip 'im ag'in, in de Lord's name! His sins is comin' up in lumps."

Time Was No Object

A colored man was idling along the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street from where the county jail stood. From a barred window high up in the structure across the way came the voice of a member of his own race.

"Say, nigger," called the unseen speaker.

The pedestrian halted and faced about.

"Whut you want?" he demanded.

"I wants to ax you a question," said the invisible prisoner.

"Well, ax it. I's listenin'."

"Is you got a watch on you?"

"Suttinly I's got a watch on me."

"Well, den, whut time is it?"

"Whut is time to you?" answered the man in the street, without making any move to fetch forth his watch. "You ain't fixin' to go nowheres!"

FAMOUS STAMPS QUARTETTE TO SING HERE OCTOBER 8TH

The hundreds of people in Chilton County who like to hear and appreciate high class singing will be pleased to learn that one of the best, if not the best, quartets in the entire South will present a musical concert at the high school auditorium in Clanton on the night of October 8th. This group of singers is known as the Stamps Quartette, who are sent out by the Stamps Music Company and School of Music of Jacksonville, Texas. The quartette coming to Clanton is the original No. 1 Stamps Quartette, Virgil O. Stamps himself being one of the singers.

It is a mere coincidence that these famous singers are stopping in Clanton, as they seldom put on concerts anywhere other than in the larger cities. But Clanton happened to be on their direct route from Jacksonville to Atlanta, where they are going to attend the big Southeastern Singing Convention, and for that reason the famous singers were induced to stop off here and put on their program.

The price of admission is only 25c and 35c, 20% of which will go to the county high school and the remainder to the singers. This price is small in comparison with the class of singing and the quantity of it, together with other comic numbers, which the audience will be greeted with by Mr. Stamps and his troupe of musical entertainers. So, don't forget the time and place—high school auditorium, Clanton, Thursday night, October 8th, at 8:00 o'clock.

HOT LUNCHES TO BE SERVED AT SCHOOLS

Home Demonstration Clubs Over Alabama Have Made Plans for Good of Kiddies

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 1,—Special.—For the first time members of home demonstration clubs in Alabama are canning soup and vegetables to be served hot in school lunches without cost this year.

In Tallapoosa county, Miss Thalia Bell, home demonstration agent, reports that members of the Reeltown club put up 175 cans of soup in one day for school lunches. Plans were made to continue this work until a sufficient supply is canned to last the entire term. Other communities in Tallapoosa county are working in a similar way.

Members of the Pride and Littleville clubs in Colbert county have already done considerable work along this line, and will devote one day each week until the desired number of cans have been put up, according to Miss Annie J. Smith, home demonstration agent.

Similar reports come from Miss Elizabeth Striplin, Cullman county; Miss Cecile Hester, Colbert county; and Mrs. Diana B. Williams, Etowah county.

During "hog killing" season meat will be canned to supplement the vegetable soups.

The plans to serve hot dishes to school children is part of the nutrition program worked out by Miss Certie Reynolds, Extension nutrition specialist, who is working in cooperation with the home demonstration agents of the State. Canning demonstrations are given to these club women by Miss Pearl Jones, Extension specialist in food preservation.

Previous work of this kind has been done in city schools of Alabama but this is a new movement in rural schools.

HOT AND COLD SHOWER BATHS

Over The Top And Through The Line!

THE good, old Football days are here again. And reports from every part of the country indicate that the popular demand to see the great gridiron games is surpassing all former records. Ducats for practically all the important college battles have long since been sold out while, as in former years, scalpers are again ready to reap a rich harvest on the coveted pasteboards.

After all Football is perhaps the greatest pastime on the sport program. What joy to get out and watch eleven young huskies, fighting for naught but the honor of victory, give battle to an equally formidable "enemy." To see both sides using brain and muscle trying to outwit each other. To see the youthful warriors set their teeth and "hit that line" with a vim and vigor that would have delighted the heart of Napoleon. Indeed, Football is a real "he-man's" game—the making of stamina and the will to win in our younger generation of men. Little wonder then that it attracts such great wide-spread attention.

The above picture represents a "critical moment" in one of our big college games. Note that grim, determined look on the player "diving through the air" with the ball in the battle "for every inch." Note also the blocking and grappling of the athletes below him—one determined to make way for the flying halfback and the other to "bring him down."

Really, what sport offers keener excitement?

CHILTON HIGH vs. UNIVERSITY HIGH

At Polk's Park, in Clanton, Friday, October 2nd, at 3 P. M.

Chilton High has one of the best teams that has ever worn the "Orange and Blue." With a line as solid as Gibralter, and a mixture of backs big enough to plunge through a wall, and swift enough to circle the ends, we are listening for the "Tiger" to growl on through the boys from the Magic City Friday. Last year Chilton nosed out over University (Birmingham) in a 14 to 13 tussle.

Be on hand when the whistle blows at 3 o'clock Friday.

MAN DROWNED AT LOCK 12

On last Sunday shortly after noon a young man by the name of Gravit from Millerville in Clay County was drowned in the lake near the island above Lock 12.

Reports say that Gravit and two other men were towing a skiff with a motor boat. Gravit got out of the motor boat on the skiff. When the latter began to dip and pulled loose from the boat Gravit jumped into the pond. The driver of the motor boat tried to steer it around to the man who was drowning but the motor would not work. One of the other men swam to Gravit and tried to rescue him but could not.

Up to Wednesday morning the body of the young man had never been found although efforts had been made since Monday to drag the body from the lake.

HELFIN WRITES TO COTTON FARMERS OF ALABAMA

Senator J. Thos. Helfin has addressed a letter to the cotton farmers of Alabama which he requested the Newspapers to publish, as follows:

"There are influences at work in this and other cotton growing States to over-estimate the cotton crop so as to beat down the price and, consciously or unconsciously, some of the statisticians or agents in this and other States are lending themselves to this diabolical scheme. To the end that I may have the truth of the cotton situation in each county immediately for the purpose of fighting false cotton propaganda with the literal truth and acquainting the cotton using world with the facts about this crop in time for the cotton producer to get the benefit of the increase in price which is bound to come, I want one hundred farmers in each county, or as many as will, to write me at LaFayette,, Ala., at once, giving me the number of bales of cotton they expect to make this year, how many have already been ginned, and how many remain to be ginned. Also give estimate of amount of cotton county will produce.

(Signed) J. Thos. Heflin."

Beware Of The "Undertakers' Cocktail !"

POLICE of Des Moines, Iowa recently startled pedestrians with the above exhibition as a warning to liquor law violators and against the effects of indulgence in the "forbidden grape." They paraded the wrecked car—with its ominous sign and grotesque skeleton figure—through the streets. The car had previously been driven into a deep ditch by an inebriated driver. And the chief of police seized upon this idea as a "lesson to others!"

Paint to Protect —As Well as to Beautify

WHEN you get ready to paint and are talking it over, debating this color and that, don't overlook the most vital point—protection. The biggest job paint has to do is to save the surface. It is a well-known fact that Pee Gee Mastic Paint has never been surpassed in protecting any surface to which applied. Its beauty is an incident to its real value—adding long years of life to your home, barn, outbuildings—wherever used. It stays "put" and retains its high gloss for years.

Jesse French & Sons Observe 50th Birthday

Famous Piano Makers Observe October as Golden Jubilee.

Beginning September 28th and closing October 28th the Jesse French & Sons Piano Company is celebrating its fiftieth birthday anniversary. In conjunction with this event the Jesse French people carried recently in The Montgomery Advertiser a whole section of eight pages, telling all about the work they have done at their factory at Newcastle, Ind., as well as the various branches of the famous old company.

A few facts of the company will be of general interest: The factory as it now stands occupies ten acres of ground and 225,000 square feet of floor space. Their factory is the most modern in the whole country and their equipment is complete. The huge plant where hundreds of experts are employed has an annual capacity of 10,000 instruments which are shipped to points all over the United States and even to many foreign countries.

In connection with their anniversary, Jesse French is putting on a Golden Jubilee Sale, which is observed in all of their branches. The Union-Banner is carrying an attractive advertisement this week of the Clanton store, and anyone interested in music and musical instruments of the highest quality will do well to read every word of this advertisement. According to the established custom of the Jesse French people, the Clanton store in doing things because they go at their business right. They are not afraid to tell the people about their business because broad experience has taught them that it pays to advertise.

BURGLARS ENTER BANK AT RAMER, ALABAMA

Drilling through the outer door of the vault of the Bank of Ramer, burglar or burglars obtained $653.60 sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning and escaped without leaving any tangible clue, according to reports received by Sheriff R. C. Phelps.

Report of the burglary was confirmed by R. F. Cole, cashier of the bank by long distance telephone. Deputy Sheriff John Scogin was immediately dispatched to the scene of the burglary.

The work was apparently that of experts, according to Mr. Cole. The outer door was drilled through and the iron rod holding the combination lock was cut. The burglar was stopped however when the time lock was reached. The silver was in the bottom cabinet of the vault but the currency and other valuables were behind the time lock.

The loss is fully covered by bank insurance.

OFFICERS GET BEER AND STILL

On Tuesday of this week Sheriff T. J. Littlejohn and Deputy Foshee went out in the western part of the county to Smith Town and conducted a little whiskey raid. The officers got two gallons of beer near the home of Sam Smith. About a lle west of Smith's house a complete distilling outfit was found, together yith 8 barrels of beer. Who Is Going To Win The Ford Car and Diamond Rings?

Large Number of Candidates Entered by Their Friends, and Race Promises to Furnish Much Interest all over County.

Who is going to win the Ford car or the diamond rings or the money prizes to be given away by The Union-Banner on November 24 is already becoming a question in which everybody in Chilton County is taking much interest.

The campaign is hardly under headway yet, although a large number of ladies have been nominated by their friends and each has been given 5,000 votes to start them off in the race. Some candidates have already begun to secure merchant votes and subscriptions, but so far it is a race for anybody who wants to get in. Those who start by next week will have as good a chance to win as those who have already begun to work. The race is just getting warmed up for the grand prize and only a few 5-year subscriptions will put a new candidate in the lead. The first voting period closes Saturday night of this week. Subscriptions turned in during the first period count for more votes than they will in the second period. So if you want to enter the race, or if you have a friend whom you want to see win one of the big prizes, don't think for a minute that it is too late. Fill out the nomination coupon at once and send it in, or better still, come to the office and get you a supply of receipt books and begin to get subscriptions. Don't wait until the campaign is three or four weeks old and some of the other candidates get a lead that will be hard to overcome.

Just keep this point in mind—you can win that new Ford if you will get in and work. Folks in Chilton County know what The Union-Banner is. It will surprise you to see how easy it is to sell them this paper. You may ask why is it easy to sell. The reason is simple: They all want it. Of course it is easy to sell a man something that you know he wants. It doesn't require an expert saleslady to win that Ford. It is going to be won by the person who wants it bad enough to get out and see the folks and collect the money that is waiting for this paper.

Now a few words about the merchants who are giving tickets. There are a number of firms in all towns of the County whose names have been added to the list since the last paper was printed. Candidates should get this list and tell all your friends who these merchants are. Tell your friends to trade with them and save their tickets for you. All readers of the paper are urged to remember the merchants who give these tickets and trade with them and give the tickets to some candidate. Everybody can help their favorite candidate by collecting merchant votes for them and by soliciting subscriptions.

Beginning next week the list of candidates will be published showing the number of votes that have been cast for each one.

Don't forget those four beautiful diamond rings. They are going to be the real article, and something that any lady can be proud to possess. One of these rings goes to each of the four districts of the County. After the Ford car is awarded to the highest candidate in the County a diamond ring will be given to the second highest candidate in the same district. Then the leader in each of the other three districts will be awarded a diamond ring.

All candidates who remain active and work throughout the campaign, and who do not win one of the prizes will be paid a commission of 10% on all business which they turn in during the campaign.

Now is the time to get in, girls. Don't wait until you see somebody else ride off in that new Ford November 24, and then be sorry because you did not try to win it.

Walk right in to the campaign today, and by a few weeks of good work you can ride out in a new Ford car on November 24th.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt payment of accounts.

No private or secret information as to the standing of any candidate will be given out. Candidates who endeavor to win by unfair methods will be dropped from the race.

Vote certificates will be issued to candidates as subscriptions are turned in, and may be either cast at once or reserved at the discretion of the candidate. Vote certificates will also be issued in exchange for merchants votes, and will have the same value, and be under the same conditions as subscription votes. Vote coupons clipped from The Union-Banner must be sent in within one week from date issued to be counted.

Voting shall be absolutely secret during the last period of the contest. To insure this the following method will be used. No vote certificates will be issued after Saturday, November 14. A securely locked ballot box will be provided which will not be opened until after the close of the contest. Merchants votes for any candidate will be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to whom they are to be credited and deposited in a box through a small opening. Subscriptions with the money therefor will likewise be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to be credited and deposited in the ballot box.

On the afternoon of Nov. 24 the box will be opened and the votes counted, giving each candidate credit as may be shown by the contents of the envelopes bearing their names. The respective totals shall be added to the totals of vote certificates already cast and the winners shall be announced in accordance therewith. Any candidate who desires may have a representative present during the count of vote.

Any active candidate who fails to win the automobile or a diamond ring will be awarded a cash prize equal to ten per cent of the total subscriptions sent in by her. An active candidate is one who sends in at least one yearly subscription each period from the beginning to the close of the campaign.

OFFICERS GET TWO MEN OPERATING WILDCAT STILL

Mack Martin and son, Bernie Martin, were arrested by Sheriff Littlejohn, Deputy Foshee and Special Deputy Loss Robinson just after they had fired up their still and were getting ready for operation, Wednesday.

The still, a fifty-gallon oil drum, was located in the woods two and a half miles from the home of Martin, on the Harkins road in Stumps Hills. There were 120 gallons of beer at the still, which, together with the outfit, was destroyed by the officers.

Both Martin and his son were brought to Clanton and lodged in jail, charged with manufacturing liquor and having still in possession.

Baptist Revival Here Begins October 18th

Dawson, who was for 30 years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tuscaloosa, will be the preacher for the series of meetings. Dr. Dawson is now Professor of Bible at Howard College and is recognized as one of the outstanding preachers and leaders among Southern Baptists.

The public is cordially invited and urged to hear this man of God.

CLANTON STREETS NOW FINISHED IN CONCRETE

Ain't it a grand an' glorious feelin' when we reflect upon the fact that the streets in the business part of Clanton will never again become muddy in wet weather or a bank of dust in dry seasons?

The paving job has been completed and the cement machines have moved on to bring to some other town the joy that comes only with paved streets. Seventh Street is paved all the way through Clanton, it being a part of the Birmingham - Montgomery highway. Sixth Street is paved from the alley between the courthouse and the Baptist church to the alley north of the residece of J. B. Downs. Second Avenue is paved from the courthouse to the Wilson Hotel. First Avenue is paved from Sixth Street to Seventh Street.

SEVERAL AUTO WRECKS NEAR CLANTON LAST SUNDAY

The prediction of many that the new paved highway would prove to be a source of numerous automobile wrecks has already come true. It seems that drivers are uable to resist the temptation to step on the gas when they hit the pavement, and the result is a wreck of some kind almost daily. Some days there are more than one mishap.

Last Sunday so many mixups happened that we are unable to get a straight story of any of them. It seems that the most of them took place up the road near Thorsby and Jemison. There were no fatalities to persons, but some of the cars were so badly disabled that they had to be loaded bodily on trucks and carried off the scene.

Study Club Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Clanton Study Club was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grady Broadhead, at 3 o'clock.

The house was decorated with a quantity of yellow daisies, goldenrod and comos.

Mrs. V. J. Heard, president, called the meeting to order and presided. After the business session the annual election of officers was held and resulted in the following: President, Mrs. Grady Broadhead; Vice-President, Mrs. J. P. Hayes; Secretary, Miss Kathleen Mullins; Treasurer, Mrs. L. C. Ross.

Several subjects of study for the year were placed before the club and thoroughly discussed. "A Mixed Program" was chosen, a subject which promises to be very interesting and instructive.

A splendid paper on "Choosing our State Officers," written by Mrs. Oscar Jones, was read by Mrs. J. E. Gowan.

This concluding the program, the meeting adjourned to meet again the first Friday in November, at the home of Mrs. Sam Johnson.

The hostess, assisted by Mesdames S. J. Ezell, L. F. Gerald, and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt served a salad plate with iced tea.

Potted plants and cut flowers were used to decorate the living room, where the day was spent sewing for the hostess.

At the noon hour the guests were invited into the dining room. The table was centered with a basket of vari-colored fall blossoms. Covers were laid for ten. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Grady Heflin, served a three-course luncheon.

Miss Hester Appears In Recital.

For Thursday morning at 11 o'clock Mrs. R. C. Woodson, chairman of the morning musicales, announces a program by Mrs. Walter Brower (Elizabeth Jordan), soprano, and Miss Beverley Hester, pianist.

Mrs. Brower always receives an ovation when she sings. She posesses a remarkable voice of lyric quality and wide range. Her stage appearance is charming and withal she is most gracious with her talent.

Miss Hester, a pianist of unusual ability, is recognized as a splendid accompanist, a rare and difficult art, that few pianists master. This will be Miss Hester's farewell appearance in Birmingham, as she is leaving after this concert for New York, to study with Richard Hageman, to specialize in her professional capacity as an accompanist. Miss Hester will also present two groups of piano numbers. Admission to this musicale will be by membership card.—The Birmingham News.

Better Service Than Ever

THE scope and efficiency of long distance telephone service has made our nation one big friendly neighborhood. To talk across the continent is almost as easy as calling across the hedge to your next-door neighbor.

The long distance lines in Alabama are a part of this nation-wide system, and also serve a vital need in the business life of the State and the South.

To care for this growing demand will require an expenditure of $205,000 this year for reconstruction and additions to the long distance system in Alabama alone.

The long distance service is better than ever before. The transmission is clear and the operators are handling a larger volume of calls with speed and accuracy.

Merchants, manufacturers and business men are utilizing this service to increase business and reduce expenses. Why not try it?

Eve's Appetite.—"One day," said a story-teller, "at the close of a hot day, Adam was returning with his hoe on his shoulder from a hard day's labor to his humble cottage. Maybe it was a cave. That don't matter, for it was an humble abode. Young Cain was running ahead, boylike, throwing rocks at the birds. Suddenly they came upon a beautiful garden.

" 'O father,' said Cain, 'look at that beautiful garden. I wish we could live there.'

" 'We 'id live in that garden,' said Adam regretfully, 'until your mother ate us out of house and home.' "—The Christian Evangelist.

JAMES C. JONES WILL MOVE COTTON OFFICE

The office of the James C. Jones Cotton Company will be moved this week to the new building just being completed by Mr. Jones on First Avenue between Sixth and Seventh Streets. The new place is directly across First Avenue in front of the Clanton Motor Car Co.

Mr. Jones says he will open for business in his new place on next Monday morning, October 12. The balance of this week he will be at his place in W. A. Kemp's store.

A Generous Job.—A Holyoke, Massachusetts, man in Worcester found that he had spent all his money, and began looking about for a chance to earn more. Seeing a group of men digging for the foundation of a new building, he asked the foreman if he could go to work. "Sure," said the foreman, "help yourself to a shovel." Picking up an idle shovel, the newcomer worked away for a couple of hours. Finally, when he paused for a rest, one of the men who was working beside him said: "I don't seem to know you—where do you live?" "I live in Holyoke," replied the newcomer. "What are you doing here?" asked the other. "All of us Worcester men are giving a day's work free to help build the new Presbyterian church."—Boston Globe.

ALABAMA STATE FAIR OPENS IN BIRMINGHAM ON OCT. 19 TO RUN FOR SIX BIG DAYS

Concrete Grandstand Seating 10,000, New Half Mile Track and Renovated Poultry and Cattle Building Among Improvements Made

With a multitude of new features promised and everything on a larger and more modern scale than ever known here, the Alabama State Fair will open in Birmingham Monday, October 19, and continue through October 24.

Scores of workmen and builders have been busy in the meantime with the construction of new buildings and the reconstruction and remodeling of others. Special attention is being given to the new grandstand which will be entirely of concrete and steel, with a seating capacity of 10,224 persons. The mezzanine floor, 45x432 feet, is being equipped with womens' rest rooms and other accommodations, as well as for use for the educational and womens' department. On the lower floors, also concrete, will be found three exhibit rooms, occupying 10,000 square feet, the whole being well lighted and ventilated and suitable for the finest exhibits.

It is expected to prove of special interest to farmers and livestock men to learn that the horse barns as well as the cattle and hog barns will be fitted up with suitable pavilions so that the show can be continued at night as well as in daytime. It is believed that this will prove a considerable advantage over the arrangement of former state fairs when the barns and livestock exhibits were in out-of-the-way and somewhat inaccessible locations.

Agricultural and poultry buildings are also being remodeled, and a half-mile race track is being constructed on scientific lines promising to the the fastest south of the Ohio River.

Premium List Heavy

"We have added to our list of premiums in many directions for this year's Alabama State Fair," said R. A. Brown, president. "County agricultural premiums include prizes of $500, $400, $300, $150, $100 and $50, while the community premiums include amounts of $200, $150 and $100. Individual premiums offered are in the amount of $250, $200, $150, $100, $50 and $25.

"But aside from these inducements offered to encourage industry and agriculture, the Alabama State Fair is a comprehensive exhibition of what the ambitious boy or girl may achieve in agriculture, livestock raising, dairying, horticultural, home gardening, domestic, an exposition of the marvelous improvement in farm machinery and agricultural implements. It is an object lesson in the great part which improved machinery plays in the development and cultivation of the farm and the increased prosperity of the farmer," says President Brown.

"The chief educational value of our fair lies in the fact that it is demonstrative in character. The eye is a more convincing instructor than the ear. We are slow to accept and believe in any new method until we have had optical proof of its superiority over the old.

"Often it is difficult to secure the attention of the busy man or woman long enough to give such a demonstration. Not infrequently it happens that farmers who would be most benefited by better methods of farming are not sufficiently interested to be present at any special meeting called for the purpose of discussing the subject."

Why not exhibit something you have grown, or made, or designed, or some of your cherished heirlooms at the Alabama State Fair. Most everybody has something worthy of being entered. Send it along. Oct. 19 to 24.

Playing Both Ends Against The Middle.—One of the witnesses at a royal commission appointed to inquire into a case of alleged bribery in an election, stated that he had received $25 to vote Conservative, and in cross-examination it was elicited that he had also received $25 to vote Liberal.

Mr. Justice Matthew, in amazement, repeated:

"You say you received $25 to vote Conservative?"

"Yes, my lord."

"And you also received $25 to vote Liberal?"

"Yes, my lord."

"And for whom did you vote at the finish?" asked the astonished judge, throwing himself back in his chair.

And the witness, with injured dignity in every line of his face, answered with great earnestness:

"I voted, my lord, according to my conscience!"—Vancouver Province.

R. M. Hubbard, prominent business man of Jemison, was a visitor to Clanton Monday afternoon.

OUTSTANDING MEN IN ALABAMA HEAD FAIR DEPARTMENTS

J. A. Wade and Other Outstanding Men in Farm Life Plan Birmingham Exhibits

When the Alabama State Fair opens its gates on October 19 to run through Saturday, October 24, all those who are interested in exhibits of all kinds, especially farmers, livestock men and industrial exhibitors, are assured of each department being in charge of competent heads, according to the Alabama State Fair Corporation.

The department of agriculture will be in charge of J. A. Wade, of Vincent, Ala., former state commissioner of agriculture of Alabama and a practical farmer, while the horticultural division will be in charge of G. C. Starcher, of Prattville, Ala., former state horticulturalist, farmer and interested in the development of orchards of many varieties.

R. J. Goode, of Gastonburg, Ala., a large farmer as well as livestock raiser, who is also a member of the State Board of Education and has represented his county in the state legislature, will be in charge of the beef cattle, and M. E. Matthews, one of best known old dairymen around Birmingham, will be in charge of the dairy cattle exhibits. Mr. Matthews is known as the man who brought the first registered Jersey cattle to Alabama. He lives at Powderly, Ala.

County Agent Wells

L. T. Wells, whose home is at Opelika, and who has been prominently connected with the agricultural interests of the state for some years and is now county demonstration agent of Lee County, will be in charge of the swine, sheep and goats exhibits.

George M. Pharr, whose home is at Fairfield, and who is secretary of the Birmingham Interstate Poultry Association, will be in charge of the poultry and pet stock exhibits.

By special arrangements with the Axis Club the women's department of the fair, including the women's work and floral exhibits, have been placed in charge of that club under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. D. Nesbit, president, and a complete re-arrangement of the premium list and other features has been perfected.

The educational department of the fair will be in charge of W. E. Putnam, director of research of the City Board of Education of Birmingham, who also had charge of education exhibits at the Southern Epxosition in New York, which attracted so much attention. The interests of the girls' canning clubs will be looked after by Mrs. Pearl Crawford, county demonstration agent for girls' canning and poultry clubs of Jefferson County, while the exhibits of the boys' clubs will be in charge of J. L. Liles, county demonstration agent, who is also largely interested in dairying and considered a dairy expert.

The department of mines, minerals and industrial arts will be in charge of N. G. Bradford, one of the experts of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company.

Carruthers' Amusements

E. F. Carruthers, who has been designated as the director of the amusements for the duration of the State Fair, is an experienced man with headquarters at Chicago, who specializes in the booking of European acts.

Ralph Fies, who will be in charge of the speed horses at the fair, has been in the horse business in Birmingham for nearly half a century, and is a keen expert in everything appertaining to horses.

Last, but not least, the heavyweight Lew Salter, well known as Potentate of Zamora Temple, will have supervision of the gates and admissions, assisted by an efficient and competent staff.

The 24th annual meeting of the National Pecan Growers Association will meet at Selma, October 13-15.

The last official report places the Alabama cotton crop at 1,063,000 bales. Unofficial reports from north Alabama are that the crop is turning out much better than was expected early in September, which means that the Alabama crop should go well over a million bales. The last million bale crop in the State was that of 1915.

It is of money value for farmers in this section to keep fires off of their cut-over land to give the young timber a chance to grow. If you have forty acres of wild land, with a start of young timber, even with the "yearling" pines popping through the grass, it will be worth considerable money in fifteen to twenty years. It will grow at leat 100 feet per acre per year, which means two thousand feet in twenty years, and may be worth ten dollars a thousand.

HOW TO TELL A TREE'S AGE

We want the farmers in this section to count the rings in the stump of the next tree they cut down, then measure the tree. The number of rings from the center to one side is the number of years that tree has lived. One light ring and one dark ring count for one year's growth.

If there are twenty rings between the exact center and the side, and the stump is ten inches across, you know that the tree averaged growing half an inch in diameter each year.

All short leaf and loblolly will grow from one-quarter to one-half inch in diameter each year.

"Immunizing" The Crook !

THE TEETH OF TAXATION

Following is a good suggestion from The Insurance Field. Why not go a step farther and on each dollar of electric light, gas, telephone or railroad bill state that 10 cents is included to meet tax assessments. The Field says:

"Almost every business but insurance has succeeded in passing the taxes laid upon it on to the consumer. The movie theaters have made a fortune out of war taxes. When they were levied the ladylike ticket seller added them on to the price of the ticket with two or three cents attached to bring even change—but when they were repealed the high price had become a habit and was not lowered.

"The enormous taxes laid upon insurance for a minimum of State service to the companies should be treated in the same way. The bill should be made out for the insurance with the correct sum added for the State tax, so that the insured will know exactly how much he pays the State. You do it when you buy gasoline. The station blazons it up. So much for the gas per gallon—so much for the road tax.

"One of the fine signs of the times is that the Georgia legislature refused to increase the tax on insurance. O, glorious Empire State!—the torchbearer of intelligence and good common sense. Companies trying to get from under the trip-hammer of tax oppression might consider reincorporating at Atlanta."

Mr. Ford is quoted further as saying that the idea of liquid fuel giving out when the crude oil supply is exhausted, is an error. He says that every bit of vegetable matter which can be fermented contains fuel and that the future supply is coming from this source.

EASING THE BURDEN OF STATE TAXATION

Favorable aspects of tax systems are now among the most highly prized assets of our states, it is pointed out in the American Bankers Association Journal in connection with an article on how California, which has never had a state income tax, cuts state and Federal death taxes nearly in half by the "community property" system. L. H. Roseberry, Vice President Security Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, author of the article, says that a recent amendment to the tax law enables future residents of the state to take advantage of it. Reference is made to a former article by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Dewey, voicing the need for death tax reform and citing a hypothetical case involving California inheritance taxes which might have been levied in 1920. Since that time the laws have been changed, Mr. Roseberry declares, so that the figures then given do not correctly represent the present situation. He says:

"Ever since its admission California has had the 'community property' system. Eight other states have a similar system. 'Community property' is property accumulated by married persons during their marriage, except that which is acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance. Approximately 65 per cent of all property in the state is 'community property.' Such property in California enjoys the most favorable position in regard to death taxes, both state and Federal, of any state in the Union (excepting possibly the eight other states having a similar property system) including states boasting of no inheritance tax whatever. The California 'community property' system is recognized for the purpose of levying Federal estate taxes, and only one-half of it is now so taxed, while in Florida the whole estate of a decedent is subject to the Federal levy.

How the Law Works

"California's law expressly provides that upon the death of either husband or wife, testate, only one-half of their net 'community property' shall be subject to inheritance taxes. The same exemption applies upon the death of the husband, intestate, while the whole net 'community property' is totally exempt from all state inheritance taxation upon the death of the wife intestate. The Federal estate tax law now follows precisely the California law in this respect.

"As the result of an amendment made to the California inheritance tax law by the 1925 Legislature, this immunity from state inheritance taxes likewise now extends to 'community property' of non-resident married persons, who hereafter take up their legal residence in the state. This puts 'community property' in a more favorable position regarding death taxes than exists in any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of the other community property states. This extension of the exemption will add 15 per cent to property in the state coming under this definiton, which means that approximately 80 per cent of all property probated in California will enjoy the lightest death taxes in America.

"To illustrate, the following example of a man survived by a wife and two minor children is computed, the estate consisting of 'community property' all left by will to the wife and children. One-half of such property would go under the law to the wife without any death taxes, and the other half only would be subject to both state inheritance and Federal estate taxes.

A Wisconsin man's flivver vibrated so violently and noisily it attracted a swarm of bees which alighted on the windshield. When the owner got home, he hived the buzzers. Bee that as it may, it shows you can even get your money's worth out of a flivver's muscle dance.

Ever see an eagle in flight? We did—today. A spread-eagle ornament on the hood of a shimmy-shaking flivver.

Maw told Paw to buy the baby a rattle and Paw came home with a—flivver!

One thing about a flivver—you can drive it as you see fit. It makes so much noise, the "back seat" driver hasn't a chance to be heard.

Enough o' that. Just picked up a newspaper carrying the headline:

"PURSES TO-DAY ARE MAIN OBJECT!"

We didn't know they were ever anything else but—.

A true Democrat is one who can say "Thanks" for his receipt after the landlord has nicked him for half his month's wages for rent.

A lot of graduates come out of college with a doctor's or engineer's degrees but eventually they turn out to be farmers. They go in for sowing wild oats!

In the olden days when a wife had something to hide from her husband, it was easy. Not so now—with the present day dress styles.

Representatives of college fraternities in a certain big city sought to have their frat house taxes set aside on the ground that said frat houses constituted "educational institutions" and, therefore, were exempt. Their contention—come to think of it—is just about right. It was in a frat house that we first learned the meaning of "deuces wild," and how to wreck our finances with the "gallopin' dominoes." Yes—they ARE educational institutions!

PROFITABLE FARM YEAR WILL HELP SUSTAIN PROSPERITY

Agriculture has been fairly profitable this year and the improved purchasing power of farmers will do much to uphold general economic well-being through the winter, the United States Department of Agriculture declares in its October report on the agricultural situation. The department points out, however, that while conservative judgment of the recovery of agriculture is warranted, farm prosperity can be as easily overrated as depression.

"It should be a splendid harvest," the department says. "Not bumper yields but production well adjusted to reasonable needs. The two great money crops, cotton and wheat, are now along where some idea can be gained of their value. Cotton apparently stands to bring its producers an income of approximately $1,500,000,000, which is about like last year, and wheat producers apparently stand to receive about $1,000,000,000, which is also near or slightly below last year.

"These two leading crops probably index the general crop income. Agricultural income will not be greatly in excess of last year, but the point is that this is the second fairly profitable year. The season will go a long way to level up regional conditions. The Corn Belt along with the dairy and diversified East have been slow to feel the stimulating current of revival, but now the rising prices of hogs and cattle, together with a reasonably good corn crop mean some profit in the Corn Belt. The slowly strengthening prices for dairy products plus higher potatoes and minor cash crops promise somewhat better income for the East. The whole agricultural map thus slowly emerges from economic shadow."

Discussing the situation by key regions, the deparment says:

"The East is busy with silo filling, potato digging, fruit harvest and fall work generally. Potato yields are disappointing. Corn growth is excellent, helped by late rains. Beans, buckwheat and other crops in harvest were damaged by heavy rains in the north. Winter grain is mostly seeded. The Dairy situation is rather static but improves rather than otherwise.

"The South is generally under the ban of dry weather. Drought and heat have been a real catastrophe in northern Georgia and portions of the Carolinas. The whole Piedmont region is hard hit. The cotton crop is spotted but generally fairly good. Picking is well along and ginning has been heavy. Feed crops have been shortened by dry weather. General conditions are fairly good except in the drought areas.

"The Corn Belt has the corn harvest well along with crop matured safely ahead of frost. There is some chaffy corn in areas hit by dry weather but the bulk of the crop is apparently good grain. The region is busy with the late harvest and fall work. Winter grain has been planted under favorable conditions. The hog and cattle situation generally favors optimism.

"The Wheat Belt has winter wheat seeding about finished. Local estimates of acreage vary but general indications are of some increase over last fall. Spring wheat yields are only fair but grain is excellent quality and prices are stimulating. Threshing is practically finished. The general result of the season is favorable to the region as a whole.

"The Range Country has the cattle and sheep movement to market well along. Stock is moving down from the high range to winter pastures. There is a heavy demand for ewes. Many ewe lambs are being held back on range and many old ewes shipped to farm flocks for breeders. Some cattlemen are stocking up where resources are favorable, and the whole region is improving in tone.

"On the Pacific Coast the apple and grape harvests are well along. Prunes are picked. Grain is mostly threshed. Fall seeding is about finished in the north, though hindered by dry weather. The same is true of winter trucks in the south. Cotton is beng picked in the south. Rice and citrus fruit are developing well. The general sentiment is moderately optimistic."

The department's index of the relative purchasing power of 30 farm products is placed at 93 for August, compared with 91 in July, the five-year 1909-1914 average of 100 being used as a base.

Nero Fiddles While Rome Burns

Just how Nero, the wickedest emperor the Romans ever had, fiddled while the great city of Rome burned, will be shown in a great fireworks display at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham. This monster spectacle will be shown each night from October 19 to 24. Thousands of dollars worth of fireworks will be used in the scenes and hundreds of people will take part.

Town And Farmer Need Each Other

Leaders in the State of Alabama say that the town and the farmer need each other and that one reason these two important factors in the existence of the United States don't know more about each other is due to the fact that they never get together.

The officials of the Alabama State Fair Association believe that when they give their fair in Birmingham from October 19 to 24, that they are offering the farmers and townspeople of the state the best opportunity to get together that they have ever had.

The farmer will get a chance to see the things that the town does and the town will see just what the farmer's life is, in the exhibits that will be put on. And all the while they will both be frolicking through the shows, racing, free attractions and general fun that is planned for the big fete in Birmingham. Not only the fair officials but the leaders of the state will urge these two great groups to get together.

The fashions of the day will be on exhibit at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham for the smartest women in the country and town will be present to see the wonders of the day. Those who want to know what is the latest thing in dress will see it during the six days that the fair runs. Not only on the people that attend the fair but in the exhibits that will be put on in the big exhibit buildings.

Thousands of dollars in prizes have been offered for the winners in the various farm and cattle exhibits. These purses total much more than they ever have before and it is thought that the outstanding champions of the sheep, swine, poultry and cattle world will be in Birmingham October 19 to 24.

Side-shows, exhibits, free acts, racing, fun in general and a glimpse of life a la 1925 in town and country are all a part of the Alabama State Fair which is billed for Birmingham, October 19 to 24.

SOILS FULL OF HUMUS MADE BIGGER YIELDS

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 17.—As crops are being gathered and records of yields made, farmers are observing that humus, or organic matter, had much to do with yields this year. Where the soils contained sufficient humus, the crops invariably stood the unusual drought better and produced much larger yields than those soils containing little or no humus produced.

Realizing the importance of this, county agents and members of the Extension Service staff at Auburn, say that as long as farmers can not order the weather they want, the next best thing for them is to provide crop insurance by making the soil fertile and filling it full of humus, which can be done with winter cover crops, and by adding manures. Hairy vetch is the one outstanding winter cover crop for Alabama, but there are others well worth planting, if it is not practical to plant vetch.

Still another way to provide crop insurance for next year on the heavier soils is to plow the land this fall. While most land in Alabama has not been plowed deep enough, agricultural workers at Auburn say that fall plowing should not go more than an inch deeper than the land has been plowed.

Fall plowing of the sandy soils of the State is not recommended, because there is no evidence to show that anything is gained by it.

Studying the crop or soil insurance idea further, these workers have found that investments in fertilizer and in humus are apt to pay best during poor crop years, although it pays well every year.

3 minutes Late on a 900 mile journey
This is the story of an actual happening aboard one of this Railroad's thru trains from Cincinnati to New Orleans.
Upon arrival at New Orleans, a passenger, with watch in hand, complained to his fellow passengers that "trains are always late". As a matter of fact, this gentlemen had left Cincinnati at 6:15 the evening before, had traveled in absolute comfort through six states, had enjoyed four splendid meals (served to him at a loss to the railroad), and had arrived at his destination, a distance of 921 miles from Cincinnati, three minutes later than schedule. This particular train has a very high "on-time" record though it is one of the heaviest in all the South.
Such complaints are, of course, very much out of the ordinary. Nevertheless, they afford an opportunity for considering the remarkable service being rendered to the people of this Nation by the steam transportation lines.
Remember that railroads are not always at fault when trains are late, and that the on-time record of railroads is very high. Seldom do the great trunk-line railroads of the Nation miss their regularly appointed schedules—an accomplishment which pays high tribute to their management and operation.

DESCRIPTION OF LAND

—— o ——

This land is highly adaptable to farming of every kind known to this section of Alabama. Every kind of crop may be produced here to best advantage.

There is plenty of water on every part of the farm, and the land lies in a manner that makes it easy to drain and easy to cultivate. The surface is level to gently rolling, and every acre can be cultivated.

It is especially desirable for the culture of fruits, truck, garden and field crops. For a successful strawberry farm, there is no better land to be had in this County than one of these small tracts.

In addition to the paved highway running entirely across the tract, the place is intersected by two other public roads. Every one of the small ten and twenty acre tracts will be on a public road, and most of them will be on the paved highway.

These small farms will be sold at auction on the grounds on the date above stated. You can be there and see the place and know just what you are buying.

In the wooded slopes along the paved highway are some of the prettiest places in the world to build homes.

LOCATION OF LAND

—— o ——

This tract of land is known as the Hyman place, and is located one-half mile north of Jemison, lying along both sides of the paved Birmingham & Montgomery Highway for a distance of one and one-half miles. It is practically in the Town of Jemison, and when subdivided, no part of it will be more than two miles from the Jemison High School.

For many years people have tried to buy small tracts of this land, but now is the first chance. There is not another opportunity in the County today where such land as this can be bought, situated as it is on the paved highway and with such splendid community advantages of schools, churches, health conditions, Etc.

If you want a good small farm, this is the best chance of your lifetime to buy it. Remember the date, and bring your family and enjoy the big free barbecue.

This tract of land is twelve miles north of Clanton, the County Seat of Chilton County, and about forty miles south of Birmingham.

WE ARE LOOKING FOR YOU TO COME AND SPEND THE DAY WITH US. WE WILL DO OUR BEST TO MAKE YOU ENJOY YOURSELF. AND IF YOU WANT A FINE LITTLE FARM IN THE BEST COMMUNITY IN THE COUNTY, WE BELIEVE YOU WILL SURELY BUY ONE OF THESE.

"My husband takes it for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more.

"I sure do recommend Thedford's Black-Draught."

FARMS AND TOWN GET ACQUAINTED AT STATE FAIRS

Alabama State Project Will Be Great Educational Clearing House, Pres. Brown Says

"What is the Alabama State Fair?"

That question is answered by R. A. Brown, president of the Alabama State Fair Association, at Birmingham, as follows:

"The Alabama State Fair is an educational clearing house. It is an agricultural and industrial institute for residents of both town and country. It is a short course in better farming and better living. It is a physical demonstration of why the man who farms with his head instead of with his hands must inevitably succeed.

"The State Fair is a comprehensive exhibition of what the ambitious boy or girl may achieve in agriculture, livestock raising, dairying, horticultural, home gardening, domestic science or household economy. It is an exposition of the marvelous improvement in farm machinery and agricultural implements. It is an object lesson in the great part which improved machinery plays in the development and cultivation of the farm and the increased prosperity of the farmer.

Is Real Demonstrator

"The chief educational value of the Alabama State Fair lies in the fact that it is demonstrative in character. The eye is a more convincing instructor than the ear. We are slow to accept and believe in any new method until we have had an optical proof of its superiority over the old.

"Often it is difficult to secure the attention of the busy man or woman long enough to give such a demonstration. Not infrequently it happens that farmers who would be most benefited by better methods of farming are not sufficiently interested to be present at any special meeting called for the purpose of discussing the subject.

"But the Alabama State Fair appeals to that trait of mankind which demands entertainment and amusement and becomes a common forum for the discussion of all matters having to do with agriculture, industry, the home and the school.

"In this clearing house of education the farmer learns what the manufacturer, the merchant and the banker are and have been doing to make his labor less arduous and his farm more profitable and the town resident learns what rapid progress is being made in agriculture. A bond of common interest is created which means much to both town and country.

"The farmer learns by actual observation of the newest devices and improvements in agricultural implements. He learns their use and benefits. He learns in what way they assist in soil cultivation, in plant growth, in sowing, in harvesting, in threshing. He learns the economic value of the more modern machinery, of the silo, of motor power on the farm.

Sees Farm Lands

"Through the Alabama State Fair the urban dweller is furnished a vivid picture of the agricultural resources of the community. He learns about the fertility of the soil in the vicinity; of what is being done to increase the farm yield; to improve the quality of the stock, and to multiply the total dairy product.

"Every man and woman, whether town or country resident, is brought into closer touch with the home life of others. All imbibe that broader education which means co-operation—that ideal education which is service to self and all humanity."

You'll find prize chickens in the Poultry Building at the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham.

Attractions Feature Alabama State Fair

The many attractions that will be offered at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham, October 19 to 24, will be among the features of that big annual event. Vaudeville acts, which include performances by the outstanding entertainers of the day, will be presented a number of times each day. Horse racing, with some of the fastest steppers on the Southern circuits, will be featured on the new half mile track, while all the farm, cattle, dog, poultry, mining and manufacturing exhibits will be free after the admission fee has been paid at the entrance gates. A special effort, so fair officials say, is being made to give the public a big show at the lowest cost possible.

The biggest men in Birmingham are officials of the Alabama State Fair Association. They believe in bringing the farm and the town together. They think that the town has the right to know what the farm is doing. They want the people who live in the modern American beehive that is called city to see just what the inhabitants of the rural districts are doing and the progress they are making. If they believe that this bringing together is worth while and sink their money into the project for the mutual good of everybody, what do you think?

Outstanding people in the life of the State of Alabama will be at Alabama State Fair in Birmingham from October 19, to 24. Senators, congressmen, state officials, leading ministers, farmers, manufacturers, scientists, teachers, lawyers, doctors and every-day citizens will all take advantage of this opportunity to see what the state is doing. For the exhibits will depict in startling form the town and farm life throughout Alabama.

A Fifty-Fifty Proposition

The original of Peter Dunne's immortal character, "Mr. Dooley," kept a saloon in Chicago much frequented by newspaper men. He was a born wit, and in his way—and a very good way it was, too—a philosopher and a student of human nature in its varying aspects.

One wintry evening as he perched behind his bar in friendly conversation with two of his regular patrons there entered a so-called journalist whose reputation as a ready borrower and a poor payer was more than citywide.

"Uncle John," he said briskly, "I'm detailed to an out-of-town assignment and I'm a little short of cash—need some coin for traveling expenses. Slip me a tenspot, will you? I'll hand it back to you sure on pay night along with the rest of the small loans I've had off of you lately.

The old man's face gave no sign of his real feelings. He lifted his broad bulk, waddled to the damper, extracted from the till a bill and without a word passed it across the bar to the promising man.

The latter, murmuring his thanks, started to cram it in his pocket but took a second glance at the greenback.

"Hold on here, Uncle John," he said. "I needed ten bones and this bill is only a fiver."

"That's all right, me son," said Uncle John; "it makes the thing come out even."

"What do you mean, makes the thing come out even?"

"Why, five I lose and five you lose," said Uncle John.

Mr. MacTavish attended a christening where the hospitality of the host knew no bounds except the capacities of the guests.

In the midst of the celebration Mr. MacTavish rose up and made the rounds of the company, bidding each person present a profound farewell.

"But, Sandy, mon," objected the host, "ye're not goin' yet, with the evenin' just startin'?"

"Nay," said the prudent MacTavish, "I'm no' goin' yet. But I'm tellin' ye good night while I know ye."

ONE TAXPAYER'S EXPERIENCE

From a letter coontributed to the Petaluma (Cal.) Courier we take this excerpt, says the San Francisco Bulletin:

"'The necessity for immediate attention on the part of the farmers of this county to matters pertaining to taxation is well shown by the writer's own case. His tax rate increased 217% within the last 10 years (from $2.02 for purposes other than state to $6.40 proposed 1925-1926). Applying Babson's formula this means a confiscation of value of the land, of nearly $140 per acre.'

"This experience is not exceptional. Every other land owner in California is similarly burdened. It is not only an unpleasant but an alarming fact that the tax bill of California more than consumes the combined values of our agricultural and horticultural products."

It is safe to say that the experience of this California farmer is not much different from the experience of farmers in many other states.

Presence of Mind.— A few minutes after an alarm of fire was given in a hotel, one of the guests joined the group that were watching the fire, and chaffed them on their apparent excitement. "There was nothing to be excited about," he said. "I took my time about dressing, lighted a cigaret, didn't like the knot in my necktie, so tied it over again—that's how cool I was."

"Fine," one of his friends remarked, "but why didn't you put on your trousers."—Everybody's Magazine.

GREATER SHEESLEY SHOWS ATTRACTION AT ALA. STATE FAIR

"Lane of Laughter" To Be Big Attraction and Place of Mirth.

The Greater Sheesley Shows, the largest and said to be the cleanest of the outdoor amusement organizations of the collective type, will present the attractions on the "Lane of Laughter" at the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham The big carnival company is under personal direction of Capt. John M. Sheesley, one of America's leading outdoor show men, who travels with the 40-car circus train in his private car, "Alabama."

Captain Sheesley is one of the organizers of the Showmen's Legislative Committee, which has as its counsel and commissioner Thomas J. Johnson, noted Chicago lawyer, whose word is law in the "big tops" and sawdust rings, and who has succeeded in purging the tented midways of many undesirable features and followers of past seasons. The big membership sign of the committee is always displayed on the imposing electric arch marking entrance to the Sheesley showgrounds.

Featured among the exposition of a dozen modern riding devices carried are the Hyla F. Maynes novelty rides —the Scenic Railway, Super-Caterpillar, Dragon's Pup and Over the Jumps They are the latest creations of the ride wizard of North Tonawanda, N. Y., noted inventor of many Coney Island thrillers and have been taken on the road for the first time this season. They represent the last word in portability, as the massive structures of iron, steel and canvas are moved every week, it requiring seven 62-foot flatcars of the show train, 20 18-foot circus wagons and a 10-ton caterpillar tractor to transport them The Scenic Railway and Dragon's Pup each has a frontage of more than 100 feet and the Super-Caterpillar and Over-the-Jumps are 100 feet in diameter. Then there are the Flyer, Butterfly, big Eli Ferris wheel, Whip and giant Carousel, said to be the most beautiful on the road and a veritable wall of fire by night.

Among the score of tented attractions are the Shirley Frances Style Revue and Water Circus, featuring Anna Winters, Belle Santoy, Louise Bonita and other champion divingbeauties and "Up-High" Napoleon, celebrated water clown and high diver; thrilling autodrome, where vaudeville racs, ride and drive on a perpendicular "wall of death," with Zella Borts, the "Mile-A-Minute Girl;" famous Dixieland Minstrels and their jazzy band and orchestra and dynamic trap drummer; Flaming Beauty tented vaudeville and plastic poses Chesworth's performing midgets, with George and Ida Chesworth, Duke Ross and other tiny folks; Monkey Speedway, with little Simian race drivers; Rocky Road to Dublin and its jaunting cars and sleepy-eyed burros; fifty varities of freak animals born when Dame Nature was in prankish mood; Law and Outlaw, thirty lifelike characterizations of famous and notorious personages; Crystal Maze; big circus sideshows; Happy Family; Thru-the Rapids, the great laughing ride; Tiny Mite, midget horse, and Rex, his pal, a giant Dane that won one first and three second awards at the April Washington D. C., kennel show, and others

Ten acres of ground are required to properly lay out the mammoth joy plaza, and more than 600 showfolks and animals are in the Sheesley Shows' family. Free acts and concerts are presented nightly and there will be daily street concerts by the Dixieland Minstrels and a big circus calliope, known to youngsters from coast to coast who have followed it its wake

In response to many requests the officers of the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham have announced coupons will be sold for reserved seats for the grandstand, certain sections being set aside for that purpose, and as a special inducement admittance season book tickets will be sold on the basis of six tickets for $2, each ticket being good at the gate and grandstand

THE CRIME WAVE SITUATION IN ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

Over 100,000 men and women have signed a petition to the Governor of Missouri. The petition requests that the police department get back to normalcy and endeavor to break up organized banditry rather than interfere with the lives of law-abiding men and women.

Since last April the police department has concentrated on the enforcement of the State's prohibition law, and also, on the statutes covering gambling. Citizens are stopped at all hours by plain-clothes officers and searched. Many homes have been entered by the officers, and in several instances police are said to have gained entrance to the private homes while the family was away.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells — builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

The timber through this section is mostly long leaf pine and hogs like the flavor of the roots of the young trees. You have seen the little pines turning yellow, with the mounds of earth rooted up all around. One piney-woods hog, worth probably three dollars, can easily kill hundreds of dollars worth of timber.

BUSINESS IS GOOD ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Prosperity of United States is Manifest in Every Business Industry As Well as Agriculture.

New York, Oct. 5.—The throttle of business has been opened another notch in the last week and trade is rapidly reaching autumn peak activity. The volume of wholesale orders and shipments released since October 1 has been most gratifying, but the movement of retail trade has lacked the surge which apparently only snappy fall weather can assure. There remain one or two dark spots on the horizon which are becoming blacker instead of lightening. Most lines are operating at normal or better.

For the fifth consecutive week, all previous records for industrial employment in Detroit, a barometer of the automobile industry, were broken. The total employed there reached 157,894, a gain of 60,560 since January 1. The Buick factories have never been so active as at present. The Chevrolet business is increasing. Oldsmobile, the Motorwheel Corporation and Timken-Detroit Axle and Kelsey Wheel plants are active.

The definite improvement in the steel business is reflecting these conditions to some extent. Higher prices are anticipated by E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Company, and James A. Campbell of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. "September showed a sizeable increase over July and August," Mr. Campbell said, "and I expect the volume of steel business to increase."

Iron prices have advanced and the cost of coal, coke and other raw materials have increased. Ultimately this will be reflected in higher prices for finished steel.

Otis Steel is running at capacity and Trumbull Steel is operating at the rate of 40,000 tons of finshed steel a month.

The results of the anthracite strike are beginning to bear down on both operators and miners. The cost of keeping the mines in condition is a heavy burden and mine workers reflected the effects of shutting off wages by disciplining members who accept employment at wages less than those approved by their organization. Bituminous production continues heavy.

In some isolated sections the fall let-up in building has made its appearance, but in most communities construction continues unabated and will be aided by settlement of the bricklayers' and plasterers' dispute. Contractors in Florida are rushing their jobs to completion before January 1, paying bonuses for overtime.

Lumber demand, production and shipments fell from last week, but new business was larger than at this time last year. Expert inquiry for copper has let down and prices for the metal weakened slightly. Lead and zinc were steady with production not high enough to depress quotations. Operations have been reduced 5% to 10% in some of the rubber plants owing to a cut in replacement, but crude rubber remained strong owing to smallness of stocks.

Depression of cotton prices checked retail buying in the South but aided textile manufacturers, especially in New England. Rains which filled the streams and relieved the hydro-electric power shortage, helped the Southern goods producers. Worsted mills of the American Woolen Company now are working up to about 80% of capacity operation.

Demand for gas and electricity was about 15% above that for the corresponding time of 1924.

Things to Know
Before Baby Comes

THE expectant mother's comfort and well being is very important. And one of the most important things for her to do is to use a non-irritating, safe penetrating lubricant to keep the skin, muscles and ligaments soft and pliable—thus aiding the tissues and muscles to relax and adjust themselves to the changes during motherhood. Mother's Friend is just such a preparation. It is the formula of an eminent physician and has been used by expectant mothers for over three generations. No woman awaiting the joy of motherhood should allow the days to pass without using Mother's Friend.

Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Gracemont, Okla., writes: "I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the grandest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers. I can't say too much for it."

Mother's Friend has saved thousands of expectant mothers from much useless suffering. It relaxes those drawing, stretching pains so common during expectancy.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 31, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

FAMILY REUNION

The Hand family met at Concord Baptist Church, five miles north of Calera on Tuesday, September 29th, 1925, at nine o'clock, for their first reunion.

Upon entering the grounds we met two men working on the school well who were old acquaintances of some of the family, one of whom was a Deacon of that church. These were Mr. Edwards and Mr. Stonecipher. They gladly welcomed us to the church for the reunion.

There is a beautiful grove around the church, and after spending about two hours chatting together, we began to make lemonade, and spread a bountiful dinner. Of course everybody enjoyed that very much. Mr. Edwards and Mr. Stonecipher were invited to dinner also.

After dinner the Junior High School came out and we had service. After singing such good old songs as "Take the Name of Jesus With You," "Tell Mother I'll Be There," and others appropriate, Rev. J. L. Hand made a splendid talk on "Mother, Heaven and Home." In the beginning he expressed the regret of all the others—in that they did not hold the reunion earlier, before some of the links fell out of the chain. There are seven out of eleven brothers and sisters living, six of whom were present.

After the service it was decided to make the reunion annual at the same place. All of the living relatives are expected to be present next year. Mr. J. W. Hand and Mr. E. D. Hand are committees to make arrangements.

We had plenty of lemonade throughout the day and everyone present seemed to enjoy themselves very much.

Those present were Rev. J. L. Hand of Climax, Ga.; Mr. J. W. Hand, wife and children, Grace, Flora, Homer, Irie, Lois, J. W. Jr., and Margerie, of Bessemer, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hand and children, Gladys, Lamar, Hershell, Spurgeon, and Edselle, of Clanton; Mr. Robert Hand of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hand, Pearl and Bonnie; Mrs. Ayme Robinson and children, Margis and Melvin; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Moody and children, Girvus, Ruth, and Vinsen, all of Clanton; and Mr. Watt Willis, who took some of those from Clanton.

UNION GROVE

All who are interested in the cemetery at this place are requested to meet on October 10, 1925, for the purpose of the cemetery. Bring sufficient tools for same.—W. J. Vinzant.

Although a few localities in Alabama will have corn for sale this year, F. W. Gist, Agricultural Statistician at Auburn, says that the total production in the State will be far short of needs, and that these localities having a surplus for the market should not ship it out of the State. Steps should be taken to market it here at home.

WIDOWS OF THE CONFEDERACY —WHAT OF THEM?

To the Editor of The Union-Banner:

Much has been said and sung of the old soldiers of the Confederacy, and many honors paid them for their bravely-fought battle achievements at the cost of empty sleeves, wooden legs and many scars. The Daughters of the Confederacy have also received their share of homage for their devotion to the "Lost Cause," shown in donning the homespun dress, palmetto hat and home-knit stockings. And now, as advancing time has reduced these remaining representatives to a very small number, our legislature of the State of Alabama has gallantly come to the front in behalf of the old soldiers, and increased their pension allowance to about four times as much as they have been receiving in the past. Noble legislative body of Alabamians! Three cheers for the compliment paid our old heroes of the Confederacy!

But let us take a peep for a moment at the old widows of the cause. Where are they who have "tarried by the stuff" while the battles were fought and, sacrificing husbands and home comforts, bravely met the emergency at the spinning wheel, the loom and the washtubs; and some of them even in the corn fields behind the plow? Why should the Alabama legislature overlook her rights, and fail to pay her a compliment by an increase of pension allowance?

Does not the old Book say that they who "tarried by the stuff" should share equally with those who went out to battle? And where are the honors paid her? It is true she is esteemed a weaker vessel; but the old Book says again that even more honor should be paid to the weaker vessel. Then why should our Christian government set her aside as a heathen nation would—leaving her to pick up the scraps from a scantily supplied pantry furnished by the meager pension allowance of a fraction over six dollars a month? Shame upon the legislature of Alabama that it should so forget these silver-haired old heroines who with tottering feet are nearing the end of their pilgrimage here, whose pathway has not by any means been strewn with roses, nor their heads crowned with laurels.—Mrs. Lula M. Dudley.

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

We dropped in at Thorsby Public School Tuesday morning and learned several items of interest.

Mr. Clarece E. Brown, assistant pricipal, and Miss Pearl Guy of Deatsville were married on Sunday and will reside in Thorsby at least a few months.

The boys of the school have organized a basket ball team and expect to be heard of in sporting circles after some practice.

Prof. Bean proudly showed us their new drop curtain for the stage in the auditorium. Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. Charles Howard, representing Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association, got busy and secured enough advertisements to cover the cost, to be placed on the margins of the curtain, the center being occupied by a large landscape painting. The work is done in an artistic manner, and all material used is of a durable character. The work was done by Oliver Sign Co., of Albany, Ala. These people have recently made a drop curtain for Jemison high school.

Thorsby Gin and Warehouse Company, Wm. H. Goodgame, manager, has recently ordered a Baker ice machine, and will proceed shortly with the erection of a suitable building and installation of an ice plant of 5 tons daily capacity, together with a cold storage warehouse, something greatly needed in Thorsby. Mr. Goodgame says the ginning season is drawing toward an end; he estimates the total output of the gin this year at 1,600 bales, worth with seed, approximately $175,000. We said to him that we were glad to see that he did not go to Florida to invest his profits, to which he replied that he preferred to invest his surplus in Thorsby.

We called on J. D. Cleckler, our Mayor, during the course of our conversation regarding improvement in general conditions around Thorsby he gave us a bit of his own experience. One item which he considers of prime importance was a gift to him by Mrs. Cleckler of a 10-pound girl, born September 23rd and named Edith Emily.

About a year ago Mr. Cleckler bought of Fred Howard a 7-acre tract of land within 1-4 mile of Thorsby depot. Most of this land was occupied by fruit bearing trees and vines as follows: 250 peach trees, 100 Japanese persimmons, a few in bearig, 40 apple trees, 10 pear trees, 88 grape vines, one-half acre strawberries. His returns from peaches and grapes, all sold at his home, or in Thorsby, $1,300, to which may be added another $100 for a bale of cotton grown on same land, while apples and pears have yet to be considered. The completion of the new highway is making it increasingly possible to market farm products at home. When ever one has desirable goods, people come for miles to buy them.

We were informed by Howard Brothers that their carnations have begun blooming, a matter which will interest many of our readers.

Mr. A. E. Reagan, manager of Thorsby Hardware Company had a birthday anniversary on Tuesday, and his good wife made a little party for him in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Howard, Clyde Mead, Ernie Hanson, C. R. Foss, Mrs. Harry Thompson and Walter Parnell.

Mr. Karl R. Peterson, with his mother, Mrs. J. F. Peterson, his wife and two children, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan.

Auto accidents on the new highway are of frequent occurrence through reckless driving. Two occurred not far from Thorsby last Sunday and Monday. In one case one car standing at the side to mend a puncture, took up a part of the roadway. One coming from the north and one from the south attempted to pass on what was left of the roadway and resulted in a head-on collision, due to carelessness on the part of the driver going north, because the car going south on the right side of the road was where he belonged. The other fellow, instead of slowing down until it was safe to proceed, took a chance and made a mess of it. The other smash-up was of a similar nature. Someone drove his car where it had no business, to be thinking, if at all, to get by with it, without considering the necessity for a margin of safety. One little girl was badly cut by flying glass—all other occupants of all the cars escaped with slight or no injuries. Three of the cars landed in The Franklin Garage at Thorsby, and the fourth was picked up in pieces and taken to Birmingham.

Miss Mae Whitley of Birmingham is visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Henry Robinson is reported so much improved from his recent severe illness that he has again started as a student at Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. John Primm of Birmingham, formerly Miss Hazel Wooley of Thorsby, was a week end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Little Eda Lee Wilder, who was reported recovering from a run of fever has had a relapse and is again quite ill.

Messrs. Fred Howard and J. D. Cleckler of Thorsby, S. E. Wood of Birmingham, and Mr. Fox of Clanton will make up a fishing party for a five-day outing at Gadsden, West Florida. They plan to make the trip, about 250 miles, in one day each way. Gadsden is a new place, not even on the map of Florida as yet, but has ambitions of that nature.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid Society will hold their monthly social at the home of Mrs. Karl Carlson Thursday afternoon, October 15.

Word has been received in Thorsby of the marriage of Mr. J. T. Carroll of Washington, D. C., to Miss Mae Parnell, also of Washington. The marriage took place Wednesday, September 16th, in Philadelphia. Miss Parnell is a daughter of J. R. Parnell of Thorsby, where she was brought up, and has many friends here. She is also well known in Clanton and Chilton County. Mr. Carroll is in government employ at Washington, and is said to be a very promising young man. The many friends of the young couple will wish them much happiness.

Mr. Russel Petersen, who is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen of Thorsby, is a fine specimen of one branch of our national defenders. He is a member of the U. S. Marine Corps, and is now stationed at Pocantico, Md., about 65 miles from Washington, D. C.

Thorsby Institute is now open for its 20th school year, with 79 enrolled and 25% of them senior year students. For the first time in the history of the school there are no students below high school grades.

The opening program follows:

Opening day, September 30, in the new building—Devotions, prayer, scripture and talk by Rev. J. E. Each. Song—Alma Mater. Cheers by students for Miss Jenkins, Mrs. Loveland, faculty, masons, carpenters, building committee and all workers and helpers. Adjournment to Congregational church. Singing, "How Firm A Foundation," by the assembly. Talk by Prof. Bean, principal of Thorsby public school, and at one time a T. I. student. Address, Rev. Bakke, pastor Thorsby Lutheran church. Presentation of diploma to Miss Mattie Scott, who took a summer course at Howard College to secure credits to complete requirements made necessary by unavoidable absence a portion of her senior year. Introduction of the faculty, by Mrs. Loveland. Announcements. Benediction.

Friday night of last week the Ladies Guild of Thorsby gave their annual reception to trustees, faculty, students and friends of Thorsby Institute, which now includes very near everybody in Thorsby and vicinity and several from Clanton and Jemison. This reception was held in the new school building and the guests enjoyed an inspection of the nearly finshed building.

The meeting of Thorsby Institute trustees announced last week to be held in the Thorsby Congregational church next Thursday morning, October 8th, will be held in one of the rooms of the new building, instead of at the church.

At the Congregational church following Sunday school the regular preaching service will be omitted and in its place there will be a Sunday School Rally Day Service, with an interesting special program. Everybody interested is invited to come and bring their friends.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Lucien Martin Thursday afternoon, October 8.

Mr. F. O. Goddard of Grover Hill, Ohio, is a visitor at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

WEST CHILTON

Everything quiet and lovely.

Mrs. Mollie Atchison, who has been visiting her son in Ensley, returned last week, bringing her son with her.

Mr. Isaac Waldrop was called to Birmingham Sunday to visit his sister, Mrs. Honeycutt, who while preparing to cook a chicken last Thursday was severely burned. Her clothing caught on fire and was burned off before being extinguished, leaving her in a critical condition.

We learn that Miss McCary of Coosa County has secured the school at Macedonia.

Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby has again been called to the pastorate of Macedonia. Mr. Lowery is a good preacher, his sermons are logical and free from sensationalism.

We read with interest the news of 25 years ago in the Banner. Very attractive to the older readers.

Mrs. Belle Smith went to Birmingham Sunday to visit her daughter.

Great wave of prosperity is now passing over West Chilton. People are buying automobiles freely. It seems to be a repetition of the days of McKinley and Roosevelt, only on a larger scale.

Rev. Falkner conducted a Baptismal service here Sunday, Baptizing three girls. It seems a matter of regret that the masses of the people and ministry seem to forget the real import of the Holy rite of Baptism so much. Some people in time have almost gone into frenzy over the form of Baptism which is only a symbol of the real Baptism, and remain dumb on its real import.

Miss Dulcie Smith and Mr. J. N. Cofer are behind the counter at J. P. Gentry's store.

Riley Smith of Birmingham was here Sunday.

We note the old time cotton worms are now in the cotton fields in this locality.

Ernest Smith and family have moved in with Mr. Isaac Waldrop Sr., and are house keepig for Mr. Waldrop while Mrs. Waldrop is on an extended visit in the North trying to regain her health.

Read the Banner, the "County's Headlight," as the Lomax correspondent puts it, and get the news.

Success to its brilliant publishers.

PROVIDENCE SINGING SOCIETY

The Providence singing society was called to order Sunday afternoon by Chairman R. M. Robinson. The Arranging committee was as follows: W. H. Robinson, S. M. Yates, O. R. Robinson. The following directors sang 3 songs each: G. C. Powell, S. M. Yates, Dovard Cleckler, J. R. Robinson, O. R. Robinson, J. W. Cleckler. Recess 15 minutes. C. H. Robinson, Russell Cleckler. Quartette, arranged by G. C. Powell.

Closing song by W. H. Robinson. Dismission by W. W. Robinson.

We had a real good singing. We thank the many visitors for their help and presence, and ask them to come again the next third Sunday afternoon.—G. C. Powell, Secretary.

Stamps of Jacksonville, Texas, says that he and his quartet concert singers will arrive in Clanton this afternoon (Thursday) and be realy for the concert at the high school auditorium tonight at 8:00 o'cloock. DON'T FORGET THE DATE --- OCTOBER 23, 1925

CHILTON HIGH WINS FROM UNIVERSITY HIGH FRIDAY

Chilton County High School defeated University High of Birmingham, here, Friday afternoon, 12 to 0. Chilton outweighed University about 12 pounds to the man, and were not in danger at any time. Chilton big backs plowed University's line on each play except three—an end run by Beagle, an attempted pass, Beagle to A. Rutland, and a fake play in which McLeod and Beagle were the principals. Chilton punted only once, and recovered the ball after a 25-yard gain on that occasion.

University had the ball only four times, and ran only three plays beside punts. Of the four times, they punted twice, lost the ball on a fumble once, and were in possession of the ball on their own 20-yard stripe at the close of the game.

Chilton registered 18 first downs, while University could not make one. Chilton gained 266 yards and University 11.

Relying on line bucks altogether, Chilton worked the ball to University's 4-yard line, Hammel took the oval and made Chilton's first touchdown of the year. Hammell stepped the last 2 yards with a flock of men hanging to him. In the third quarter Cox bucked for 5 yards and the second touchdown. Beagle missed goal both times.

Chilton narrowly missed two more touchdowns—when the end of the first half came with Chilton on University's 2-yard line. The other time was in the last quarter, when Beagle fumbled on University's 5-yard line.

Chilton was never in danger, and University played a defensive game from the first whistle.

McNally and Brasfield showed up best for University, the former doing some especially good tackling.

For Chilton, it would be hard to pick a star. Rutland and Rutland held the ends down in good shape, and H. Rutland's cutting attracted much attention. Mann and Jones played a wonderful game at the tackle positions, and cleared the way for the backs in a manner that shows that they know football and know it well. Jones broke through and threw Hawkins for an 8-yard loss on one of the three plays University tried. This play was supposed to be a "fake," but—it didn't work. DeLoach and Gragg played well at the guard posts, helping greatly in clearing the way for Chilton's line plunges. McLeod looked like a finished product at center, and the opening was always there when the play was called over him.

Beagle, at quarter, was responsible for much yardage, and gained several yards on the only end run Chilton pulled. Champion was good on the line plays, but did not have a chance to show his wares, as his best game is on end plays and passes. Hammell and Cox made first down after first down, and smashed through for several long gains. On one occasion Cox gained 5 yards with 4 men hanging on him.

After Gore and Sanford went in, they showed some real football ability, Gore by his cutting, and Sanford by an 8-yard gain the only time he carried the ball.

Chilton goes to Wetumpka to play the Wetumpka "Aggies" next Friday. On Friday, October 16, Chilton plays the Howard Rats in Clanton.

Following is the line-up and score:

The Condition Of Our Local Banks

Possibly the best barometer we have of the business trend in Chilton County is the condition of our banks as expressed in their recent published statements. We hope our readers will study them carefully.

At the close of business September 28 the various banks in the county had on deposit the following amounts: 1st National, Clanton, $559,424.52; Peoples Savings Bank, Clanton, $490,046.46; Bank of Thorsby, $169,428.41; Bank of Verbena, $144,027.99; Bank of Maplesville, $94,004.61; total deposits of all our banks of that date being $1,456,931.99, nearly a million and a half.

On the same date, September 28, the combined resources of all the banks in the county was $1,713,292.96.

The condition of our five banks speaks well for Chilton County.

Verbena Boy Killed In Auto Smash

Montgomery, Oct. 12.—Preparations were being made here Monday for burial of Richard Waller, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Waller of Verbena, who was killed in an automobile accident on the Birmingham highway, in which his father, a sister and three brothers were painfully injured.

The lad was killed almost instantly, his father sustained a broken collarbone, and his sister, Virginia, and three brothers were painfully bruised and cut.

Mrs. Waller was at the bedside of Sidney Waller, another son, who has been ill for some time, when told of the death of Richard. She collapsed and was under care of a physician Monday.

The party was enroute from Verbena to Montgomery to be at Sidney's bedside when the car went over an embankment.

Report of Telephone Meeting

A meeting of the directors of the Peoples Telephone Company was held at the court house in Clanton, Monday, October 12. The business before the meeting was the consideration of the proposition of the Southern Bell Telephone Company to take over the rural lines that are now being operated into the central office in Clanton by the Peoples Telephone Company.

Mr. W. A. Steadman of Montgomery, manager of the Bell Telephone Company for this district was present and placed before the meeting an outline of the plan upon which his company operates rural lines.

The meeting took under advisement the plans of the Bell company. Another meeting will be held on December 14, at which time the stockholders of the Peoples Company will pass upon the proposition.

R. J. Williams and Hugh Davenport of Mulberry were in Clanton Tuesday making preparations for the Isabella community fair which is to be held on Friday, October 23. Isabella had a community fair last year and many visitors will recall the interesting exhibits that were displayed. It is planned to have a better fair this year, and everybody is urged to attend.

Chilton High Loses To Wetumpka

Chilton County High bowed in defeat to the Wetumpka "Aggies" at Wetumpka last Friday afternoon, in a hard-fought contest, 7 to 6.

Wetumpka soon found the weak place in Chilton's line caused by the absence of Mann, the giant left tackle, and plunged that hole for a touchdown in the second quarter. The kick for extra point was good, and therein lay the margin of Wetumpka's victory.

Chilton's backs couldn't get going and gained very little ground through three-quarters of the game.

With defeat staring them in the face Chilton opened a fast aerial attack, and in less than a minute and a half carried the oval 80 yards for a touchdown. McLeod failed to kick goal, and the count was 7 to 6.

With only a minute and a half to play, Chilton received, and on the one play they tried, H. Rutland narrowly missed another long pass which would have gone for another touchdown.

A pass, Beagle to A. Rutland was the play that scored for Chilton.

Chilton High plays the Howard Rats on the local field at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Clanton Baptists To Dedicate Church

Dr. Ezell announced to his congregation at the Baptist church last Sunday that the committee had all the money in hand to pay the debt of $6,262.00. After the announcement was made, at the suggestion of Judge Adams the congregation sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

The debt was paid on Monday morning, which event marked the final settlement of all financial obligations which were incurred in the building of the splendid new house of worship.

Next Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour the church will be formally dedicated to the purposes of God in these fields. Dr. L. O. Dawson will preach the dedicatory sermon. All the former pastors of the church have been invited to be present. This service will mark the greatest event in the history of the church, and it is hoped that everybody in Clanton can be present. Friends and co-workers from all the churches in the county are especially invited.

It is hoped to have 500 in the Baptist Sunday school next Sunday. The ladies' Class is working for an attendance of 101. The men announced that they are looking for 102.

Every member of the church is urgently requested to be present at Sunday school and the eleven o'clock service. Dr. Dawson will remain here and conduct the revival services next week.

The public is cordially invited to attend all the services and hear this great man.

Remember the church debt is paid and there will be no collections.

CHILTON COUNTY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

The Chilton County Baptist Association meets on Thursday and Friday (to-day and to-morrow) of this week at Chestnut Creek church, near Cooper. All Baptists in the County are invited to attend.

Second Period Begins With A New Start

All Right Folks! Here It Goes! How It Will End Nobody Knows

The first period of The Union-Banner Circulation and Trade Building Campaign closed last Saturday night, and everybody was feeling good over the results so far accomplished. Many of the candidates have put over some excellent work with telling results in raising their standing up to a handsome figure. Some got started a little late, but have done well for the time they have worked. The friends of the various candidates have become interested in them, and the merchant votes have been coming back to us in a steady stream for some one of the several active candidates.

The following is the standing of the candidates as the vote appeared when the ballot box was opened and counted at the end of the first period:

Miss Jewel Miner,	52,545
Mrs. Kin Vinson,	193,320
Miss Dolly Mae Harris,	7,400
Miss Minnie Fiquette,	50,010
Mrs. E. V. Smith,	10,000
Mrs. Lonie Scott,	93,565
Miss Ruth Easterling,	34,865
Mrs. E. A. Norris,	151,770
Mrs. Clyde Meade,	89,490
Miss Vilula Littlejohn,	88,835
Miss Merle Freeman,	10,000
Miss Clara Hayes,	8,000
Miss Mattie Scott,	9,500
Miss Freeland Marcus,	5,900
Miss Gertrude Joseph,	8,000
Miss Luticia Bean,	9,000
Miss Lola Mae Hayes,	8,050
Miss Gertrude Sundberg,	10,000
Miss Annie Spivey,	8,500
Miss Iris Hicks,	7,400
Miss Frances Woolley,	150,700
Miss Franklin Parnell,	17,150
Mrs. F. O. Robinson,	20,730
Miss Janie Allen,	7,460
Mrs. W. C. Erwin,	9,850
Mrs. G. E. Summers,	7,450
Miss Alice Childress,	9,010
Miss Alpha Cagle,	212,770
Miss Frauline Cobb,	7,575
Miss Alcie Lowery,	182,610
Miss Grace Abbott,	31,890
Mrs. D. O. Manning,	7,410

Now the candidates have started out on the second stretch with new vigor and determination to make even a better showing during the second period than they did in the first. This is sure to happen, for we would predict from the activity some of them are showing, that it would not be surprising to see some of those who appear behind on the above tabulation step out in the lead on the next count. For you know, it takes work to win in this campaign, and most of those whose names appear above are naturally "shelling the woods" for subscriptions.

One prominent man remarked while in the office Tuesday that it was dangerous for a fellow to travel the public roads nowadays unless he had from $1.50 to $7.50 with which to subscribe for The Union-Banner.

The management of the campaign and the publishers are gratified with the manner and diligence with which the candidates are at work.

As will be shown by the number of votes received by the different candidates, it is evident that in all parts of the county interest in their behalf has been awakened among their friends, as there are one or two candidates in every section of the county who say everything is lined up to assure them winning a prize.

The standing of the candidates as published this week shows the vote as counted from the box at the end of the first period. Each of the candidates was given credit for the 5,000 nominating votes to begin with. To this 5,000 has been added all the vote certificates that were deposited in the box before the close of the first period. A number of people have come to the office to pay up their subscriptins and cast their votes for their favorite candidate. While still more have secured merchant votes and brought them here and voted them for the candidate of their choice.

The candidates and the people in general are here reminded that the price of The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year, and that there are no special club offers or any other arrangements now in effect whereby the paper can be secured by subscribers for less than the regular price of $1.50. There have been some occasions in the past when the paper was offered at reduced prices, but we give no promise of ever doing that again. We know that The Union-Banner is worth $1.50 a year. If it were not so, there would not be so many people who pay that price for it year after year. We do not expect to make any reduced rates again. It is far more likely that the paper will be made better yet and priced at $2.00 a year than reduced below $1.50. We ask every candidate to assure the people that we are going to give them a paper well worth the price, and if they want it at all they had just as well subscribe now, as they will not again have a chance to get reduced rates.

There is a place in the rules of the contest which says: Special offers for clubs may be made from time to time." This does not mean that reduced prices will be made to subscribers. It means that special offers of extra votes will be made to candidates who bring in clubs of subscriptions, but the subscriptions in these clubs must be paid for at the regular price of $1.50 a year or 75c for six months. Some people, we learn, have read that rule in the contest and construed it to mean that reduced prices for clubs will be offered, but that is a mistaken idea.

The candidates are being offered extra votes for clubs sent in this week. So if you have a friend in the contest whom you want to help, you can give her your subscription this week and help her get her club card filled out, and get the 10,000 extra votes that are being offered for each club card.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt payment of accounts.

No private or secret information as to the standing of any candidate will be given out. Candidates who endeavor to win by unfair methods will be dropped from the race.

Vote certificates will be issued to candidates as subscriptions are turned in, and may be either cast at once or reserved at the discretion of the candidate. Vote certificates will also be issued in exchange for merchants votes, and will have the same value, and be under the same conditions as subscription votes. Vote coupons clipped from The Union-Banner must be sent in within one week from date issued to be counted.

Voting shall be absolutely secret during the last period of the contest. To insure this the following method will be used. No vote certificates will be issued after Saturday, November 14. A securely locked ballot box will be provided which will not be opened until after the close of the contest. Merchants votes for any candidate will be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to whom they are to be credited and deposited in a box through a small opening. Subscriptions with the money therefor will likewise be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to be credited and deposited in the ballot box.

On the afternoon of Nov. 24 the box will be opened and the votes counted, giving each candidate credit as may be shown by the contents of the envelopes bearing their names. The respective totals shall be added to the totals of vote certificates already cast and the winners shall be announced in accordance therewith. Any candidate who desires may have a representative present during the count of vote.

Any active candidate who fails to win the automobile or a diamond ring will be awarded a cash prize equal to ten per cent of the total subscriptions sent in by her. An active candidate is one who sends in at least one yearly subscription each period from the beginning to the close of the campaign.

Culp's Barn Burned Near Pletcher

The barn of W. E. Culp, near Pletcher, burned about three o'clock Monday morning. When the fire was discovered the building was falling in. About $150 worth of tools and feed was destroyed. No insurance. The barn was the property of C. A. Pattillo of Billingsley, being on a farm rented by Culp. Origin of the fire is not known. The sheriff's office was notified and made investigation of the case.

In this connection Sheriff Littlejohn asks us to request all people in the County to make immediate report of all fires to his office. The Sheriff is deputy fire marshal for this county, and is charged with the duty of investigating all fires and making report on same to the State Fire Marshal.

Sheriff Littlejohn will thank the people for cooperating with him in performing this duty.

Community Fair At Isabella October 23

The Community Fair of the Isabella Vocational Agricultural School will be held at the school grounds on Friday, October 23. The exhibitions will consist of poultry, live stock, and agricultural products grown under the supervision of the teacher of vocational agriculture.

There will be good speakers on the program, and several kinds of entertainments. Refreshments and a picnic dinner will be served. Everybody is urged to come and let us show you what Isabella is doing in the way of agriculture and education of our boys and girls.

We had a fair last year and think it was a success. Many people from all over the county visited us. We want you to come back and be with us again this year, and bring some of your neighbors with you. Remember the day, Friday, October 23. We are looking for you to be with us.

Another Statement From Dr. Gragg

Mr. Editor:

It frequently comes to me that certain parties persist in trying to make the public believe that I am not now doing a general practice.

I would thank you for space to say here that I am ready to respond to calls both day and night; that I am under no special obligations that tie me to the hospital, and that I am not now, nor neither have I been, responsible for its operation since August 31st; and I here and now, disclaim any responsibility for its success or failure since that time.

Yours Respectfully,
V. J. GRAGG.

Baptist Revival Here Begins October 18th

Dr. L. O. Dawson of Howard College Will do Preaching.

Beginning Sunday morning, October 18, and continuing through the 25th, the Baptist church of Clanton will hold a revival meeting. Dr. L. O. Dawson, who was for 30 years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tuscaloosa, will be the preacher for the series of meetings. Dr. Dawson is now Professor of Bible at Howard College and is recognized as one of the outstanding preachers and leaders among Southern Baptists.

The public is cordially invited and urged to hear this man of God.

Bring Your Mail Order Catalogs to Mr. Elmore

The advertisement of the Chicago Sales Company of Clanton this week lays down a broad challenge to the people of this territory. Mr. Elmore, the manager of the store, asserts in his advertisement that he matches all Chicago and New York mail order house prices, and to prove that he does do it, he asks you to bring your catalogues along with you.

This does not mean that he will make special prices to the fellow who brings the catalogue, just to beat him at the game. It means that his prices are just the same to everybody, marked in plain figures, and that they are as low as you can get the same goods for by ordering from New York or Chicago.

Mr. Elmore is one of the merchants of Clanton who is consistently and persistently urging the people of Chilton County to buy at home. We commend him for his efforts along that line.

Reynolds Barbecue and Land Sale Tomorrow

Tomorrow (Friday) is the date of the big barbecue and land sale to be pulled off by Judge Reynolds and C. W. Ford, at the Hyman place just above Jemison. Judge Reynolds has been making frequent trips up to the place almost every day the past week, and reports that all things are now ready for one more big time with those who go there tomorrow.

Everybody knows where the Hyman place is located. Just take the paved highway at Clanton and go north until you see the big sign across the road announcing the event.

Now a word confidentially with anybody who may be looking for a good farm. This is a good chance for you to get a good place, any size you may need. If you haven't the cash to pay it all, you can get terms of one-fourth cash and balance on time. It will at least be worth your time to go to the barbecue Friday and take a look at some of the tracts that are going to be sold.

Read the big page advertisement in today's paper which tells you all about it.

Prof. H. A. Harris, principal of the Stanton High School, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. "Everything going fine at Stanton," he says, "with Miss Frances Woolley sweeping the country in the Banner Campaign."

Dries right up!

If you just realized how easy it is to stop fiery, itching, burning eczema by simply building up the red-blood-cells in your blood with S. S. S., you wouldn't waste another minute trying to do it any other way.

That's the only way to relieve irritated, broken out skin of any sort. You lack rich, red blood. Impurities are in your system. The blood is so weak it can't fight back and overcome the enemy, so the impurities break out through the skin.

S. S. S. builds the blood back—builds millions of new red-blood-cells. Eczema dries right up. Boils, pimples, blackheads, ugly blotches and irritating rashes all disappear.

Clear up your skin. Get S. S. S. All druggists sell it. The larger bottle is more economical.

HOME IMPROVEMENT WORK IS BEING DONE

With the harvesting of their crops nearing a conclusion, farm people of Alabama are now turning their attention to home improvement, which is expected to receive a large amount of attention during the remainder of the fall and winter. An organized movement of this kind was launched at the State meeting of farm people and extension workers in Auburn early in 1925 when standard farm home plans were adopted and now that money is available from the harvest of crops the plan is coming up for major attention.

Information received from the county home demonstration agents by Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, dean of women at Auburn and State home demonstration agent, show that many kinds of improvements are being made with kitchen improvement receiving major attention. Here new equipment is being added, that already on hand being re-arranged, the walls re-finished, and miscellaneous improvements made in order to make the kitchen more convenient and attractive.

The installation of electric lights and waterworks is being encouraged. Running water in the kitchen relieves the housewife of a great deal of drudgery but better still is a complete water system including a bathroom with necessary fixtures. The use of paint and whitewash on buildings and fences is being freely urged.

The home improvement movement has been warmly endorsed by Farm Bureau officials and State and County Farm Bureaus are cooperating in the work. Edward A. O'Neal, State Farm Bureau president, is suggesting that farmers take enough of the surplus money from their crops to pay off the mortgages and use the balance in improving the farm, and especially the home.

In Accordance With the Ritual

Archie Gunn, the artist, is a Scot who was educated in England and who still has a great love for the national game of the British isles, to wit: cricket. Will Kirk, the verse writer, is a product of Wisconsin and until one day when his friend Gunn took him over on Staten Island had never seen a game of cricket.

Teams made up of English residents were playing for the Greater New York championship. The spectators, almost exclusively, were their fellow-countrymen. Kirk stationed himself in a front seat alongside Gunn and prepared to give to the sport his undivided attention.

A batsman dealt the ball a powerful wallop.

"Well hit, old chap," cried Gunn. And "Well hit! Well hit!" echoed others in the crowd.

An opposing player made a hard run to catch the ball as it descended into his territory. He almost got under it—almost but not quite. It just eluded his clutching fingers.

"Well tried, old chap! Well tried!" called out Gunn, all enthusiasm.

Kirk decided that this sort of thing must be in accordance with the proper ritualism of the game. He decided that, to show his approval, he would at the next opportunity speak up, too.

Presently the opportunity came. Once more the batsman smote the ball with emphasis. It rose high in the air. A fielder for the rival club ran to catch it. His toe caught in a clod of upturned turf and he tumbled forward on his face and the ball, dropping, hit him squarely on the top of his head.

Kirk's yell rose high and clear above all lesser sounds.

"Well fell, old chap!" he shouted. "Well fell, by gum!"

THE WORLD CAN NEVER HAVE ENOUGH RADIO

Earl C. Reeves, writing on the "Growing Pains of an Infant Industry," in the current issue of Nation's Business, estimates that the country last year did a radio business worth $350,000,000 and said it was the consensus of opinion that the saturation point would never be reached.

"Experts estimate there are now more than 4,000,000 sets in operation in the country—four million homes," he writes. "But there are nearly 12,000,000 phonographs in the country, more than 15,000,000 automobiles, 14,000,000 telephones and around 25,000,000 homes. These figures answer questions regarding saturation. It is reasonable to expect that 6,000,000 more sets will be sold without much effort.

"Will 'saturation' ever arrive? In a sense, no. That is the consensus just now, for the infant has had a look over commercial history to see what happened to other youngsters. In every case, it is discovered, the newcomer found himself cluttered up with Wallingfords, patent infringers and enthusiastic incompetents until old man 'Economic Pressue, plucked them off one by one, and an organized business emerged, which, in the case of bicycles, sewing machines, pianos, etc., turns over more goods each year now than in the heyday of newness."

How the Drought Helped Alabama

This advertisement appeared in the Birmingham News on September 20th. It is reproduced by Alabama Power Co. through courtesy of the Birmingham Trust & Savings Company, to which institution Alabama Power Co. is indebted for this recognitionof its efforts to give Alabama industries continuous power service at all times.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Thos. W. Martin President

Nothing has occurred within the last few years in Alabama to emphasize more strongly her strategic location than the recent extended drought.

On account of low water and the shortage of hydro-power, plants in many of our sister states were compelled to curtail operations at a great loss to the industries affected.

Not so in Alabama. Not for a single day nor even an hour, did the wheels of industry in Alabama cease to turn. Steam power plants, supplied with coal from Alabama coal fields, met the crisis. And after meeting Alabama's every need, they came to the rescue of our neighbors and supplied their deficiency.

Industrial enterprises want continuous power service. They know now where to find it.

If anyone harbors a doubt that Chilton County is the most prosperous and progressive place in Alabama, just send them to Clanton one of these Saturday afternoons and let them lamp our busy shopping section, our paved streets with its congested traffic, and the enormous amount of business that is being done in general. Chilton County is the best place we know of, and things move here, too.

The government forecast as of October 1 indicated a cotton crop of 1,220,000 bales for Alabama. Approximately 840,000 had been ginned on that date, and F. W. Gist, of Auburn, estimates that it represented about 69% of the total crop. It was the largest proportion of any crop ever ginned to this date.

On September 15 the forecast was for a crop of 1,063,000 bales. All over the State the yield per acre was surprisingly large as compared with what farmers expected the first of September. The yield per acre of lint cotton was estimated at 170 pounds this year compared with 154 in 1924.

The Union-Banner takes the privilege of urging the people of Clanton to support the Baptist Church here next week in its revival meeting. Dr. Ezell has been digging long and hard for many days, getting the ground in readiness for the Gospel seed that are to be sown by Dr. Dawson beginning next Sunday. We folks in Clanton need to let our religion loose for a while so we can see what it will do. We need to take our lights out from under the bushel. Some of us might be surprised when we lift the bushel and find that our lights have gone out. We should take stock of ourselves next week, get into the meeting and help to make Clanton a better place in which to live.

WHAT OF YOUR SCHOOL?

Education is the whetstone upon which we sharpen human intelligence—our most valuable tool. We have remarkably rich natural resources. We have a citizenry of uncommonly good native intelligence. That intelligence is engaged in cutting away the obstacles encountered in producing from natural resources goods of value to man and living together while we do it. The cutting qualities of the tool and the skill with which it is wielded depend upon our sch ols.

These obstacles (problems to be solved) continually grow less complex in relation to physical matters and more complex in social motters. Each problem solved in idustry on the side of tool and process lays the basis for a comparatively easy solution of other problems. Each industrial change, however, creates new problems of living together which can not be solved so easily because the consent of men to behave in a certain way must first be secured.

To safeguard the danger that industrial progress will break down social organizations in our democracy, we need as never before the sharpened tool of trained intelligence. Is your school the best possible school? Especially is it the best possible school to give training in social organization and the duties of citizenship? If not, is it because you do not give it proper financial support so that efficient teachers may be employed or is it because you have not helped to secure progress in curriculum adjustment and plan of organization? Do you really know what manner of man or woman is the teacher of your child? Do you really know what is being taught your child? If you care in the least what the form of social organization of the United States is to become you will know what is being taught in the school and how it is being taught.

HUCKABEE FINED FOR HAVING SQUIRRELS

Judge Gulledge tried a case in justice court last Saturday in which a boy named Huckabee was charged with violating the game law by keeping live squirrels in confinement. He was convicted of the charge and fined $15.00 and cost.

A good shed is a far better place than a fence corner for storing farm machinery during the winter.

One-half pound of fine table salt added to every hundred pounds of mash will be good for your hens.

Farmers have made good crops this year, and a part of the returns should be spent in improving the home with things that will make it more attractive and add to the comfort of Mrs. Farmer.

Charles E. Hughes, in an address at Faneuil Hall, Philadelphia, at a celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill, said:—"The cure for the ills of democracy is not more democracy but more intelligence. We cannot enjoy the blessings of liberty without the freedom of knowledge." This statement is very meaningful, but the ground in which the seed of knowledge is sown has all to do with the application of such knowledge. A rascal might possess knowledge and very likely would use it to further his nefarious pursuits. Knowledge in such case would endanger freedom rather than augment it. Therefore, we should strive for more knowledge among people, but at the same time we should see to it that this knowledge operates in th proper channels.

RADIO IS NOT A LUXURY, SAYS SECRETARY HOOVER

Secretary Hoover is planning for the Fourth National Radio Conference to be held in Washington. Speaking at the last conference he estimated that the industry employed 200,000 men and that the radio audience numbered 20,000,000 persons.

"Radio activities," he said, "so long as they remain within the legislative restriction which holds for the Government the fundamental control of the ether, are largely free. The industry's future conduct with a single view to public interest, a voluntary imposition of its own rules and a high sense of service would go far to make further new legislative or administrative intervention unnecessary."

As proof that radio is not simply a luxury, but of extreme practical value, the Secretary held that the local stations must be able to deliver every important national event with regularity; be able to bring to its listeners the greatest music and entertainment of the nation; and be able to deliver important pronouncements of public men.

"This can only be accomplished," he said, "by regularly organized interconnection on a national basis with nationally organized and directed programs for some part of the day in supplement to more local material. I do not believe," he added, "there is any practical method of payment from the receivers. I believe the quickest way to kill broadcasting would be to use it for direct advertising."

Ordinarily, corn shrinks in crib 16% from November to June.

Without a good mash before them all the time your hens will fall short in egg production.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL!

She was sweet. Pretty. Eyes like saucers
With a sparkle that thrilled us. A
Rosebud mouth. Features that would have Made Michael Angelo sigh. And golden
Bobbed tresses we longed to touch.
Something about her that reminded us of
A dream fairy come to life. Really, too
Gorgeously attractive to be human.
And as she tripped gracefully across the Floor we wondered—"What a lovely
Creature. So dainty. So refined. So
Dignified. So innocent-looking."
We yearned to hear her sweet voice. We Imagined it was that of a nightingale.

JUST THEN - -

The barber called—"Next!" Up she stepped,
Seated herself in the chair and in a
Voice like that of a prize fight
Announcer—she rent the air with:

"GIMME A SHAVE ON DA NECK.
AN' MAKE IT SNAPPA!"

Blah! Another vision gone blooey!
Moral: You Never Can Tell!

English tailors are trying to wish "Oxford Bags" on us men as "the correct trouser style for fall." Let 'em keep on trying. Only a bird whose feet are too big and who wants to hide them or one who has lost a bet—would wear the things. They're so big, they'd make two fine skirts for friend wife and still leave enough material to guarantee you a new fall suit.

A little 10-year-old girl traveled to New York City alone and wasn't a bit afraid. Bet she hid her pennies in her shoes when she walked down Wall Street.

"Money Is Firm"—reports Wall Street. What do they mean "Firm?" It's about as firm as quick-sand. Always slipping away no matter how hard folks try to hold on to it.

If you meet a man with bits of plaster in his hair, it's not always a sign that that is his trade. More than likely—the family upstairs is trying to master that new-fangled, foot-stamping "Charleston Dance!"

A Few Brainstorms!

From the look of pain on his face we could tell he had been to a bridge party—at the dentist's office.

He was engaged in "uplift" work amongst the poor—tenants. Lifting pianos.

He sounded like quite a promising young man—until the cuckoo house keeper came and collected him.

He cracked a joke and somebody cracked him on the back with a rib-cracking slap and the wise crack—"That was a cracking good one." Crack. Crack.

"Flames Rout Phone Girls" reads screaming headline. That's more than human beings can do. You know—wake 'em up enough to get your number!

Let's See Your Teeth On This One!

Police officers in a certain small Illinois town want dog-proof pants. They've been trying to arrest a woman bootlegger but her dog has prevented it. Which proves what? That the teeth of a hound are mightier than the teeth of the law?

M-n-a-a-h! Me-ow-o-o-o!

DESCRIPTION OF LAND

This land is highly adaptable to farming of every kind known to this section of Alabama. Every kind of crop may be produced here to best advantage.

There is plenty of water on every part of the farm, and the land lies in a manner that makes it easy to drain and easy to cultivate. The surface is level to gently rolling, and every acre can be cultivated.

It is especially desirable for the culture of fruits, truck, garden and field crops. For a successful strawberry farm, there is no better land to be had in this County than one of these small tracts.

In addition to the paved highway running entirely across the tract, the place is intersected by two other public roads. Every one of the small ten and twenty acre tracts will be on a public road, and most of them will be on the paved highway.

These small farms will be sold at auction on the grounds on the date above stated. You can be there and see the place and know just what you are buying.

In the wooded slopes along the paved highway are some of the prettiest places in the world to build homes.

LOCATION OF LAND

This tract of land is known as the Hyman place, and is located one-half mile north of Jemison, lying along both sides of the paved Birmingham & Montgomery Highway for a distance of one and one-half miles. It is practically in the Town of Jemison, and when subdivided, no part of it will be more than two miles from the Jemison High School.

For many years people have tried to buy small tracts of this land, but now is the first chance. There is not another opportunity in the County today where such land as this can be bought, situated as it is on the paved highway and with such splendid community advantages of schools, churches, health conditions, Etc.

If you want a good small farm, this is the best chance of your lifetime to buy it. Remember the date, and bring your family and enjoy the big free barbecue.

This tract of land is twelve miles north of Clanton, the County Seat of Chilton County, and about forty miles south of Birmingham.

WE ARE LOOKING FOR YOU TO COME AND SPEND THE DAY WITH US. WE WILL DO OUR BEST TO MAKE YOU ENJOY YOURSELF. AND IF YOU WANT A FINE LITTLE FARM IN THE BEST COMMUNITY IN THE COUNTY, WE BELIEVE YOU WILL SURELY BUY ONE OF THESE.

COTTON PRICES VARY WIDELY IN ALABAMA

There is a wide variation in the price paid to farmers for cotton of the same grade on the same day at different points in Alabama. It frequently exceeds a cent a pound, basis middling cotton, according to information collected by J. D. Pope, extension specialist in farm economics and farm management.

Mr. Pope found that on Saturday, September 19, the price paid at Cullman, Alabama, for middling cotton was 22.88 while the price paid at Alexander City, Sylacauga, and Talladega on the same day for the same grade of cotton was 24 cents. The Opelika market was 24.25. The average for the State was 23.36.

One week later, September 26, the Cullman price was 22.50 compared with 23.25 for Sylacauga and Talladega, while no report was received from Alexander City. On the same day, however, the price at Eutaw, Marion, Linden and Whatley was only 22 cents, while the Deer Park quotation was 21.50. Courtland, Florence, Seale and Monroeville each paid 22.25. The average for the day was 22.56.

On October 3 the lowest price was that of Courtland with 20.75 and the highest was at Wedowee with 22.38. Florence, Oneonta, Eutaw, Greensboro, Wetumpka, Brewton, Butler, Geneva and Monroeville each reported 21 cents. Alexander City, Dadeville, LaFayette and Evergreen each paid 22 cents.

Similar variations were reported on the prices paid for cotton seed. On September 19, Cullman, Jasper, and Carrollton each paid $30 per ton, while Scottsboro, Alexander City, Clayton, Elba and Enterprise paid $40. Other points paid prices between these two groups. Variations in the price of cotton seed, September 26 and October 3, were in proportion to those of September 19.

CONSTITUTION DAY

The observance of Constitution Day in rural schools should be of special significanre. That the Constitution was ordained and established for a more perfect union and to establish justice is known to every school boy. That it, with the Declaration of Independence, is an epoch-making document, that the real significance of both can be understood only by studying their provisions in the light of current thought at the time they were written—these are facts not so well known but of momentous importance to American boys and girls. Constitution Day gives an opportunity to emphasize them. Interpreted in American ideals and applied to education, these two great documentary masterpieces guarantee equality of educational opportunity to the children of America. It is well known to school officials that there is a vast difference in the kind of educational facilities provided for rural and for urban children in the majority of our States. In rural communities the school term is shorter, the instruction of a poorer quality, fewer children finish high school and college. This situation is contrary to the spirit of our Constitution. It is not only unjust but unnecessary. Constitution Day should be a reminder and an incentive, a reminder that equality of educational opportunity is necessary to the establishment of justice; an incentive to all communities, but especially to the less progressive ones, to improve their schools to the utmost of their ability.

J. J. EDWARDS OF CHICAGO SAYS TRADE WITH HOME MERCHANTS

There has been handed to The Union-Banner a letter from Mr. J. J. Edwards of 5623 Madison St., Chicago, Ill., and a former citizen of Chilton County, together with a picture of Julius Rosenwald. Mr. Edwards requests his letter published in The Union-Banner, which is as follows:

"This is a picture of Julius Rosenwald, who is president of and has controlling interest in Sears, Roebuck & Co. He is always doing something for foreigners, and if the people of the South want to help the negroes and Jews, they will trade with mail order houses, but if they want to help themselves, they should trade with their home-town merchants.

(Signed) J. J. Edwards."

SELMA SUFFERS BIG FIRE LOSS SUNDAY

Selma, Ala., Oct. 11.—Selma experienced the largest fire during the past twelve months when the Northcut Grist Mill of the Northcut Grist Mill and Grain Company was totally destroyed Sunday morning about 12:30 o'clock, the loss being approximately 12,000, of which only $3,000 on the building and machinery was covered by insurance.

The feed warehouses in connection with the mill was not destroyed, but many sacks of meal, grain and by-products were damaged by smoke and water. A metal warehouse was saved, and the company will continue its regular business of storing, Monday morning.

The mill and warehouse are the property of G. G. Northcut of Selma.

SINGING AT LOMAX

Sunday was a fine day at Lomax. At an early hour we were on the way there to attend the old-time Sacred Harp singing. We were met at the train by that prince of good fellows, Mr. A. A. Jackson, with his car, who carried us to his hospitable home, where we enjoyed a pleasant hour.

At 9 o'clock singing opened with T. J. Jackson, chairman. It was fine. Many directors were present, Messrs. Thompson, Higgins, Harget, and Mrs. Honeycutt, of Birmingham, and many others of the local classes. We noted the fine singing of the Shirley sisters, Prof. Sanders, J. H. Williams, Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Culver, and others.

Among the prominent people we met were Rev. J. N. Scott of Jemison, our esteemed young friend, John Jackson of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Barrett of Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Watkins of Clanton, Mrs. Toy of Birmingham. People were there from quite a distance, some from as far as Randolph.

Dinner was all that could be desired.

Such gatherings are real treats in our streneous day, and excel nearly all other religious gatherings in interest.

Mr. A. A. Jackson is doing a great work at Lomax, musically and otherwise.

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

The quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute on Thursday, October 8th was held in one of the rooms of the new school building, now nearing completion, and was an epoch in the history of the school. What happened April 27th last, in the loss by fire of Bates Hall, together with its assembly hall and practically all of the physical equipment in class rooms, office, library, laboratory, with all their furnishings, seemed almost an unsurmountable disaster. But as often happens, what seemed a calamity has proved a blessing in disguise. One never realizes how many friends they have until trouble comes.

In less than five months a fund has been raised which permitted the erection of a substantial modern building, as a first unit of the plan adopted for a new building. This section contains five standard high school class rooms, office, library, laboratory corridors and closets, running water, electric lights and a complete modern sanitary steam system with all plumbing completed, heating plant. All that has been made possible by "Thorsby Spirit" which has inspired co-operation not only of Thorsby people and those in the vicinity but many others who never have seen and probably never will see Thorsby Institute. Yet unity of purpose and action among all these people made possible a very satisfactory report of the Treasurer.

The Building Committee, composed of M. J. Soberg, chairman, E. W. Butler, secretary-treasurer, J. H. Goddard, R. A. Turner and A. E. Reagan, were highly commended for efficiency and results of labors. The entire force at work on the building was called in and given a vote of appreciation and thanks for their splendid help and personal interest shown in the work.

By vote of the Board, the building committee was continued and instructed to proceed with plans for building the next unit which will be an auditorium or assembly hall as soon as possible. No date is set for its completion.

October 12, 1925 will stand out as a Red Letter day for Thorsby Institute, for classes were held in the new building. The former members of the faculty know how splendidly the student body arises above handicaps and new members made the discovery Monday. One teacher asked the principal if there was ever an obstacle that the T. I. pupils could not meet and conquer.

Most curiosity provoking posters appeared from October 6 to 9 in the dining hall of Thorsby Institute. The "Hares" showed their colors Saturday morning when they announced a hare and hound hunt for that evening. The tracks which they left were so large and numerous that the hounds had no trouble in finding the hares and the great picnic lunch which they had provided. The evening was spent in music and games around a blazing fire. Do it again, boys.

October 12th the American History class had charge of the chapel exercises, different members of the class had prepared papers. The songs used were "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" and "America." Coy Kirkland made a pen sketch of one of Columbus' boats, and Gordon Sorrell used it in his paper, "Columbus' first Voyage to America." Other numbers were "The Geograpic Ideas in the Middle Ages," Pearl Steiner; "Early Life of Columbus," Bernice Williams; "Later Voyages of Columbus," A. T. Arthur; "The Results of His Work," Geraldine Dobson; "Columbus (Miller)" by Plato Deason.

The Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association announces that they have bought a Jesse French piano for our public school, paid $100 on it and made themselves responsible for the balance.

Mr. F. O. Goddard, who has been visiting his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, left on Monday morning for Eutaw to visit his friend, Mr. Farmer Kohn, who is in the bee business, raising young bees to ship north in the early spring.

Mrs. G. L. Foshee has re-opened her store this week and will offer her stock at and below cost to close it out. The store has been practically closed for several months on account of the serious illness of her husband, which resulted in his death recently.

Mrs. S. C. Wood was taken to a hospital in Birmingham for an operation last Saturday.

Mr. Reno S. Villadsen is moving with his family to Montevallo this week to be near his business. He found 50 miles of auto trip daily rather wearing on both himself and his car.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hazzel and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gordon of Lineville were week end visitors at the home of Mr. J. Bice, father of the ladies who were formerly Lona Bell and Ellen Bice of Thorsby.

Stoughton Bice, former Thorsby boy, is now an automobile salesman specializing in Ford cars in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid Social will be held on Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Karl Carlson.

The Ladies Guild will be held at the home of Mrs. Lewis S. Howard Thursday afternoon, October 22nd.

Mrs. Grover Bice, who has been quite seriously ill for several weeks, is reported to be slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson had as their guests last Sunday their daughter, Clara, and friends, Miss Lillian Surtess, Mr. Cecil Morgan and Mr. Lewie Self, from Birmingham.

Weak In Back and Sides

"Before the birth of my little girl," says Mrs. Lena Stancil, of R. F. D. 2, Matthews, Mo., "I was so weak in my back and sides I could not go about. I was too weak to stand up or do any work. I felt like my back was coming in two. I lost weight. I didn't eat anything much and was so restless I couldn't sleep nights. "My mother used to take

CARDUI

For Female Troubles

so I sent to get it. I improved after my first bottle. Cardui is certainly a great help for nervousness and weak back. I took six bottles of Cardui and by then I was well and strong, just did fine from then on. Cardui helped me so much."

Thousands of weak, suffering women have taken Cardui, knowing that it had helped their mothers or their friends, and soon gained strength and got rid of their pains.

Cardui should do you a lot of good.

JEMISON NEGRO FOUND DYING IN PUBLIC ROAD

David Huett, a negro, whose home was at Jemison, was found dying in the road above Wessington last Saturday night. His almost lifeless body was found by Frank Culpepper as he was returning from Calera with his oil truck. The negro's skull was crushed, and he died a few minutes after he was found.

It is reported that the negro left Jemison about noon Saturday, going to Calera, supposedly on the sand local freight. He went to Calera, and is said to have left there on an automobile late in the afternoon coming back to Jemison.

Mr. Culpepper states that a large automogile passed him as he was coming from Calera in his truck, and that he came about half a mile down the road after the big car passed him and found the body of the negro lying in the road.

Sheriff Littlejohn and his deputies were notified and they at once went to the scene. Squire Alf Childress was also notified, and he came and organized a coroners' jury and held an inquest before the body was moved. The verdict of the jury was that the negro came to his death by causes unknown.

Different theories have been suggested as to the cause of his death, but no clue has been found by the Sheriff. He might have been hit by an automobile, or he might have been knocked in the head and left in the road to die.

LITTLE GIRL HIT BY AUTO

Alice Mims, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mims of Clanton, was hit by an auto and painfully injured last Friday afternoon.

The child was on her way home from the Grammar school. She started to cross a down-town street, and when she saw that she was stepping in front of an oncoming car she tried to turn and go back to the curb. The car struck her as she turned, knocking her to the pavement. When she was picked up by Mr. Bud Jones she was unconscious, and was taken to Dr. Arthur Johnson's office. At first it was thought her injuries were light, but another examination revealed that her spine was injured. Last reports are that she is resting nicely, and it is thought none of her injuries will prove fatal.

Cotton Crop Better Than Was Expected

The forecast of 1,220,000 bales, issued today by the government for Alabama, does not come from any improvement in the crop during the past month, but represents the more mature judgment of the local reporters in each county as the picking has progressed. Approximately 840,000 bales had been ginned to October 1, which represents about 69% of the total amount of the crop as indicated. This is the largest amount ginned to this date since the big crop of 1914, and is the largest proportion of any crop ever ginned to this date. The local reporters of the Service in Alabama estimate the probable yield per acre at 170 pounds of lint, which is also the largest yield per acre since 1914. Reporters also give an average opinion of about 69% of the crop ginned, the two estimates coinciding when the latter figure is computed into the amount ginned.

In the midst of the dry, hot weather of July and August the cotton growers were feeling that it would be impossible to make a fair yield, but when the time came for fruit to set and to open the prospects looked much brighter, and when the first picking was over the amount gathered was surprising, and it was seen that the crop was turning out much better than anticipated. The excellent yield is a direct response to the heavier fertilization used this season, which was also more carefully adapted to the various soil conditions than heretofore. Stands were poor in some sections, but the weather was cosducive to the growth of the plants which had more room.

Rains, where accompanied by wind, have put some cotton on the ground, but pickers have taken it from the ground and no loss of bales has resulted. Some loss in value by damage to grade will result.

Reporters estimate the average number of bales per plow at 4.2, which will give a money return that has not been enjoyed for some years.

The report gave the average yield per acre for the United States as 152 pounds of lint, the indicated number of bales as 14,759,000, and the number ginned to October 1 as 7,101,710 bales.

Milt Tolbert Show Is Coming

Looking back at its many years of public service, during which the Milt Tolbert Shows have provided entertainments for millions of people it may be safely stated that no former season has ever remotely approached the grandeur and diversity of this year's offerings. The management of the show in all varied branches is keenly alive to the requirements of this rapid age. This is an epoch of evolution. What was seeming and fitting in the past would not fill the wants of today. World developments and changing conditions in our own environments have created an appetite for closer intimacy with up-to-date foibles and pursuits. It is not enough that a drama appeals to our various emotions, heart-pangs, laughter, love and mate— it must be imbued with a spirit of the present in which we live. So it is with music. It must conform to the trend of today, whether the classic or the syncopated variety. The same may be said of scenic realism—absolute fidelity must prevail. The trend of today points strongly to merriment, music, dancing and the presence of the effeminate beauty. The Milt Tolbert Shows are profuse in these attributes this season.

The prices this year remain within the reach of everyone.

JAMES B. DUKE DEAD

Mr. James B. Duke, the man who originated "Duke's Mixture" smoking tobacco, died at his home in New York last Saturday night. Mr. Duke was born in North Carolina, a poor boy. He started out in the tobacco business while young, and gradually rose to great heights in the financial world. He has given away millions of dollars to educational institutions. Only last year he donated forty million to Trinity College in his native State, the consideration for which gift was that the name of the college should be changed to Duke University.

Mr. Duke was one of the outstanding figures around which the almost spectacular industrial development of the State of North Carolina has centered in recent years.

Dee Golson Kills Girl Then Shoots Himself

Dee Golson, a well known citizen who resides about 14 miles northwest of Prattville, Tuesday morning shot with a pistol his foster-child Miss Myrtle Billingsley, and then turned the pistol on himself and sending a bullet through his heart.

Golson was evidently insane. About three weeks ago he purchased a Colt army pistol, as he stated, to keep around the home. Monday afternoon Golson and his wife, who was Miss Nora Hollon before her marriage, came to Prattville and he purchased a graphophone and some attachments. It seems that Tuesday morning he became angry with the Billingsley girl, and something being said he remarked that he was tired of such trouble and proposed to end it all. He went to his trunk, secured his pistol and when Myrtle Billingsley entered the room fired a shot which passed thru her stomach, then turning toward his wife, who was behind something, he turned the pistol to his own breast and fired, dying almost instantly. The Billingsley girl was rushed to a Montgomery hospital, dying there at two o'clock Thursday morning.

Golson and his brother were sentenced to the penitentiary about 22 years ago for killing their neighbor, a Mr. Brantley. After the death of his brother, Dee Golson was pardoned. About 15 years ago he was badly injured by a box car which was being switched at Danbury, from which injury he was crippled for life. His friends had noticed he was mentally wrong from remarks he had made, but never thought he would be guilty of the crime of Tuesday morning.

Myrtle Billingsley was the daughter of Mr. Porter Billingsley, and a cousin of Mrs. Dee Golson, and on the death of Mrs. Billingsley Mrs. Golson adopted the small child.

Dee Golson was about 45 years old at the time of his death and was a truck driver on the school truck which carried the Fox Hill district children to the Oak Grove school.

A coroner's jury investigated the tragedy and reported that Dee Golson fired the fatal shot at Myrtle Billingsley, and the one that ended his life.—Prattville Progress.

Easterling Fined For Killinig Squirrels

James Elijah Easterling was tried before Judge Gulledge last week on a charge of shooting squirrels out of season. He was convicted and fined $15 and cost. The case was reported to Sheriff Littlejohn about a week ago on a warrant sworn out by someone who had knowledge of the circumstances. The violation occurred in the hills of the eastern part of the county on Coosa River.

HALLOWE'EN ENTERTAINMENT

There will be a Hallowe'en entertainment at Union Point school house on the night of October 31st.

We shall seek to read the future

So don't dress up, but come prepared
To have a jolly time.

New Addition to City Now Being Opened Up

Clanton is spreading out right along. The creeks which are the incorporation lines of the city and which have heretofore kept the place scrouged up within their narrow limits have been broken, and the city is now beginning to spread outside this congested area.

Through the Garner place on the northeast side of town, which was recently purchased by Mr. W. A. Reynolds, has been built a nice wide and commodious street running from a hundred yards north of Gore's bridge to the little old Bill Taylor house on the east side of the Garner tract. Already one new building is going up on this new street, and Mr. Reynolds is selling out the tract in small lots for building purposes.

This new addition to Clanton is an ideal residence section, and when several nice buildings have been put up out there, it will be quite a picturesque and valuable adjunct to our city.

Extension Course Here Saturday, November 7

The teachers' extension course of the University of Alabama under direction of Prof. Ralph E. Parker, will be held at the court house in Clanton on Saturday, November 7th.

Prof. Parker says that he is mighty well pleased with the interest the teachers and people in general are taking in the extension work.

The place of meeting has been moved to the court house because that place is handier to get to than the high school building, where the course has heretofore been taught.

MRS. SALLIE HADNOT DEAD

Mrs. Sallie Hadnot, age 50 years, died at her home near Cane Creek Wednesday afternoon about 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Hadnot had been sick about 5 weeks, and died of heart trouble.

The deceased leaves a husband, Luke Hadnot, and two daughters, Dorenda and Montree Hadnot.

Funeral services were held at Cane Creek Thursday at 1 o'clock, and the body was laid to rest in Cane Creek cemetery.

Miss Iris Hicks	82,300
Miss Grace Abbott	81,890
Miss Franklin Parnell	76,190
Mrs. D. O. Manning	69,520
Miss Janie Allen	57,710

The above list shows how the candidates stood at the close of the second period last Saturday night It will be seen that Miss Alcie Lowery of Jemison has replaced Miss Cagle of Mitchell Dam for first place, while Mrs. Vinson holds second place with the small margin of a bare 1,000 votes behind the leader. Miss Cagle, who was the leader last week, drops down to third place in the count this week. Mrs. E. A. Norris is fourth.

Miss Frances Woolley of Stanton is holding up to a good place on the list. The work of Miss Woolley in the western part of the county has been highly pleasing to the campaign management.

Miss Littlejohn and Mrs. Meade, the two Thorsby candidates, are making a close race, with Mrs. Meade a little in the lead.

There is no tellinig what may happen in another week. The line-up has been shifted considerably in the past week, and we may not be surprised to see it change again by the time the votes for the third period are in the box next Saturday night.

The progress of the campaign has brought forth the usual crop of "wise guys," who know who is going to win. They are the smart fellows who stand around on the street corners and profess to know all the "inside dope." Some of them are so wise that they know all about how it is "fixed up" for certain ones to win and others to be left out in the cold. They proceed to try to discourage some of the candidates by telling them it is no use to work because it is all fixed up for somebody else to win.

Now, of course, they know nothiing about the matter. They are only doing what they do habitually—talk, and talk and talk, with no regard as to whether their statements have any foundation of fact or not. Such people simply must have something to talk about. They are talking about the contest, just because it is a live subject at this time. When the contest is over, they will find something else upon which to bestow the wagging of their tongues.

We urge the candidates not to become discouraged by what some of these wise fools may tell you. This campaign is going to be conducted fairly and squarely for all, and every participant will be rewarded for the work she has done. Any candidate who does not believe us when we say this is doing a foolish thing to get into the campaign at all.

We wish to urge upon the candidates and the friends of the candidates the advantage they may find in pushing the merchant votes, especially for the next week. Of course, these votes will be good throughout the entire campaign, but there will be a special offer to the candidates next week which will make the merchant votes more valuable to them than during any other period of the campaign.

It seems to us that some of the candidates have not given the attention to merchant votes that they might have done to great advantage. Many people are not asking for merchant votes as they should, whereby much strength for somebody in the race is being overlooked. Every time a penny is spent at one of the stores which gives tickets, there is a vote for somebody. Some candidate ought to get that vote. But if the purchaser is not interested enough to call for his tickets, why of course the merchant does not give them to him, and the vote is therefore forfeited.

There have already been enough votes not called for at these several stores to win the Ford car if some candidate only had them. It is a good chance for the candidates to boost up their standing by organizing their friends in a movement to get all the merchant votes they can.

Of course, it is nice to get subscriptions to The Union-Banner. We want them—all you can get. But you perhaps already know that it takes work to get subscribers. It takes work every day to keep on getting them. It is far easier to get merchant votes, because your friends can help you. If you get a friend to save his merchant votes today, he will keep on saving them for you tomorrow and all thru the campaign. You only consume a few minutes in winniing a means of support that will stay with you and help you every day of the campaign.

In the beginning of the campaign, when we outlined the four districts of the county, we made a conflict in the northeast and northwest districts. In one place we stated that the northeast district included a small corner of Beat 2. In another place we stated that the northwest district included all of Beat 2. This error having come to our attention, it makes necessary a ruling to straighten the matter out. Wherefore, it is now stated that all of Beat 2 is to be considered in the north west district.

It should be remembered that Thorsby is in the northeast district and Jemison is in the northwest district.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt payment of accounts.

No private or secret information as to the standing of any candidate will be given out. Candidates who endeavor to win by unfair methods will be dropped from the race.

Vote certificates will be issued to candidates as subscriptions are turned in, and may be either cast at once or reserved at the discretion of the candidate. Vote certificates will also be issued in exchange for merchants votes, and will have the same value, and be under the same conditions as subscription votes. Vote coupons clipped from The Union-Banner must be sent in within one week from date issued to be counted.

Voting shall be absolutely secret during the last period of the contest. To insure this the following method will be used. No vote certificates will be issued after Saturday, November 14. A securely locked ballot box will be provided which will not be opened until after the close of the contest. Merchants votes for any candidate will be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to whom they are to be credited and deposited in a box through a small opening. Subscriptions with the money therefor will likewise be sealed in an envelope bearing the name of the candidate to be credited and deposited in the bal-

Many Auto Wrecks In The Past Week

An unusual number of auto wrecks have happened in and near Clanton during the past week. None of them were serious however, recording no fatalities to human life.

Melvin Lansford last Thursday, capsized a Ford car on Second Avenue, near the cemetery. He did not run into anything, only lost control of the car. He was not hurt.

A couple of wrecks occurred Friday. A Ford and a big car swiped each other near the railroad crossing on Second Avenue. Many people are said to have witnessed the accident, but we have been unable to find anybody who can give us the names of the parties. No serious damage was done.

Tom Carter, driving the Dodge car of his brother, Marvin, had a collision with another car driven by Mr. Boswell, near Dief's Service Station, on Friday evening. A wheel was ripped off the Dodge. No one was hurt.

Late Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Foshee were driving on the highway south of town near the Powell place when the wheels on one side got off the pavement. The soft dirt gave way and the car turned upon its side down a steep bank. Mr. Foshee was painfully hurt, but not seriously. Mrs. Foshee was hurt only a very little. The Ford coupe was shaken up quite a bit. Much of the glass was broken and Mr. Foshee, who was driving, carried the steering wheel with him as he went out through the top. The motor did not stop running until the switch was cut off after the car had turned over.

Saturday night there was a free for all wreck on the highway near the home of L. D. Popwell, in which two cars and a wagon participated. Will Cox was driving his team home with a wagon load of Cotton seed. Mrs. Joe Franklin was meeting the wagon with her new Essex. As they passed, another fast car came along and undertook to make a nose-dive through the narrow space between the wagon and the Essex. He hit the wagon, tearing it all to pieces, and took off a fender of the Essex. Mr. Cox was thrown out of the wagon and one of his legs badly bruised. The reckless car was a Chevrolet, driven by a man who gave his name as Paul Goddard, from Jasper.

SERVICES AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY

Preaching services, both morning and evening, will be held at Friendship church next Sunday, the fourth. Rev. W. W. Robinson, the retiring pastor of the church, has consented to preach at the two services next Sunday, inasmuch as Rev. W. P. Lowery, who has been elected for the ensuing year, cannot be present. Rev. Lowery will take charge of the pulpit at the regular meeting day in November.

There will be singing at the church Sunday afternoon, as usual on each fourth Sunday afternoon. All singers are invitetd to come and take part in the singing.

On Sunday night, besides regular preaching service, an ordination service will be held, in which two deacons will be ordained. Rev. M. J. Parrish of Providence will assist Bro. Robinson in this ordination service.

Mr. Cecil Smith of Lakeland, Fla., is spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Smith.

New Buildings Going Up in Clanton Now

Beginning this week, there are four new brick buildings going up on Seventh Street between First and Second Avenues. On the lot between the Exchange Hotel and Smith Grocery Company, Mr. W. I. Mullins is erecting a two-story brick building. This building which Mr. Mullins says he hopes to have ready for occupancy by the first of the year, will be occupied by Mullins & Moore. Mr. Mullins says that some time soon the old frame building now occupied by Mullins & Moore will be torn down and a really modern brick structure put there in its stead.

On the east side of Seventh Street between Upchurch Drug Company and Downs Grocery Company Dr. Sam Johnson is making preparations to build three one-story brick buildings. Dr. Johnson says that all three of these buildings will be strictly fireproof, and will be built of about the same kind of material as the Upchurch building. We have not been able to learn who will occupy these buildings, but the construction work will begin real soon and be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Fox Will Sell Weldon Place on Tomorrow

The sale of the Weldon place, which has been advertised in The Union-Banner for the past two weeks, takes place tomorrow (Friday) at the farm on the western side of town. Mr. W. W. Fox, the famous auctioneer, of Clanton, will conduct the sale.

Fox says the bell will ring promptly at eleven o'clock. Everybody is invited to be present. This is a sale that involves some of the best farm property in the county, and it is freely predicted that it will go like hot cakes.

Old Time Singing Held At Alpine Church Sun.

On last Sunday the old-time singers gathered at Alpine church in the extreme southwest part of the county, with J. N. Scott, chairman. Everybody seemed to enjoy the occasion. It was a time of good will and gladness. The crowd was large, dinner excellent and bountiful. The Alpine people know how to make you welcome.

We noted the good singing of Mr. Sanders of the Southern Railway, little Willie Pearl Cooper, Miss Ruth Williams, and others.

Among the notable people there were Prof. H. A. Harris, ex-Commissioner Herrod, and our old friend, J. Calhoun Wooley, formerly of Bibb.

A deep interest in sacred song seemed to prevail.

Alpine is a beautiful church, beautifully located. Our visit there will be a pleasant memory.—Visitor.

MILT TOLBERT SHOW HERE ALL NEXT WEEK—OCTOBER 26

Milt Tolbert's big tent theatre is coming again.

The above statement is all that is necessary to say about this famous company, but we feel that it is only fair that the coming of Milt Tolbert's show is always looked forward to as the real big event for Clanton.

Mr. H. D. Dale, manager of Milt Tolbert's show, says: "Realizing the popularity and reputation the Milt Tolbert show has gained, and the feeling of confidence in which it is held by the people of many towns and cities in the south, we feel under obligations to do all we can in our power to sustain the reputation we have established. The Milt Tolbert show has become an institution, and its visits to the different places throughout the country is looked forward to with the same anticipated pleasure as the coming of Christmas by the lover of clean and moral entertainment. This company has built a reputation on clean entertainment and square dealing, catering to gentlemen, ladies and children.

The following program will be shown:

Monday Night.

A four-act comedy-drama, "The Awakening of John Stater"—comedy romance-drama and action that will hold your interest.

Tuesday Night.

"Diana's Atonement." You will laugh, you will cry, and you will thrill at its thrilling moments.

Wednesday Night.

The four-act drama of the Mountains, "Kentucky Sue." Thrills, action, comedy. An ideal evening's entertainment.

Thursday Night.

The mystery that has fooled thousands, "Mystic Island." One of the greatest plays of the age.

Friday Night--Feature Extraordinary.

The great Metropolitan feature that stirred New York, "The Unloved Wife." She gave her all for money and social favor—she reaped humiliation. But she found love at last. See it. Hear it. You'll marvel at it.

Saturday Night.

"St. Elmo," a play that you will enjoy seeing.

Special mention should be given the Thursday and Friday night programs, as these are extra good feature scenes. We do not mean that the other plays are not good ones, but believe you will find them up to the standard with any plays shown by any tented organization on the road.

The nightly concerts are of the very best and we wish you to see the Broadway Revue especially—dancing beauties from the big vaudeville circuits in the most georgeous concerts staged under canvas.

The following vanity girls of 1925 will appear wearing the most beautiful costumes that have ever been worn on the stage: Misses Irene Palmer, Bessie Leighton, Ethel Vevie, Kathlyne Johnson, Nellie Bond, Ella Wagner and Hazel Bensley, who will furnish entertainment galore for the concerts.

The tent will be located on Ellis Lot, north of town, on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway.

TO THE READERS OF THE UNION-BANNER

I wish to say to the readers and friends of The Union-Banner that I am a little girl who lives in the eastern part of Chilton County, at Mitchell Dam, and that I am a candidate for a prize in The Union-Banner's Circulation and Trade Building Campaign. I come to you with a request asking you for your support by giving me your trade tickets and subscription votes. It is a hard race for me in this contest because I am in school and can't get out and go from place to place six days in the week.

But listen, friends, when you go to town, please buy your goods from merchants who give Union-Banner votes, and when you make purchases, no matter how small or how large, ask for your tickets and save them. If you don't see me before the contest closes, just present them to The Banner office in my name. There are merchants not only in Clanton but in other towns of the county who give trade tickets.

I would also appreciate it if you would subscribe to The Union-Banner and give me the votes. If you don't see me, just leave your subscription at the Banner office and tell them to give the votes to me.

I hope to win one of the prizes in this contest, but if I don't win even the smallest prize, when the contest is over, I shall appreciate any support my friends may have given me. I will thank you just the same as if I should be so fortunate as to win the capital prize.

If the weather is suitable, I will be in Clanton every Saturday afternoon until the contest closes, and would be glad for you to see me and help me out in this contest.

Very sincerely,
ALPHA INEZ CAGLE.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. F. NORTON, Manager).

The following verses "listen" good; we do not know the name of the author. They were sent to us by a Union-Banner reader:

"Some sing a song to the East,
Some sing to the distant West;
But I sing to the Sunny South,
Because I love it best.
I sing the sighing of soft winds,
From Blue Ridge peaks to plain;
I sing of fields of snowy white
And of the golden grain.
I sing of hearts that live and love,
Beneath the Southern pine;
I sing a song to the South,
Because the South is mine."

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss, Mrs. K. A. Ekblad and Miss Naemi Turnquisit motored to Fairfield last Friday, and pleasantly spent the day with Mrs. Karl R. Peterson, a sister of the visiting ladies, in celebration of her birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Peteson and children and Mrs. J. F. Peterson of Fairfield were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan. They returned home Sunday night.

Martin Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, spent the week end with his parents in Thorsby.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Frank James of Clanton, Miss Turnquist and W. M. Parnell motored over to Sylacauga to attend the Shelby County Fair. They report a splendid time.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. George Trotter and parents of Clanton, also a sister, Mrs. Benziger, motored to Thorsby, where they visited Howard Brothers Carnation Greenhouses, and were invited by Fred Howard to visit his home, where he treated them with peaches fresh from the tree. They were astonished when they saw the tree loaded down with big nice juicy peaches and here it is past the middle of October. They said: "We have never seen anything like it." This is not the first time Fred has introduced a novelty in fruit growing.

Rev. E. W. Butler has gone to Washington, D. C., as a delegate to the National council of Congregational churches. He is one five trustees and one graduate of Thorsby Institute who are thus honored: Elmer Butler, McQuarrie, Keller, Dr. Jenkins, Miss Jenkins and Miss May Belle McJunkin.

Mrs. Martha B. Hunter, one-time house mother of Thorsby Institute, and now of California, is making a visit to her friends in and near Chicago. She writes that she will arrive in Thorsby next Saturday to spend a few days with her old friends here. Mrs. Hunter is a remarkable old lady in many ways. At an age when most women consider themselves unable to do much or travel anywhere she delights in trips across the country and not so long ago made an auto trip from Chicago to California. She will receive a warm welcome in Thorsby.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social Thursday October 22nd, at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lewis S. Howard.

On Thursday, October 29th at 2 p.m., Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association will hold a social and business meeting at the home of their new president, Mrs. J. H. Goddard, who urges everyone to come early as there is a lot of business needing attention.

Mr. Webb Parrish has bought the interest of Wm. H. Goodgame in the store of Herbert W. Peterson & Co., and has installed his wife, formerly Miss Leora Goodgame, as an assistant in the store, in the place of Mrs. Emmet Billingsley, nee Vercie Littleton, whose kindly and courteous service we shall all miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Henning and family have moved from the cottage near the water tower. They went to Baconton, Ga., near Albany, where Mr. Henning is in the employ of Miller Brothers, who had the contract for building the north half of the highway in Chilton County. The cottage will now be occupied by the owners.

Weak In Back and Sides

"Before the birth of my little girl," says Mrs. Lena Stancil, of R. F. D. 2, Matthews, Mo., "I was so weak in my back and sides I could not go about. I was too weak to stand up or do any work. I felt like my back was coming in two. I lost weight. I didn't eat anything much and was so restless I couldn't sleep nights. "My mother used to take

Thousands of weak, suffering women have taken Cardui, knowing that it had helped their mothers or their friends, and soon gained strength and got rid of their pains.

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS AT THE CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The revival meeting, with Dr. L. O. Dawson conducting the preaching, is in progress at the Clanton Baptist Church this week. The series of meetings was begun last Sunday when Dr. Dawson preached the sermon dedicating the new building of the Clanton church to the service of God's kingdom. It was a very forceful gospel message, and well suited to the beginning of the revival.

If we should be permitted to express an opinion of Dr. Dawson as a preacher, we would say that he is one of the greatest Bible interpreters we have ever listened to. He must indeed be one of the foremost Bible teachers of the Baptist denomination in the South.

His meeting is not one of the high pressure kind that usually develop under the preaching of the professional evangelist. His style and power of teaching seems well suited to the much needed revival of the true spirit of religious and christian conduct among members of the church.

The meeting will continue through next Sunday with services at 3:30 in the afternoon, and 7:30 at night.

The pastor, Dr. Ezell, and Dr. Dawson extend a hearty invitation to all readers of The Union-Banner to attend the services.

Mr. Ebb Walton of Columbiana was a visitor to town Friday.

Mr. D. O. Manning of Mulberry was among the visitors to town Saturday.

Alabama was represented at the National Dairy Show, Indianapolis, Indiana, October 10-17, by a dairy cattle judging team composed of Wilson Pierce, Mobile; George Higginbotham, Bessemer; and Joe Hardie, Selma, each being a dairy calf club boy. They took part in a dairy cattle judging contest in which calf club boys from many states participated.

These boys were accompanied to Indianapolis by L. T. Wells, extension dairy specialist, and T. A. Sims, state club leader. Before leaving the state they visited the Kilby Dairy Farm near Montgomery, Tuskegee Institute, and Auburn, where they were given intensive training in judging dairy cattle.

WHY IS IT--

PRATTVILLE TO HAVE BOOM

Our neighbor town, Prattville, the distinguished capital of Autauga County, is coming forth with a "boom.". The limits of the city are to be enlarged so as to reach a mile farther east and touch the new Birmingham-Montgomery Highway, now being built through Autauga County. A new area named "Pratt-mont Heights" is being developed, which lies alongside the new road.

We have thought all the while that the new highway should have been routed trough Prattville, but it was not done. Now we admire the spunk of Prattville in extending its borders to the highway.

Last week's issue of The Prattville Progress was a splendid effort on the part of Editor Doster in portraying the industrial development which is being planned for his city.

The Prattville Real Estate Company has been organized to push the development plans. Judge C. E. Thomas is president of the company. The vice-president is Mr. Guy Higgins, who for many years was a prominent business man of Clanton.

The Union-Banner hopes that the aims of those progressive citizens who have elected to make Prattville a bigger and better town may be blessed with much fruit.

The farmer who spends money for paint for his building is wise. Those dollars pay dividends for years to come.

Leaching is the biggest means of losing nitrogen and other basic fertilizers from the soil. This can be reduced by growing vetch and other winter cover crops.

The Entering Wedge Of Socialism

A bill to compel every automobile owner in California to carry public liability insurance under a state fund is proposed. It provides that when motorists apply for license plates they must also pay a fee now tentatively fixed at $4 to go to a state insurance fund. This fee would insure the motorist up to $5,000.

"The benefits of such an insurance bill would be manifold," says the author of the bill. "It would, first of all, be a humanitarian measure to assure financial aid to anyone injured in an automobile accident for which he is not responsible."

The main argument to secure votes for this measure will be its alleged humanitarian qualities, but at this point one strikes a snag as the measure provides that indemnity is not to be paid to an injured party if he is responsible for the accident.

Let us imagine a harrowing case of a workman with a wife and five children. In crossing the street he carelessly steps from behind one automobile in front of an oncoming machine. He is injured. A jury finds the automobile driver not to blame. Where does the compulsory insurance help either the workman or his family?

Such insurance would be ineffective in many instances, such as grade crossing accidents on railroads, accidents in which the owners of the cars carrying the insurance are injured, accidents to occupants of cars where neither driver is at fault, accidents where fault cannot be identified, accidents caused by cars used without authority of the owner or when operated by theives after a car has been stolen, and numerous other instances in which the accident is just as painful or injurious to the injured party or his family but for which the owner of the car is not responsible.

If the ultimate program is for the state to compensate every injured person regardless of the fact that the automobile owner is not to blame, such a measure would pave the way, because every injured person would be making claims upon the state fund and as its operation would necessarily be subject to political influences, it would be difficult to refuse claims.

Why force the state into such a complicated undertaking? It would be just as easy to require an applicant for an automobile license to present a properly issued public liability insurance policy from a recognized private insurance company as it would to issue him a state policy. If a compulsory law was in effect requiring all automobile owners to carry insurance, private companies could write that volume of business just as cheaply as the state, unless such wholesale insurance encouraged carelessness on the part of automobile drivers to a point where rates had to be increased —a condition which the state would face as certainly as privately owned companies.

State automobile insurance is merely one of numerous proposals constantly advanced to force the state into socialistic undertakings. If the state started writing automobile insurance, the argument would be immediately advanced that it go into the insurance business on a wholesale scale. Adjoining states would be urged to adopt similar measures. From insurance it would be easy to advocate the extension of state ownership to banking, transportation, public utilities or any other line of activity which suggested itself to the minds of political agitators or which would seem to appeal to the fancy of the voters.

BRANDON FIRED SUTTLES AND SCRUGGS

Another chapter has been written in the notorious record of Alabama's Highway Commission. Gov. Brandon has fired two members of the commission, Mr. Suttles and Mr. Scruggs. The break came over the unyielding opposition of the aforesaid members to the Governor's intentions of having Col. McCalla named as highway engineer to succeed the late lamented W. S. Keller.

In the place of Suttles and Scruggs, Gov. Brandon has appointed Boyd and Smith, both of Montgomery County, which fact of residence in the same county, it is argued, disqualifies them as members of the commission.

It looks like more tragedy for the highway department for such rows as this to come up. But Scruggs and Suttles are to be commended for sticking to what they thought was right, or opposing what they thought was wrong, even at the cost of their jobs.

It looks like Alabama can get anything out of its highway department except "a modern road connecting all the county seats in the State."

Oat Planting Season Nearing End

The oat planting season for this fall is nearing a close. Agricultural workers at Auburn say that the first half of October is the best planting date but that plantings made later in October and even early in November are advised where the work was not done earlier. Experiments show a decided advantage in favor of early planting.

With the feed crop this year far below farm needs the value of oats is being emphasized throughout the state. While there is danger of oats being killed by severe freezes, records at Auburn show that this happens only once in a great while, and that it should not cause farmers to hesitate about planting when the cost of planting an acre of oats is very small. If they succeed in resisting the winter weather fall planted oats will make, on good land, a bumper crop of feed late next spring when farmers will be needing feed to finish their crops.

For all of Alabama, except the extreme northern portion where winter turf oats are preferred, Fulghum and red rust-proof varieties, which include Appler, Culberson, and Bancroft, are recommended. The Fulghum outyields the red rust-proof varieties but, on the other hand, it is a little later; hence many farmers prefer the red rust-proof because it matures earlier, providing feed at an earlier date and also allowing more time to grow soybeans, cowpeas, or another crop succeeding the oats. The turf oat is preferred in extreme north Alabama because of its resistance to cold.

The open-furrow method of planting is preferred because it is an added protection against fall weather.

A Thing Not to Be Explained

It is narrated of two colored men that they set forth one night to borrow a hog. Not until nearly daylight did they succeed in borrowing one from the pigpen of a planter. Having slaughtered the prize they decided that it should be left in the cabin of one of them until the following night, when the other would come to claim his share.

During the day the present custodian, while immersing the carcass in a barrel of brine to prevent it from spoiling, decided that he needed all the meat for himself. Accordingly he removed it to a suitable hiding place and then, returning home, awaited the arrival of his partner in the enterprise of the night before.

About eight o'clock the second negro arrived, carrying an empty sack over his arm.

"Whar's de meat, Sam?" he asked, as he entered the cabin.

"In dat barrel of brine over yonder behind de back do'. Jes' go over and he'p you'se'f to yore sheer."

The caller rolled up his sleeves and immersed his arms in the brine.

"Tain't no meat here," he said, after a thorough search.

"I ain't s'prised one bit," said Sam. "Rats is gettin' so bad 'round yere I don't know whut I'm gwine do. Dey carries off ever'thing. I 'spects dey was eatin' dat po'k w'en I heerd 'em nibblin' today w'ile I was layin' down tryin' to sleep."

His friend stiffened suspiciously.

"How come dey could nibble a hole in de barrel, eat all de po'k an' still de brine don't run out?" he demanded.

Sam took a deep breath.

"Dat," he said, "is de mystery."

The Surest System Yet

When you hear a story from the man in the street and shortly thereafterward go to a vaudeville theater and hear a performer on the stage repeat it, you may know by this sign that it has undoubted merits. It is an evidence of distinction on the part of the story.

Here lately, a popular yarn of other days has been enjoying a theatrical revival. The story has to do with a man describing a poker game which he was invited to join while visiting in a strange town.

"The first hand that was dealt," he says, "I had threes. I opened the pot and one other man stayed. He drew one card. We bet back and forth for a while and finally he called. 'I've got three of a kind,' I said, and showed down my three nines. 'I've got a straight—ten high,' he says, and pitches his hand in the deck and reaches for the chips. 'Hold on,' I says, 'I didn't see what you had.' He looks at me sort of surprised and the fellow who's givin' the party speaks up and says to me: 'This is a gentleman's game. If a man wins a pot here we never ask him to show his hand. We just take his word for it that he holds the winning cards and we let it go at that. That's our rule.'"

"Did you keep on playing after that?" asks a bystander.

"Certainly I did," says the first speaker.

"And did you win?"

"Did I win?" Huh—the first pot was the only one I lost!"

"Don't Speak Till You're Spoken To"

Roy McCardell, the humorist, went abroad. On the way across he grew quite chummy with Louis Tracy, the English novelist, who was returning home after a visit to America.

One morning in the smoking-room when the voyage was almost ended, Tracy passed and bowed to McCardell. A serious-looking Englishman witnessed this exchange of greetings and, after thinking the thing over for a time, approached McCardell.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but you seem to know that gentleman who just passed. He and I are sharing the same stateroom, and this morning he got up first and by mistake put on my boots. He's wearing them now. Do you know him?"

"Yes," said McCardell. "That's Louis Tracy."

"Tracy, the novelist?" said the Englishman. "I admire his work immensely. I wonder if I might meet him!"

Long School Terms Hold Pupils Better

"Schools of 9-month terms are better attended than those providing 7-month terms. Attendance in consolidated schools is slightly better than in one-teacher schools," says a recent news buletin from the Department of Interior of the United States. The same report states that pupils with less than 130 days of schooling averaged one and one-half years below grade in reading and spelling ability. That is, they were one and one-half years behind in these subjects. Reports from city and county superintendents in the office of the State superintendent of education indicate that all our elementary schools, city and county, averaged only 130 days term in 1924, many having less than 100 days term, according to R. W. Cowart, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association.

It would be appalling to many of us could we see results of the measured ability of some of our school children, especially those in short term schools, in reading, spelling and arithmetic, etc. No doubt such tests would reveal many thousands of children below the average for their grade and age. Any casual observer visiting our schools, especially our rural schools will see great big, overgrown and over-aged boys and girls in the first grades of those schools. Youths who should be in high schools will be found stumbling along in the elementary grades.

These boys and girls are not getting an equal chance with their fellows in other schools. Their school terms are short, their buildings poorly constructed and equipped, many have never had the advantage of a trained and skilled teacher. Some, however, are indifferent, or their parents are.

Happily, these conditions are changing, though gradually. The building of consolidated schools goes on apace; the demand for trained teachers is increasing everywhere; the school term is slowly lengthening on the whole; increasingly larger numbers are being given advantages of higher education. The great handicap is the lack of money to do the job right. It is hoped that those who will be chosen as the representatives of the people will see the great educational need of this State and find equitable sources of revenue that will be adequate to provide the best school system that this State can afford to the end that the boys and girls of this State may be guaranteed a reasonably equal opportunity for an education with other boys and girls of this country.

Build Roadways For Permanence

Just at this time, when the State of Alabama is desirous, through the State Highway Department, to build more and better roads all over the State, but strongly handicapped because of insufficient funds to meet the demands from the several counties (67 in number), each clamoring vociferously for assistance, there should be much care and thought given by the powers that be, when undertaking a roadway project or the resurfacing of an already substantial highway. The News, desirous of being "fair" to the taxpaying public of not only Mobile but the other sixty-six counties of Alabama, has sought information and the following data regarding "upkeep or maintenance," a most important item in roadway projects, has been carefully gathered and turned in by one who has made a thorough and searching study of the problem. It is of length, but worthy of perusal by those who favor roadways and highways in every direction.

Build For Permanence.

"Build for Permanence" is a slogan, which, when applied to roads, has the ring of efficiency about it that catches the public eye. And it is so intended by the interests that keep it, with variations, before the public in advertisements, editoriols, and articles. Most of this propaganda is put out by certain interests to further the exclusive use of their products for road building.

Another bit of sophristry emanating from the same source is that "it is better to build one mile of permanent road than three of cheap materials requiring constant expense for upkeep." This is intended as a "self-evident truth." The inference to be drawn is that the concrete road is the permanent road, and that it requires no expense for maintenance. If this were true, which it is not, highway officials would not be justified in building expensive roads except where the traffic requires. If one will trace to their source some of these "highway proverbs" it will usually be found that the wise "Solomon" is plugging for a road in which he is personally interested. It may be a road past his own gate or through his neighborhood, or his interest may be due to some connection quite as personal, though not so apparent.

"Permanent," as defined in Webster's Dictionary, means "to remain to the end." Neither concrete nor any other road material meets this requirement. The concrete experts, themselves, have changed the standard specifications seven times in a few years. Concrete roads built a few years ago, under standard specifications, have proven totally inadequate for traffic that later developed.

Movement In Its Infancy.

The present nation-wide movement for good roads is in its infancy. Some of the State Highway Departments are scarcely a dozen years old. State highway departments and the federal road bureau are constantly experimenting and testing road materials and methods of construction, seeking the ideal road that can be built and maintained at the least cost.

Who is so wise that he can say what the next few years will bring forth in road construction? It would be shortsighted, indeed, for any highway department to adopt exclusively a type of highest cost road when roads suitable for present or probable traffic can be built and maintained with an actual saving of public funds.

There is a feature in road costs that is seldom mentioned in connection with maintenance—interest on original cost. This is a permanent overhead that should be included with upkeep in figuring annual costs. Business concerns, merchants, manufacturers and property owners include interest on investment as part of expense in figuring profits and it should be in reckoning costs of road maintenance.

For instance, the average sand-clay road costs around $6,000 per mile; gravel about $14,000, and concrete approximately $35,000. Interest on these at the low rate of 4¼%, rate carried by Alabama highway bonds, is respectively $225, $595, $1,487.50. These are fixed "overhead" against every mile, whether traveled or not. The cost of maintenance should be added to these to arrive at actual cost of each class of road.

Some authorities hold that a gravel road is unfit for traffic of over 100 cars per day, yet a number of states are maintaining gravel roads in good condition under traffic of 700 to 2500 cars per day. Michigan and Wisconsin gravel roads are kept in good condition for comfortable auto travel under traffic ranging from 1700 to 3000 cars per day, and at a cost of $300 per mile per year. Each of these states has an annual road income four times that of Alabama.

Upkeep Costs.

The average cost of upkeep of roads in Alabama is, for sand clay, $225; gravel, $250; and concrete, over $300 per mile per year. The following table will make this matter more clear:

Average cost per mile:
Sand Clay	Gravel	Gravel
$6,000.00	$14,000.00	$35,000.00
Annual interest at 4¼%:
Sand Clay	Gravel	Gravel
255.00	595.00	1,487.50
Average maintenance:
Sand Clay	Gravel	Gravel
225.00	250.00	300.00
Total average annual cost:
Sand Clay	Gravel	Gravel
480.00	845.00	1,787.50

It will be seen that for the cost of one mile of concrete road, two and a half miles of gravel can be built, and the cost of maintenance, interest included, of concrete, is double that of gravel. This doth not mean that no concrete roads should be built, but that they should be built only where the volume of traffic fully justifies this heavy additional cost.

Have Permanent Foundations.

The Alabama Highway Department has for several years been building roads under the "stage construction" system. Briefly this means that road foundation, grading and drainage, are built for permanence, suitable to carry any type of surface likely to be required. These foundations are maintained with the same care as finished roads, and for ordinary traffic in many communities are ample until the State can surface them. The character of surface material is determined by the character and volume of traffic. The sand clay road, as many of these foundations are known, is recognized as a substantial road for moderate traffic and can be maintained at moderate cost. Hundreds of miles of such roads have been built with Federal aid in many states with far more road revenue than Alabama has.

California enjoys an enviable reputation among the states for its roads and the efficiency of its highway department, yet, though California has road revenue five times that of Alabama, that state has recently adopted the stage construction, and this after a thorough investigation by a special committee appointed by the governor.

Commission Doing Its Best.

Alabama's state-built roads compare favorably with those of any other state, as do their costs and the expense of the highway department. The Alabama Highway Commission is building good roads of types suitable for the traffic conditions in the communities served. It is striving to build as many miles and to serve as many communities as possible with the funds available. The total results cannot in fairness be compared with states having revenue from three to five times that of this state. The commission is not going to be stampeded into waste and extravagance by paid propaganda nor by uninformed criticism.

It takes money to build roads. The present bond issue will carry on the work of the highway department thru 1926 and into 1927. Unless more funds are forthcoming before that time, the work must stop, and one of the best equipped highway departments in the country will disintegrate. Trained road men are in demand in other states and in other countries. If work stops for only a year, it will take years to get together another efficient force of workers. If you want road building to continue in Alabama, talk and work for bonds for keeping it going ahead.—Mobile News.

WHY NOT PUNISH FIRE OFFENDERS?

Traffic departments of cities and states can pass traffic regulation laws and ordinances until they are black in the face in an effort to curb automobile accidents, but so long as they fail to do the one most vital thing to protect the traveling public, namely, require of a driver an actual test as to his competency to drive a machine, accidents will continue to increase.

And so it is with fire prevention work. A city or state will talk fire prevention. It will spend thousands and tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars buying fire fighting equipment, maintaining fire departments and state insurance departments. But the one thing which could be done at theast expense to prevent fires, is entirely overlooked, namely, laws and ordinances which prohibit the accumulation of rubbish piles and fire hazards of a known character. If such hazards accumulate and are permitted to remain and cause loss, why not fine the owner just the same as an automobile driver is fined for breaking traffic laws?

If half the energy was expended by fire prevention officials that is expended by traic officers, the saving in life and property to the American public would be many times as great.

Hunters Are Urged To Save The Woods

With the autumn hunting season getting under way in the Northeast and in the South, the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, issues an appeal to all sportsmen to guard against forest fires.

Ordinarily, say forestry officials, a great number of devastating forest fires are caused each fall by hunters. These fires not only destroy valuable timber but also the better forms of game animals, and thereby defeat the plans of the hunters themselves.

Those whose duty it is to guard forest lands from fire are usually apprehensive of the fall hunting season. From bitter experience these men have learned that hunters are frequently careless with matches, smoking tobacco, and camp fires. A great many sportsmen's associations have for years taken measures to prevent this carelessness by their members. Other clubs and organizations are following suit.

In fact, the time is rapidly approaching when hunters everywhere will seek the woods with full knowledge of forest fire conditions, and these hunters will be of invaluable assistance in protecting the country's forests rather than being the agencies through which so many fires are started. The Federal Government employs its rangers, guards and lookouts to protect the National Forests. Most states likewise have fire wardens and rangers with police powers. Huters should take warning and be the first to protect the woods. They should erase from the records any reference to forest fires traceable to hunters.

The citizens of no community want its beautiful autumn landscape blotted out with smoke from burning woodlands.

Fine Machines Used To Make Automobiles

The marvels of modern automotive precision and production methods are depicted in a series of 42 enlarged photographs now being shown to the public at the salesrooms of all American and Canadian Chevrolet dealers.

The photographic series covers the same interesting operations in the manufacture of Chevrolet cars which would be shown a visitor at the factories.

One of the most spectacular pictures shows a huge drop forge hammer weighing 140,000 pounds. Hammers of this type are used to make the Chevrolet crankshaft. The falling weight is a three-ton block of steel which is lifted by steam. It is so responsive to the touch of the skilled operators that they are able to place a watch on the bottom die block and strike it with the hammer so delicately that the crystal remains unbroken. Each hammer will forge 880 crankshafts during a 10-hour day.

Other striking features of the exhibit are pictures of a monster machine which uses 300,000 amperes of electricity to weld the Chevrolet one-piece banjo-type rear axle housing, a machine which drills 32 holes simultaneously in the bottom of the Chevrolet cylinder block; a rotary milling machine which finishes at one operation the lower sides of six cylinder blocks, and a 62-ton press which forms a Chevrolet fender at one stroke.

The individual grinding of valves, the delicate balancing of pistons so that every piston in each motor weighs the same, and many interesting micrometric inspections also are illustrated in the remarkable exhibit.

Several young people from this vicinity have enrolled at the Alverson Business College, of Birmingham. This school is today one of the largest business colleges in the State of Alabama, and probably the best equipped school in the South.

Private Ownership of the Railroads

As a result of careful economies and improved efficiency—brought about by trained railroad men—the steam carriers of the United States have, since their return to their owners at the termination of Federal control on March 1, 1920, notwithstanding an increase of 46% in taxes, reduced their operating expenses by a total of more than one and a third billion dollars.

Such expenses, including taxes, for the year 1920 were nearly six billion dollars; whereas in 1924, notwithstanding the movement of approximately 7½% more carloads of traffic, they were reduced to four and a half billion dollars, or a reduction in four years of practically 20%—demonstrating conclusively the wisdom of railroads being operated by trained railroad men.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad reduced its operating expenses in 1924, as compared with 1920, $14,250,000. This large reduction was passed on to the public in the form of a fifteen-million dollar saving in freight costs, and was effected notwithstanding the actual increase in the amount of traffic, amounting to approximately 20%.

ABOUT THE CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 21, 1925.
Editor Union-Banner:

It has come to our knowledge that reports are being circulated that the Central Alabama Hospital had been closed or would be closed. In order that the public may be informed as to the true situation and to correct this false rumor, permit us to make the following statement through your paper:

This hospital is a joint stock company, owned and operated by citizens of Chilton County. It is governed and managed by officers selected by these stockholders.

On August 31, 1925, a meeting of the stockholders was held and the following selected as officers: J. Q. Wade, President and Chairman of the Board of Directors; H. S. Shaw, Vice-President; W. M. Wyatt, Secretary; G. C. Armstrong, Treasurer; M. A. Gore, J. B. Downs, V. J. Gragg and Grady Reynolds, Members Board of Directors. The entire management and control of the hospital is in the President as Chairman of the Board of Directors and the Directors. This Board of Directors is responsible for its operation, whether successful or not.

The hospital is in active charge of Dr. T. J. Marcus as Business Manager and a sufficient number of nurses.

The hospital as such is not concerned with the operations and medical treatment of any patients. It is not and will not be operated for the benefit or advantage of any one physician or surgeon. All physicians and surgeons have equal rights and privileges and should be accorded the same treatment by the persons in active charge. An office and consultation room are maintained there for the equal use and benefit of the doctors with patients there.

Since the completion of the hospital we are informed that more than one thousand operations have been performed and at no time has it been free of patients and it is thereby demonstrated that it is a necessity.

Respectfully,
J. Q. WADE,

MR. FARLEY WRITES ABOUT TELEPHONE PROBLEMS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a few lines in your paper to say something about the telephone system to the people.

I noticed in The Union-Banner that there had been a meeting of the directors of the Peoples Telephone Company and that there is a call for the stockholders to meet in Clanton on December 14th to consider the proposition of the Bell Telephone System in connection with our present system.

I am wondering if you are interested in your telephone. If you are, you will make every effort to be present. I think every one should come to this meeting, and come with the intention of making a better telephone system for the rural people. We should make it a real business meeting.

Now, we have no objection to the Bell system, but we do want something that will accomodate everybody, and to do away with our system would be to do away with the telephone entirely for the common people.

Don't you think it would be better to increase our fee just a little and have funds to hire a line man to keep up the lines in town and even outside the corporate limits if necessary, and make it a real business proposition, rather than to drop our good system which we now have and only a few of our phone holders be able to maintain their telephone service by connecting with this high priced system of the Bell people.

As it is, we have a splendid system and with only a little more fee we could make it an all-around system and all of us could have the best of service. We can hardly do without our telephones.

Again, let me say, everybody come and let's make this important matter a subject of business consideration.—J. B. Farley.

If You Think You're Handicapped -- Look Here!

MANY folks in this life go about bewailing imaginary handicaps as a detriment to their progress. Yet they don't know how fortunate they are that theirs are not such extreme physical setbacks as those of the smiling young man pictured in the foreground above.

He is Andrew Crumshaw, a youthful newsstand owner of Alliance, Ohio. And mind you, despite the fact that he was born minus both legs and one arm, he smiles at his misfortune. Outside of his newsstand activities, he is finding the time to indulge in his favorite hobby—automobile racing.

He has rigged up a racing car with special adjustments which permit his manipulation of it. With that car and a mechanic who rides with him, he has entered and made quite a good showing in automobile races in and about his home town. Never once has he met with a mishap and to-day enjoys his thrilling pastime more than ever.

So if you feel you haven't a chance in life—just think that over!

Shortly after the ceremony they left for Clanton, where they will spend a few days, then they will go to Prattville to live, where Mr. Carter is employed.

Their many friends wish them a long, happy life.

A single head of oats selected in 1906 by a plant breeder at the Iowa Experiment Station was multiplied until slightly more than a million acres were planted in this new variety in 1919. It was seven years after the head was selected before the variety was distributed to Iowa farmers. It is the Albion variety, which increases the yield at least one to two bushels per acre.

MRS. ANNIE HONEYCUTT

Died in an infirmary in Birmingham on October 14th, Mrs. Annie Honeycutt. Her death was due to a severe burn, sustained a few days ago. She was 64 years old.

Mrs. Honeycutt was a noble lady. She was born and raised in west Chilton, a few miles northeast of Randolph; was married to J. M. Honeycutt in 1886. She professed salvation in September, 1882.

She leaves several children in Birmingham, two brothers and many relatives and friends in west Chilton to mourn her loss. The funeral was conducted by Rev. R. M. Honeycutt. The floral offerings were profuse, and of wondrous beauty. The body was laid to rest in Jemison cemetery.

She has crossed the bar. She sweetly sleeps, awaiting the resurrection call to life. Her voice will be heard no more around the old homestead of her childhood days. Her friends will miss her so much. But she will live again. The redemption price has been paid, and her return is sure. The new Heaven and new earth will exercise their authority over this planet and there will be no more death.

Lowndes Family Feud Again Proves Fatal

Hayneville, Ala., Oct. 20.—For the third time Lowndes County grand jury will be called upon today to investigate a climax in the Haynes-Rives feud which came Monday with the killing of Russell Haynes, the last of the line of well known planters, it was announced by Solicitor Calvin Poole, of the circuit court.

Green Rives, Jr., and Robert Rives, his brother, are charged with the crime.

Haynes was shot down shortly after noon Monday in the corridors of the Lowndes county court house, where he had been summoned to stand trial for the third time on charges of having slain Hugh Rives, brother of the accused men now in jail. He was shot three times in the breast and once through the leg.

In a statement to county officials, who heard the shots and reached the scene almost immediately, Haynes accused the Rives brothers of the shooting, saying that they had struck him over the head in a struggle before firing the fatal shots. His head bore a jagged wound in evidence of the truth of his statement.

Open rupture between the two families, which is said to have been caused indirectly by bad feeling that had existed many years and directly by trouble over a negro tenant, took place about two years ago. In a meeting between Hugh Rives and Russell and Eaton Haynes, Eaton Haynes received serious wounds and Rives was killed. Russell Haynes was charged with the killing, but his first two trials resulted in a jury deadlock.

About eight months after Eaton Haynes had recovered from his hurts, he was called from his home in the night and shot to death. Green Rives, Sr., Green Rives, Jr., and Gordon Rives, another son of the family were arrested on suspicion but were released when the grand jury failed to indict them.

Yesterday's killing brought the total number of deaths caused by the feud to three, two Haynes having been killed and one Rives.

This town was named for the Haynes family, one of the first in the district.

J. S. Nealey is said to have been the only witness to the shooting, which occurred shortly before court adjourned for the day. According to reports here, Haynes was armed when he fell. The Rives brothers also had pistols when arrested and placed in the county jail. They claim that Haynes pulled his pistol first. However, he never fired, as there were no empty chambers found when the gun was examined.

Judge A. E. Gamble organized the grand jury yesterday for the regular fall term of court. The criminal docket will begin next week and in event the Rives brothers are indicted, they will probably be given a hearing during the fall session.

Cotton is Higher on Report of Big Frost

New York, Oct. 19.—The cotton market was higher today on reports of killing frosts in the northwestern part of the belt, and continued large exports. After selling up to 21.72 at the start, December eased off to 21.50 under hedging or liquidation, but recovered a good part of the loss, closing at 21.68. The general market closed steady, 11 to 26 points net higher.

The opening was firm 11 to 19 points higher on reports of light to heavy frosts with killing temperatures in Oklahoma, northwest Texas and Arkansas. The initial buying was supplied by southern hedging and Wall Street selling. The latter became more active during the forenoon as if influenced by reports of an unsettled tone in the stock market, and prices worked off to 20.80 for January, making net declines of 3 to 5 points on December and later deliveries.

October held relatively steady, although it was reported a few thousand bales of cotton were likely to reach here in time for delivery next month and the general market firmed up in the late trading on reports of storm or frost damage to the crop and covering by October shorts. October made a new high for the day, selling at 21.80 in late trading and closed 11 points over December, compared with a discount of 1 point at the close Saturday.

Trading was comparatively quiet during midday, but became more active toward the close, upon unfavorable crop reports from the southwest, which seemed to promote uncertainty as to whether next Monday's government report would fully meet recently increased estimates of the yield. There were rumors that a private authority estimated ginning to October 18 at only 9,303,000 bales. It was scarcely expected that the present cold wave would show in the approaching government crop figures, but traders thought it likely to find a reflection in Wednesday's weekly report of the weather bureau. Exports today, 39,879, making 1,840,964 so far this season. Port receipts, 68,042; United States Ports, stocks, 1,117,382.

The rapidly mounting toll from traffic accidents has brought home to the public the necessity of being prepared to render prompt assistance while awaiting the doctor. During the past year 356 chapters of the American Red Cross were instructing classes in First Aid, and in the same period certificates were issued to 26,601 persons qualified by Red Cross experts.

Many cities throughout the United States are showing interest in securing first aid instruction for their police and fire department personnel, and through the work of local chapters, practical results have been obtained in such cities as Washington, D. C.; Toledo, O.; Boston, Mass.; South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind.; Port Arthur, Texas, and other communities. In co-operation with the State authorities, intensive training in first aid and rescue methods has been given to State police and constabulary members at four State training schools.

Instruction in these subjects in public and private schools, colleges and universities has increased during the year. Attention has been given to training teachers at institutes and summer schools.

The Red Cross first aid railroad car has been in continuous operation throughout the year. It covered 10,340 miles, visiting 127 cities, where 1,200 meetings were conducted by the surgeons, with a total of 144,127 people.

Industries particularly have availed themselves of the instruction afforded by the Red Cross. The Western Electric Company, for example, reports a reduction of the accident rate per 1,000 employees

Gypsy Robbers Caught In Selma

Selma, Ala., Oct. 22.—Between 40 and 50 Gypsies, arrested at Selma Thursday afternoon charged with a chain of sensational daylight robberies which spread terror in at least four Alabama cities Thursday and kept police in various parts of the state busy all day, were turned over to Bibb county authorities early tonight.

Sweeping from town to town in high-powered automobiles, the bandits robbed banks at Centreville and Maplesville and stores at Randolph and West Blocton. The tribe, which included a number of women and children, were finally halted at Selma, and the bulk of the loot recovered.

The pillaging began in Centreville, when five women of the tribe took $1,000 from the vault of the Bibb county bank while other members of the gang entertained persons outside the bank with sleight-or-hand tricks.

Leaving Centreville before the bank robbery became known, the motorcade sped to Randolph, 15 miles distant, where several of the Gypsies alighted and robbed a store of merchandise valued at several hundred dollars.

Next, descending upon Maplesville, members of the gang held up officials of the Bank of Maplesville and rifled the cash drawer of several hundred dollars. They were off again before police could be summoned.

While sheriffs and police chiefs in several cities were hot on their trail, the bandits rushed into West Blocton and made two more daring hauls. This time they looted two stores of foodstuffs and supplies.

The tribe was traveling in eight cars when leaving West Blocton. If there were other robberies before the gang reached Selma, no reports had been made up to midnight Thursday.

Selma police had been notified to watch for the bandits, and when the motorcade drew up in the business district all members of the tribe were placed under arrest. Only five cars went to Selma, and authorities were searching over a wide area last night for the occupants of the three remaining cars.

Half of the cars were Cadillacs. The rest were Packards. All of the cars were practically new.

The Gypsies moved into a strip of woods near Centreville a week ago and pitched camp. The women told fortunes while the men swapped horses. There was no trouble until 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when five of the women walked into the Bibb County Bank and Trust Company.

Two of them started toward the vault and were ordered away. On the outside several members of the tribe were engaging the attention of the people on the street. John T. Kennedy, president of the bank, and Josiah Kennedy, cashier, paid no more attention to the women and went about their work of balancing the books for the day.

After lingering for an hour, the women left the bank, and shortly afterward the entire tribe hurried out of town. At 4 p. m., the bankers discovered they were $1,000 short.

Details of the bandits' operations in the other cities is meager. Descriptions of the gang were telegraphed all over the state, and upon the arrest of one wing of the tribe in Selma, Bibb county authorities started there to take them in custody. Bibb county authorities probably will hold all members of the party until a complete check-up of their operations over the state is made.

The Gypsies told Centreville people they were Indians. Officials of that city believe they carefully planned the bank robbery and that they sent members of the tribe to other towns in order to get the "lay of the land."

None of the Gypsies would talk when jailed in Selma. It is believed that officials of the Centreville bank will have little difficulty in identifying the five women who looted their vault.

Victims of the gang in the other cities will go to Centreville at once to identify the bandits who robbed them.

We notice in last Saturday's Birmingham News a picture of the exhibit of farm products from Chilton County which won second prize at the fair in Birmingham last week. This splendid exhibit was prepared by Mrs. Ed Bruce.

Mrs. Bruce has taken prizes at many state fairs heretofore with her Chilton County exhibits. She is an enthusiast on subjects of farm homes and farm products. Her efforts and her successes in presenting the accomplishments of her home county to the world is indeed commendable. Many of us have not done as much as Mrs. Bruce in this respect, we are sorry to say.

Friends Pulling Hard For Their Favorites

The vote-getting ability of the active workers in the Union-Banner's big Circulation and Trade Building Campaign showed a remarkable "burst of speed" at the close of the week just ended, the line up revealing a number of contenders for the prizes, who will have to be reckoned with later on.

The leaders in last week's runnings are slightly changed. Miss Alpha Cagle leads this week with Mrs. Kin Vinson next and Miss Alcia Lowery now holds third place. Considering the zest and enthusiasm and good work done by such a large number of ambitious girls, no particular ones are really entitled to "the honors" but all of them. There is honor enough to go around.

The campaign will take on larger proportions from now on as it will roll up like a snowball, gathering both size and momentum as it moves along.

The workers will find that work is easier now that they have settled down into a more even stride and as their friends see their efforts and their success are induced to give their support and assistance.

The valuable prizes—the new Ford equipped with balloon tires and full of gas, and the four lovely diamond rings and cash prizes make up an array of offerings that certainly are worthy of the hard earnest efforts of any girl or young woman who is ambitious to do something that is worth while.

Not only every week in the short drive for merchant votes but every single day must be made to tell in results. "Keeping everlastingly at it" is the only secret to success in any undertaking.

The campaign has not as yet gotten far enough along to place even the hindermost candidate at any very great disadvantage, for some hard, steady licks put in during the coming week in getting subscriptions and gathering up the merchant vote coupons would swing the low ones up towards the top.

Remember, everyone, that your vote standing may be piled up both by subscriptions and by merchant votes, and also you should keep in mind that you may be in the lead next week if you try hard enough.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt

FRIENDSHIP WILL CONTINUE SERVICES ON FOURTH SUNDAY

Since Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby accepted the pastorate at Friendship Church near Clanton, it was thought that probably the meeting day at that church would have to be changed from the fourth to some other Sunday, but through the courtesy of Enon Church in Shelby County, Rev. Lowery has been released from that church on the fourth Sunday. So there will be no change in the regular meeting days at Friendship, but the fourth Sunday will be retained. It is very kind of the good people of Enon to make this change in order to accomodate the Friendship people. The fourth Sunday is much better for Friendship inasmuch as there are preaching days at other churches near it every other Sunday in the month. The singing society will also retain the fourth Sunday afternoon as their meeting days.

Last Sunday's services at Friendship will long be remembered. Sunday school was held as usual followed by preaching at 11 o'clock by Rev. W. W. Robinson. This was a kind of farewell sermon by Rev. Robinson, and it was a Gospel message from start to finish. Quite a crowd was out to hear him, in spite of the bad weather.

The singing society met Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and had a fine singing. A number of visiting singers were present, and all came there to sing and enjoy the singing, which proved to be very good. Directors were T. G. Wyatt, Dewey Huett, I. D. Huett, Ammie Boswell, S. V. Miller, and Archie Devaughn. Three quartets were sung under the leadership of Mr. Jesse Baker.

At night a full house was present and very attentively listened to Rev. M. J. Parrish, who preached a very interesting and appropriate sermon for the ordination service which he and Rev. Robinson conducted afterward. In this service H. V. Honeycutt and T. E. Wyatt were ordained as deacons of the church and Mrs. Honeycutt as deaconess. Bro. Parrish preached a splendid ordination sermon in which he outlined very fully and forcibly the duties and responsibilities which would rest upon the shoulders of the new church officers. Some splendid advice was given them by this good old man of God who is ripened with old age and has had a long and successful experience in the work of preaching the Gospel and presiding over the several different Baptist churches in this part of the country. His experience has made him thoroughly capable of advising and admonishing those who are younger than himself and less experienced in handling the various difficulties which are continually confronting the churches of our day.

At the close of the service all the members of the church present came around and shook hands with Bro. Robinson and thereby expressed to him their appreciation for the services he had rendered for the past two years which he has been pastor and bade him godspeed in his noble work of preaching the word of God.

The Leader Begins Big Sale Friday

Friday of this week The Leader begins a big sale which Mr. Lande says he intends to make the greatest merchandising event of the fall and winter season in Clanton. He has advertised the event very widely and urges all of his friends to come in and take advantage of his splendid offerings. Those who come first will get the biggest bargains for the least money. Don't forget it starts tomorrow, Friday, October 30th.

Texas Republicans Have New Hopes

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 23.—Rumblings of dissatisfaction in the democratic ranks in the state have given Texas republicans new life and that party, for so many years dormant in state politics plans to stake a hot campaign to elect a governor in 1926.

The republican state executive committee here yesterday decided to hold an informal convention next spring to recommend candidates for the first statewide republican primary in Texas.

No secret was made by leaders of their intention to capitalize the present unrest in state politics over charges of irregularities in the state highway department under the administration of the state's first woman chief executive, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

The victory will be effected, it was intomated, with the aid of democrnts who are expected to rebuke past and present "conditions" by forsaking party lines and vote for "the man." And the adherents plan to enter a gubernational candidate whi will draw votes from both parties.

Speakers including R. B. Creager, Brownsville, national committeeman, asserted affairs now are in a "disgraceful condition." Two full state tickets of the state, politically, they agreed.

Preceding the convention next spring, the republicans will hold a missionary and educational campaign to gain new converts and revive the old ones. Literature will be distributed to tutor the votes in the "intricacies of the Terrell primary system," and there are plans for a newspaper to harbinger the wakening.

Strong bids will be made for the feminine vote, said Mrs. Florence T. Griswold, of San Antonio, national committeewoman.

Republican participation in Texas usually has been a matter of form, but last year more counties went republican than ever did before.

MILT TOLBERT HAVING BIG CROWDS AT SHOW NOW

The Milt Tolbert show which is performing in the tent in Clanton every night this week is being greeted with good crowds at every performance. The programs which the Tolbert players are putting on have proven to be thoroughly entertaining as well as clean and educational. The performers are all nice people and they are not to be aligned with the regular drift of road shows which people have to put up with. The most refined can listen to their entire programs without the least humiliation.

According to their custom, they put on their feature play Friday night, which this time is "The Unloved Wife." They close Saturday night with that most beloved story by Augusta Evans Wilson, "St. Elmo." Everybody who has read "St. Elmo," loves the story, and now they will be favored with a great treat to see it played on the stage by Milt Tolbert's theatrical artists.

LAND FOR SALE—40 acres, 2 miles northeast of Clanton on public road 2 acres in cultivation, 10 acres in pasture, 10 acres in woodland, all under fence; plenty of good water, good buildings; school truck passes door. For further information apply at The Union-Banner office. 10-29-3d

17 Killed, 30 Injured In Storm

Troy, Ala., Oct. 26.—Reports summarized here by means of communication over crippled wires indicate that Sunday's tornado, which assumed cyclonic aspects, took a toll of 17 lives, brought injury to at least 30 others and property loss estimated at $250,000. Barbour, Pike and Crenshaw counties were hard hit in spots.

The injured list is not as heavy as was at first feared. Reports indicated that 13 persons were injured in Crenshaw county, 11 in Pike and 6 in Barbour. These persons are expected to recover, with few exceptions.

The little farming community of Goodhope, Pike county, was in the center of the disturbance, five persons being killed and eight injured there. Of these, four of the dead and four injured were members of the Knight family.

Bullard's Cross Roads, Crenshaw county, suffered heavily, 13 persons being injured. The home of C. J. Hodges, which sheltered several persons, was twisted from its foundation. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Tom Dobbs suffered a broken arm.

The tornado seems to have had its origin in Crenshaw county, where it swept down with tremendous force, tearing its way across the breadth of Pike county and on eastward into Barbour where it appears to have spent its force.

Near Luverne, county seat of Crenshaw, two of the dead were aged, and one was past 100 years of age.

The death list could not be completed as to names owing to the widely scattered districts, some of them remote from telephone and telegraph communications, and the general impairment to wires by the tornado.

In addition to the two dead in Crenshaw county there were eight dead in Pike county and seven in Barbour, of the eight who lost their lives in Pike four were children of the same family, while their father and mother were seriously injured and are not expected to live. Two other persons of the same family name, Knight, were also injured.

In Barbour county six negroes were killed at Comer and Spring Hill. Their names have not been learned.

The overseer's home on the plantation of former Gov. B. B. Comer was blown away. The Comer pecan orchard, a vast acreage, is a complete wreck, according to information reaching here.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Walter Porter, who was operated on for appendicitis last week is rapidly improving and will be able to return home in a few days.

Mrs. G. C. Polk, who underwent an operation on last Monday is doing nicely and will be out soon.

Mr. Herman Eubanks left the hospital last Sunday after being here several days from an operation for ruptured appendix.

Mr. James Terry, age 83, Randolph Route 1, is a patient in the hospital. His condition is gradually improving.

Mr. W. E. Smith returned to his home last week after one week's treatment for infection of the nose.

See our new line of Ladies Coats for winter. They are big values at the prices which we have put on them. J. R. Broadhead & Son, Clanton.

Pageant To Be Given By W. M. S.

A pageant, "They That Are With Us," written by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, will be presented at the Baptist church Monday afternoon, November 2, at 3:15 o'clock.

All members of the W. M. S. are especially urged to be present as new circles for the year are to be drawn.

The public is cordially invited.

Annual W. M. U. Meeting.

The annual meeting of the W. M. U. of Unity Association was held at Verbena Baptist church Wednesday, October 21.

The superintendent, Mrs. G. C. Harris, called the meeting to order. "Revive Us Again" was sung, followed by repeating the watchword, "Go Ye, into all the world and ye shall be made witnesses."

Mrs. P. H. Connell led a splendid devotional.

A most cordial welcome was extended the visitors by Mrs. J. S. Hubbard and responded to by Mrs. Lester Gilbert.

Splendid reports were made from all societies of the Association.

The annual reports of the associational officers were read and showed an increase in the W. M. U. work. It was with pride that the superintendent reported all points reached on the Standard of Excellence.

Dr. S. J. Ezell spoke very forcefully on the cooperative program for 1926.

At this hour it was a great privilege to hear Dr. L. O. Dawson's address on "Cooperating in Evangelistic Plans of the State."

Dismissed with prayer by Rev. McPheeters.

A bountiful lunch was served by the Verbena ladies and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The afternoon session was opened with a song. A most beautiful devotional was conducted by Mrs. C. N Parnell of Maplesville, and following with singing "Jesus Paid It All." Prayer by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

The banners were awarded: Mileage, Jones W. M. S.; Ateendance, Samaria W. M. S.; A-1 Society, Clanton, Billingsley and Marbury.

A plea for the "Old Veterans of the Cross" was made by Mrs. J. F. Armstrong. Our own Miss Addie Cox, returned missionary from China brought us a wonderful message that was so much on her heart.

Sketches from Mrs. James' address were given by Mrs. V. J. Cox of Jones.

With a prayer, one of the most spiritual and best attended meetings of the Association came to a close.

The following officers were elected for the year: Superintendent, Mrs. G. C. Harris; Young People's Leader, Mrs. J. C. Hughes; Secretary, Mrs. J. Lee Smith; Personal Service Chairman, Mrs. W. C. Gives Advice to Expectant Mothers

"I ADVISE all expectant mothers to use Mother's Friend." Writes Mrs. Wesley Miller, Hudson, Mich. "I have had nine children. With my first three I suffered for 24 hours. Beginning with the fourth I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 15 minutes. Since then I have had five and was only sick about 10 minutes with each."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician and has been a positive blessing to thousands of expectant mothers for over three generations. Plain oils only penetrate the skin. But the highly refined oils and other ingredients in Mother's Friend make it penetrate through the skin to the muscles and ligaments; making them soft and pliable, thus aiding the tissues to relax and adjust themselves to the changes during motherhood.

The mothers who praise Mother's Friend the most are those who did not use it with their first baby but through its use with the second, were able to realize its almost unbelievable results.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 34, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

MILLIONS OF SLEEPING DOLLARS

More than $450,000,000 in gold, silver and paper money, about 10 per cent of the entire amount of currency listed as in circulation, is tucked away in the United States in various forms of hoarding according to the Treasury Department. Genuine misers in this country number only about 8,000, but they have some $44,000,000 "saved" somewhere outside of banks. Our greatest haorders are foreign residents who have more than $250,000,000 in idle money. Farmers, especially in the more remote districts, are also addicted to hoarding. They keep about $125,000,000 out of circulation. Many people hold money in cash for comparatively long periods to take care of emergencies Money in this form of hoarding amounts to more than $37,000,000. Of the total amount kept out of circulation in these various ways about $225,000,000, is in gold, more than $62,000,000 is in silver and small coins and approximately $135,000,000 is in paper money.

Hoarding is the lowest form of saving. Money accumulated in this way represents sleeping dollars that are useless to their owner and to the community. Idle dollars give nothing out, what is more detrimental to success, they bring nothing in. There is little excuse for keeping money idle today. Deposited in a savings bank, or invested in life insurance or in the best grade stocks, bonds and mortgages, these hoarded dollars would become working dollars, earning a fair and regular wage for their owners and throwing their weight on the side of further production and prosperity. Every saved dollar can become a working dollar, if its owner will only take the trouble to see that it is placed in the hands of men who will employ it honestly and safely.

Advice to Charlie Chaplin

Last spring when General Neville, the hero of the defense of Verdun, was making his tour of America he was the guest of honor at a big public reception in one of the Los Angeles hotels. Among those invited to meet the distinguished visitor were the more prominent members of the moving-picture colony.

At the doors of General Neville's suite Will Rogers met Charlie Chaplin. Chaplin, who in private life is a reserved and rather shy little man, was considerably fussed up over the prospect ahead of him.

"I suppose we're expected to say a few words to the general," he confided to Rogers. "But for the life of me I can't think of the best way to start the conversation."

Rogers gave to the problem a moment of earnest consideration.

"Well," he said, "you might ask him if he was in the war, and which side he was on."

With Credit to S. Blythe

Sam Blythe claims this is a true one. Maybe he is right; Sam generally is.

He says a Washington wholesaler wished to learn the relative qualities of two brands of mucilage. He handed one bottle of each brand to his negro janitor.

"Henry," he said, "take these and test them and see which is the stickier."

Hours passed before Henry reappeared. Wearing a somewhat unhappy, not to say distressed, expression, he entered his employer's office and placed the two bottles on the latter's desk.

"Well, Henry," said the jobber, "what's the result of your experiments?"

"Boss," said Henry, "it's lak dis: Dis yere one gummed up my mouth the most; but dis yere other one, the taste lasted the longest."

who became famous was Dr. R. V. Pierce. After graduation at college, Dr. Pierce practised medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in his large practice for those who were anæmic, or pale and weak. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alterative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions, tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and enriches the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive confidential medical advice free. Send 10c for trial package tablets. All druggists sell the "Discovery," tablets or liquid.

Bell Phone 63 Peoples Phone

ABOUT OUR TELEPHONES

Shall we have telephone service, or shall we not—that is the question. The people of Chilton County who have been served, if we might call it served, by the Peoples Telephone Co., have been evading this question for some time, but an unequivocal answer has now got to be made one way or the other. The present system has gone as far as it can, and it is not a question of option as to whether or not something be done, but some change is going to be made.

The people of the county may choose one of three different things. We can try to put up with the same system we now have, and real soon have no telephone system at all; or we can let the company be absorbed by the Bell system; or we can raise our rates and build up our system and thus have a dependable telephone company of our own that will give us adequate service when we want it, and at the same time sell us such service at a price that will be within the reach of all who wish telephone service.

Telephone service—we mean real service—is going to cost us something, and we can not longer hope to get adequate service for two or three dollars a year. It is just like a man trying to live and support a family on 30c a day. It is a physical impossibility to exist that way very long. The Peoples Telephone Company has been trying to do this very thing, and it has got to the end of its row.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company is a great organization and when they take hold of a thing they make it go and go right. We have nothing to say against the Bell system, but its service is not within reach of everybody in Chilton County who want telephone service. In other words, our people can not afford to pay the price which the Bell people have to have to operate.

The only sensible thing our people can do is to place the rates of the Peoples Telephone Company at such a figure that adequate operating expenses will be provided. Anybody who really wants telephone service certainly ought to be willing to pay $5.00 or even $7.50 a year, because a year's service is worth that if it is worth anything. Oftentimes one call when promptly and properly handled by central is worth that much to a man. In fact this amount is insignificant in comparison with adequate telephone service for a whole year. The time has come when people have simply got to pay for things if they get anything worth while. Everything else of value costs us something and telephone service is going to cost us something if we get it, and we might as well let that soak in right now.

The annual meeting of the Peoples Telephone Company will be held on the second Monday in December, which is the 14th. The place of meeting is the court house, and all general annual business will be attended to at this meeting. Each line should elect directors to represent them at this meeting. The first Monday in December is the day set for the election of these directors.

Our people should awake to the needs of the company and have representatives present at this meeting. Let us be prepared to do something for the interest of the company, and if we don't want to fool with the business, let's turn it over to the Bell people and pay them to run it for us. We can not do without telephone service, because it is no longer a luxury, but a necessity.

Arthur R. Robinson, Indianapolis attorney, and a Republican, has been appointed to take the place of the late Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat. Administration Republicans at Wshington are quoted as saying they are well pleased with the appointment of Robinson.

DAY DREAMS

SORRY WE COULDN'T GO

We have seen the splendid reports of the first meeting of the Southern States Republican League held in Birmingham this week. The outline of the plans and purposes of the League sounds good to us. We are sorry we could not attend the meeting in conformity with the request (?) of the fellows who got up the frolic. We suppose Oliver Street and Jim Adkins were unable to respond also, as we have not seen their names mentioned in any of the printed reports.

It has been our pleasure and privilege for many years to labor unceasingly for the accomplishment of the things which the new-born Southern States Republican League says it intends to develop here in the Southland. And we have not labored alone. There have been many other Republicans who have faced the fiery darts of our adversaries and clung to the colors of the grand old party when all hope seemed in vain.

We welcome the arrival of the new League upon the field of battle, and may there be in their ranks enough recruits to push the battle on to success.

Long have we known if all the people in the South who have confidence in the Republican party would support that confidence with their ballots, it would mean the death knell of that folly of all follies and tragedy of all tragedies in American politics and American government—the solid Democratic South.

Half the Democrats in the South last November voted the Democratic ticket and at the same time prayed in their hearts that Coolidge might be elected.

We expect to live to see the "solid South" as a Democratic political entity, broken to pieces, whereupon this most favored section of the United States will come into its own by embracing its only salvation in the form of those national political principles of sound government which are promulgated and practiced only by the Republican party in these United States.

God hasten the day.

CAR OWNER LIABLE FOR MINOR DRIVER

Under the Alabama law, any person under 18 years of age is conclusively incompetent to drive a motor vehicle, and any person who allows a minor under 16 years of age to drive such a vehicle is guilty of negligence as a matter of law.

In decision of the Alabama Supreme Court rendered Thursday, reversing judgment of the lower court, and remanding to the Mobile circuit court, the appealed case of Arthur L. Bush vs. Thos. H. McDonald, et al., the supreme court, in opinion by Justice Ormond Somerville, lays down this construction of the act of the legislature of 1911. This statute prohibits the operation of a motor car on the public highways of the state, by any person under 16 years of age, unless accompanied by an adult person.

SOUTHERN STATES REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

The first meeting of the Southern States Republican League was held in Birmingham Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The league is composed of and sponsored by leading Republicans of the South, and a number of Republicans who are high in the councils of the national party were in attendance at the first meeting.

It is of interest to note some of the purposes of the League as outlined in the published reports of the meeting held this week, as follows:

> The Southern Sates Repulican League has been organized by a number of men and women in the South who believe in the principles of the republican party and who believe the time has arrived to make of the party a real political force in the South. It proposes to accomplish these objects by a presentation of the principles of the republican party to the Southern voters; by promoting study and discussion of important questions of the day; by making a strong effort to awaken interest in sound government among the young men and women of the South; by standing always for those policies in the national government which it sponsors and believes to be for the best interests of the South and of the country as a whole. One of its principal objects is to bring about a state of affairs in which real two-party politics and government in the South may become an accomplished fact.

Every now and then some weekly newspaper in Alabama receives an editorial spanking from a brother editor in the city because as they charge, the weekly newspapers are sometimes guilty of being recreant to their duty as moulders of public opinion, or something of that nature. One might think that a city paper which seeks in such streneous expressions to chastise the country editor, must be a power in its own city for leading the masses of the people. But here let us consider the plight of the city newspapers in Birmingham in the recent municipal elections. Those papers were teeth and toenails against Jimmie Jones for president of the city commission, and Jimmie Jones was the very man who was elected. Where the newspapers sought to lead the people to Jack Adams, they flew the coop and flocked to Jones. Looks like the Birmingham editors might study their own lessons of how to put themselves in good standing with their fellow townsmen before they go out over Alabama and attempt to crucify the country editors for the way they choose to conduct their editorial columns. We know of no great power in existence today that has as little influence as the big city newspaper.

ALABAMA SCHOOL NEWS

Alabama spent in 1924, $9,669,-57.00 for instructional cost which was 81.4 per cent of the enfire amount spent for current expenses ($11,872,298.00), according to R. W. Cowart, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association. The average for the United States as given on page 27, Bulletin 31 U. S. Bureau of Education was 71.6 per cent. It will be seen that Alabama spends 9.8 per cent more of her school money for instruction than does the average of the union.

The A. E. A. Secretary states that the cost of supervisors and supervising principals were deducted from the cost of instruction, the remainder, $9,193,548, would still show a larger per cent devoted to instruction than the national average. The remainder, $9,193,548, referred to above, is mainly the salaries of classroom teachers. A comparatively small cost for teaching supplies, textbooks and commencement expenses, is included. This sum is 77.4% of all current expense costs, which is 5.8% above the national average devoted to the whole instruction. This does not mean that we are paying higher salaries to our teachers than other states. In fact our average salary for teachers is about one-half that for the nation. It does not mean that Alabama is devoting a much larger part of her school monies to pay teachers than other states. It means too that other states are devoting a larger per cent of their revenues to other school charges such as General Control of Administration, Maintenance of plant, visitors' wages, supplies, and fuel, school attendance officers, libraries, Cafeterias, etc.

We need larger sums to pay teachers, but other expenditures are necessary also. Cutting one part of the expense to bolster up another is not the solution to our school financial needs. More money and a considerable amount of it must be added from permanent sources of revenue to bring the assistance needed.

It was reported that 183 business organizations of farm people sold 70,000,000 dozens of eggs for approximately $22,000,000.00 in 1924. Although only 31 of the 183 organizations were of the true cooperative type these 31 handled 90% of the business.

The mills of the future in the South will be small ones, as big mills must go out with the big blocks of virgin timber. The little mill will be an advantage to the small land owner in this section as they can set on tracts as small as fifty to one hundred thousand feet. A tract of forty acres, now in young second growth pine, can be logged off in fifteen to twenty years and produce good revenue if fires are kept out.

POOR OR

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS BUILDING BIG SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS

Rev. R. L. Bolton of Madison, Ga., preached last Sunday morning for Rev. S. J. Ezell, the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Clanton. He came to Clanton from Montgomery, where a meeting of the field workers of the Louisville Seminary was held last Saturday. Southern Baptists are building in the edge of Louisville, Ky., a great seminary which will cost $2,000,000 and provide for more than 400 young ministers. The Southern Baptist Seminary which is now located at Louisville was founded at Greenville, S. C., in 1859. Later it was moved to Louisville, Ky., where it has been since the early eighties. Drs. Boyce, Broadus, Manly, and Williams were the four great founders of the seminary. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, the president at the present time, has been at the head of this great institution for more than 25 years. Dr. Mullins has also been President of the Southern Baptist Convention, and in addition to his seminary duties he is President of the World Baptist Alliance. Dr. Mullins is one of the foremost theologians of this generation, and an author of world-wide recognition.

Dr. A. T. Robertson is another distinguished professor of the Louisville seminary. He is one of the great Greek scholars of the world. Dr. Jno. R. Sampey, whose father is buried at Clanton, is another distinguished professor at Louisville seminary. Dr. Sampey's mother and father were at one time members of the Clanton Baptist church. In the eighties Prof. Sampey came to Clanton and conducted one of the most successful revivals in the history of the church.

During its history of nearly 70 years the Southern Baptist Seminary has sent out 5,627 pastors and 291 missionaries. Its graduates are to be found in all parts of the South and even the nation as well as in China, Africa, Japan, Cuba, South America and Mexico.

The new seminary plant is a necessity because of the rapid growth of Southern Baptists during the last few years, churches going from one Sunday to two Sundays in their worship, and from two to three Sundays, and hundreds developing into full time churches. The increased activities of Baptists on mission fields also calls for more missionaries. The old seminary plant has been located down town in the busy, noisy part of Louisville. The new buildings will be among the trees in the middle of a 50-acre lot in the edge of Louisville.

Last Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Bolton set forth the claims of the Baptist Seminary to the Baptists of Clanton. He and Dr. S. J. Ezell, the Baptist pastor of Clanton, were neighboring pastors in Georgia. Dr. Ezell is a graduate of Louisville seminary and gave cordial co-operation to Mr. Bolton in his solicitations among the members of his church. The response was splendid and before leaving for Georgia on Wednesday Rev. Mr. Bolton said: "I have been laboring in Georgia for our great seminary. This is my fist trip out of the state of Georgia. I am glad I came to Clanton. Dr. Ezell is a warm friend of mine, and I find that he has a great church. His people have been doing great things recently. The churches here are beautiful. Brother Ezell's people have given to the seminary in cash and pledges about $2,000.00.

"Clanton is a busy, active, big-hearted town. You are throbbing with prosperity. The people should be very grateful to God, because in Georgia, where I have been recently, a long dry season has ruined many farmers, little cotton and food-stuffs have been made. Here I find a great cotton crop and a very prosperous people." During his stay in Clanton Rev. Bolton was the guest of Dr. Ezell at the pastorium.

The Last Run For "Barney" - - "Gene" - - and "Tom"

HERE'S a scene that folks can just about refer to now as—"remember way back when—?" It shows "Barney, Gene and Tom," last of the horses used by the Washington, D. C., fire department to draw its engines, making their "last run." The engines have since been motorized. And this faithful trio of Dobbins is enjoying a well-earned retirement on a farm near the capital.

W. M. U. CONVENTION

At Eufala, Ala., November 10-12, the Woman's Missionary Union, auxiliary to Alabama Baptist State Convention, will hold its thirty-second annual meeting. Mrs. Wm. H. Samford of Montgomery will preside and women from all sections of the state will attend. Reports from all state officers will be presented and new plans of missionary endeavor will be projected. Each of the 1,700 organizations of women and young people is entitled to delegates and a large attendance is expected.

ANOTHER BANNER CONTEST CANDIDATE WRITES LETTER

To the great family of Union-Banner readers:

This family of readers makes a great union, and we are told that in union there is strength.

I am a candidate in this campaign to increase the strength of this united band of readers and that The Union-Banner may increase its prestige. If possible, also, I hope to win one of the prizes which this paper offers.

I am the wife of Rev. E. A. Norris and I feel somewhat indebted to the people of Chilton County. I have spent many lonely hours at home when my husband was away trying to help someone, although I am very thankful that I can have some humble part in helping someone.

I thank everyone for the help given me in all things, and ask you to remember me in this campaign. Remember to clip the coupons in each issue of The Banner; ask for the tickets from merchants, and get all the subscriptions that you can turn them in at the Banner office in my name. It will be highly appreciated, and whether I win or not, as long as life lasts I shall do all in my power for the good of other people.

"Others Lord, yes others,
That I may live like thee.
Help me to live for others:
Let this my motto be."

MRS. E. A. NORRIS.

Happy indeed is the woman who gets running water in her kitchen after drawing it from wells or bringing it from springs all her life.

The biggest need of the cotton market is for the growers to take charge through their cooperative associations and market it in an orderly way as there is a demand for it.

Evenings spent in studying inproved farm methods will bring good returns.

LETTER ABOUT MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS

Editor Union-Banner:

I very often notice articles written on trading at home instead of ordering from mail order houses. There was one two weeks ago written by Mr. J. J. Edwards advising people not to order but trade at home.

I think any straight, level-headed hard-working man will act wisely in spending his money where it will go the farthest.

I can't understand why our home merchants can't sell as cheaply as the mail order companies, but they certainly do not. Now, there are some items in particular I will mention that we can save money on by ordering—most all repair parts for automobiles. I priced, just a short time since, a casing and tube for a small car, at different places in Clanton, and the best offer on a 10,000 mile casing was $15.00. I came home and ordered a high-grade oversize casing and best grade tube for $11.35 including postage. Now, this was a much better casing. It was guaranteed for 12,000 miles. I saved about $7 by ordering there. I would have paid about $18 for that grade of tire and tube in Clanton.

The millinery business is another thing that is out of reason here at home. The very cheapest grade of velvet hats will cost you from $2.50 to $3.50, when you can order one of much better material for half that price. I have ordered hats for less than half what my friends paid at Clanton and mine were of better material and style.

I say trade at home if your home dealers will sell right. If not, trade where you can get best value for your money.

A CITIZEN.

FORESTRY LETTER

Approximately eight and one-half per cent of the forest land in the organized forestry districts of Alabama burned over during the first nine and one-half months of the present calendar year, according to the records of the State Commission of Forestry.

The 18 organized districts comprise a gross area of about 4,6000,000 acres. About one-half million acres of this area is nonforest in character, being devoted to farming and other general uses. Somewhat more than four million acres, however, supports a forest growth or is in process of reforestration. The total number of fires thus far reported within the forestry districts is 1,582 and the area burned amounts to about 338,000 acres.

Additional forestry districts are being established from time to time with view to ultimately covering most of the 22 million acres of forest land within the state. It is probable that by the close of 1925 about five and one-half million acres will be included. In the establishment of districts preference is given to those areas of most uniformly forest character and subjects to the greatest fire hazard.

Figures are being compiled for the unorganized portions of the state, but they are not sufficiently complete as yet to warrant a statement of the number of fires and proportion burned. It is evident, however, that the percentage of forest land burned over in the unorganized territory is much higher than in the forestry districts. Complete figures for the entire 12 months covering both organized and unorganized territory will be availble shortly after the close of the calendar year.

An increase of 6.6%, or 1,517,291 telephones was shown by the telephone business in the United States in 1923. At the beginning of 1924 the total number of telephones in the world was 24,576,121, of which 15,369,454, or 63%, were in the United States, although only about 6% of the people of the world live in this country.

The ladies of the new M. E. Church will have on exhibition Friday and Saturday the largest wildcat known in captivity, for the benefit of the church. Admission, 5c and 10c. In the H. F. Chandler Bldg.

Church and Stage Working To Same End

So Says Bessie Wynn Who Is a Baptist and an Actress

Miss Bessie Wynn is a Baptist. She is also an actress. She says she has been both very comfortably ever since she was thirteen.

"And that's why I can't help wondering why on earth the church should pick on the stage," she ponders.

"There's no real reason, either. I went from a church choir to a Ziegfeld production and never lost an atom of my religion. Yet in those days—and this wasn't many years ago—preachers were rising up in their pulpits every Sunday to storm about the evils of the stage.

"Lately I've been glad to learn that most denominations have had common sense enough to take the ban off dancing, laughter and fun.

"The church and stage really ought to get on nicely because both are trying to lift human beings out of the dull Monday rut into the Sunday of brighter, better things.

"Mind you, I'm not saying that the church isn't within its rights when it preaches against certain evil practices of the stage. Some plays oughtn't to be allowed to stay on the boards. But some religions oughtn't, either. The narrow-minded ones, I mean."

Miss Wynn's own contribution to the theatre's "brightening and betterment" has been the popularizing of a number of well-known ballads the latest of which is "No Wonder" which she says is her favorite of them all.

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

Spoken in Passing

When you hear two natural wheezes, both unintentional, in one day and at one place you are entitled, I think, to enter that date in your calendar with red ink. In my own personal experience I recall only one such.

It was in June of 1918, over in France. A negro regiment had gone in under fire and the punishment being heavy and the troops being green at actual warfare, one battalion had broken. Stragglers were sifting back through the supporting lines.

A small yellow private came hurrying rearward. Men of a white regiment lying alongside the road waiting for the order to advance began guying him for his haste. Some of them were so ungracious as to recall that the colored boys the night before had been bragging of what they meant to do to the enemy. In reply to a particularly barbed taunt the retreating soldier, without slacking his gait, cast a sidewise glance over his shoulder and said.

"Lis'sen, we now admits we ain't no bear cats!"

A few minutes later a big black soldier passed, also moving toward the rear with speed. In reply to a question as to why his company had broken he halted just long enough to say:

"Co'se we pulled out. Dey didn't give us no propah suppote! Why, dey didn't even give us no garage!"

The Current Rate on Suckers

The late Tom Williams dropped into a gambling house in Reno, Nev., one night, and, playing roulette, speedily dropped his roll, but not before he had made up his mind that the game was crooked.

On his way down stairs in deep disgust he met the proprietor, Long Brown.

"What kind of a dump is this you're running?" demanded Williams. "I've just been skinned out of four hundred dollars."

"Who brought you in here?" said Brown.

"I brought myself in," said Williams.

"Oh, if that's the case," said Brown, "I owe you eighty dollars."

"How come?"

"Well, you see, I pay twenty per cent apiece for all suckers that are steered in. You appear to have steered yourself in. Here's your eighty."

This One Has Stood the Test of Time

Unlike hen's eggs and society dramas, good jokes sometimes improve with age. Or at any rate they do not get old fashioned with the rapidity that an egg does.

Here is one which at intervals I have been hearing for years. It seems to me it gets better with each time of telling. I wonder if the reader will agree with me that its antiquity does not affect its excellence.

According to the most popular version, the thing is supposed to have happened in a remote courthouse of Missouri. A resident of the Ozark mountains whose reputation was none of the best, had been on trial on the charge of horse stealing. The jury promptly returned a verdict of guilty without recommendation for mercy. Taking into consideration the past record of the offender, his honor on the bench said:

"It is my intention to sentence you to at least eight years at hard labor in state's prison. Now then, before sentence is formally pronounced, I shall listen to anything you may have to say in your behalf."

He paused for a reply. After a moment of consideration the offender spoke:

"Well," he said, "I don't know as I've got any thing to say only this—It strikes me that you folks 'round this here cote house air purty toler'ble d—n liberal with other people's time."

The Full of the Honeymoon

In Chicago a vaudeville comedian married a lady who was likewise connected with the profession. Immediately after the ceremony he left his bride in her room and went to the nearest blind tiger where, meeting a number of very congenial friends, he proceeded to celebrate the recent event fittingly. Several happy hours passed.

Toward dusk the bridegroom went to the telephone and called up his hotel and asked to be connected with his room. His new wife answered. In a slightly husky voice he said:

"Is that you, friend wife? Well, this is friend husband. I just made a date for dinner. How're things breaking for you?"

SARDIS HAPPENINGS

People, it has been a long time since I have written to your paper (or our paper).

Our Sunday school and church is still alright too, so why don't you people come out? The crowds are still increasing, so you may know you are missing lots.

Mr. Wilton Dickinson of Sardis motored to Birmingham last week end to attend the fair.

Well, harvest days are about gone, so we know everybody is glad.

Misses Addie and Frances Christian of this place spent last Sunday with Miss Anthel Ratliff.

Mr. L. B. Broadhead and little daughter, Laverta Lee, spent all last week in Birmingham with relatives and attended the fair.

Next Sunday is regular preaching day at Mt. Carmel, so all who can, should attend.

Miss Willie Mae Hosey of Burnsville is visiting relatives here for a week or two.

Misses Myrtle and Bernice Broadhead of Birmingham are planning to visit friends and relatives here during Thanksgiving.

We will go, as news is hard to find.

MRS. KIN VINSON WRITES

To the Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to my friends in the County who have assisted me in the Union-Banner Contest, which will close on the 24th day of November. This issue of The Union-Banner will give my standing in the contest, and with a little more assistance I believe I can win. I will appreciate the kindness and help if the people of the County who are contemplating subscribing for The Union-Banner for themselves or others, will do so before the contest closes, and place the votes to my credit at the Banner office or hand them to me. There is also 100 votes in the paper each week which are good if clipped with candidate's name signed and voted at the Banner office. There is also a list of the merchants' names printed in this paper, in the County, who give trade tickets, which will also be of great assistance to me if my friends will take the trouble to ask for them and hand them to me or deposit them at the Banner office.

I have had splendid success so far, which is due to the wonderful help of my friends, and I trust this help will continue until the close of the contest.

Again let me thank the people who have so generously assisted me, and whether I win in this contest or not, your kindness will always be remembered.

MRS. KIN VINSON.

SOME FINE SUGAR CANE

Owing to the extreme dry weather the past summer and early fall, we had begun to have some serious fears that our supply of "lasses" would come up missing this winter. But our apprehensions were somewhat allayed last Saturday when Ben Duke walked into the office with two stalks of sugar cane so long that we could not turn them around in the house. Oh well, that is putting it a bit "too much cane," as is said about Gullahorn's pepper, but it is fine cane—or was fine before the printer's devil or office cat "made it up." The stalks were each nine feet long. If the whole cane crop in Chilton County will average half as good as Mr. Duke's specimens, everything will be all right. We shall soon be going to the old syrup mill to drink juice and sop the pan, and bring back a few gallons of the finished product to go with our hot biscuits and butter for breakfast.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. L. NORTON, Manager).

A feature of interst to many people of Thorsby and vicinity is the coming of the Barnes-Edwins Plyers, consisting of a troupe of nine artists who are making preparations by rehearsels and other preliminaies to give this community an opportunity to enjoy a solid week of high class drama, comedy and vaudevilie, at the Wadesonian Theatre all next week. Some of these people have been and heard here on previous occasions as members of the cast in the well known and much appreciated Cooke Players. We feel sure Thorsby people will welcome good plays presented by live people insttad of moving pictures. See the small bills for particulars.

We are glad to be able to announce that Frank Hart & Sons of Paulding, Ohio, have arrived and are again in Thorsby. This is the firm that put the beautiful stucco finish on Thorsby Institute dining hall, and they are here to finish the new building in the same manner. These men are experts in their line and will soon give a finish to the exterior of this building of which we shall all be as proud as we are of the interior, now fully occupied and housing all classes with ease and comfort.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart and sons, Elva and Chester, and daughter, Elsie, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart, all of Paulding, Ohio, arrived in Thorsby Sunday afternoon to spend a few weeks as guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard. They motored through in Gray touring cars, leaving northern Ohio at noon Wednesday.

A representative of the Alabama Power Company was in Thorsby Monday and reported that a gang of men from Mississippi will arrive in Clanton next Monday and begin construction of the Thorsby and Jemison line next Tuesday. At the same time another gang, composed of about 25 men will begin construction of the Thorsby unit of their system, for which two carloads of material, consisting of cross-arms, brackets, etc., to complete fitting the poles, already here, for erection when the plant will be ready for wiring, which will be done by a wiring gang who follow the preliminary construction gang.

Our informant says these men will probably be here for 60 days, and many of them will want board and lodginig, which will have to be distributed among the people of Thorsby, as the hotel has been closed, rumor says, by order of the State Inspector of Hotels, Restaurants, etc., as not in condition to be used for a hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg are enjoying a somewhat extended family reunion with Mr. Carl J. Soberg of Sheboygan, Wis., an engineer on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, with his wife and two daughters, Margaret and Dorothy. Also, Edwin Soberg, employed in the main post office in Chicago, with his wife and two boys, Melvin and Carl, and a sister of M. J. Soberg, Mrs. Julia Berge, of Deerfield, Wis., arrived Tuesday, October 10. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan with their four children from Wylam, Ala. Mrs. Morgan was, before her marriage, Olga Soberg. They spent the week end at the Soberg home in Thorsby. Mr. Morgan is an engineer in one of the great plants of the T. C. I. Co. Only Mrs. Henderson of Washington, D. C., (nee Clara Soberg) was the missing one of this family of Thorsby young people, and she, with her husband, made a recent visit to her parents.

A quiet and beautiful home wedding was celebrated in Thorsby last Thursday afternoon, October 22, at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Martin when their daughter, Martha, was joined in marriage with Mr. Curtis Billingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Billingsley, of Thorsby. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Bonner, pastor of Thorsby Baptist church.

Following the ceremony supper was served the guests.

The bride wore a royal blue georgette dress combined with brocaded velvet and trimmed with gray fur. She wore a coronet of brilliant stones and carried a boquet of white carnations.

On Friday, October 23, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Billingsley entertained at a dinner in honor of the bride and groom, a company of relatives and close friends of the two families.

Mr. W. M. Parnell and Miss Naemi Turnquist motored to Birmingham last Saturday to attend the automobile races at the state fair.

C. R. Foss and his father, J. L. Foss, motored to Fairfield last Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Peterson. Mrs. Foss, who had been spending several days there, returned with them.

On Tuesday night the teachers of the Lutheran Sunday School were entertained by Mrs. C. R. Foss.

The Eastern Star will give a chicken dinner and supper Saturday, October 31st, at the Martin Building. Price, 35c. Everybody come and bring the family.

Charles and Fred Howard are contemplating a fishing trip to points in west Florida and Mississippi. They expect they will visit Coden, St. Elmo, Ala., Bayou La Batre and Pascagoula, Miss. They expect to be gone a week and bring home salted fish by the barrel. If you want any pointers on fishing tackle, see Fred. He's as full of it as an egg is of meat.

Mrs. Aaron Littleton and daughter, Vercie, (Mrs. Emmett Billingsley) spent last week in Birmingham visiting relatives and the state fair.

Mrs. Martha B. Hunter, who has been spending a few days visiting friends in Thorsby, left for her home in Los Angeles, Cal., Tuesday night.

Miss Boona Lee Wood of Thorsby Institute spent the week end in Birmingham. She also attended the fair.

Mrs. Martha C. Post of Thorsby Institute, who has been spending several days visiting friends in Florida, is expected to return this week.

Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association will hold a social and business meeting Thursday afternoon, October 29, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard. Everybody is urged to come early—say by 2 o'clock.

Next Sunday night, November 1, at the Congregational church, following Christian Endeavor meeting, there will be the monthly praise service, to which everybody is invited. Come and help or enjoy the singing.

No services Sunday or the following Sunday at the Swedish Lutheran church, but on November 15, Scandinavian services in the morning, and English at night.

PLEASANT GROVE

The singing at Pleasant Grove Sunday afternoon was called to order at 2:30 by chairman S. A. Henley.

The following directors sang one song each: Prof. F. I. Popwell, Albert Headley, Misses Rubie Cox, Gladys Jackson, Jeanette Mims, Cathryn Headley, Jessie Mims, Lucille Culp, Mrs. Eula Culp and Callie Culp. Organists for the afternoon were Mrs. Zella Scott and Prof. F. I. Popwell.

On the second Sunday in next month we are glad to say we are expecting Prof. O. L. Devaughn to be with us and have the new 1926 song books. We especially invite everyone that can to come and be with us on that afternoon and help make the singing a grand success.—Mrs. Zella Scott, Secretary.

Frequent Bilious Attacks

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month," says Mr. J. P. Nevins, of Lawrenceburg, Ky. "I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief.

"A neighbor told me of

BLACK-DRAUGHT
Liver Medicine

and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything. It seemed to cleanse my whole system and made me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep, and could do twice the work."

Bilious attacks are "seasonal" with many people. Millions have taken Thedford's Black-Draught to ward off such attacks, and the good results they have reported should induce you to try it.

"Here We Are--Ol' Pal--Our First Bird This Season !"

DENSE woods and open prairies everywhere are reverberating with sounds of blazing rifles and shotguns, the barking of excited dogs and the shouts of enthusiastic huntsmen. 'Tis a "pretty warm time" for duck and rabbit. The hunting season is on!

And somewhere in that vast army of hunters up in the New England woods—having the time of his life—is Henry F. Brownell, a veteran crack shot of South Westport, Mass. The above picture depicts him after having bagged his first bird of the season—showing it to Checkers, his faithful pal on his hunting trips.

MR. ATKINSON WRITES ABOUT TELEPHONES

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to see some letters in the county papers about that telephone meeting to be held some time later. I think kthe best thing to do is to tell the Southern Bell or any other phone company, NO! We will keep our country phones, and if they want to talk to the folks, do like we did—build their own lines. The masses in this county now have rural service at almost no cost at all. It will mean no service to you if you go on and make the change. Later on you will find your mistake.

Another thing about this phone business is when the road crew comes along and now and then kno ks down a pole or mail box or fence-post, we put in plenty of time going to the commissioners about it. Instead, we should move these things off the road so they can go ahead and give us still better roads.

Out my way in Beat 6 and 15, my guess is that the roads are about 500 per cent better than they were three years ago.

My suggestion about the phone question is for everyone to repair their lines and keep good operators day and night. Move all obstructions from the roads, and we will get even better roads than we now have. Let's try it.

Sincerely,
R. F. ATKINSON.

Please give me space to write a few lines about the box supper at Mt. Pisgah church.

Owing to the night being so bad we did not have as large a crowd as we were expecting.

The children rendered a very nice program, and thee were 14 boxes sold. Bro. McDaniel made a very nice talk on Christian Education.

We also had a cake voting contest. The cake was won by Miss Ethel Baker. The total amount brought by the cake and boxes was $79.72.

We thank the people for their nice behavior. The proceeds go for the benefit of the church.

Voters Should Not Neglect Poll Tax

The tax paying season is now in full swing, and while we go along, it is particularly appropriate to urge all who would vote in the elections to qualify by paying their poll tax. Next year is going to be one of interest politically, as there will be a number of county and state officers to elect.

We especially urge that the women voters look after their poll tax. There are hundreds of women in this county who are disqualified by failure to pay poll taxes during the last few years, many of them only failing to pay last year. It is the duty and privilege of the women to have a part in the governmental affairs of our county and state by casting their ballot, and they should not neglect doing so.

Poll taxes must be paid by the first of February. Look after that important though small matter now, and then it will be off your mind.

ALL DAY SINGING AT COOPER NEXT WEDNESDAY, NOV. 11

There will be an all day singing at Chestnut Creek, Cooper, on next Wednesday, November 11th. There will be speaking at 11 o'clock. Everybody come and bring your song books and dinner baskets.

All the quartette singers of the county are urged to come, as a specialty will be made of quartet singing. A prize of a fine cake or a box of good eats will be given the quartet doing the best singing. So come prepared to do your best.

Don't forget the date—Wednesday, November 11th.

JUDGE ADAMS TO OPEN STORE IN SOUTH CLANTON

Judge S. M. Adams has recently sold his home in Clanton and moved to a place which he has bought on the highway in South Clanton. He is planning to open a little store down there and has handed The Union-Banner the following statement relative to his plans:

"I will open at once a small cash grocery store on the highway four doors south of the Smith store in South Clanton, and will greatly appreciate the patronage of the people. I am not able to do hard labor, therefore I am opening this little store, and will do my best to satisfy the people who trade with me. I thank you in advance, and want you to come to see me. Watch for my ad in next week's paper.—S. M. Adams."

We hope that the Judge will be successful in his business venture. His friends can render him a very welcome service by trading with him. It goes without saying that all who deal with him will be treated with courtesy and fairness.

Too Embarrassed.—"Every room with a bath," says the prospectus of a new and huge hotel just started here.

Which reminds us of a story of a countryman, unfamiliar with such luxuries, who passed the night at a modern hotel.

"Well, did you have a good night's rest?" the clerk asked him the next morning.

"No, I didn't," was the reply. "The room was all right and the bed was pretty good, but I couldn't sleep very much, for I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was through my room."—Boston Transcript.

JUDGE REYNOLDS WRITES ABOUT POLL TAX & ROADS

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to call the poll tax payers' attention to the law, as I understand it, on moving from one Beat to another. That is, when a voter moves from one Beat, it is his duty to notify me to move his name to the Beat he moves to. There is no way for me to know that any voter wants to change his voting Beat, unless he notifies me. The law requires me to send to the Managers of each election a list of the qualified voters of each Beat, so you see if a voter has moved from one Beat to another, his name will not be transferred unless he notifies me.

I want to urge all poll tax payers to pay their poll tax in the name they registered, so many people have two or three names, and many women voters register in one name, and then pay a poll tax in another name. To illustrate—Mrs. Mary Brown will register and then pay her poll tax as Mrs. J. H. Brown, which is her husband's name, so you see she will be left off the list unless I happen to know her personally.

Some parties are carrying over the County a newspaper list purporting to be the last list of qualified voters of this County. There was not published a list of the qualified voters this year, as the law only requires the list to be published every two years, and the list will be published next year.

Many are inquiring about registering; all voters can register the first of next year.

Just a word to all road supervisors. I want to urge all of you to look after your roads, but especially the rural mail routes. Do not let them get bad. Remember, the carriers have to go almost every day in the year—they can not pick the time to travel as many others can do. If you have any bad places that need graveling, you can see your Commissioner at home, or at the Court next Monday, about the work.

Yours truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probste

MISS ALPHA CAGLE NEARS THE MILLION VOTE MARK

When the votes of the different candidates was cast up for publication this week, as shown above, it was found that Miss Alpha Cagle stood near the million mark, with Mrs. Kin Vinson close behind her. Mrs. E. A. Norris holds third place, and has an excellent chance of coming ahead while the big extra vote periods last this week.

Miss Alcie Lowery and Miss Frances Woolley are holding fourth and fifth places respectively. Miss Ruth Easterling and Mrs. Lonie Scott deserve special mention for their splendid work of the past week.

There are many rumors coming from more or less authentic sources that some candidates who are now holding the places of runners-up are just contenting themselves with allowing others to act as pace-makers, and are saving their real strength in reserve until the last, so as to spring a surprise when those at present in the lead have slackened their efforts and are satisfied that they have already done enough to put them over as winners in the final count. The campaign management cannot vouch for these reports either way. But one thing we can do, and that with justice and fairness to all, and that is to warn each and every candidate that nobody is going to be a safe winner without hard and continuous work right up to the last minute.

The candidates are now turning into the last half of the race, and while they hold about the same relative positions as they did last week, there are rumors of many votes being held back which keeps the public guessing as to the winners.

The race for first place in the northeast (Thorsby) district is getting to be warmer. Miss Vilula Littlejohn, with the help of a number of very interested friends, has made great gains during the past week, and bids fair to step ahead of Mrs. Meade unless something happens right away.

The many friends of both Miss Littlejohn and Mrs. Meade are intensely interested in them, as it seems that those two are the only real contenders for the highest honors in that district.

We would impress upon the candidates and their friends that this week is the best time in which to pull up your standing with the least effort. This is the best week of the whole campaign because it is the week in which the biggest offers of extra votes are being made.

After this week the special offers of extra votes for merchant votes turned in will be withdrawn, and thereafter until the end of the campaign the merchant votes will count for their face value.

The extra vote offers on subscriptions which is made for this week only is the chance of some candidate away down on the list to step up into the lead if she will only do some work.

Remember, it must be done now. The special offers will be a thing of the past when the books close on Saturday night of this week.

There are yet hundreds of people in Chilton County who will subscribe for The Union-Banner if they are only asked to do so. Every day they are coming into the office to subscribe and when we ask them who they want to vote for they say no one of the candidates have asked for their help and therefore they do not care for the votes. There are some sections of the county tht have not been worked, and while the special offer of extra votes is on this week a candidate might go into those places and get enough business to win the car.

Just stop and think what it would mean to you to turn in $100 in subscriptions Saturday night. It will take 67 yearly subscriptions to make $100. The regular votes in these subscriptions will mount to 134,000 and the extra votes would amount to 215,000, making a total of 349,000 votes received for the 67 subscribers. Now look at your standing and see where it would place you if you should add that many votes at the last of this week, and you can readily see that a little work done right now will be very much worth while.

Campaign Rules.

In order to insure fairness to all concerned, the following rules will be observed. The campaign management reserves the right to make any necessary ruling to interpret the rules or cover any question which may arise:

Any lady or girl in Chilton County may enter, except members of the family or relatives of any person connected with The Union-Banner or the campaign managers.

After entry no candidate may transfer her votes to any other candidate, under any conditions whatever.

The campaign shall close at noon November 24th, 1925, and no votes shall be issued to any candidate after that time.

The Union-Banner will give votes on subscriptions only, either new or renewals, which shall count the same. No advance subscription shall be taken for any one person for more than five years. Votes on subscriptions will be given in accordance with the schedule as published below, which shall not be changed; however, special offers for clubs may be made from time to time.

Co-operating merchants and business men will give votes at the rate of one vote for each cent cash spent with them. It shall be discretionary with them to give votes for prompt payment of accounts.

No private or secret information as to the standing of any candidate will be given out. Candidates who endeavor to win by unfair methods will be dropped from the race.

Col. Thomas W. Millican, the world famous auctioneer from north Alabama, will be at the Union-Banner office in Clanton on Friday and Saturday of this week. He wants to get in touch with anybody in this part of the state who desires to sell any kind of real estate at auction sale.

Mr. Millican is the manager of the Alabama-Tennessee Auction Company. He has been conducting land sales all over north Alabama for many years. The editor of The Union-Banner is personally acquainted with him, and has had occasion to observe him in action, and we can say without hesitation that he can put more pep and ginger into an auction sale than anybody we ever saw.

If you have a piece of land that you would be interested in turning into money, see Col. Millicsn at the Union-Banner office Friday or Saturday of this week.

Serious Auto Wreck Last Sunday Night

A big Wilys-Knight automobile driven by Miss Jewell Thomas of Gadsden was wrecked near Lomax about 11 o'clock last Saturday night with serious consequences to herself and four other people, all of whom were from Gadsden. The car was owned by Mr. Carter, a young business man.

Miss Thomas sustained severe internal injuries. Her mother got a broken arm. Mr. Carter was scratched severely. The other two occupants were slightly injured.

A few minutes after the car turned over Mr. Harry Gordon of Columbiana came along and picked up the injured folks, bringing them to Dr. Gragg in Clanton. Dr. Gragg placed them in the Central Alabama Hospital and rendered them medical attention.

The wreck happened at one of the fills between here and Lomax, where the concrete road has not been completed. The driver lost control of the machine when it struck the muddy place where the cement stops and it turned over down a high bank, doing serious damage to the car.

Most of the injured people have returned to their homes.

Disillusioned.—"I'm getting up a little poker game, Major," invited the friend. "Would you like to join us?"

"Sir, I do not play poker."

"I'm sorry. I was under the impression that you did."

"I was once under that impression myself, sir."—The American Legion Weekly.

SMALLER APPLE CROP THIS YEAR

The per capita consumption of apples in the United States is now about half an apple a day, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

The total crop this year will reach 164,000,000 bushels compared with 179,000,000 bushels last year. The decrease in total production, however, is partially offset by the fact that the crop is of unusually fine quality, and less than the usual proportion will go to waste or be used for manufacturing purposes. The portion known as the commercial crop will reach 30,134,000 barrels compared with 23,587,000 barrels last year. Northwestern apples are being shipped rapidly and are now reaching the peak movement. Federal inspection of apples at shipping points is also greater than last year, inspections in the northwest promising to be 50% more than in any preceding season.

The muddy barnyard season will soon be at hand. Why not give the problem some serious thought, and have the yards in good trim before the mud appears?

SEVEN long years have passed—yet it seems but yesterday that they went forth smilingly in defense of Humanity. 'Tis the spirit of our hero dead that still lives—tho they peacefully sleep in Flanders fields where poppies blow—in our national cemeteries—or in consecrated ground near loved ones.

Let's not forget their sacrifice for our Peace and Happiness—their full measure of devotion and love of country—their unselfishness and patriotic sense of duty to mankind. Let's show that we're NOT forgetting and on this forthcoming Armistice Day—at 11 a. m.—
FACE EAST IN SILENT PRAYER!

PAYMENT FOR AUTOS MADE EASY

The new time payment purchase plan of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation when applied to the purchase of Chevrolet automobiles makes the time payment price of the car from $15 to $35 lower, according to C. E. Dawson, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Mr. Dawson expresses enthusiastic approval of the plan.

"Today the automobile is a necessity; it has long since passed the luxury stage," said Mr. Dawson. "Therefore like other necessities the automobile logically may be purchased out of current income and a majority of automobiles are so purchased.

The G. M. A. C. plan enables the purchaser to buy his car out of income without the imposition of heavy premiums. A Chevrolet now may be bought on one-third down payment and operated during the year in which the payments are being completed at an additional cost of only eight cents per day for financing the time payments. This eight cents, besides meeting all interest and carrying charges, gives the purchaser complete fire and theft insurance coverage for the year.

"Heretofore, when dealers were financing their time payment sales thru independent finance companies and carrying charges varied greatly according to the resources of those companies and the volume of their business.

"The G. M. A. C. was organized as an aid to the General Motors dealers in order that they might give their patrons the benefit of lower interest and carrying charges. Because of its immense resources and the steady volume of business which it receives from the General Motors units, the G. M. A. C. enables dealers to reduce interest and carrying charges to the absolute minimum.

"The G. M. A. C. time payment plan is dove-tailing perfectly with the 6% Certificate plan by which prospective Chevrolet owners are paid 6% interest on money deposited toward a first payment on a car. When this money and the interest reach the sum of a down payment, the car is delivered and the purchaser completes his payments under the inexpensive G. M. A. C. financing plan."

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On last Sunday morning, October 25, the children and grandchildren gathered at the home of their father and grandfather, Mr. George Keen, with many friends, to celebrate the 65th birthday of their father. All the children were present except two, Clifford Keen, who lives at Tuscaloosa, and Mrs. Ludie Sims, of Waycross, Ga. The children present were 2 sons, 5 daughters and 22 grandchildren to enjoy the day. The home of Mr. Keen is located in south Chilton, about 2 miles south of Pletcher.

As the children were once more gathered at the old homestead in a reunion and after many hearty handshakes and cheers, friends and children listened to an able address by their father, in which we were impressed with many good thoughts.

After his thrilling talk we were gathered around the union table where there was a bountiful dinner spread. As we ate of the good things we were made to think of the union in Heaven and the bountiful table that God has prepared for them that will heed his invitation.

The day brought cheerful hearts and good words to all of us.—T. W. Billingsley.

A NEW REPUBLICAN VIEW

The efforts of Republicans to form a party in the South have not up to this time been of high order. There has in most cases been deliberate trampling on Southern sentiment and Southern viewpoint. There has been Republican political effort to enjoy the emoluments of political preferment in the South, no matter at what outrage to local public opinion, or even to the self-respect of those who were the purveyors of appointive office in the South. Politically the South has always been exploited by Republicans, but never consistently dealt with in the manner calculated to win Southern respect.

Thus it is with unusual interest that the people of this community look upon the Republican convention now in session here. According to the president of the Southern States Republican League, no one who holds public office is eligible to membership in the organization, and any member becoming a candidate for public office automatically loses his membership. President Charles U. Gordon says the league purposes to develop a Republican party in the South guided and animated by the Southern viewpoint and conformable to Southern social traditions and customs.

For an organization sincerely impelled by motives of this kind to supplant and displace the sort of Republican activity that has heretofore been the rule in the South will win the respect of Southern people. The new organization may not acquire considerable numbers, but if it holds high the civilized aspirations of the people among whom it expects to exist, it will do much to remove that instinctive hostility with which true Southerners behold the Republican activities of reprehensible type.

Senator Harris and Senator George of Georgia have both alleged the buying and selling of appointive office in their state. If such a thing goes on there under the Republican banner, it doubtless goes on in other Southern states. If the new organization shall renounce and disqualify the agents of that sort of corruption and shall discountenance them in the national Republican organization, the South can only be the gainer.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. NORTON, Manager).

Rev. E. W. Butler returned Thursday morning from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he attended the National Council of Congregational churches. He says he took in as much of it as he was able to do, and is glad to get home.

If one has ever attended one performance of a 3-ring circus, he knows its a tuckerin' job even for two hours to be trying to look three ways at the same time, and when it comes to eight days and nights of trying to attend sessions, committee reports, elections, resolutions, banquets, entertainments, sight-seeing excursions and all the other social functions on the program of a great national convention, one finds that there is a limit to human endurance, and it would be far easier to be at home doing routine work. But there is another side to it, and it is often worth all it costs in money and physical endurance, to have had such an experience and been part of a great organization that is "doing things."

After being home a few days and having time to catch his breath, Mr. Butler, in company with Rev. J. E. Each and R. A. Turner, will leave Saturday to attend a three-day conference of Alabama Congregational churches at Tallassee, Ala.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Each, who will be at the state conference, the morning service at the Congregational church Sunday, November 8, will be in charge of Miss Alithea Parker, who is quite competent to conduct an interesting service.

The Barnes-Edwins Players opened a week's engagement at the Wadesonian Theatre in Thorsby Monday night with its chief feature, a presentation of a dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggins' charming story entitled "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," with the following characters: Rebecca, Mrs. Barnes; Aunt Miranda, Mrs. Hart; Jeremiah, Mr. Hart; Abijah, Mr. Barnes; Adam Ladd, Mr. Carter. Each part was well interpreted and every player manifested careful training and a considerable degree of histronic ability, worthy of a better setting for the scenes.

They were further handicapped by having no orchestra, which was the result of delayed receipt of some important equipment which it was hoped would arrive soon. Miss Long did valiant service at the piano, and in a duet with Mrs. Barnes with her xylophone, two very interesting numbers were given.

On Thursday night, November 5, this company will present "Rip van Winkle," the principal story in Washington Irving's Sketch Book, and dramatized for Joseph Jefferson, who made it one of the most popular plays ever presented on the American stage during the last half of the 19th century.

The students of Thorsby Institute have learned to expect a jolly Hallowe'en party each year. This year the Sophomore class, under the direction of Misses Parker and Murray, managed the affair. Although the weather made the out-of-door frolic impossible, the dining hall, with its orange and black decorations proved a good substitute for the lawn, and witches, ghosts, goblins and visitors from various places kept up a merry din with games and stunts suited to the season.

The sales room conducted by Thorsby Institute, under direction of Mrs. McCain for several years past, is about to change its location. Saturday morning, November 14, between the hours of 9 and 11 it will be open under new management in the basement of the cottage near the water tower. Unless other notice is given it will be open at the same time every Saturday during the school year.

The stucco finish on the exterior of Thorsby Institute's new building is progressing rapidly in the hands of Frank Hart & Sons of Paulding, O., and will probably be finished by the end of this week.

Thorsby section subscribers to the new building fund who have not already paid are urged to do so at once as every dollar available is needed now for use in constructing the auditorium unit, which the building committee are instructed to carry forward immediately as funds permit.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will hold their monthly social on Thursday afternoon of this week at the parsonage—Mrs. J. E. Each will be hostess.

The Baptist Ladies Aid social will be held Thursday afternoon, November 12, at the home of Mrs. C. W. Karlson.

Mrs. Lewis Howard returned from Birmingham Saturday night, where she has spent the past week visiting her son, Edward, and his family.

Mrs. John Johnson and son, George, motored from Birmingham Sunday afternoon, and are visiting friends in Thorsby.

Mrs. A. E. Reagan entertained on Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Soberg's guests and Mrs. John Johnson.

A blockade occurred Monday on the new highway between Thorsby and Clanton. In constructing the highway, where there was considerable depression in the roadway it was filled and left unpaved, to settle. At one of these fills the excessive rains of the past few days softened the earth so that a car slid partly down the embankment on one side and another on the other side. A big truck in trying to pass between them slewed around so that it stood at right angles across the road between the stalled cars, and a long string of cars accumulated on each side, which served to increase the trouble.

Mrs. Martin Peterson has as her guest this week Mrs. M. Watson of Birmingham. Mrs. Watson is on her way to Jacksonville, Fla., where she expects to accept a position with a large firm.

TWO PARTIES IN THE SOUTH

The meeting of the Southern States Republican League in Birmingham last week brought forth some very frank and perhaps unexpected expressions from Democratic newspapers concerning the subject of two political parties in the South. We are reproducing on this page the editorial expressions of The Birmingham News, The Birmingham Age-Herald, and The Albany-Decatur Daily.

For many years Republicans in the South have held to the necessity of two strong political parties in order to bring the best out of our system of government. The Democrats and Democratic papers have incessantly decried the idea as utterly foolish. It is therefore of some significance that those Democratic papers now declare that two strong political parties would bring us better government.

REPUBLICANS OF THE SOUTH MEET IN BIRMINGHAM FOR CONFERENCE

Many democratic voters will not agree with The Daily, but to this newspaper there is much promise in the meeting of Republicans in Birmingham this week. The Daily trusts that the Democrats will continue to control the political machinery of this section. There are many reasons for this hope. The Daily is democratic and a believer in democratic principles, but there is no reason to blind our eyes to the fact that if there was a stronger republican organization in the South, it would be vastly easier for the South to obtain many things it desires from the natioinal government.

The South, unfortunately, for its material prosperity, too frequently is neglected by the democrats, because the party realizes that there is no especial need to cater to Dixie. The republicans, feeling that they have nothing to lose by failure to accord the South the recognition it might deserve, naturally try to pass their plums about where they will accomplish the greatest political benefits.

The Southern organization of republicans long has been recognized as more of an association of office holders and office seekers than anything else. The new association, recently formed in Memphis, and now holding its first session in Birmingham, promises to be very much more than that.

The association officials declare its members will meet to discuss, not only the political destinies of the section, but the material problems of the area, waterways, flood control, crop aid, and the scores of other questions which so vitally affect the South.

Even as a good democrat, The Daily feels like imitating a school boy and throwing its voice as far as possible, shouting: "Atta Boy."

Political parties in other regions seek to obtain for those regions something more than a few persons elected to office. It is high time the democrats and republicans, alike, in the South followed their example.—Albany-Decatur Daily.

THE NEW REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION MEETS IN CONFERENCE IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, although regarded as a rock-ribbed democratic center, is cosmopolitan and big enough to welcome the republican convention, composed of delegates from 17 Southern states. Many distinguished visitors are numbered among those now arriving in response to the call issued last February by the Southern States Republican League in behalf of the "civic, political, industrial and educational interests of the South." An elaborate program has been arranged for their entertainment during the two days they will be guests of the city, although much business of a political nature is expected to be transacted before adjournment Wednesday evening. It is believed that this convention will mean the beginning of a strong republican organization in the South along altogether different lines from what has been attempted in the past. Many strong men and women hitherto expressing no voice in the rather nondescript conventions and negotiations formulated for years, are playing a conspicuous part in the conclaves now under way.

There may be reasons why there should be a strong competitive political organization in the South. Not least of which is that competition in government-making is highly desirable. No party, even though it cherishes the high ideals of Jefferson and Wilson, should have a political monopoly. Monopolies can be dangerous. Competition is a good thing. It puts parties and men on their mettle. It inspires them to the highest political service. It brings the utmost and the most intense light to play upon them, and thereby enables the electorate to practice political discrimination.—The Birmingham News.

WHY THE LETTERS "I" AND "J" ARE DOTTED

Originally these two letters, "i" and "j," were one, the "i" having two pronunciations, just as "u" and "v" were once one letter, with two ways of using it.

Now since the small "i" was simply a straight stroke, it was in the days before printing very liable to be mistaken for part of the letter following it. So that without the present dots, as an authority explains, letters "i" and "n" when together might easily be read as "m," and so forth, and it was to avoid such confusion that the dot over it was adopted.

The "j" as a distinct letter came into being through custom in those days of the scribe giving a tail to an "i" at the beginning of a word, the flourish being at first for ornamentation only. But since most "i" letters starting a word had the "j" sound, the tail in time became the mark of a letter of its own, the modern "j."

Having started, however, as simply a form of the "i" the little "j" retained the dot like the "i" even after the introduction of printing. The capital letters, of course, had never been liable to such mistake as the small ones, and so were never dotted.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING IN CLANTON

Before leaving Saturday for his second buying trip of the fall season, Mr. V. J. Elmore, who is connected with the Chicago Sales Co., and Elmore's stores here, said that business in Clanton during the present fall has been the best he has experienced in the ten years he has spent as a merchant in Clanton.

Anticipating a large fall business, Mr. Elmore said that during his August trip he had purchased a larger stock than usual, and had not expected to have to make a second trip to the markets. Large volumes of sales during September and October have so depleted his stocks, however, that he is now forced to replenish them for the mid-winter season just ahead.

Mr. Elmore, while away on this trip, will also make final arrangements for the opening of the 5c, 10c, and $1.00 store in the Connell old stand next to Upchurch Drug Co. The place is being remodeled from start to finish, and in order to get ready for the opening of this place not later than December 1st, the carpenters are working both day and night shifts. There is a large sum of money being spent on the making of this as modern and up-to-date 5c, 10c, and $1.00 store as you will find in the larger cities.

A firm that has the confidence and faith in the future of Clanton as this firm is demonstrating certainly deserves the cooperation and patronage of the people here.

Before deciding to open a store of this character in Clanton, Mr. Elmore stated, he had prospected in several other towns in the state. He even went so far as to look into the much-talked-about boom in Florida; but found nothing that looked as good as his home town, Clanton.

Reports from practically all of the 60 demonstration agents in Alabama agree that this fall has been the best in many years for planting hairy vetch and other winter legume seed. After a dry summer and early fall, heavy rains were general during the first half of October and as a result the largest acreage ever seeded to hairy vetch in one season in Alabama is now started. The outlook for this crop is very bright at the end of the planting season.

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, announces the prelimiary report on cotton ginned in Alabama, for the crops of 1925 and 1924. The total for the State was made public Monday, October 26. (Quantities are in running bales, counting round as half bales. Linters are not included).

Keeping Pace With Alabama

THE telephone construction program now in progress in the States of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas is the largest ever undertaken by the Southern Bell Company. The additions and replacements this year will cost $13,320,700.

More than $2,217,300 will be expended in Alabama this year for new telephone buildings, equipment, plant and replacements.

The enormous sums of money required to meet this development is largely new capital, which must be furnished by investors who have faith in the future of this State, or borrowed in the money markets.

While this work is in progress your service continues day and night at a higher standard of efficiency and in greater volume than ever before.

Our success depends in a large measure upon your continued co-operation, which encourages the telephone workers to strive to serve you better.

ON THE GRIDIRON OF LOVE
(A Sad Tale)

THE OPENING WHISTLE saw our football
Hero on the LINE.
"Dearest," he whispered, "let me GUARD
You through the GAME of life?"
"Yes," she gasped—all out of breath
From the sudden STIFF ARM he had Clamped about her.
FIRST DOWN—10 YARDS TO GO!
They SCRIMMAGED in close embrace—
Neither giving an INCH OF GROUND.
"Now," said our hero "UP ON YOUR TOES
And let's make an END RUN and go
TACKLE your father.
SECOND DOWN!
They found father down the FIELD—in The library. TIME WAS CALLED.
"I intend to make a married TOUCH-DOWN
And don't expect you to stand between
Me and the GOAL. May I have your daughter
As my TEAM-MATE?" The surprised elder Replied—"But can you SUPPORT my Daughter? Got a paying POSITION?"
"No" answered our hero "but I'm a STAR
At DODGING rent collectors and tradesmen.
And I kinda thought you might COACH us
Along now and then with a couple of QUARTERS. See the POINT?"
THIRD DOWN!
That made the ol' man see red. He made a
FORWARD PASS with his right but missed.
So with head down, he started a LINE PLUNGE
That brought our hero back to his original
GOAL POSTS—the front door. There the ol'
Man made a fine PUNT to the CENTER and
Our hero found himself out on the sidewalk
—Thrown for a TOUCH-BACK!
SCORE—2 to 0
(In favor of the ol' man)

"Did you ever stop to think?"—asks a headline writer. Huh—too much work to do that.

Our landlord just got through papering our flat with wall paper that has a lot of small figures on it. Probably to help us forget the rent.

Fellow was arrested in a Massachusetts town the other day and brought before a judge—charged with using profane language against an officer.

"What did you say to the officer?" the judge asked.

"F-f-f-a-a" stuttered the prisoner. He was trying hard but somehow or other he couldn't get the word out of his system.

Finally, "fathead" was suggested.

"H-m-m-m" chuckled the judge, "I guess the officer would be in New York City by the time you could swear at him. Case dismissed."

A weather report always tells us weather or not it's going to snow, hail, rain or "write your own ticket."

POOR

"MORE RELIGION NEED OF NATION," SAYS COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 1.—"More law observance and more religion are needed in this country," President Coolidge told the annual council of Congregational churches in an address tonight. "Lawlessness is altogether too pravalent," he said, "and a lack of respect for government and the conventions of enlightened society is altogether too apparent.

"If there are any general failures in the enforcement of the law it is because there have first been general failures in the disposition to observe the law. I can conceive of no adequate remedy for evils, which beset society except through the influence of religion."

The President said there was no form of education, government nor reward which will not fail, that redemption must come through sacrifice and sacrifice is the essence of religion.

He bespoke untold benefit through a broader comprehension of this principle by the public and continued preaching of it by the clergy.

Asserting that if the people were the government "it will be what they are" and "will be able to get out of the people only such virtue as religion has placed there," the President went on:

"If society resists wrong doing by punishment, as it must do unless it is willing to approve it through failure to resist it, for there is no middle ground, it may protect itself as it is justified in doing by restraining a criminal, but that in and of itself does not reform him. It is only a treatment of a symptom. It does not eradicate the disease. It does not make the community virtuous.

"No amount of restraint, no amount of law can do that. If our political and social standards are the result of an enlightened conscience, then their perfection depends upon securing a more enlightened conscience.

"If we are to preserve what we already have and provide for further reformation, . . . as the clergy tell us, we must become partakers of the spirit of the great Master. This way is outside the government. It is the realm of religion."

The government can and is aiding in solution of some of the present day problems, Mr. Coolidge said, believing that the law undoubtedly acts to deter wrong doing and to repress crime.

"But this," he said, "reaches its highest application anly when there is a very healthy and determined public sentiment in favor of the observance of the law. The utmost ingenuity on the part of the police powers will be substantially wasted in an effort to enforce the law if there does not exist, a strong and vigorous determination on the part of the people to observe the law. Such a determination can not be produced by the government. My opinion is that it is furnished by religion."

The executive explained that he was not referring to religion in "any denominational or any narrow and technical sense," saying:

"While I regard the clergy as the greatest power for religious teaching that we have, I do not refer to them alone. I am conscious that the example of devoted men and women, the result of the inevitable social relations and above all the influence of piety in the home, are all forces of enormous significance. While certain formalities of the past may have lost the hold they once had, I do not see any diminution in the steadfastness of the religious convictions of the people.

"The fact that amid all the complexities and distractions of our present life we are still maintaining unimpaired, the foundations of our institutions, constantly increasing the rectitude with which the great business affairs of our country are conducted, all the while improving our educational facilities, answering more and more generously to the calls of public and private charity, continually enlarging the field of art, giving more and more attention to the humanities and becoming more and more responsive to spiritual things, appears to me to be incontrovertable evidence that though it may be practiced in a somewhat different manner than formerly the faith of people in religion has not diminished, but increased."

COTTON CLUB BOYS MAKE BALE TO ACRE

Again this year cotton club boys have demonstrated that Alabama soils will produce a bale of cotton to the acre if properly managed. Every report on this subject received by the district demonstration agents located at Auburn from the county agents states that 50% or more of the boys heard from are in the bale-to-the-acre class.

County Agents W. L. McArthur of Marion County and J. D. Wood of Franklin each had 35 boys engaged in cotton club work and every one of them made a bale to the acre. Glenn E. Riddell of DeKalb reports a general average slightly under a bale, but many of his boys are in this class.

S. M. Davy of Coosa and northwest Tallapoosa Counties is leading in the number of boys reaching a bale to the acre with over 100. Before cotton club work was started in his county three years ago farmers had about come to the conclusion that cotton production was unprofitable in that section because of low yields, but now they all know that a bale to the acre can be made by using good seed of high-yielding varieties, thorough preparation of the land, proper fertilization and cultivation, and boll weevil control when necessary.

Reports that over 50% of their boys would make the bale-to-the-acre grade have been received from L. L. Self, St. Clair County; F. G. Wrenn, Tallapoosa County; E. R. Carlson, Cleburne Cunty; and A. A. Lauderdale, Shelby County.

Carrying the better farming idea further, many of the cotton club boys have planted their acres in hairy vetch which is a winter legume that will enrich land by adding to it both humus and nitrogen. In this way they expect to improve their land and continue to make big yields of cotton at low cost.

A Resume of the More Important Events of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

Four persons are in jail at Jasper, following a statement made by Mrs. Eunice Naramore about the death of Mrs. Will Dockery and her four-year old daughter. Mrs. Naramore told officers that she, Mrs Dockery, the child, Will Dockery, Lee Cooper and Gilbert Anderson were in a boat on the Warrior river; that Dockery hit his wife in the head with a pistol and then threw her body into the river. Afterwards he shot a hole in the bottom of the boat and the child drowned, she says. She and the three men are in jail.

When police officers enter a residence under the authority of a John Doe search warrant, they do not trespass and cannot be made financially responsible to the person whose residence was searched. This decision was rendered by the supreme court when it reversed and remanded the case of J. F. McGill and R. G. Patton, Birmingham police officers, versus Lucy M. Varin, which came from the Jefferson circuit court.

The body of Mrs. Will Dockery, for whose death three Walker County men, including her husband, and a woman, are in jail at Jasper, has been recovered from the Warrior River. The woman claims that Dockery hit his wife in the head with a pistol and then threw her from a boat into the river.

J. T. Cherry, Tuskegee road overseer, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree in connection with the recent slaying of his wife, and is to hang on December 18. The jury was out only 10 minutes. Mrs. Cherry was shot through the head from behind, while washing dishes in her home near Tuskegee.

Prospects of an extra session of the legislature to consider additional school funds; new tax laws, and the proposed $75,000,000 bond issue are said to be growing slimmer, due it is said, to failure of Governor Brandon to get legislators to agree upon a legislative program.

Members of the Bar Association of the Seventh judicial circuit held a banquet at Anniston and appointed a committee to urge Governor Brandon in the event the special session of the legislature to consider giving relief to that circuit by authorizing another judge to assist Judge R. B. Carr.

Marshall County will produce not far from 40,000 bales of cotton this year, it is said. At Albertville, 9,200 bales have been ginned, while at Boaz more than 8,000 have been turned out. Other towns in the county report equally good business.

With the avowed purpose of taking the Republican party in the South out of the negroes' hands, the Southern States Republican League held its first meeting in Birmingham recently. Some 200 delegates from 10 Southern states attended.

The North Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South voted overwhelmingly against unification with the northern branch of the church at the annual conference in Huntsville.

H. J. Dudley, of Birmingham, and R. H. Holland, of Seale, were instantly killed and three others were badly hurt in Montgomery recently when a truck in which they were riding crashed with a street car.

Birmingham industrial circles see a prolonged period of intense activity throughout the entire iron and steel industry as prices suddenly advanced $1 per ton on pig iron with another rise in immediate prospect.

Farmers around Brewton, having just finished harvesting an unusually good cotton crop, are preparing for the biggest berry crop on record, it is said.

NEWS FROM EAST VIEW

We are pleased to report that our Sunday School is growing larger every Sunday. We have elected teachers for every class, and we hope they will do their very best in teaching their students.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. The meeting was just fine for such bad weather.

Our box supper at this place last Saturday night was fine. There were not as many people out as we were expecting, being a rainy night, but 14 boxes were sold. The contest cake was won by Miss Mavis Griffin. The whole amount of money taken in was $31.45.

Some of the best plays to be secured will be put on at East View in the near future.

The school at East View is just splendid. We have two good teachers.

The next Second Sunday is our regular singing afternoon. Everybody come and bring your 1926 song books.

Put the hinges on the barn door with small bolts instead of nails or screws. Then they will stay put.

Child-birth

THOUSANDS of mothers for over three generations have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pains during expectancy. How important it is that the Mother-to-be should pass this period with calm nerves. The sweetest story ever told is the soul-whispering of mother to her unborn child! Mother love and expectancy—be prepared to make this dream a reality.

"Everyone was surprised how well I got along." Writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth. Plain oils only penetrate the skin. Mother's Friend penetrates deeper and soothes the broad muscles of the abdomen, back and hips; making them soft and pliable—thus really aiding Nature to do her part.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

Hallowe'en Festival.

The lower floor of the Masonic Hall has never appeared more attractive than it did for the Hallowe'en Festival Friday afternoon, when the members of the P. T. A. entertained a large number of boys and girls.

The orange glow from lights shaded with Jack-o-lanterns made a fit setting for the decorations of autumn leaves, black cats, owls, and witches. The guests were given a ghostly greeting and led by other ghosts along a winding path to the scene of festivities. There were weird and spooky places, where fortunes were told and palms were read. Appropriate Hallowe'en refreshments were served and almost $100 was cleared for the benefit of the Grammar School.

Rasberry-Gibbs.

Mrs. Lucy Anna Rasberry announces the engagement of her daughter, Leauna, to Mr. Paul J. Gibbs, the wedding to be solemnized at an early date.

At the conclusion of the program a tempting and delicious salad plate was served by the hostess, assisted by Mesdames D. C. Alred and L. H. Reynolds.

Those present were Mesdames J. Hugh Jones, W. M. Wyatt, S. J. Ezell, Mooney, L. H. Reynolds, J. Watts Moore, J. Q. Wade, and D. C. Alred.
